TIGHTENING BON
AS TARZAN WAS ABOUT TO TELL SIGREDA HE HAD RESCUED HER FOR THORIK'S SAKE, NOT BECAUSE HE LOVED HER.......
......A THALGAARD FRONTIER PATROL ESPIED THEM AND RAN TOWARD THEM, CRYING: "HAIL SIGREDA OUR QUEEN!"
TARZAN KNEW THEN THAT THE KING, HER FATHER, HAD DIED OF WOUNDS SUFFERED IN THE BATTLE AGAINST ERIK THE RED.
BRAVELY SIGREDA SUPPRESSED HER SOBS, FOR TEARS WERE ILL BECOMING TO THE RULER OF A HARDY VIKING PEOPLE
NEAR THE TOWN, SHE SEIZED A WARRIOR'S SWORD AND TOUCHED IT TO THE APE-MAN'S SHOULDER, SAYING: "HENCEFORTH, THOU ART PRINCE TARZAN!"
AND TO THE PEOPLE SHE SAID: "WE SHALL BE WED, AND HE SHALL RULE BY MY SIDE, SHARING MY WEALTH AND SOVEREIGNTY."
THEN A GREATER CHEER WENT UP FROM THE VIKING HORDE: "HAIL PRINCE TARZAN! HAIL THE BRIDE AND BRIDEGROOM!"
AND IN THE THRONG WAS THORIK, WHO RUSHED ANGRILY TOWARD TARZAN, SHOUTING FOR ALL TO HEAR:
"YOU VOWED TO WATCH OVER HER FOR MY SAKE; AND NOW YOU HAVE STOLEN HER LOVE--TO GAIN POWER AND RICHES."
TARZAN WAS PERPLEXED. TO SAY NOW THAT HE HAD NOT SOUGHT HER HAND WOULD BRING SHAME TO THE ADMIRABLE SIGREDA.
HE GLANCED HASTILY ABOUT HIM, PLANNING TO FLEE FOREVER FROM THIS LAND OF FIERY HEARTS.
BUT THORIK FIXED HIM WITH A COLD STARE AND SAID: "THE BLOT ON SIGREDA'S HONOR CAN BE CLEANSED ONLY BY YOUR BLOOD!"

Important Alaska
President Should Know
Japan Learns, Remembers
Three Years Too Late

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1935, by King Features Syndicate Inc., International Copyright and all other rights reserved.)

GENERAL WILLIAM C. MITCHELL, chief of United States air forces in the big war, says somebody should be court martialed for United States neglect of air power.

Certainly somebody in Washington should be enlightened as regards air power.

General Mitchell told this writer yesterday:

"The security of the United States as regards Asia, depends on Alaska, and Alaska should have the greatest United States air base. If the Japanese could make a landing in Alaska, they could strike New York city or Washington two days later.

"Alaska is important because it is nearest to Asia, and power always takes the shortest cut. Alaska is as important to the modern world as Asia Minor was in ancient days.

"This country need not worry if it acts promptly. If it delays too long it will have plenty of cause for worry."

SOMEBODY IN Washington should be interested in General Mitchell's statement "the United States military service has not one single airplane in service which is suitable for engaging in war against a first class power."

If that is so, President Roosevelt will want to know it, for he would be responsible, not the lobbyists in Washington.

General Mitchell also says that Japan has airplanes capable of flying

SICARD OVERPASS WILL OPEN SOON

December 20 Is Tentative Date Set For Formal Event

The tentative date for the opening of the Sicard overpass over the Missouri Pacific railroad was given yesterday as December 20. It is believed that this will give ample time for the few remaining incidental details that now remain incomplete. The paving is complete and only work on shoulders and painting remain to be finished.

The paving at the intersection of the Sterlington road and DeSiard street is completed and also the paving has been poured on the north lane of the strip on Louisville avenue from the intersection named for a distance about 700 feet to the westward.

Work on the new traffic bridge over the Ouachita river is progressing slowly and it was stated Saturday that it appears now that it may require more than 30 days to complete.

A meeting of both boards of the Chamber of Commerce of Monroe and

POLICE AND 1,000 EGYPTIANS BATTLE ON CAIRO STREETS

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Police and 1,000 students of Cairo university fought a fierce battle with stones, bird shot and clubs today in Egypt's latest outburst of opposition to British domination.

Three British policemen were injured and 60 students were taken to jail. The fighting flared for half an hour at the Giza bridge.

Dozens were beaten and knocked down. Police fired bird shot into the legs of the demonstrators and fired guns over their heads in the air before gaining control.

The direct cause of the outbreak was a refusal to the students of permission to erect a monument on the campus in honor of classmates killed in a recent anti-British riot. The students had just returned to classes after an enforced holiday.

Police first raised the Giza bridge to prevent the youths from entering the city but later lowered it and the battle followed.

NEW ORLEANS' TRAFFIC FATALITIES REACH 84

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The 83rd and 84th automobile fatalities of 1935 resulted from two accidents at intersections here today.

Miss Helen Erickson, 23, was struck and instantly killed by a truck late today while crossing Bienville street at Rocheblave street.

The other victim was Eugene LeBlanc, 66, WPA worker, who died upon arrival at Charity hospital after being struck by a truck as he attempted to cross Canal street at Baronne, to reach neutral ground.

GENERAL CHIANG IS MADE VIRTUAL RULER OF CHINESE

Three More Powerful Jobs Given Man Who Is Already A Semi-Dictator

AUTONOMY MOVE HURLED SQUARELY INTO HIS LAP

Spokesman Declares Crisis In Northern Region Has Grown Worse

NANKING, Dec. 7.—(AP)—China's government became a virtual one-man affair today. The political destiny of more than four hundred million persons lay in the hands of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

Three more powerful jobs were given the 47-year-old Chiang, already a semi-dictator.

The central Chinese government executive committee elected him chairman of the executive yuan, a job which is the equivalent of premier. He succeeds former Premier Wang Ching-Wei, who resigned after being wounded recently by an assassin.

Chiang also was made vice-chairman of the Kuomintang (nationalist party) organ, a standing committee which controls the nation when the full group is not in session, and was given the vice chairmanship of the central political council.

He continues to be chairman of the military affairs commission, which gives him control of the army.

Thus squarely into Chiang's lap is thrust the grave problem of the northern autonomy movement. Only yesterday a government spokesman said the crisis, growing from demands for the separation of North China from Nanking, had grown worse.

A spokesman for the Japanese army Major General Rensuke Isogai, military attache at Shanghai, said the generalissimo's assumption of full national control was a logical development.

"This places the responsibility for the future course of Sino-Japanese

SMITH FUNERAL HELD SATURDAY

Last Rites Are Conducted For Father Of President Of L. S. U.

Stricken with pneumonia, Henry Smith, 87-year-old father of Dr. James Monroe Smith, president of Louisiana State university, died late Friday night, after an illness of two weeks, at his farm home 15 miles southwest of Monroe. Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon.

On learning of his father's critical condition, President Smith hurried here from Baton Rouge, but arrived at the family home 15 minutes after his parent had died. Dr. Smith had visited his father on Thanksgiving day.

The last rites were held Saturday afternoon at Walnut Grove cemetery in ward nine, with Rev. E. E. Huntsberry, pastor of the First Baptist church of West Monroe, officiating. A short private service, prior to the burial, was held at a Monroe mortuary.

Married four times, Mr. Smith, who was familiarly known as "Uncle Henry," is survived by his fourth wife,

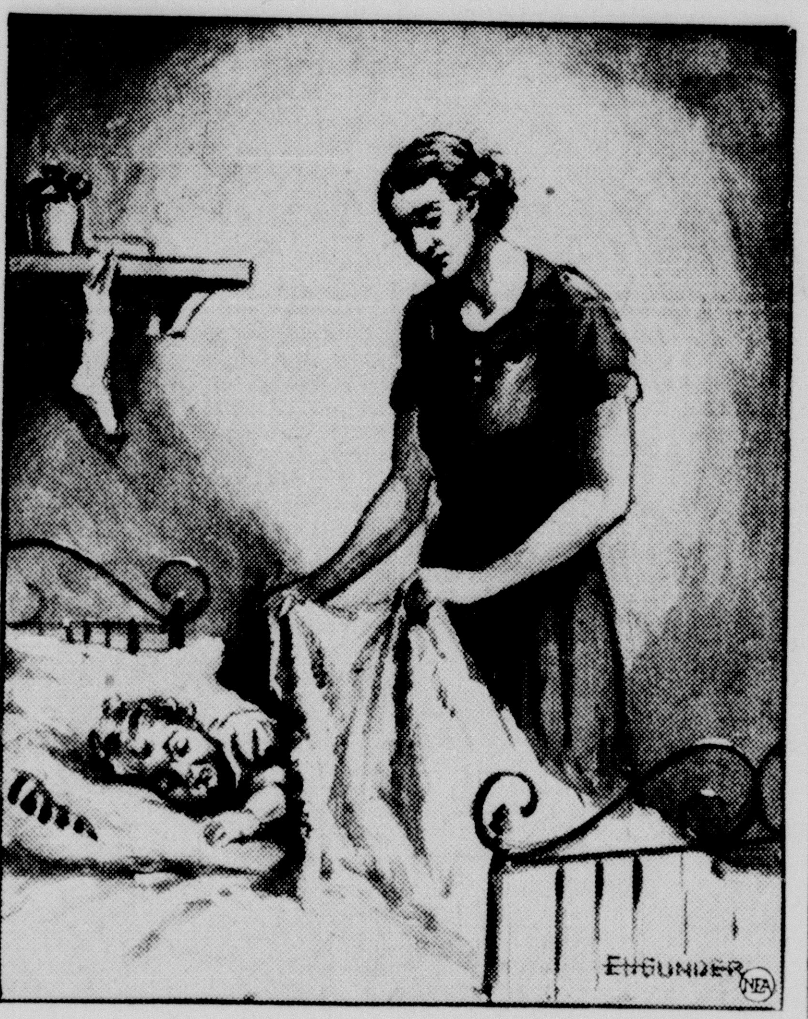
THE EMPTY STOCKING



A child dreaming of Santa's visit, of toys and candy and warm clothing—and a mother, tears welling to her eyes, hoping against hope that the dream will come true, as she tucks the covers tenderly about the little sleeper. In many homes in Monroe, the little stockings, so hopefully hung, will be empty when Christmas dawns unless you help. Do your share, that no home, no child shall know cruel disappointment on the most joyous of all days. Donate to the Good Fellows Fund.

HOLIDAY BUYERS START BIG RUSH

Shoppers Begin What Is Expected To Be Greatest Season In Years

By Rader Winget

(Associated Press Financial Writer)

Holiday shoppers, in a merry buying mood, rushed retail stores throughout the nation last week for the start of what merchants predict may be the greatest Christmas season of years.

Industrial progress kept pace with retail trade. Smoking factories, crashing looms, the clang of heavy hammers resounded as the Associated Press index of industrial activity touched the highest point since July of 1930.

The index, adjusted for seasonal variation, stood at 86 per cent of the 1929-30 average.

From the 20th through the 15th shopping day before Christmas, practically every section of the country experienced the benefits of the expanded buying wave.

In some mid-western centers the revival followed slowness brought on by unseasonable weather, and in the eastern part of the country the upturn put many cities definitely ahead of the 1934 level for the first time in several weeks.

Surveys found that customers were making larger purchases, and there were more sales per shopper. The demand for better quality merchandise and luxury goods expanded generally, harking back to the giddy days of the boom.

In most sections the retail trend was coincident with better industrial production.

The production of automobiles last week came right back to near the best fall levels after the drop for Thanksgiving week, and the total was

BORAH CAUTIONS AGAINST CHANGES

Senator's Speech Heralds Approach Of New Presidential Campaign

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—A warning against opening "the dike of constitutional restraint"—to "the sea of arbitrary power which lies behind" was given tonight by Senator Borah of Idaho in a speech which heralded the approach of a new presidential campaign.

The Idahoan, widely regarded as a potential Republican candidate, spoke over the Columbia Broadcasting system. He made frequent, but unlabelled, references to the New Deal and was caustic in dealing with his familiar foe—monopoly. He called the latter the "great evil lurking in our economic system."

Calling the coming election "an event the most notable in the affairs of the republic," he added:

"We all feel that the coming election is to be one of uncommon interest and of very deep significance. We are discussing constitutional gov-

SHIP BEGINS FLIGHT IN EFFORT TO FIND LINCOLN ELLSWORTH

CALDWELL, N. J., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Russell W. Thaw began a 9,500-mile flight to the southernmost point in South America today in an airplane to be used in a search for Lincoln Ellsworth and his pilot, missing in the Antarctic.

At 10:10 a.m. the ship headed toward the south.

With Thaw, son of Evelyn Nesbitt Thaw, was William Henry Kienke, Jr., of New York, a mechanic.

The fliers planned to make the trip in six days, with stops at Atlanta, Ga.; Brownsville, Texas; Tapachula, Mexico, Mangua, Nicaragua; Panama; Talara, Perue, and Arica, Chile.

At Magellena, Chile, they will contact the Ellsworth supply ship, the Wyatt Earp. There the plane will be loaded on the ship for the trip to the Ross sea and the search for the explorer.

Pitiful Appeals Pour In To Good Fellows Seeking Help

A-Sharp Music club	2.10
Monroe Typographical union	5.00
Donald McComb	.25

Each day more and more pitiful appeals are received by the Good Fellows from boys and girls, fathers and mothers, who are heart-broken as Christmas comes nearer and nearer and the family larder is empty or nearly so, and there is no money for even bare necessities of life, let alone the purchase of toys and goodies for the kiddies.

But 16 days now remain and the Good Fellows fund is woefully small, far less than it should be at this time of the year. Unless there is prompt and generous response there will be many right here in Monroe who will have a cheerless Christmas, while others are enjoying the luxuries that ample funds can procure. But no one with a heart filled with love of humanity can be happy when he knows that others less favored by fate are subjected to pinching poverty.

A gesture in the right direction was reported to the Good Fellows on Saturday. A little group known as the A-Sharp Music club, which year after year has raised funds for a big Christmas party, has this year voted to forego the pleasure of this entertainment and to take the money that would usually be used for personal gratification and placed it every dollar in the Good Fellows fund. There is need that other clubs and organizations follow the lead of this unselfish group. In so doing none will ever regret the action taken but on the other hand they will one and all get a deeper enjoyment out of their Christmas in the realization that their sacrifice has resulted in happiness for others more needy.

A pitiful tale is told in a letter to the Good Fellows from a 14-year-old boy who wants Santa to come to his little brother and sister. He adds that "daddy hasn't any work steady, that

YOUTH SNATCHES MONEY FROM GAMBLING TABLE

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The $500 "bank" on a dollar dice table in a St. Bernard parish gambling house early today was too tempting for a neatly-dressed young visitor who tried a little fast luck.

Twenty-five or thirty patrons around the table were startled, along with scores in the place, when the young man reached over the arm of the banker, snatched the pile of money and ran out of the door.

Police of New Orleans were summoned and Patrolman Henry Tedesco and three other officers rushed to the parish and aided St. Bernard deputies in a search for the thief.

After a three-hour hunt the officers found a youth they booked as Willie Breland, 23, of Richton, Miss., and New Orleans, under an old house and reported that they recovered the money from his pockets.

WIDE SPLITS MAY OCCUR IN FIGHT FOR PRESIDENCY

Spectacular Disarray Of Party Lines Is Possible In Next Campaign

ECONOMY, GOVERNMENTAL PRINCIPLES EMPHASIZED

Word Is Passed That Roosevelt Won't Turn Aside From Program

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The oncoming presidential campaign presents possibilities of even more spectacular disarray of party lines than in 1932.

Although political organization planning proceeds in much the accustomed style, omens of good and ill for both major parties multiplied.

There was an increasing tendency to emphasize economic and governmental more than partisan principles. It could be seen in the speeches here tonight by Senator Borah of Idaho and in Topeka by Gov. Landon of Kansas, potential rivals for the Republican nomination.

One effect has been to spur speculation on whether the campaign will be argued as much on liberal and conservative bases as any other.

Consider several recent developments. Antagonism of organized business leadership crystallized in an open declaration of war against the New Deal, powerful legal forces aligned for conflict over the AAA opening in the supreme court Monday, the American Federation of Labor was judged by its president ready to abandon nonpartisanship next year if imperative to its interests.

Democratic and Republican labels had second, if any, place in all of it. Wearers of both were among the industrialists who spoke out in New York.

The 1936 choice as projected by the administration—"the New Deal or the old order"—they vehemently upheld the latter. Increased participation in politics was besought, not only against Roosevelt policies but against liberal or radical Republican elements.

Democratic leaders professed no surprise or chagrin. Word passed quickly that the president would not turn back.

Rather, it was said at Warm Springs, he hopes the supreme court can rule

METHODISTS HEAR UNIFICATION PLAN

Bishop Mouzon Gives Basic Details Of Proposal To Unite Groups

FORT WORTH, Texas, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Eight million members of three Methodist denominations were offered their first glimpse tonight of a plan that would merge them into one united church.

Bishop E. D. Mouzon, Charlotte, N. C., senior bishop of the Southern church, made public for the first time basic details of recommendations to unite Southern and Northern Methodists and the Methodist Protestant church. The entire program will be announced December 12.

"I am confident this plan will meet all objections raised against the first plan which was defeated," Bishop Mouzon told the fall meeting of the college of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

The Northern church is the largest of the three existing branches, with a membership of about 5,000,000. There are 2,743,983 Southern Methodists and about 500,000 members of the Methodist Protestant church.

The unification plan would divide the United States into church juris-

OSCAR JOHNSTON DENIES COTTON POOL WILL OPEN

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Oscar Johnson, head of the government cotton pool, today denied reports that a re-opening of the pool would follow Monday's crop estimate to be announced by the government.

For some time unconfirmed reports have circulated in the trade that if the government report on Monday is bullish, the government agency would again start selling some of the 600,000 bales of cotton held in the pool.

"There has been no change in the previous announcement," Johnston said, "any re-opening of the cotton pool will be preceded by one week's notice to the trade through the press. This will give all adequate time to submit bids, if they desire pool cotton."

Duce Says Nation Will Continue War

Premier Again Defies Sanctionists In Address In Parliament

WAR PLANES DROP MORE BOMBS ON AFRICAN CITY

Laval And Hoare Open New Conferences To Draft Peace Proposal

(By Associated Press)

Premier Mussolini, while his giant bombers struck again in Africa, defied Europe Saturday.

His rubber-stamp black-shirted chamber of deputies, assembled in a hall heatless because of sanctions, cheered Il Duce when he declared:

"There is no siege that can make us bow; no coalition, however numerous, that can turn us from our path!"

The lantern-jawed dictator made it clear he would go ahead with his "colonial adventure."

An oil embargo, he said, would "gravely prejudice" peace efforts.

French officials, after a preliminary talk between Premier Pierre Laval and Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign secretary, in Paris, said an oil embargo undoubtedly would be voted by the league.

Its application, however, they said probably would be held up until it is determined whether the United States also will deny oil to Italy.

Effortlessly and almost casually, Italian airplanes again bombed Dessye, war headquarters of Emperor Haile Selassie. For the second straight day the little ruler emerged unscathed.

Ethiopian officials said that 58 persons were killed and more than 300 wounded in Friday's bombardment, in

BANK CASE GOES TO HIGH COURT

Ouachita National Seeks Collection From Arkansas Interests

The Ouachita National Bank of Monroe, yesterday asked the United States supreme court to permit it to collect $28,000 plus interest and costs from the Hamburg Bank and Lizzie Blanks of Hamburg, Ark., by foreclosure of a $51,000 farm mortgage, according to an Associated Press dispatch received here last night.

The Monroe bank is protesting a ruling by the eighth federal circuit court June 12 which held the Hamburg bank could not assign its prior rights under the mortgage.

Previously the western Arkansas federal district court had allowed the foreclosure.

The dispute resulted from a loan made in 1930. Lizzie Blanks, W. L. Blanks, Lola Blanks and J. P. Blanks, all related, controlled the Hamburg bank and a land company which operated 3,400 acres of land.

The land company was indebted to the Hamburg bank and it arranged a $5,000 loan in addition to previous debts of $23,000 with the Monroe bank. The latter asked and received prior rights in the $51,000 mortgage the Hamburg bank held on 600 acres of land owned by Lizzie Blanks and others in the land company.

When the Monroe bank attempted collection by foreclosure the Hamburg bank replied it could not assign rights in the mortgage. This was upheld by

Administration Gets Ready To Battle For Life Of AAA

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—A 171 page defense of the Bankhead cotton production control act was presented to the supreme court by the government today as it prepared to battle next week for the life of the administration's farm relief program.

The nine justices who unanimously upset NRA will hear arguments Monday on validity of AAA processing taxes, in the Hoosac Mills case, and the following day on the Bankhead act. Both were intended to boost the income of the American farmer.

Solicitor General Stanley Reed, who will argue both cases for the government, contended in his Bankhead brief that the cotton act involved no improper delegation of legislative power and that it directly affected interstate commerce. Those were the grounds upon which the court held NRA invalid.

Earlier in the day a fresh criticism and defense of the administration's farm-aid program flowed into the court.

The justices, who are expected to decide the farm act's validity in the Hoosac Mills case, were told in two briefs that the legislation should be outlawed, an in a third that it was essential for national welfare.

"The immediate and long-time economic and social interests of the whole people depends substantially upon the inclusion of agriculture in the general protective system which has been adopted by the United States," the Farmers National Grain corporation contended.

Representing a number of packing companies which process hogs, William A. Bodine, a Philadelphia attorney, told the court that "to levy the processing tax is as much of an abuse as it would be to lay a tax on pacifists to pay for the building of battleships at a rate measured by their costs."

The contention that the processing tax "limits the buying power of the country as a whole by increasing the price of agricultural commodities to consumers" was made by the Formers' Independent Council of America.

Their briefs brought to fourteen, to-

CANADIAN TREATY FLAYED BY PEEK

Man Stripped Of High Offices By President Raps Trade Program

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Announcing a determined crusade against the New Deal's foreign trade program, George N. Peek today berated the Canadian tariff treaty as a reversal of Democratic policy and a probable blow to agriculture.

Stripped of his several high offices by President Roosevelt's direction and his own resignation, Peek asserted that America's share of world commerce had fallen from 13.8 to 9.5 per cent. He called for abandonment of the administration effort to promote trade by the reciprocal tariff concession method.

In return for reductions in Canadian tariffs, he said, the United States has lowered its own rates, not for Canada alone but for any country having a most-favored-nation treaty which wishes to take advantage of the reduced duties, the whole obscured by "trick classifications" em-

103 DEADLY BOMBERS WILL BE ADDED SOON TO ARMY AIR FORCES

BALTIMORE, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The army's air strength will be increased by the addition of 103 deadly bombers from the Glenn L. Martin plant within the next nine months.

Production of the military craft was under way today at Martin's Middle River factory. Already four of the speedy, powerful air fighters have soared away to Langley Field, Va., to become a part of the army's sinews.

Delivery is slated to continue at the rate of three a week until the contract is filled in August. The total cost will be approximately $5,000,000.

These planes have no connection with gruelling competitive tests among Martin, Douglas and Boeing bombers at Dayton, Ohio, for new government contracts. The contract for them was awarded approximately a year ago.

ELLIS H. PARKER SAID TO BELIEVE BRUNO INNOCENT

Detective Declared To Have Once Asserted Hauptmann Was Guilty

TALK FLARES AGAIN ABOUT GOVERNOR'S NIGHT VISIT

Hoffman Denies New Probe, Says His Interest Is Not Publicity Stunt

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Ellis H. Parker, chief of Burlington county detectives, reiterated his belief tonight in the innocence of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, but said he has done nothing recently in his unofficial investigation of the Lindbergh kidnap-slaying.

He is interested in the case, he said, "only as an outsider."

"I don't know any more about this case than the man in the moon," he said.

Told that an official authority in Trenton said today that Parker told officials shortly before Hauptmann's trial at Flemington early this year that he believed Hauptmann was guilty, Parker said:

"That's an absolute lie."

He said he was convinced the kidnaping and the collection of the $50,000 ransom a month later were two separate crimes.

"The underworld already had a copy of the ransom note and could have bought a sleeping garment and written the other notes," he said.

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Ellis H. Parker, the Burlington county detective ace who has taken upon himself the task of proving Bruno Richard Hauptmann's innocence, was sharply challenged today on his claim

89 WPA PROJECTS IN FIFTH DISTRICT

More Than $1,000,000 Provided In Employment Plan For This Area

With the approval of the Forsythe park project, which includes a new natatorium, the projects of the WPA for the 14 parishes of the fifth district total 89 to date, and the sum to be expended on these projects will exceed $1,000,000. It is further estimated that employment will be given to approximately 4,500 men and women, according to A. P. Lassiter, district director.

These projects were selected and placed in the various parishes, Mr. Lassiter explained, according to the number of persons on relief rolls in each in order to give employment to persons as near their homes as possible.

These projects include the construction of the local natatorium, school buildings, farm-to-market roads, bridges, drainage canals, buildings for a prison farm, athletic fields, water

MAN CHARGED WITH STEALING 27 CARS IS WIDELY HUNTED

LAKE CHARLES, La., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Officers of two states today searched for a man they accused of stealing 27 automobiles in Houston, Texas, and selling them from a used car lot in Lake Charles.

The search was being made by Captain Weston Fanguy, of the state highway police, assisted by Houston detectives and department of justice agents.

The man hunted was named by the officers as "Harry Allen," who operated a used car lot here under the name of "J. Walsh," and who the officers said escaped from a United States marshal while en route to the Leavenworth, Kans., prison to serve a term for violation of the motor vehicle theft act.

The officers said Allen faced 32 motor car theft charges in all.

AGED MAN IS ACQUITTED OF SHOOTING SALESMAN

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 7.—(AP)—A circuit court jury held today that shooting a shotgun at a persistent brush salesman was not assault with intent to kill and freed Joseph Cockrell, 70, with the admonition to "go on home and be a good boy."

Robert Bock, the salesman, said Cockrell wounded him October 7 when he insisted on seeing "the lady of the house" and Cockrell insisted he lived alone.

DESSYE BOMBING IS PROTESTED

International Red Cross Sends Formal Note To League Of Nations

ADDIS ABABA, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Representatives of the international Red Cross dispatched a formal protest to the League of Nations today of the second bombing in as many days of Dessye, war capitol of Emperor Haile Selassie.

Italian airplanes made the second attack upon the emperior at 8 a.m. only 50 bombs were dropped today, in contrast to more than 1,000 yesterday. The first raid, Ethiopian authorities said, resulted in 55 deaths and more than 300 wounded.

A Norwegian nurse whose leg was broken in yesterday's bombardment was brought to a hospital here today and described the Italian attack as merciless.

The nurse, Miss Petra Hoevig, was carried to the capital by airplane. She was serving the American Seventh Day Adventist hospital in Dessye, which was struck by bombs.

"We ran out of the hospital to watch the Italian planes, when they suddenly came straight back and dropped their first bombs on us," she said.

"Machine-gun bullets penetrated the ceilings of the bedrooms.

"More than explosive and incendiary bombs were dropped in the hospital yard.

"Five bombs struck the hospital. Two wards occupied by sick persons, and the instrumental room, were destroyed."

Miss Hoevig broke her leg when she fled from the hospital for safety.

"I was forced to lie in a trench until 3 p.m. because the doctors were afraid to move me back to the hospital, thinking the Italians might return," she said.

YOUTH GIVES UP AFTER SLAYING

Confesses Being One Of Trio Who Robbed Bank And Slew Sheriff

NEW TAZEWELL, Tenn., Dec. 7.—(AP)—A youth of 22, Sheriff Frank Riley said, surrendered to him today and confessed to being one of three bandits who robbed a bank here yesterday and killed a sheriff in their flight.

Riley said the youth, Frank Hopson of Claiborne county, declared the other two members of the trio were Gus McCoig, 22, and Pete Dean, 18, convicts who escaped from the Tennessee penitentiary at Nashville Tuesday.

More than 50 men with nervous trigger fingers and orders to "shoot to kill" continued the hunt for McCoig and Dean. With the posse were two operatives of the federal bureau of investigation, sent from Nashville.

Entrance of the federal agents into the case was announced today. Orders went out to G-men in Kentucky, Virginia and North Carolina to put officers near east Tennessee borders on the alert for the bandits and prevent their escape into another state.

Hopson's surrender climaxed a 24-hour search. Near the outset of it Sheriff L. B. Hutchison of Union county was shot to death yesterday. Last night Leonard Barrett, a posseman, was wounded in the shoulder when the bandits, cornered in a mountain cabin, shot their way out.

Officers said two residents of the cabin were arrested on charges of harboring the fugitives.

With Sheriff Riley in charge of the man hunt were Sheriff J. Wesley Brewer of Knox county and Sheriff G. H. Clifton of Grainger county. Deputy Prison Warden Ed Connors, whom McCoig, Dean and George Wilbur Moss kidnaped but soon released when they broke out of prison, also aided and Warden A. W. Neely was en route here from Nashville.

The search was centered in the mountain fastnesses around Bunchtown, community near here, where Moss was captured by Deputy Sheriff Bob Hatfield Wednesday night. Hatfield was in the hunt today.

BERNICE-FARMERVILLE HIGHWAY WORKED OVER

BERNICE, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—The Bernice-Farmerville road has been worked over by road employes who built up the shoulders, re-graded the road and placed new gravel on it. The Bernice-Weldon road also had been worked over and a number of dirt roads were prepared for the rainy season which began this week-end.

Most of the farmers of Union parish have sold their cotton and received their government cotton acreage reduction checks.

SUGAR HEIR'S BLISS DISSOLVES

In just three months marriage has lost a lot of its sweetness for Adolph B. Spreckels, Jr., sugar fortune heir, and his bride, the former Gloria Debevoise, pictured above in a honeymoon pose. Eighteen-year-old Gloria had her mother appointed guardian so she could file suit in New York for separation, alleging mistreatment even on their nuptial trip abroad.

DISTRICT MEDICAL MEETING IS HELD

American Society President Speaks Here On Modern Trends

A large attendance of members of the Fifth District Medical society was present at a program meeting here Friday afternoon at Hotel Frances. The principal address was given by Dr. James S. McLester, of Birmingham, Ala., president of the American Medical society, who spoke on modern medical knowledge and facilities as compared with those of 25 or 30 years ago.

Dr. McLester stressed the importance of modern facilities which aid medical men in making diagnoses and emphasized the importance for individual treatment for each patient.

Other speakers of the meeting were: Dr. Paul A. O'Leary, of the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn., skin diseases of the hand; Dr. E. Stanley Peterman, of Crowley, treatment of goiter; Dr. Howard Mahorner, of New Orleans, associate professor of surgery at Tulane university, methods of treating fractures. The latter subject was illustrated with slides.

A banquet at 6:30 p.m. brought the program to a close.

DAVIS WILL TALK AT FARM FORUM

Administrator Will Speak On 'AAA'S Cotton Program For 1936'

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Chester A. Davis, AAA administrator, Cully A. Cobb, chief of the AAA cotton section, and other agricultural leaders will be heard in addresses here Wednesday at the Commercial Appeal's mid-south farm forum.

Mr. Davis will speak via radio (NBC) from Chicago at 11:30 a.m. on the "AAA's Cotton Program for 1936," while Mr. Cobb will address the closing session of the conference in person at the newspaper's annual "plant to prosper" dinner Wednesday evening.

Other speakers to be presented include John M. Graham, president of the National City Bank of Rome, Ga., who will talk on "Farm Financing." David L. Cohn, Greenville, Miss., author of "God Shakes Creation," will discuss the tariff and its relation to the cotton business; and Dr. William J. Hale of the chemical foundation of New York will discuss "Chemurgy Points the Way."

T. Roy of Little Rock, regional director of the rural resettlement administration, will tell of the work of his organization.

The Commercial Appeal sponsors an annual "plant-to-prosper" competition among the farmers of the mid-south. More than 70 county winners will attend. The climax of the one-day forum will be the dinner, for the grand prize winner will be announced to that time.

The competition has the endorsement of the agricultural committee of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce and national farm leaders. It has for its purpose the creation of better farm life through diversified, "live-at-home" programs.

TALLEY HO! SHE'S PLUMP NO LONGER

Diet, exercise, and will power—and roly-poly Marion Talley isn't roly-poly any more. She's a streamlined girl, with a Hollywood figure, now, and here's the transformation right before your eyes. The 25 unwanted pounds that the plump opera star on the left brought to the film capital have vanished and in the center is the trim, svelte screen actress, 1935 model, out for her daily 10-mile hike. The closeup at the right illustrates even more vividly how the Kansas beauty has benefited from her fruit and vegetable diet, with meat on rare occasions. But she warns would-be imitators. "Everyone's diet problem is different," she admonishes.

ployment of quotas and "escape clauses."

He told reporters in an interview which supplemented a parting memorandum to the president, that he was "going to stay right here in Washington and fight it out on this line, if it takes all winter."

Peek's idea is that through the operation of the "most favored nation tariff policy" a general reduction in tariffs is involved in concessions arranged for any one particular nation, since that policy means that a concession granted to one country shall apply impartially to all others having "favored" treaties with the United States.

His own method is to bargain with individual nations for arrangements whereby they will purchase American surpluses, and the United States take what they have to sell, with provisions made for settlement of accounts and the whole accomplished with no changes in tariff rates.

Peek said his resignation as president of the Export-Import bank a week ago was caused first of all by his "lack of sympathy with the whole general foreign trade policy," made acute by an Armistice day speech "which did not meet with the approval of the president."

He plans to open new offices here next week, financed by himself. Declaring himself open for invitations to address agricultural and other groups, he added he hoped to keep partisan politics out of the picture. He said he foresaw no tie-up with his close friend and former colleague, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson.

MISSENT LETTER LEADS TO DEATH

Man Finds Job And Then Is Told Of Suicide Of Wife And Daughter

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Gus Nicholas, 45, unemployed since he lost a $63,000 fortune, wrote to his wife and daughter, in New York City this week telling them he had landed a job. But his letters went to the wrong address.

Today police told him his wife, Margaret, 32, and their daughter, Iris, 15, were found dead last night in their gas-filled flat in New York City. Manhattan police said they apparently had committed suicide in despair. The mother left a note which read.

"Tessie: I am tired. Gus not home. Don't know where he is. Please send me home to Norfolk, Va., money is enough."

"Tessie" was the janitress at 109 Madison street, New York, where the Nicholas family lived.

Today the two letters that Nicholas wrote home came back to Schenectady, undelivered. Nicholas had addressed them to 109 Madison avenue instead of Madison street.

A bank book showing deposits of $277 was beside the body. Police also found a money order for five dollars telegraphed last night by Nicholas.

Chief of Police William H. Funston of Schenectady said Nicholas once was a prosperous candy manufacturer. But he lost his money and had no job. Three days ago he came to Schenectady on a truck.

He was hired as chef in a restaurant at $15 a week. Last night he borrowed five dollars from his employer and telegraphed it to his wife.

This morning police told him of the tragedy. Frantic, he dashed for a train and was borne toward New York.

ROOSEVELT WILL SPEAK 2 TIMES

Addresses Are Planned Monday At Chicago And Notre Dame

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Dec. 7.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said farewell to the folks here today and went to work tonight on addresses to be made Monday which inaugurate another period of busy activity.

He spent the evening dictating a speech to be delivered before the American Farm Bureau federation at Chicago Monday which is expected to outline his ideas for agriculture and to review what has been done.

Attention also was given the talk he will make at Notre Dame university at South Bend, Ind., Monday afternoon at a special convocation when he will be awarded an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

In view of his recent criticism by the Knights of Columbus for his refusal to intervene in Mexico on the religious question, interest naturally attaches to this talk.

It was a happy president who packed bags tonight to return to the White House. He has been here more than two weeks with old friends indulging in warm sunshine and outdoor exercise.

Of course, Mr. Roosevelt realizes as much as any one that the national campaign is ahead, but mention of it has brought no response from him.

Obviously he is preparing to go into action for the principles of the New Deal, but he apparently is still listening for the opening gong.

Today he visited the nearby civilian conservation camp en route for his daily plunge in the pool. In an informal talk he asserted: "As times get better I hope we will manage somehow to dig up money enough in the treasury to keep the CCC going as a permanent institution."

Character Training In Citizenship

There are persons who insist that the men who constitute our legislative bodies, from the congress of the United States down to municipal governing boards, should be well-advanced in age and have independent incomes. In that way, we are told, our law-making problems would be worked out by men with mature minds and with personal incomes of sufficient size to free them from the temptations of bribery.

To such a proposal is raised the objection that this would mean class legislation, since most men of independent means would be capitalistically inclined; and that it would be difficult for them to see things from the viewpoint of the welfare of the masses. Every legislative body, we are told, should be a cross section of our society.

Rule upon rule and law upon law are constantly being advocated and adopted to protect us from the iniquities of our fellows; but somehow the security we seek is never obtained.

The trouble is we are trying to get a spiritual result by mechanical means. We can not do that; it has never been done probably never will be done.

Of course, our laws and regulations, imperfectly administered and observed as they are, have a value. They protect us in a limited way, and save us from conditions that would be worse without them. But no laws we can ever devise will give us security and peace except when and until those laws represent the earnest desire and the cooperation of the public. The prohibition law is a vivid illustration of that fact.

Our only hope of establishing the kind of social order which we want, and which we must have if we are ever to live in reasonable comfort and contentment, is through the proper education of the individual as to his obligations and responsibilities to his fellows and to himself. It is worth infinitely more to the welfare and advancement of the people and the nation than all the conglomeration of studies through which the pupils of today are required to race or ramble.

Academic education, as such, is not enough if we are to have a higher type of citizenship. Education must be implemented by character if it is to accomplish the highest purposes on behalf of the human family. The most highly educated nation has been the world's greatest criminal. Does that prove anything to us? It should prove something that we already ought to know; namely, that proficiency in the sciences, in the arts, and in all things intellectual, has not, of necessity, anything to do with proficiency in things spiritual.

It might seem that the older men should dominate the affairs of a nation; for they have had more experience, they have seen more of life than the rest of the people. But unless they have had sufficient moral training, unless they have been educated and disciplined so that their spiritual faculties have become operative, there is no reason to believe that they will be any more honest and honorable than anybody else.

TEST THAT STRIKES BACK

The "truth serum"—that drug under the influence of which people are supposed to be powerless to tell lies—is generally looked on as a means of bringing the guilty to punishment. A recent case in Oklahoma indicates that it may also serve, occasionally, to protect the innocent.

An Oklahoman told the authorities that his divorced wife and a local justice of the peace had committed a murder 28 years ago. His story seemed plausible and properly detailed, and the two he accused were arrested. Then County Attorney Charles B. Leedy thought of the truth serum—and used it, not on the prisoners, but on their accuser.

This man, as a result, immediately confessed that he had "framed the whole story out of spite." The two prisoners were at once released.

It may be too soon to tell what place this drug will eventually occupy in detection of criminals. But it is encouraging to see that it can be used to keep people out of jail as well as to get people in.

STILL TOILING CHILDREN

It does no harm for us to be reminded that the child labor amendment to the constitution is still pending, and that the abuses against which it is aimed are still in existence.

With all its imperfections in conception and performance, the late lamented NRA did something at least to curb child labor. But the NRA has gone where the woodbine twineth, and the annual report of the national child labor committee, just issued, asserts that child labor conditions now are as bad as they were three years ago.

Wholesale employment of children, says Courtenay Dinwiddie, general secretary of the committee, is "one of the weakest spots in our defenses against an economic breakdown"; and since the former barrier there is down it might be well for us to meditate anew about the possibilities in a constitutional amendment.

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

REGISTERING A PROTEST

(After reading a list of words that the government says we should all be acquainted with.)

I am not fond of fancy talk.
  The folks with whom I mingle
Though rich or poor
Do not, I'm sure,
  Employ the word "espringal."
I don't know what espringals are.
I do not want to know it.
  I am not bright
  Or erudite—
I'm just an humble poet.

"Typhonic" is another one
  Of which I'm always wary.
The term, to me,
Appears to be
  Not very necessary.
It may refer to a typhoon,
  But I'm in no position
To say just what,
For I have not
  The needful erudition.

And as for idiocrasy,
  I'll say just this about it;
I'm rather sure
That rich and poor
  Can get along without it.
Let's use the language we like best,
  Not what grammarians hand us;
Then we shall know
That high and low
  Can always understand us.

Sanctions And The League

By BRUCE CATTON

They tell a story out west about a fly-by-night oil stock artist who got an option on a few thousand acres of used cow-pasture and set out to make a raid on the suckers.

He had great sheaves of stock tastefully engraved and distributed, and just to make it look good he sunk one lone oil well as a concession to appearances. Then, just as he was ready to shear the suckers, his well struck a tremendously rich pool of oil, and before he knew quite what was happening he had become a great oil magnate, a captain of industry, and a multi-millionaire, instead of being just another flim-flam expert trying to beat the sheriff to the train.

If you glance in the direction of Geneva these days, you might find something in the air that would vaguely remind you of that touching little story.

The present round-robin of sanctions against Italy had an uncanny resemblance, right at the start, to the venture of this blue-sky promoter out Oklahoma way. That is, it looked very much as if someone were about to grind a large ax while the people of the world were looking the other way.

The British, who have taken more territory away from semi-civilized races at the point of a gun than any people since the ancient Romans, were raising a high moral issue against Mussolini and trying—with the help of outraged world opinion—to keep him from poaching on British preserves.

But today a queer sort of change has come over the whole picture. Down at the bottom, of course, Britain's self-interest remains unchanged; but the whole performance has somehow taken on a new light. For 52 sovereign nations have fallen into line on the sanctions program and they seem to be taking it very seriously.

In other words, the League of Nations idea is at last beginning to work—to the vast surprise, doubtless, of the cynical diplomats who run the outfit.

Little nations and big nations are sending notes to Rome, pointing out that they have nothing against the Italian people personally, but that the Ethiopian grab is just a little too raw for this modern age and that the pressure will stay on until the grab is abandoned. Italian threats of retaliation fail to have the slightest effect.

After years of disuse, the diplomats trotted out the poor old league—and people are taking it seriously. For people are tired of war, tired of seeing foreign affairs handled in the spirit that a Brooklyn gang handles its relations with competitors from the Bronx; and they do seem to be ready to exercise the sacrifice and intelligence to make the league a real force in world affairs.

It is the most welcome surprise of the whole post-war era.

SO THEY SAY

In my opinion, a general European war is coming if Italy is pushed to the wall, and American support of England makes war so much nearer.—Daniele Vare, Italian author.

No nation can longer be looked upon as an end in itself or as a final and complete economic, social, and political unit. Every persistent attempt so to regard a country must end in national suicide.—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler.

It is an utter fallacy that armament firms want war. They neither want war nor do they make any more money during a war than a dozen or more general trading businesses.—Sir Reginald Bacon, British admiral.

* * *

I don't know Governor Landon, but if he has an eye on the great white throne, he ought to have the man quietly chloroformed who called him a Kansas Coolidge. That means going back to a federal policy of complete inaction.—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson.

New Deal In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—The administration probably is brewing a storm for itself in the next congress through its adventures in "neutrality."

Not just because it appears to have taken the worse of two alternatives in its desire to discourage shipments of oil and other raw materials to Italy. Its reason for that choice is being widely construed as an official desire to be in position to use neutrality legislation and sentiment as hole cards with which to play the game of international politics.

Popular support isn't lacking for the idea that the best way to keep out of war is to refrain from exporting war materials to belligerents.

But there will be a large contingent in congress to charge that Roosevelt and Hull should formally have embargoed shipments of oil to Italy and Ethiopia instead of adopting a method so dangerous in its precedent as that of making extra-legal threats to those engaged in the traffic.

Is Oil "War Implement"?

The temporary neutrality act says the president "shall" embargo "arms, ammunition, and implements of war" when a state of war exists. Secretary Hull has said oil isn't "strictly an implement of war," but could be classed as a "war material."

The dictionary says an implement is "That which fulfills a want or use; especially an instrument, tool, or utensil used by man to accomplish a given work; as the implements of trade, of husbandry, or of war."

Lawyers have been debating whether raw materials, and especially oil and chemicals, could legally be classified as "implements." Opinion is divided.

The chief question raised is whether such definition would stand up in the courts. Many have pointed out that oil is an essential of warfare, an indispensable part of such armament as tanks, battleships, and guns.

Might Bar Aid to Britain

It seems obvious enough that an administration which has adopted a "Damn the torpedoes" attitude toward the courts in its legislation was not deterred by the fear of what the supreme court might decide—long after the present neutrality act expires—when it refused to class oil as an "implement."

And it can hardly blame outsiders who believe that in the back of the minds of Roosevelt and Hull is the fear that some time in the future such a precedent might bar this country from supplying oil to the British navy.

Those who believe it's important to play no favorites point out that this government beat the League of Nations—in whose policy England has played such a big part—to the jump, first when it officially recognized a state of war between Itlay and Ethiopia and, second, when it began to bring powerful pressure against oil exports to Italy before the league laid down an oil embargo.

Looks Bad to Italy

Without some underlying motive, they feel, this government hardly would have placed itself in what seems a more unneutral position than it would have assumed by simply placing oil on the embargo list. The latter course could easily have been defended as a carrying out of the congressional mandate.

But when the administration, without authority of the neutrality or other act, proceeds to discourage trade with belligerents by threats of coercion, the Italians are able to charge unfriendliness and convince their own people of it.

The course chosen has many more seeds of war than the other.

Threats Leave Bad Taste

Some good reason, it is also argued, must also lie behind the extraordinary decision to use the government's power as a creditor to threaten American shipping companies in debt to it by specifically pointing out to each company its debtor position in the same letter which said shipments of war material to Italy or Ethiopia were contrary to government policy.

One needn't be a rabid Republican to realize that such a method could be used to threaten bankers, railroads, insurance companies, home and farm owners and many others who owe the government.

There are many other complexities and conflicts in the neutrality problem, but the chief result of the current experience probably will be to stiffen the backs of those who insist that all neutrality legislation be mandatory on the executive branch.

TECH LIBRARIAN WRITES HISTORICAL PAMPHLET

RUSTON, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—Miss Kathleen Graham, librarian at Louisiana Tech, is the writer of "Notes on a History of Lincoln Parish," just completed by the printing department of the college here.

The pamphlet material was gathered by Miss Graham during the past year. Miss Graham is a life-long resident of Ruston and Vienna, in Lincoln parish, and has made the compilation from personal experience and from sources of parish history.

Included in the booklet are discussions of the social life in former days and religious denominations in the parish, the little town of Vienna, and notes on Louisiana Tech.

NAME JUSTICE OF PEACE

MARION, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—J. P. Johnston has qualified as justice of the peace of justice ward four of Union parish, which includes the town of Marion, having been appointed to the position by Governor O. K. Allen. The position was formerly held for several years by J. M. Oliver, who died here November 10.

POSTOFFICE MOVED

DODSON, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—The Dodson postoffice is now housed in the adjacent building formerly occupied by the W. D. Temple cafe. The present quarters have been repaired and are more suitable for the location of the postoffice.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

LIVING SON OF A REVOLUTIONARY WAR SOLDIER—William C. Wheeler, of Marshfield, Vermont, 88-year-old veteran of the Civil war, claims to be the only living son of a Revolutionary war soldier. He is the son of Comfort Wheeler, who was born in Rehobeth, Mass., on March 13, 1766, and at the age of 14 enlisted in the army at Shongum, New York, re-enlisting three times. During his last term of service, he was orderly to General Nathaniel Greene.

When Comfort Wheeler was 76 years old, he married Permilia Ainsworth, and it was from this union that William Constant was born on December 4, 1847, at the time his father was 81 years of age.

OPOSSUMS—A litter of 18 opossums will weigh approximately 1-15 of an ounce at birth and can be conveniently lodged in an ordinary teaspoon. The young are born immature and undeveloped and the embryonic state of the opossum lasts only 12 1-2 days. They attach themselves to the mother's pouch for a period of 5-6 weeks, before they are able to move around on their own.

Lights Of New York

By George Ross

NEW YORK,—It's next to impossible to get a Broadway playwright to admit he's lampooning a real-life celebrity.

"First Lady," which Katharine Dayton wrote with George S. Kaufman, lightly disguises Alice Longworth and Dolly Gann, principals in the Washington social feuds, as its two leading characters. But, of course, the authors deny it. When Mrs. Longworth phoned from Washington the other day to ask about it, she was told that the show dealt with the brightest, most beautiful women in the Capitol. She said "Thank you" and hung up.

Another new Broadway smash-hit, "Boy Meets Girl," is about those two bad boys of Hollywood, Ben Hecht and Charlie MacArthur, and reveals their boyish pranks in the picture colony. Of course, this is vehemently denied by Sam and Bella Spewack (husband and wife), who wrote it. But when I saw Ben Hecht talking about the show the other evening, he was saying, "It can't be about us," with a smile.

Celebrities are taking their worst beating in Moss Hart and Cole Porter's "Jubilee" in which Johnny Weismuller is faintly concealed as Charlie Reismuller when people aren't calling him Mowgli. There are also laughs at the expense of Elsa Maxwell, Park Avenue's social arbiter. Noel Coward and any king or queen you might care to mention. We also still have with us "Personal Appearance," which rakes a movie siren over the coals, but the none-too-bright heroine could be plenty of motion picture Shebas.

Chorus Qualifications

The difference between an old-fashioned and new, streamlined chorus girl, according to Tom Weatherly, producer of musical shows, is plenty. Mr. Weatherly, hiring chorines for his new Illustrators' Review, demands these ten specifications from a lady of the ensemble:

She must be able to do simple stage and tap dancing. She must have distinctive personality. She must wear clothes with chic. She must be slender and perfectly proportioned. She must be intelligent. She must not be less than five feet three inches tall or more than five feet six. She must have undyed hair. No synthetic blondes, red-heads or what-have-you need apply. She must be vivacious. She must not have a vulgar or raucous voice. She must be a lady.

The last condition is the hardest.

Fashion Plate

New York and Hollywood clothiers can war to the finish about the Ten Best Dressed Men of America. But the best dressed man I've seen consistently well-groomed is Earl Benham, a tailor. He makes clothes to order for James J. Walker, William Gaxton, Adolphe Menjou and other sartorial notables.

Still the most inviolable sign in New York is the one that says "Men's Bar" across the threshold of the Men's Bar at the Waldorf-Astoria. Oscar of the Waldorf tells me that only three obstinate ladies have tried to crash through the sacred portals during the past year. They were politely edged out.

Whatever gentlemen may prefer outside of drinking hours, they like the Bar to themselves. Legends of the fabulous deals arranged in the Men's Bar of the old Waldorf, are being repeated in the new masculine sanctum. Market pools are formed over old-fashioneds and mergers are broached over rye highballs. For lighter recreation, the men can sit around and play chess or backgammon while watching the stock ticker. And they even have their own kitchen to serve them.

Bloomin' Stranger

And that reminds me of the fellow who sauntered into the florist's shop of a Park Avenue hotel and ordered enough gardenias to make, as he said, "a good-sized blanket." The salesman didn't even blink an eyelash because Park avenue florists get accustomed to anything. But then the customer left word with the florist that four seamstresses were to come up to his suite and sew the gardenias into a blanket by 8 o'clock that evening. Well, Park avenue florists hadn't heard an order like that one before and repeated it to make sure. The customer said he was serious.

And at 8 o'clock that evening, four seamstresses finished their task of sewing a couple of hundred gardenias into a blanket covering a six foot bed in the gentleman's apartment. The stranger paid the bill, which came to $400, tipped the sewing machine girls and sent them about their business. Were you waiting for the pay-off to this story? There isn't any. Nobody has yet satisfactorily explained the mystery of the gardenia blanket.

PITCHFORK STABS BRIDE

Dropped by a fellow worker on the top of a load of hay, a pitchfork pierced the heart of twenty-three-year-old Tine Menninger, killing her instantly near Untervolmau, North Bavaria. She had been married only three weeks before, and from the ground was helping to load hay on the family farm.

ONE MILL OF TAX IS GIVEN BACK TO MARION RESIDENTS

MARION, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—At the regular December meeting of the town officials of Marion, it was decided to refund to the taxpayers of the town one mill of the seven mills levied as taxes for the year 1935. For the past several years this practice has been followed, not more than six mills having ever been collected.

The town owes no bonds and has no indebtedness of any kind, the year 1935 being closed with all bills paid, a small balance in the treasury and the year's taxes due.

During the past few years expenses of the town have been drastically reduced, the salaries of all employes being cut, in some instances more than 50 per cent, the governing authorities taking the position that even though assessments have been declining, the town was not going into debt, but rather would reduce expenses in accordance with the revenue received. Only three parcels of property in the town have been adjudicated to the town for taxes during the past several years.

The town officials are: B. K. Watson, mayor; Roy B. Bird, J. A. Kyle and K. S. Thompson, aldermen; D. C. Simmons, marshal.

MONROE GIRL IS TECH CONVENTION DELEGATE

RUSTON, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—Louisiana Tech will be represented by at least one student and probably more delegates at the twelfth quadriennial convention of the student volunteer movement convention to be held in Indianapolis December 28 to January 1.

Religious organizations at the college have selected the following five students as possible representatives: Alice Daimwood, Monroe; Al Lyons, Shreveport; Nan Morgan, Ruston; Alloyse Wall, Epps, and Bonnie Sue Rector, Collinston.

The convention will be attended by delegates from all over the world, and talks will be made by several speakers of international importance.

YOUTH TRIED ON MURDER CHARGE GETS ACQUITTAL

BASTROP, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—Robert McDougall, 20, of Morehouse parish, was acquitted yesterday of the charge of murdering Derwood Causey, his 16-year-old friend, who, it was alleged, he had killed in a quarrel over a girl.

The jury deliberated the case five hours and brought in the "not guilty" verdict at 9 o'clock Friday night.

CYPRESS SCHOOL PLANS CAKE WALK, PIE SUPPER

A cake walk and pie supper will be given at the Cypress grade school, ward 9, next Friday, December 13, at 7:30 p.m. The purpose of the entertainment is to raise funds for the school playground, first aid equipment and library. An invitation to attend is extended to the public.

HEAD OF COLLEGE ATTACKS DRINKING

Virginian Says Professors Got Drunk, Cursed in Class Rooms

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Dr. J. W. Cammack, president of Averett college, says in the current issue of the Religious Herald that he has a "first hand" report of a state college president who while making a public speech gave "distinct evidence of being under the influence of liquor."

From another institution, he said, came reports of professors cursing in classrooms, from still another of professors coming to class under the influence of liquor and from another source came a story of college professors getting so drunk at a president's reception that they were not able to drive their automobiles safely.

The charges against the four unnamed institutions were contained in a paragraph of a column written by Dr. Cammack: "News and Notes from Here and There."

"On my desk," he wrote, "is a letter from a student in one of our Virginia state schools. The letter says in part: 'The cold atmosphere here would freeze any ordinary religious nature. It is tragic. The professors curse in class, and say that religion is a hindrance to civilization.' The same week this letter came another state school student regretted to say that some of her teachers came in class under the influence of liquor. The week before this a report comes, first hand, that a Virginia state school president invited his faculty to a reception in his home and liquor was flowing freely, and some teachers left in such condition that it was not safe to drive an auto."

Governor Peery, told of the charges voiced by Dr. Cammack, said he would not ask "an investigation of just general rumors."

"It seems to me," the chief executive said, "that when a man makes charges of that kind he should have the facts to support them."

Saying that was the first intimation of any such conditions as alleged by Dr. Cammack, Governor Peery said the Averett college president should have made "specific charges" rather than to confine his article to hearsay.

CAMPUS LEADERS CHOSEN AT TECH

Students Are Elected For 'Who's Who' Section Of 'Lagniappe'

RUSTON, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—By vote of a faculty-student committee, 14 campus leaders have been chosen for the "Who's Who" section of the Lagniappe, Louisiana Tech annual. The winners, including seven women students and seven men students, are as follows:

Women—Jean Craighead, Athens; Sara Ellen Cooper, Mansfield; Nan Morgan, Ruston; Alice Daimwood, Monroe; Jo Ellen Posey, Ruston; Llewellyn Breed, Ruston; and Mabel Camp, Haynesville.

Men—Jack Thigpen, Ruston; Carroll Thomas, Ruston; Madison Brooks, Rhinehart; Billy Mitchell, Ruston; Harold Fincher, Mansfield; Clare Clark, Mer Rouge, and Billy Lewis, Ruston.

Sixty-one students, including only juniors and seniors, were nominated for the honor by members of the committee. Following the nominations each member of the committee voted by secret ballot for seven boys and seven girls separately.

In both the voting for the men and women students, there were ties for seventh place. The seventh winner in each case, therefore, is the student elected in separate voting upon the tied nominees.

Members of the committee making the selections included the following: Faculty—A. W. Ford, Dr. H. L. Hughes, J. T. Folk, Mrs. H. J. Sachs, Dr. Gustaf Freden, Miss Miriam Moss and Miss Helen Graham. Fraternity and sorority; Llewellyn Breed, Ruston; Mary Alice Cheatwood, Ruston; Dola Green, Hico; Billy Lewis, Ruston; J. E. Thompson, McComb, Miss., and Clare Clark, Mer Rouge. Unorganized representatives—Herman McKinney, Winnfield; Harper Lyles, Ruston; W. D. Holmes, Winnfield; Dean Brown, Doyline; Robbie Crane, Ruston; and Ethel Turner, Ruston.

Student nurses of the St. Francis sanitarium who graduated from the Harrisonburg school are Geneva Davis, Hallye Lanius, Sara Marie Boatner Geraldine Trichel and Hazel Nichols. Nettie Bradford is a student nurse of the Natchez sanatorium.

Larger generators and batteries in the new cars make starting much easier.

Searching Out Tuberculosis

Simple, harmless and painless though it is, the tuberculin test is a reliable means of discovering whether germs are in the body. The girl above is receiving the test. It consists simply of the injection of a drop of harmless liquid, called tuberculin, under the upper layer of skin on the forearm. If a red spot appears there by the following day it indicates that tubercle bacilli, the germs that cause tuberculosis, have obtained a foothold in the body. This does not mean that disease exists, but an X-ray picture should be taken to discover whether any harm has been done to the lungs and to what extent. If active disease is present the child should be placed in a sanatorium immediately. Tuberculin tests among school children to help discover the disease in its early and curable stage are one of the most important projects conducted by tuberculosis associations throughout the country. Such work is paid for by Christmas Seal funds.

NEW BREAD MADE BY CONCERN HERE

Pimiento Cheese Loaf Popular Product Of Iron Mountain Bakery

A distinctly new bread, "Holsum Pimiento Cheese Bread," was placed on the market in the Twin Cities and northeast Louisiana Friday by the Iron Mountain Bakery, 508 Harrison street, and immediately became one of the most popular breads ever produced by a baking establishment here.

The bread is one of a variety of special breads offered the public by the Iron Mountain Bakery on designated days, it was stated by William E. Bennett, manager of the establishment. Holsum Pimiento cheese Bread will be on sale in retail stores on Tuesdays and Fridays.

Beginning next Wednesday, the bakery will place on sale in retail stores in northeast Louisiana a special new loaf to be known as "Holsum Raisin Bread." This bread will be available at the stores on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Mr. Bennett and the staff of the Iron Mountain Bakery were more than pleased with the reception given Holsum Pimiento Cheese Bread by the public.

Several types of cheese breads have been produced here in the past, but never before had a pimiento cheese bread been made locally, according to Mr. Bennett. One of the reasons for this was that pimientos and cheese, because of their weight, retard the fermentation or rising of the loaves before baking. A special blend of flour was obtained by Mr. Bennett for the new loaf. American cheese and canned pimientos are used with the flour and a highly satisfactory loaf is produced.

Keeping a check on the tail light, replacing it when it burns out, is much cheaper than paying a fine for driving without a rear light.

WIDE SPLITS MAY OCCUR IN FIGHT FOR PRESIDENCY

on measures under attack in time to have congress at this session reconsider any invalidated. The asserted intent is to seek the same objectives in laws that will weather the court.

This practical challenge may be elaborated by Mr. Roosevelt in his address to the American farm bureau federation at Chicago Monday. The importance of AAA in administration policy, and favor it has, enjoyed among farmers, is well known.

Should it be outlawed, the likelihood of party splits on the farm question would have to be considered anew. If sustained, Republican disagreement over it may threaten party solidarity the more. The leadership is deferring attempts to get a farm plank on paper until the supreme court speaks.

The extent to which the G. O. P. accords with the anti-New Deal "platform" of the industrial spokesmen may afford a measure of conservative-liberal alignments. President Green of the American Federation of Labor, for example, predicted "labor and all its friends" would support Roosevelt if the opposition subscribes to the organized business credo.

He will have more to think about in a day or two. The lawyers committee of the American Liberty league is expected to publish a report on the Guffey law through which the bituminous industry is controlled by the tax arm. Its first report considered the Wagner law for settlement of labor disputes to be unconstitutional.

EASTERN STAR CHAPTER AT DELHI INSTITUTED

DELHI, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—The recently organized Lee Emmett Thomas chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star, of Delhi, held its first initiation service Friday night with 11 women being inducted and one other petition for membership being received.

Visitors were present from six other chapters, the Dixie Lee and Louise L. McGuire chapters of Monroe; Bethel chapter of Rayville, Clarks and Haynesville chapters and Clayton chapter of Clayton, New Mexico.

The chapter was instituted by Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Agate, of Lafayette, worthy grand patron and worthy grand matron.

Following the initiation refreshments were served to about 80 persons.

taling approximately 275,000 words, the number of written arguments in the case brought by receivers of the Hoosac Mills corporation of Massachusetts challenging the validity of the taxes.

The federal district court for Massachusetts upheld the levy but the circuit court of appeals at Boston ruled that the entire act was unconstitutional. Money raised by the tax is used to pay farmers who curtail acreage planted in basic farm products.

The government will be represented Monday by Solicitar General Stanley Reed, who expects to talk two hours in contending that the legislation is necessary to promote the "general welfare" of the United States.

George Wharton Pepper, former Republican senator from Pennsylvania, will lead the legislation constitutes an invalid delegation of power and does not directly affect interstate commerce. These were the grounds on which the court unanimously upset NRA.

The oral arguments will start late in the day after the court announces decisions in some of the 44 cases that are ready for final action.

On Tuesday, after the Hoosac case is submitted, the court will hear arguments on validity of the Bankhead cotton control act through which the government taxes the ginning of cotton produced in excess of allotment quotas.

The petition of Louisiana rice millers for a permanent injunction against paying processing taxes under the amnded AAA will be argued December 16 and a case involving validity of the Tennessee Valley act December 19.

ELLIS H. PARKER SAID TO BELIEVE BRUNO INNOCENT

that Hauptmann's prosecutors know "just where I stand" on the famous case.

Parker made his assertion in confirming Governor Harold G. Hoffman's statement that the famous detective had conferred with him a number of times on the case. In these conferences, the governor said, Parker voiced his belief Hauptmann was not guilty of the Lindbergh kidnap murder.

Official sources countered quickly. A high authority disclosed Parker on the eve of the Flemington trial told prosecution and investigating officials he was convinced of the Bronx carpenter's guilt and that he had no evidence in the case.

Meanwhile speculation flared anew on the governor's nocturnal visit to Hauptmann's death house cell, for it was recalled that on October 28, eleven days afterwards, the governor, in a formal statement, outlined the procedure for the condemned man's electrocution, "when and if" it takes place.

This statement directed that only a limited number of witnesses be present and the execution be carried out "with the dignity and the solemnity the occasion warrants."

The day brought other developments:

Governor Hoffman emphasized Parker's activity did not mean he had reopened the case; denied the new investigation had brought arrests; refused to assay the value of the information he has received from the detective; declined to discuss his own opinions in the case, and said his interest was not "a publicity stunt."

Parker, in the statement issued at Mt. Holly, threw no light on his sole investigation or the results it may have achieved. "The case is on review before the United States supreme court and perhaps will come up before the board of pardons. It would be unethical for me to speak at this time," he said.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, father of the murdered child, the New York Post said in a copyrighted article, does not take the Parker theory seriously because it is unsupported by tangible evidence. Lindbergh is "morally certain Hauptmann did a one-man job," the newspaper said.

Associates of Parker, corroborating the governor's statement, quoted the detective as saying: "Bruno Hauptmann will not die in the electric chair" and "Hauptmann is innocent of the Lindbergh kidnaping." One associate said Parker was "upset" by the "premature publicity" given his activities.

Hoffman's death house visit to Hauptmann drew sharp criticism in the editorial columns of some state papers. The expression "politico-publicity" was used to describe the latest turn in event in the Lindbergh case. One paper called the visit "most abhorrent" and a "stunt, more adapted to the circus ring, than to the governorship." Another spoke of "superficial publicity seeking and a gubernatorial flare for Broadway theatricals."

Some Mt. Holly residents observed that six unsolved homicide cases have accumulated in the county during the time that Parker, chief of the county detectives, reputedly has been engaged in the Lindbergh investigation.

Senator A. Harry Moore, the state's chief executive when the crime occurred, bluntly denied Governor Hoffman's assertion he had brought Parker into the case at the outset.

"Whatever work Parker has done on this case has been done as a freelance investigator," he said.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz, chief of the Flemington trial prosecution, and Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, state police superintendent who directed the kidnap investigation, refused comment on the latest events.

Parker, veteran of the solution of a score of baffling mysteries, kept in seclusion throughout the day and issued his statement through his secretary.

"What Governor Hoffman says about me talking to him about this case is true. Long before he was governor we discussed the proposition, and several times since. I have also told the attorney general of the state exactly what I thought about it so there is no misunderstanding as to just where I stand."

The detective said he had asked state police for information only once and he was refused. Governor Hoffman had said previously he understood state police "blocked" Parker.

The conference at which Parker was quoted as saying he believed Hauptmann guilty was a "showdown," a high authority informed the Associated Press. "We were tired of hearing about Parker and all the important information he was supposed to have on the case."

The meeting took place in the attorney general's office here, but as far as could be learned Wilentz himself was not present. Assistant Attorney General Robert Peacock, a member of the prosecution, Lieut. Arthur Keaten, of the state police, other legal and police officials and stenographers were present, the official said. It was a month before the Hauptmann trial started.

Peacock, the official said, offered Parker all the men he needed and all the resources of the state police for his investigation.

Parker was then asked, the official said, just what information he had, and his reply was:

"Frankly, I haven't got a single lead and furthermore I am convinced Hauptmann was the man."

from Alaska to destroy New York and Chicago and return to their base. And this country is without means of preventing such an attack.

THE JAPANESE have learned much from the west since Admiral Perry opened the doors of Japan, invited her to come out and look around. She has mastered western science, eclipsed western industry, in low-cost production, made herself the military equal of the west on land, at sea and in the air.

Japan has also learned from the west that when you get tired of treaties you tear them up.

England, leading Uncle Sam by the hand as an obedient little boy is led, reminds Japan of the "nine-power Chinese integrity treaty."

JAPAN SAYS, "Yes," but that's old. Conditions change. It is time to recognize the dominating position of Japan in China.

This country, having abandoned her Philippine territory to Japan, should not worry about Japan's activity in Asia.

It may worry our British friends with their 300,000,000 Asiatic subjects in India and her Island empire of Australia and New Zealand, lying under Japan's shadow.

AN OFFICIAL representative of Russia said to this writer not long since: "We have nothing to fear from Japan. They waited three years too long." While Japan was waiting Russia established a great submarine and air base at Vladivostok within short striking distance of everything Japanese.

Since then Japan and Russia have got along peacefully. This country may suddenly wake up to find problems on its hands more important than any collection of initials or any theory on how to make everybody happy on short notice.

JAPAN KNOWS the airplane's value. John Goette, from Peiping, writes: "To the constant accompaniment of the droning motors of Japanese army bombing and pursuit planes flying overhead, Chinese War Minister Ho Ying-Ching and members of his entourage conferred with representative of Gen. Kenji Doihara, Japanese chief of military intelligence in China, and Col. Tan Takahashi, military attache of Japan's Peiping legation."

It is a great advantage to have your bombing and pursuit planes "droning" overhead when you discuss important matters on the ground.

he gets work just once in a while." He writes that his brother is eight and his sister five and that neither can go to school because they have no warm clothes. "I have tried to get a little work to do to buy some clothes but I can't find anything to do," he explains, and ends his letter with an urgent plea that clothes and shoes be given so they can attend school regularly.

One little girl writes:

"Dear Santa Claus: I want a kiddie car and some doll clothes and a pair of doll shoes. I will be a good girl."

Another recites: "Dear Good Fellows: Thought I would write you a line or two to see if you will help me during Christmas. We don't have any job or anything. Anything will be appreciated."

A friend writes in behalf of some neighbors stating that the needs of three little boys, Johnnie, 3, Billy, 4, and Tommie, 2, are likely to be passed by at the holiday season unless someone comes to their assistance.

Letters are stacked high on the desk of the Good Fellows and could the general public read these there would be no need to seek further for funds, for their hearts would be moved to aid these unfortunate ones in our very midst.

Send in the money and send it at the earliest possible time, is the word that is passed out. The money should be sent or brought in person to the Good Fellows, at the News-Star and Morning World office. Dollars thus invested are guaranteed to bring the maximum amount of happiness for we are all well aware of the truth of the sacred word, "It is better to give than to receive. Inasmuch as ye have done it to the least of these my children, ye have done it unto Me."

dictions with bishops elected by each jurisdiction.

A northeastern jurisdiction would include New England and other states east of the Ohio and north of the Potomac river. The southeastern jurisdiction would take in all states south of the Potomac and east of the Mississippi river, except Louisiana.

Texas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska would comprise a south-central jurisdiction. The Pacific coast states and Rocky mountain regions would form a western jurisdiction.

Negro members of the entire church would be in a separate division, the central jurisdiction. They would have the right to join white congregations where such memberships were acceptable. Foreign branches would be separate jurisdictions.

Annual and general conferences would be held as at present.

"Adoption of this plan would be the church's first great step toward christian unity," Bishop Mouzon said. "Christian forces must present a solid front if we are to break down narrowness and other evils which are threatening our civilization. I believe the Methodist plan will influence other evangelical groups to unite."

Bishop Mouzon was the southern representative of the three-member commission which drafted the unification plan.

DICK TRACY
CHESTER GOULD
GAINING THE STREET WITH HIS PRISONERS, THE FAMON BROTHERS - "BAIL" GORDON MARCHES THEM TOWARD POLICE HEADQUARTERS BUT JUST WHO IS THIS GORDON, THEY KEEP THINKING. . . .
KEEP MARCHING!
THEN YOU'RE NOT THE "BAIL" GORDON WE USED TO KNOW? YOU'VE PUT ONE OVER AND DOUBLE-CROSSED US, EH?
EXACTLY!
BUT WHO ARE YOU? YOU'RE A PERFECT DOUBLE FOR GORDON. YOU HAD US FOOLED.
THANK YOU. THAT WAS MY INTENTION.
THEN-SUDDENLY AS THE THREE PASS A CLUMP OF BUSHES . . .
STAND PERFECTLY STILL, MISTER . . . AND DROP YOUR GUNS!
WHAT?
MOTHER!
GOOD! THEN OUR SECRET SIGNAL WIRE FROM THE FILLING STATION TO THE HOUSE WAS WORKING! I STEPPED ON THE BUTTON JUST AS WE LEFT THE STATION.
WHEN THE BUZZER SOUNDED, I WAS ALL ALONE- SO I DECIDED TO COME MYSELF. I'VE BEEN FOLLOWING YOU FOR THREE BLOCKS.
MISTER . . WHOEVER YOU ARE . . YOU'VE HEARD OF "MAW" FAMON - MOTHER OF THE FAMON BOYS, HAVEN'T YOU? WELL, HERE SHE IS - AND SHE KNOWS HOW TO PULL A TRIGGER . . PLUG HIM, "MAW"!
GIVE HIM THE HEAT, "MAW"!
MEANWHILE, TRACY AND PAT HAVING BEEN TO THE FILLING STATION AND FOUND IT ABANDONED, HAVE QUICKLY TAKEN UP THE TRAIL . . . . .
STICK 'EM UP- ALL OF YOU!
BANG
QUICK, "MAW"- WE'VE GOT TO GET IN THE HOUSE! IT'S THE COPS!
THAT FOR YOU- YOU DOUBLE-CROSSER!
HEY YOU- KEEP YOUR HAND AWAY FROM THAT GUN!
NO, PAT- DON'T SHOOT! HE'S NOT ONE OF THE GANGSTERS!
DON'T KID ME- THIS IS "BAIL" GORDON, ONE OF THEIR DEADLIEST TRIGGER MEN!
YOU'RE WRONG, PAT. THIS IS JIM TRAILER- A G-MAN!
HE'S BEEN POSING AS THE REAL "BAIL" GORDON. BECAUSE HE LOOKS LIKE GORDON. THE GOVERNMENT SENT HIM HERE TO HELP ME BUST UP THIS FAMON RING. THE REAL "BAIL" GORDON HAS BEEN IN A MASSACHUSETTS PRISON FOR SIX MONTHS.

MUSSOLINI SAYS WAR TO CONTINUE

which a hospital and Red Cross tents were struck.

From Addis Ababa, representatives of the International Red Cross dispatched a protest to Geneva.

A Norwegian nurse who broke her leg during the attack, described it as "merciless."

MUSSOLINI HITS AT SANCTIONS PLAN

ROME, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Premier Mussoluini lashed out the the "penal code of the League of Nations" today and warned sanctionists Italy will take what she wants despite an economic siege.

"There is no siege that can make us bow; no coalition, however numerous, that can turn us from our path," he declared in a speech opening parliament.

Il Duce said an oil embargo will "gravely prejudice" attempts for peace.

His determined words brought fervent cheers from more than 350 black uniformed deputies.

"A full recognition of our rights and the safeguarding of our East African interests" alone can solve the crisis, the dictator said.

Mussolini warned his legions against "premature and excessive optimism," although conceding there had been "a slight improvement" in the last few hours.

He had conferred shortly before going to the chamber with Sir Eric Drummond, the British ambassador, who delivered to Il Duce a fresh appeal from Great Britain for peace.

Mussolini pledged that the Italians would be as strong and as determined on "the 365th day of the siege as on the first."

He spoke for 12 minutes, reading from a manuscript. When he assailed the league for "injustices" his clenched fist was raised and his face contorted with emotion.

Diplomatic galleries were filled—but the British and French ambassadors were not there. Around one gallery were placards with the names of sanctionist countries.

Every radiator in the chamber was cold. Each bore a sign saying: "Turned off to save fuel to resist sanctions."

Italy, Mussolini said, "will listen to words but judge by acts.

"The act that is announced for the 12th of December is an embargo of oil, and it is such as to prejudice gravely the outcome of the situation."

Attacking the league's application of sanctions, he asserted: "The league's penal code has no past, because for 16 years it never was applied in cases infinitely more grave and more suitable than ours. Neither has it any future.

"This penal code of the league, drafted while the memory of the war still was warm, has only a present. It is applied only today; only against Italy; exclusively against Italy, a nation guilty of striking the chains from slaves in barbarous lands where treaties and the moral rights of blood and sacrifice have conferred on Italy for a half century undisputed and recognized priority.

"Capital punishment by economic asphyxiation, as decreed by the Geneva humanitarians, * * * is inflicted today on Italy because she is poor in raw materials and it exempts from Geneva's law rich people, armed by their riches and by the greater armaments which their riches make possible."

In concluding, Mussolini demanded the carrying out of Italy's full program, declaring:

"I mean to reaffirm in the clearest way that a solution of this crisis can be found only in full recognition of our right in safeguarding our African interests.

"In the meantime, action continues in Italy and Africa, where soldiers and blackshirts are united in danger and are giving a merited and decisive victory to their country."

the best for this time of year since November of 1929.

Steel mills stepped up another point to 56.4 per cent of capacity, as reported by the American Iron & Steel institute, a level which was only slightly below the highest since the institute inaugurated its reporting system in 1933.

Notable were the orders and inquiries from railroads and construction organizations.

Cotton textile sales in some eastern markets forged ahead rapidly, textile manufacturing activity, measured by the Associated Press on a seasonal basis, was the highest since September of 1933 at 101.9 per cent of the 1929-30 average.

Freight car loadings during the week ended Nov. 30 decreased from the previous week, but the drop was much less than normal for this period of the year, making the aggregate the best since November of 1931.

At the same time, gross revenue of railroads during November was estimated at $300,000,000, establishing a record for that month likewise going back to November, 1931.

Power production for that same week declined, indicating the lessened holiday requirements of industry, but the drop was slightly more than expected.

The more sensitive commodity markets and those in international trade was sharply influenced on the favorable side by the third vote of confidence accorded the Laval government by the French chamber of deputies.

An extremely heavy flow of gold from France to the United States was halted by the development which sent the franc high enough to preclude a profit on gold shipment to New York. Traders who had taken a short position in francs in the foreign exchange market were trapped by the rise.

In America, business as represented by the National Association of Manufacturers lined up for a political battle against President Roosevelt and the New Deal. Statements of the businessmen, however, had no apparent influence on the current progress of business, industry or finance.

England has a new "baby" airplane. It is a light two-man monoplane in which the pilot and passenger sit side by side in a cabin similar to that of a small coupe automobile. The top speed will be 95 miles an hour and the price will be about $2,000.

Nerves Quieted, Headaches Gone; Like New Again

Gly-Cas First Medicine To Reach Mrs. Milner's Stubborn Case; Kidneys And Stomach Now Regulated, Every Ache And Pain Gone.

Amazing things have been accomplished by this new medical discovery, Gly-Cas, which is being introduced to crowds of local people every day at the Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard street, Monroe. A man helpless with rheumatism four years suddenly found himself able to work; a lady down in bed near paralysis was up and around before finishing the first box Gly-Cas; another lady who had suffered severely with stomach disorder for the past 28 years is now able to eat and enjoy the foods she wishes without any ill effects afterwards.

MRS. B. B. MILNER

Now another surprising statement, read what Mrs. B. B. Milner, 609 Grammont street, Monroe, highly respected apartment house manager, said recently in lauding the action of this new remedy:

"I cannot overestimate the qualities of Gly-Cas," said Mrs. Milner, "For years kidney and bladder trouble had been a constant cause for distress with me until I was unable to attend to my work properly. Finally I reached the place where I was unable to get a good nights sleep which was continually wearing me out and naturally lowering my resistance. My stomach became disordered until I could not properly digest my foods. I became terribly nervous and suffered constantly with severe headaches. The poisons accumulated over my system until pains settled in my back, arms and neck. It was many miserable years I endured, trying first one medicine then another and not being able to find a single one that could correct my terrible suffering until I was finally persuaded to give Gly-Cas a trial—it proved to be the very medicine I should have had years before."

"Gly-Cas showed me great improvement from the very first few doses and today I am feeling like a new person," continued Mrs. Milner, "I have only taken two boxes of this new Gly-Cas yet I am freed of those awful aches and pains. My kidneys are now functioning properly, bowels regulated and even my stomach is in good condition. I eat the foods I wish, enjoy my meals without those awful suffering anymore. My former pep and energy has been restored and I am now sleeping fine, get up in the morning refreshed and ready for my daily work. Gly-Cas is one medicine sufferers should not hesitate to try—for it gives REAL RESULTS which are lasting."

Gly-Cas is sold by Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard street, this city, and by leading druggists in surrounding towns.

Price $1.00 box—6 boxes for $5.00. Postage paid on receipt of price.—Adv.

2 DIONNE SISTERS' NEW TEETH WORRY MOVIE PRODUCERS

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Film executives groaned today when they learned that Emilie and Yvonne Dionne, of the quintuplets, have sprouted new teeth during the filming of their first feature-length picture, at Callander, Ont.

"Watch the letters roll in when, or if, audiences notice it," said studio workers.

The reason for this lies in the difference—before and after, so to speak—in the baby's cinematic appearance.

Makeup men said the arrival of a new tooth radically alters the shape of a baby's mouth, as it appears to the camera's eye.

Furthermore, they pointed out, movie scenes are not filmed in the order of their appearance in the finished picture. There have been cases where an infant appeared, in the early part of the story with a tooth—but in latter scenes, the tooth wasn't there!

JAPANESE DEMAND SHIP PARITY WITH U. S. AND BRITAIN

LONDON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Japan announced flatly today she demanded absolute naval parity with the United States and Great Britain. The announcement threw even more gloom about the international conference opening Monday.

It was this Japanese demand which caused the breakup of an unsuccessful preliminary conference early this year between the United States, Japan and Great Britain.

To enforce their position, the Japanese said no other question can be discussed until their demand is met. Their country is now on the short end of a 5-5-3 ratio with Great Britain and the United States.

The Japanese position was conveyed to the British admiralty at a conference which the oriental delegation asked specially.

DELHI MASONIC CHAPTER HOLDS ANNUAL ELECTION

DELHI, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—Delhi Chapter No. 72 of the Royal Arch Masons elected the following officers for the coming year: high priest, Fred Cook; king, Dr. Nash Collins; scribe, L. M. McIntyre; captain of host, W. E. Coats; Royal Arch chapter, I. L. Keasler; principal sojourner, Pulver Milligan; secretary, S. E. Smith; treasurer, N. A. Harville; sentinel, Marvin McEacharn; masters of veils, Nick Williams, George Rundell and C. T. Hall.

An oyster supper was enjoyed by the chapter members folowing the election.

VANISHED SHIP CLEW FOUND

ernment and the preservation of liberty.

"I ask tonight whose liberty? What liberty? The man or group of men who hedge about or control my right to engage in or remain in business are my masters and the masters of my children.

"The power which fixes the price of the things I must have that I may live and clothe and educate my family shapes my course in life and delimits my possibilities as completely as if I were its indentured servant.

"If we are going into a fight on the lines where the battle swings let us fight for free enterprise, free economic system, free America, free from monopoly control, free from bureaucratic control. The times will not permit of a sham fight. 'If the trumpet gives an uncertain sound who shall prepare himself for the battle?'"

In his sole reference to a New Deal activity by name, Borah said recovery was generally thought to date from the supreme court decision invalidating the NRA.

"In only recur to the decision at this time as a basis for the view that when we undertake to sell short the American democracy we almost certainly make a mistake," he said. "It proves again as it has been proven often that the American way, both in business and politics, is after all the safest and most effective way.

"One of the strange theories which our confused and troubled days have thrown to the surface is that Democratic institutions in some way or other stand in the way of economic progress.

"It is urged that our doctrine of states' rights and the federal constitution in many ways are hindrances to prosperity and embarrass or retard our nation in its struggle for power.

"When we disparage or discredit the power of Democratic government to deal with our present problems we are rejecting nothing less and nothing more than the part which the people are to have in modern government.

"When you propose to wipe out state sovereignty you are not proposing mere change in our form of government but you are proposing to destroy it. There can be no such thing as a great federal union without great commonwealths upon which it may rest.

"When it is proposed to curtail or limit the rights of the citizen and control his judgment as to how we shall direct his business you are not changing our form of government—you are destroying it. Once the dike of constitutional restraint is opened and the sea of arbitrary power which lies behind is invited in, the inundation of personal rights and personal liberty will ultimately be full and complete.

"We should strengthen the dike at every point."

systems, sewerage systems, tuberculosis sanatorium, ball park and the [illegible]. There are also projects in many parishes for the supervising of recreational work, indexing of court records and other activities.

In addition there is a health survey in Ouachita parish which will be directly under the direction of the supervision of the United States public health service. Soil conservation service and other allied projects are operated by men supplied by the WPA, Mr. Lassiter stated.

He said these projects are now either in actual operation or will be begun not later than Monday or Tuesday of this week. Some of the projects will be completed by the first of the year, while others will require much longer.

Mr. Lassiter predicted that other projects will in all probability be approved in this district which will bring up the total to $1,500,000. All work is being done and will be done on publicly owned property, according to Mr. Lassiter.

"The Hamburg bank due to the inexcusable conduct of its president and those of its directors who participated in giving the subordination agreement, is in as contemptible a position as was ever occupied by a successful litigant."

The supreme court petition asserts the Hamburg bank is liable because the loan prevented foreclosure on the farms, enabled its biggest customer to keep the farms for three years, and benefitted both the bank and the Blanks.

2 BANDITS WOUNDED IN GUN BATTLE AS THEY STAGE HOLDUP

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Two bandits were wounded tonight in a gun battle as a gang of four robbers made a futile attempt to hold up an armored car in the Oak Lane section of north Philadelphia.

One of the holdup men, dressed in a policeman's uniform, was wounded so seriously physicians said he probably will die. Police said he gave his name as Edward Dee, and Detective Harry Heanley said he has a record as a gunman.

The other wounded robber was shot in the chest, but managed to get to his feet and escape before police arrived. The two other bandits fled.

Harry Arnold, Jr., 37, who was at the wheel of the armored car when the robbers staged their attempted holdup was wounded slightly in the leg in a struggle with one of the bandits.

UNDER better CONTROL

Catching Cold? . .
Vicks Va-tro-nol helps Prevent many Colds

At the first warning nasal irritation, sniffle or sneeze, use Vicks Va-tro-nol—just a few drops up each nostril. Va-tro-nol is especially designed for the nose and upper throat—where most colds start. It stimulates Nature's own functions—in the nose—to help prevent colds, and to throw off head colds in their early stages. Used in time, Va-tro-nol helps avoid many colds.

Caught a Cold? . .
Vicks VapoRub helps End a Cold Sooner

If a cold has developed, rub Vicks VapoRub on throat and chest at bedtime. VapoRub acts direct—two ways at once: (1) By stimulation through the skin like a poultice or plaster; (2) By inhalation of its medicated vapors direct to inflamed air-passages. Through the night, this combined vapor-poultice action loosens phlegm, soothes irritation, helps break congestion.

Important Alaska
President Should Know
Japan Learns, Remembers
Three Years Too Late

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1935, by King Features Syndicate Inc., International Copyright and all other rights reserved.)

GENERAL WILLIAM C. MITCHELL, chief of United States air forces in the big war, says somebody should be court martialed for United States neglect of air power.

Certainly somebody in Washington should be enlightened as regards air power.

General Mitchell told this writer yesterday:

"The security of the United States as regards Asia, depends on Alaska, and Alaska should have the greatest United States air base. If the Japanese could make a landing in Alaska, they could strike New York city or Washington two days later.

"Alaska is important because it is nearest to Asia, and power always takes the shortest cut. Alaska is as important to the modern world as Asia Minor was in ancient days.

"This country need not worry if it acts promptly. If it delays too long it will have plenty of cause for worry."

SOMEBODY IN Washington should be interested in General Mitchell's statement "the United States military service has not one single airplane in service which is suitable for engaging in war against a first class power."

If that is so, President Roosevelt will want to know it, for he would be responsible, not the lobbyists in Washington.

General Mitchell also says that Japan has airplanes capable of flying

SICARD OVERPASS WILL OPEN SOON

December 20 Is Tentative Date Set For Formal Event

The tentative date for the opening of the Sicard overpass over the Missouri Pacific railroad was given yesterday as December 20. It is believed that this will give ample time for the few remaining incidental details that now remain incomplete. The paving is complete and only work on shoulders and painting remain to be finished.

The paving at the intersection of the Sterlington road and DeSiard street is completed and also the paving has been poured on the north lane of the strip on Louisville avenue from the intersection named for a distance about 700 feet to the westward.

Work on the new traffic bridge over the Ouachita river is progressing slowly and it was stated Saturday that it appears now that it may require more than 30 days to complete.

POLICE AND 1,000 EGYPTIANS BATTLE ON CAIRO STREETS

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Police and 1,000 students of Cairo university fought a fierce battle with stones, bird shot and clubs today in Egypt's latest outburst of opposition to British domination.

Three British policemen were injured and 60 students were taken to jail. The fighting flared for half an hour at the Giza bridge.

Dozens were beaten and knocked down. Police fired bird shot into the legs of the demonstrators and fired guns over their heads in the air before gaining control.

The direct cause of the outbreak was a refusal to the students of permission to erect a monument on the campus in honor of classmates killed in a recent anti-British riot. The students had just returned to classes after an enforced holiday.

Police first raised the Giza bridge to prevent the youths from entering the city but later lowered it and the battle followed.

NEW ORLEANS' TRAFFIC FATALITIES REACH 84

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The 83rd and 84th automobile fatalities of 1935 resulted from two accidents at intersections here today.

Miss Helen Erickson, 23, was struck and instantly killed by a truck late today while crossing Bienville street at Rocheblave street.

The other victim was Eugene LeBlanc, 66, WPA worker, who died upon arrival at Charity hospital after being struck by a truck as he attempted to cross Canal street at Baronne, to reach neutral ground.

GENERAL CHIANG IS MADE VIRTUAL RULER OF CHINESE

Three More Powerful Jobs Given Man Who Is Already A Semi-Dictator

AUTONOMY MOVE HURLED SQUARELY INTO HIS LAP

Spokesman Declares Crisis In Northern Region Has Grown Worse

NANKING, Dec. 7.—(AP)—China's government became a virtual one-man affair today. The political destiny of more than four hundred million persons lay in the hands of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

Three more powerful jobs were given the 47-year-old Chiang, already a semi-dictator.

The central Chinese government executive committee elected him chairman of the executive yuan, a job which is the equivalent of premier. He succeeds former Premier Wang Ching-Wei, who resigned after being wounded recently by an assassin.

Chiang also was made vice-chairman of the Kuomintang (nationalist party) organ, a standing committee which controls the nation when the full group is not in session, and was given the vice chairmanship of the central political council.

He continues to be chairman of the military affairs commission, which gives him control of the army.

Thus squarely into Chiang's lap is thrust the grave problem of the northern autonomy movement. Only yesterday a government spokesman said the crisis, growing from demands for the separation of North China from Nanking, had grown worse.

A spokesman for the Japanese army Major General Rensuke Isogai, military attache at Shanghai, said the generalissimo's assumption of full national control was a logical development.

"This places the responsibility for the future course of Sino-Japanese

SMITH FUNERAL HELD SATURDAY

Last Rites Are Conducted For Father Of President Of L. S. U.

Stricken with pneumonia, Henry Smith, 87-year-old father of Dr. James Monroe Smith, president of Louisiana State university, died late Friday night, after an illness of two weeks, at his farm home 15 miles southwest of Monroe. Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon.

On learning of his father's critical condition, President Smith hurried here from Baton Rouge, but arrived at the family home 15 minutes after his parent had died. Dr. Smith had visited his father on Thanksgiving day.

The last rites were held Saturday afternoon at Walnut Grove cemetery in ward nine, with Rev. E. E. Huntsberry, pastor of the First Baptist church of West Monroe, officiating. A short private service, prior to the burial, was held at a Monroe mortuary.

Married four times, Mr. Smith, who was familiarly known as "Uncle Henry," is survived by his fourth wife,

Pitiful Appeals Pour In To Good Fellows Seeking Help

Previously acknowledged	$204.30
Cash	1.00
A-Sharp Music club	2.10
Monroe Typographical union	5.00
Donald McComb	.25
Total	$212.65

Each day more and more pitiful appeals are received by the Good Fellows from boys and girls, fathers and mothers, who are heart-broken as Christmas comes nearer and nearer and the family larder is empty or nearly so, and there is no money for even bare necessities of life, let alone the purchase of toys and goodies for the kiddies.

But 16 days now remain and the Good Fellows fund is woefully small, far less than it should be at this time of the year. Unless there is prompt and generous response there will be many right here in Monroe who will have a cheerless Christmas, while others are enjoying the luxuries that ample funds can procure. But no one with a heart filled with love of humanity can be happy when he knows that others less favored by fate are subjected to pinching poverty.

A gesture in the right direction was reported to the Good Fellows on Saturday. A little group known as the A-Sharp Music club, which year after year has raised funds for a big Christmas party, has this year voted to forego the pleasure of this entertainment and to take the money that would usually be used for personal gratification and placed it every dollar in the Good Fellows fund. There is need that other clubs and organizations follow the lead of this unselfish group. In so doing none will ever regret the action taken but on the other hand they will one and all get a deeper enjoyment out of their Christmas in the realization that their sacrifice has resulted in happiness for others more needy.

A pitiful tale is told in a letter to the Good Fellows from a 14-year-old boy who wants Santa to come to his little brother and sister. He adds that "daddy hasn't any work steady, that

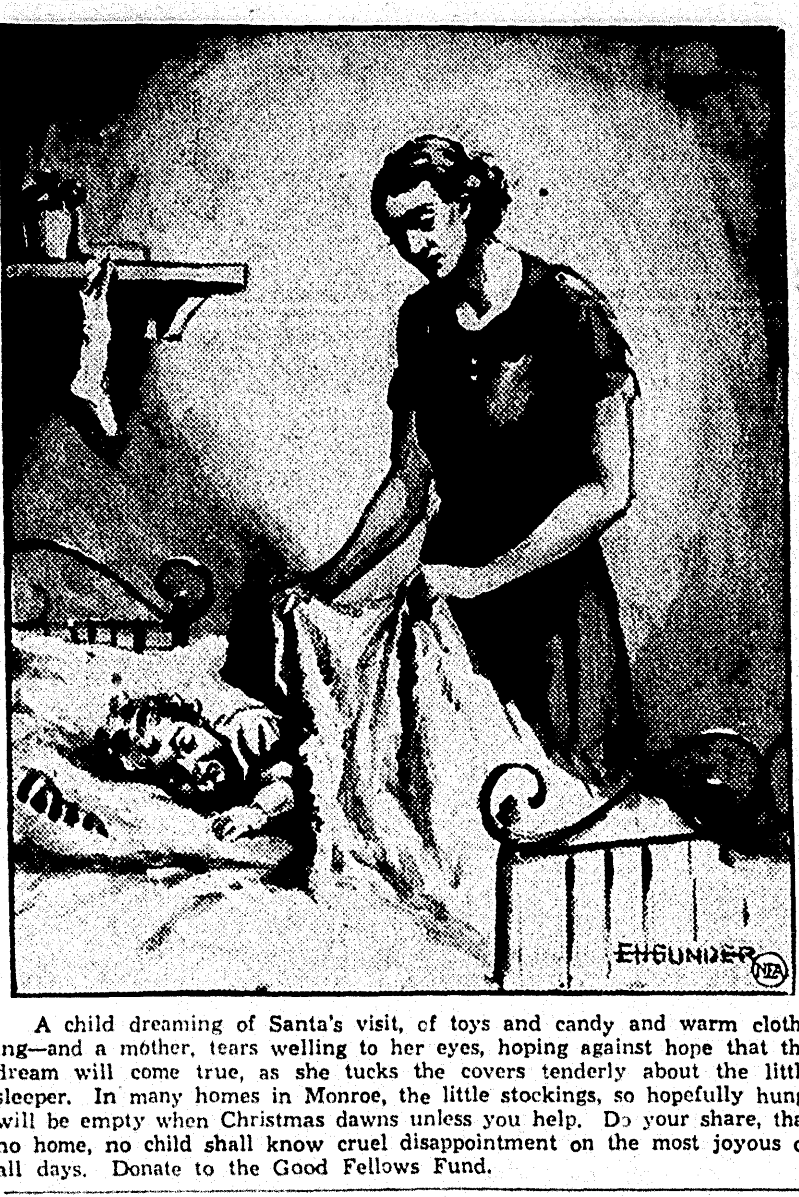
THE EMPTY STOCKING



A child dreaming of Santa's visit, of toys and candy and warm clothing—and a mother, tears welling to her eyes, hoping against hope that the dream will come true, as she tucks the covers tenderly about the little sleeper. In many homes in Monroe, the little stockings, so hopefully hung, will be empty when Christmas dawns unless you help. Do your share, that no home, no child shall know cruel disappointment on the most joyous of all days. Donate to the Good Fellows Fund.

HOLIDAY BUYERS START BIG RUSH

Shoppers Begin What Is Expected To Be Greatest Season In Years

By Rader Winget
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

Holiday shoppers, in a merry buying mood, rushed retail stores throughout the nation last week for the start of what merchants predict may be the greatest Christmas season of years.

Industrial progress kept pace with retail trade. Smoking factories, crashing looms, the clang of heavy hammers resounded as the Associated Press index of industrial activity touched the highest point since July of 1930.

The index, adjusted for seasonal variation, stood at 86 per cent of the 1929-30 average.

From the 20th through the 15th shopping day before Christmas, practically every section of the country experienced the benefits of the expanded buying wave.

In some mid-western centers the revival followed slowness brought on by unseasonable weather, and in the eastern part of the country the upturn put many cities definitely ahead of the 1934 level for the first time in several weeks.

Surveys found that customers were making larger purchases, and there were more sales per shopper. The demand for better quality merchandise and luxury goods expanded generally, harking back to the giddy days of the boom.

In most sections the retail trend was coincident with better industrial production.

The production of automobiles last week came right back to near the best fall levels after the drop for Thanksgiving week, and the total was

BORAH CAUTIONS AGAINST CHANGES

Senator's Speech Heralds Approach Of New Presidential Campaign

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—A warning against opening "the dike of constitutional restraint"—to "the sea of arbitrary power which lies behind" was given tonight by Senator Borah of Idaho in a speech which heralded the approach of a new presidential campaign.

The Idahoan, widely regarded as a potential Republican candidate, spoke over the Columbia Broadcasting system. He made frequent, but unlabelled, references to the New Deal and was caustic in dealing with his familiar foe—monopoly. He called the latter the "great evil lurking in our economic system."

Calling the coming election "an event the most notable in the affairs of the republic," he added:

"We all feel that the coming election is to be one of uncommon interest and of very deep significance. We are discussing constitutional gov-

SHIP BEGINS FLIGHT IN EFFORT TO FIND LINCOLN ELLSWORTH

CALDWELL, N. J., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Russell W. Thaw began a 9,500-mile flight to the southernmost point in South America today in an airplane to be used in a search for Lincoln Ellsworth and his pilot, missing in the Antarctic.

At 10:10 a.m. the ship headed toward the south.

With Thaw, son of Evelyn Nesbitt Thaw, was William Henry Klenke, Jr., of New York, a mechanic.

The fliers planned to make the trip in six days, with stops at Atlanta, Ga.; Brownsville, Texas; Tapachula, Mexico, Mangua, Nicaragua; Panama; Talara, Perue, and Arica, Chile.

At Magellena, Chile, they will contact the Ellsworth supply ship, the Wyatt Earp. There the plane will be loaded on the ship for the trip to the Ross sea and the search for the explorer.

YOUTH SNATCHES MONEY FROM GAMBLING TABLE

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The $500 "bank" on a dollar dice table in a St. Bernard parish gambling house early today was too tempting for a neatly-dressed young visitor who tried a little fast luck.

Twenty-five or thirty patrons around the table were startled, along with scores in the place, when the young man reached over the arm of the banker, snatched the pile of money and ran out of the door.

Police of New Orleans were summoned and Patrolman Henry Tedesco and three other officers rushed to the parish and aided St. Bernard deputies in a search for the thief.

After a three-hour hunt the officers found a youth they booked as Willie Breland, 23, of Richton, Miss., and New Orleans, under an old house and reported that they recovered the money from his pockets.

WIDE SPLITS MAY OCCUR IN FIGHT FOR PRESIDENCY

Spectacular Disarray Of Party Lines Is Possible In Next Campaign

ECONOMY, GOVERNMENTAL PRINCIPLES EMPHASIZED

Word Is Passed That Roosevelt Won't Turn Aside From Program

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The oncoming presidential campaign presents possibilities of even more spectacular disarray of party lines than in 1932.

Although political organization planning proceeds in much the accustomed style, omens of good and ill for both major parties multiplied.

There was an increasing tendency to emphasize economic and governmental more than partisan principles. It could be seen in the speeches here tonight by Senator Borah of Idaho and in Topeka by Gov. Landon of Kansas, potential rivals for the Republican nomination.

One effect has been to spur speculation on whether the campaign will be argued as much on liberal and conservative bases as any other.

Consider several recent developments. Antagonism of organized business leadership crystallized in an open declaration of war against the New Deal, powerful legal forces aligned for conflict over the AAA opening in the supreme court Monday, the American Federation of Labor was judged by its president ready to abandon nonpartisanship next year if imperative to its interests.

Democratic and Republican labels had second, if any, place in all of it. Wearers of both were among the industrialists who spoke out in New York.

The 1936 choice as projected by the administration—"the New Deal or the old order"—they vehemently upheld the latter. Increased participation in politics was besought, not only against Roosevelt policies but against liberal or radical Republican elements.

Democratic leaders professed no surprise or chagrin. Word passed quickly that the president would not turn back.

Rather, it was said at Warm Springs, he hopes the supreme court can rule

METHODISTS HEAR UNIFICATION PLAN

Bishop Mouzon Gives Basic Details Of Proposal To Unite Groups

FORT WORTH, Texas, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Eight million members of three Methodist denominations were offered their first glimpse tonight of a plan that would merge them into one united church.

Bishop E. D. Mouzon, Charlotte, N. C., senior bishop of the Southern church, made public for the first time basic details of recommendations to unite Southern and Northern Methodists and the Methodist Protestant church. The entire program will be announced December 12.

"I am confident this plan will meet all objections raised against the first plan which was defeated," Bishop Mouzon told the fall meeting of the college of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

The Northern church is the largest of the three existing branches, with a membership of about 5,000,000. There are 2,743,983 Southern Methodists and about 500,000 members of the Methodist Protestant church.

The unification plan would divide the United States into church juris-

OSCAR JOHNSTON DENIES COTTON POOL WILL OPEN

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Oscar Johnson, head of the government cotton pool, today denied reports that a re-opening of the pool would follow Monday's crop estimate to be announced by the government.

For some time unconfirmed reports have circulated in the trade that if the government report on Monday is bullish, the government agency would again start selling some of the 600,000 bales of cotton held in the pool.

"There has been no change in the previous announcement," Johnston said, "any re-opening of the cotton pool will be preceded by one week's notice to the trade through the press. This will give all adequate time to submit bids, if they desire pool cotton."

Duce Says Nation Will Continue War

Premier Again Defies Sanctionists In Address In Parliament

WAR PLANES DROP MORE BOMBS ON AFRICAN CITY

Laval And Hoare Open New Conferences To Draft Peace Proposal

(By Associated Press)

Premier Mussolini, while his giant bombers struck again in Africa, defied Europe Saturday.

His rubber-stamp black-shirted chamber of deputies, assembled in a hall heatless because of sanctions, cheered Il Duce when he declared:

"There is no siege that can make us bow; no coalition, however numerous, that can turn us from our path!"

The lantern-jawed dictator made it clear he would go ahead with his "colonial adventure."

An oil embargo, he said, would "gravely prejudice" peace efforts.

French officials, after a preliminary talk between Premier Pierre Laval and Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign secretary, in Paris, said an oil embargo undoubtedly would be voted by the league.

Its application, however, they said probably would be held up until it is determined whether the United States also will deny oil to Italy.

Effortlessly and almost casually, Italian airplanes again bombed Dessye, war headquarters of Emperor Haile Selassie. For the second straight day the little ruler emerged unscathed.

Ethiopian officials said that 58 persons were killed and more than 300 wounded in Friday's bombardment, in

BANK CASE GOES TO HIGH COURT

Ouachita National Seeks Collection From Arkansas Interests

The Ouachita National Bank of Monroe, yesterday asked the United States supreme court to permit it to collect $28,000 plus interest and costs from the Hamburg Bank and Lizzie Blanks of Hamburg, Ark., by foreclosure of a $51,000 farm mortgage, according to an Associated Press dispatch received here last night.

The Monroe bank is protesting a ruling by the eighth federal circuit court June 12 which held the Hamburg bank could not assign its prior rights under the mortgage.

Previously the western Arkansas federal district court had allowed the foreclosure.

The dispute resulted from a loan made in 1930. Lizzie Blanks, W. L. Blanks, Lola Blanks and J. P. Blanks, all related, controlled the Hamburg bank and a land company which operated 3,400 acres of land.

The land company was indebted to the Hamburg bank and it arranged a $5,000 loan in addition to previous debts of $23,000 with the Monroe bank. The latter asked and received prior rights in the $51,000 mortgage the Hamburg bank held on 600 acres of land owned by Lizzie Blanks and others in the land company.

When the Monroe bank attempted collection by foreclosure the Hamburg bank replied it could not assign rights in the mortgage. This was upheld by

CANADIAN TREATY FLAYED BY PEEK

Man Stripped Of High Offices By President Raps Trade Program

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Announcing a determined crusade against the New Deal's foreign trade program, George N. Peek today berated the Canadian tariff treaty as a reversal of Democratic policy and a probable blow to agriculture.

Stripped of his several high offices by President Roosevelt's direction and his own resignation, Peek asserted that America's share of world commerce had fallen from 13.8 to 9.5 per cent. He called for abandonment of the administration effort to promote trade by the reciprocal tariff concession method.

In return for reductions in Canadian tariffs, he said, the United States has lowered its own rates, not for Canada alone but for any country having a most-favored-nation treaty which wishes to take advantage of the reduced duties, the whole obscured by "trick classifications" em-

103 DEADLY BOMBERS WILL BE ADDED SOON TO ARMY AIR FORCES

BALTIMORE, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The army's air strength will be increased by the addition of 103 deadly bombers from the Glenn L. Martin plant within the next nine months.

Production of the military craft was under way today at Martin's Middle River factory. Already four of the speedy, powerful air fighters have soared away to Langley Field, Va., to become a part of the army's sinews.

Delivery is slated to continue at the rate of three a week until the contract is filled in August. The total cost will be approximately $5,000,000.

These planes have no connection with gruelling competitive tests among Martin, Douglas and Boeing bombers at Dayton, Ohio, for new government contracts. The contract for them was awarded approximately a year ago.

Administration Gets Ready To Battle For Life Of AAA

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—A 171 page defense of the Bankhead cotton production control act was presented to the supreme court by the government today as it prepared to battle next week for the life of the administration's farm relief program.

The nine justices who unanimously upset NRA will hear arguments Monday on validity of AAA processing taxes, in the Hoosac Mills case, and the following day on the Bankhead act. Both were intended to boost the income of the American farmer.

Solicitor General Stanley Reed, who will argue both cases for the government, contended in his Bankhead brief that the cotton act involved no improper delegation of legislative power and that it directly affected interstate commerce. Those were the grounds upon which the court held NRA invalid.

Earlier in the day a fresh criticism and defense of the administration's farm-aid program flowed into the court.

The justices, who are expected to decide the farm act's validity in the Hoosac Mills case, were told in two briefs that the legislation should be outlawed, an in a third that it was essential for national welfare.

"The immediate and long-time economic and social interests of the whole people depends substantially upon the inclusion of agriculture in the general protective system which has been adopted by the United States," the Farmers National Grain corporation contended.

Representing a number of packing companies which process hogs, William A. Bodine, a Philadelphia attorney, told the court that "to levy the processing tax is as much of an abuse as it would be to lay a tax on pacifists to pay for the building of battleships at a rate measured by their costs."

The contention that the processing tax "limits the buying power of the country as a whole by increasing the price of agricultural commodities to consumers" was made by the Farmers' Independent Council of America.

Their briefs brought to fourteen, to-

ELLIS H. PARKER SAID TO BELIEVE BRUNO INNOCENT

Detective Declared To Have Once Asserted Hauptmann Was Guilty

TALK FLARES AGAIN ABOUT GOVERNOR'S NIGHT VISIT

Hoffman Denies New Probe, Says His Interest Is Not Publicity Stunt

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Ellis H. Parker, chief of Burlington county detectives, reiterated his belief tonight in the innocence of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, but said he has done nothing recently in his unofficial investigation of the Lindbergh kidnap-slaying.

He is interested in the case, he said, "only as an outsider."

"I don't know any more about this case than the man in the moon," he said.

Told that an official authority in Trenton said today that Parker told officials shortly before Hauptmann's trial at Flemington early this year that he believed Hauptmann was guilty, Parker said:

"That's an absolute lie."

He said he was convinced the kidnaping and the collection of the $50,000 ransom a month later were two separate crimes.

"The underworld already had a copy of the ransom note and could have bought a sleeping garment and written the other notes," he said.

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Ellis H. Parker, the Burlington county detective ace who has taken upon himself the task of proving Bruno Richard Hauptmann's innocence, was sharply challenged today on his claim

89 WPA PROJECTS IN FIFTH DISTRICT

More Than $1,000,000 Provided In Employment Plan For This Area

With the approval of the Forsythe park project, which includes a new natatorium, the projects of the WPA for the 14 parishes of the fifth district total 89 to date, and the sum to be expended on these projects will exceed $1,000,000. It is further estimated that employment will be given to approximately 4,500 men and women, according to A. P. Lassiter, district director.

These projects were selected and placed in the various parishes, Mr. Lassiter explained, according to the number of persons on relief rolls in each in order to give employment to persons as near their homes as possible.

These projects include the construction of the local natatorium, school buildings, farm-to-market roads, bridges, drainage canals, buildings for a prison farm, athletic fields, water

MAN CHARGED WITH STEALING 27 CARS IS WIDELY HUNTED

LAKE CHARLES, La., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Officers of two states today searched for a man they accused of stealing 27 automobiles in Houston, Texas, and selling them from a used car lot in Lake Charles.

The search was being made by Captain Weston Fanguy, of the state highway police, assisted by Houston detectives and department of justice agents.

The man hunted was named by the officers as "Harry Allen," who operated a used car lot here under the name of "J. Walsh," and who the officers said escaped from a United States marshal while en route to the Leavenworth, Kans., prison to serve a term for violation of the motor vehicle theft act.

The officers said Allen faced 32 motor car theft charges in all.

MUSTANGS CLINCH SOUTHWEST TITLE IN 24-0 TRIUMPH

Bobby Wilson Races 60 Yards At Start Of Game For First Score

By Bill Parker
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Dec. 7.—Coach Madison Bell's stampeding Southern Methodist Mustangs will battle Stanford in the Rose Bowl with an untied and unbeaten record. Playing in rain and on a sloppy field, they completed their great record today by smothering Texas A. and M., 24 to 0, to win their first Southwest conference championship since 1931.

It was the Mustangs' twelfth and final hurdle on a schedule that included some of the nation's outstanding teams. They scored in the first few minutes when elusive Robert Wilson, all-American halfback, raced through a broken field for sixty yards to a touchdown.

Coach Bell, once his charges had a substantial advantage, used numerous reserves in order to save his regulars for New Year's day at Pasadena.

It was a typical Southern Methodist game, sprinkled with long touchdown runs, daring forward passes and a field goal by Giant Maurice Orr, a tackle.

After Wilson's run he soon passed to Tipton, end, who raced twenty yards for the second touchdown of the first period. Both times, Orr placed kicked goal.

Southern Methodist made it 17 to 0 early in the third period when Orr booted a field goal from the 16-yard line after the Mustangs had been held for three downs.

The third touchdown came late in the fourth on a 28-yard pass, and Turner's line plunge from the one-yard line. Weant kicked the goal.

Considering the inclement weather, Southern Methodist played a smooth, easy game. Wilson, Shelley Burt, Johnny Sprague and J. R. Smith constantly ripped through the Aggie line. J. C. "Iron Man" Wetsel and Truman Spain, guard and tackle, were outstanding in the forward wall. Numerous times they broke through and spilled Aggie ball carriers without gain.

It was a happy crew of Mustangs that bounded off the field, ready to start preparing for California's Rose Bowl.

Claude E. (Tiny) Thornhill, Stanford coach, sat in the drizzling rain and watched his opposition in the Rose Bowl game run wild on the slippery field.

FLORIDA RALLIES TO WHIP SOUTH CAROLINA

TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 7—(AP)—The University of Florida football team after a scoreless half, today became the "Fighting 'Gators" in the last two periods, scoring three touchdowns and a safety to defeat decisively the University of South Carolina, 22 to 0. It was the final game of the season for both state universities.

Hendricks and Jesse Jones were the outstanding ground gainers for Florida. Carlisle Hughes, Florida guard, and Bud Alexander, captain and quarterback for the Gamecocks were the outstanding offensive players.

The Carolinians threatened in the first period but weakened and were completely outplayed in the last three quarters.

Starting lineups:

South Carolina	Pos.	Florida

MISS. TEACHERS TRIM UNION, 12-6

Intercepted Pass Ends Bulldog Threat Late In Fourth Period

HATTIESBURG, Miss., Dec. 7.—(AP)—The Mississippi Teachers concluded their football season here today with a sensational 12 to 6 victory over the Union university Bulldogs of Jackson, Tenn.

Union threatened to score late in the fourth period but Austin, Teachers center, intercepted a pass on his own 20-yard line and ran the ball to the 37 as the game ended.

The Bulldogs scored first in the opening period on a drive from their own 30-yard mark. Phillips was the big gun in this offensive, reeling off dazzling runs through the line and around end. Joyner carried the ball over from the one-yard line. An attempted placement was blocked.

The Teachers came back in the second period and scored on one of the queerest plays ever viewed here. With the ball in Union's possession on their own one-yard line, King punted 36 yards to Purvis, Teacher fullback, who ran into one of his own men, then reversed, outsprinted four Union tacklers to the right sideline and raced to a touchdown. An attempted placement was blocked.

Soon after the second half opened the Teachers tallied again. Taking a punt on Union's 41-yard line, the Mississippians bucked and passed to the six. Stonestreet slanted off right tackle to score. Another placement was blocked.

A break gave the Teachers the ball again on the Union ten-yard line late in the third period when Pechonick was trapped near the sidelines and attempted to pass. Phillips, Teacher tackle, intercepted and was downed. Union held on the one-yard line and the Teachers lost the ball on downs.

Lineup:

SPORTS Chatter

BY GEO. V. LOFTON

IN THE SPOTLIGHT

Baseball occupies the center of the stage again this week as the major league magnates gather at Chicago for their annual meeting. The big confab opens Tuesday and plenty of interesting news will be released to give the bugs something to talk about until the 16 clubs depart for sunny climes in the spring.

Night baseball and the disposition of the Boston Braves franchise are two of the important topics to be disposed of, but the fans are more interested in the announcements of the trades that have been or will be consummated. The greatest shifting of talent in many years has been predicted, with old man Connie Mack holding the big hand with his four aces.

Each baseball writer in the majors has taken his turn at guessing just where Jimmie Foxx will land, with Mr. Mack denying each rumor. However, Foxx himself let the cat out of the bag last week when he announced that Mack had advised him that he would be sold or traded before the 1936 campaign rolls around. The latest report is that Foxx has been sold to the White Sox for $75,000, but confirmation was not forthcoming, either from the Athletics or the Sox.

Just what will happen to the Braves remains to be a mystery. It is likely that a Boston syndicate has been formed to take over the club. Baltimore has made a bid for the franchise but it isn't expected that the Orioles will be successful in their attempt to return to major league baseball after a lapse of 35 years.

The factions for and against night baseball are lined up for the battle this week. The National league seems to have a majority in favor of the night game, while in the American the opposition is stronger. Both Washington and St. Louis, however, are ready to install lights and are merely awaiting permission to play after dark.

Incidentally, New Orleans club owners have announced that the Pels will play night baseball next season. That's going to be slightly embarrassing, if possible, for certain New Orleans sports writers who scoffed at night baseball several years ago, and predicted that such a bush league practice would never be tolerated in the Crescent city.

ON TO TAMPA!

Eddie McLane's Louisiana Tech football team—at times referred to as the Bulldogs, Light Brigade, Techsters, Technicians and Engineers, but more properly known as a tough bunch to beat—will leave their own domain Wednesday in search of further laurels on foreign fields. They play Tampa U. at Tampa, Florida, next Saturday afternoon and Tech fans expect their favorites to end their most successful season in years with a victory.

This time last year Tech was holding up the entire S. I. A. A. conference with no victories and five defeats. They had scored a total of six points against S. I. A. A. opposition. This year they played eight conference games, won seven and lost one and compiled the best scoring record in the league. The Bulldogs have scored 231 points to 35 for their foes. No opponent held them to less than 20 points. Their only loss was to Millsaps, the Majors winning 21 to 20.

It's a record that Tech can well be proud of, particularly when you remember that most of McLane's players were sophomores. There were 25 first-year men on the 1935 squad. These sophs will be juniors next year, and that's something that will cause a few nightmares in the S. I. A. A. coaching ranks next season.

BASKETBALL CHANGES

Basketball, like football, has been pepped up by a couple of rules changes that should make the game more interesting for the customers and considerably faster than in the past. There haven't been many changes but those that have been incorporated in the 1935-36 brand of basketball are of paramount importance.

Elimination of the tip-off after a successful foul throw has probably done more to change the game than anything else. The defensive team immediately puts the ball in play from the sidelines. Both squads dash to the other end of the court and that injects a bit of speed into the game that wasn't there last year.

The pivot play in the foul circle has been eliminated by means of a new three-second rule for the offensive team. The idea was to reduce the congestion in the foul zone, caused by constant jockeying of the pivot man and his guard, but instead of preventing some of the roughness heretofore caused by the play, the rule has made the game rougher. According to one cage authority, one team sets a defense across the floor and the other attempts to smash through

AUBURN REFUSES ORANGE BOWL BID

Miami Authorities Unwilling To Meet $10,000 Guarantee Asked

AUBURN, Ala., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Coach Jack Meagher announced tonight that Auburn's Plainsmen would not represent the south in the Orange Bowl football game in Miami, Fla., New Year's Day.

Coach Meagher said all negotiations with the Orange Bowl committee had been terminated.

It was understood that Miami authorities were unwilling to meet the $10,000 guarantee asked by athletic authorities here.

Coach Meagher said he would come to Birmingham Monday to coach a high school squad for a charity game, and that there was no posibility of a reconsideration of the game here.

Auburn was one of the schools which had been "felt out" on the contest, but it was generally believed here the Plainsmen would be given an official invitation if terms were satisfactory.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Turned down by Vanderbilt, Miami's Orange Bowl committee sought tonight to get Auburn to represent the south in the annual New Year's day football classic.

W. Keith Phillips, committee chairman, said he was optimistic arrangements for the Alabama eleven, which previously expressed interest in the game, to meet Catholic university, the northern contender, could be completed this evening.

The decision of Vanderbilt's athletic committee not to accept the invitation had been expected here, and feelers were sent out to Auburn and North Carolina university.

L. S. U.'S BOWL BID OKEHED BY TIGERT

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 7.—(AP)—President John J. Tigert of the Southeastern conference today conveyed to Louisiana State university the conference's permission to play in the Sugar Bowl football game.

President Tigert said the permission had been delayed because of his absence from home, and extended L. S. U. his good wishes.

T. P. Heard, L. S. U. athletic director, said he had been informed that additional seats were being built at Tulane stadium where the Bowl Game will be played to accommodate 34,000.

FROGS PROTECT EARLY LEAD TO SHADE BRONCOS

Sammy Baugh Stars In Southwest Team's Victory Before 20,000

By Russell J. Newland
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Texas Christian defeated Santa Clara 10 to 6 in a thrill-a-minute game before 20,000 fans.

Two minutes after the Santa Clara kickoff Texas Christian converted a fumble into a touchdown. Quarterback Sammy Baugh opened the southwest team's bag of tricks by quick-kicking on the first down. Hal Seramin chased the ball as it bounced along. He got his fingers on it, but he let it get away.

Big Drew Ellis, Texas left tackle, pounced on the oval—four yards from the Bronco goal. The ball had traveled 65 yards.

Baugh whipped one of his bullet passes to McClure, right half, who caught it on the line and stepped over for the touchdown. Roach, right end, place kicked.

Each team scored in the third period, Texas first, when Taldon Manton, fullback, place-kicked a field goal from the 22 yard marker.

Behind 10 to 0, Santa Clara turned a freak play into a touchdown. On T. C. U.'s 26 yard line, Montgomery, sub right half, was carrying the ball when it zipped from his arms after a hard tackle. The ball popped into the air, and Dutton, Santa Clara left end, caught it on the fly.

He started goalward. George Kline, Texas left half, overtook him, but not before Dutton flipped the oval back to Dowd, sub right guard. Dowd had a clear field ahead of him and sped over the line.

Fullback Falaschi failed on the place-kick.

Baugh's passing and all around generalship was the highlight of the contest.

In the second period, Santa Clara moved from its own 42 to the T. C. U. 19 with a forward lateral, De Rosa to Gomez to Dougherty providing 18 yards. T. C. U. held and punted. Santa Clara ripped off three first downs to the T. C. U. 15 but two runnings plays lost six yards and passes failed, giving T. C. U. the ball on its own 21. The Broncos had the ball back on their own 21 as the half ended.

All-American center Darrell Lester of T. C. U. was a sparkplug in the line during the scoreless fourth period. Toward the quarter's close, Montgomery intercepted a pass on Santa Clara's 28. Baugh passed to Meyer on the 10 but McCusker, Santa Clara, intercepted another and ran to his 18. The two teams traded intercepting again and Santa Clara was on its own 12 with the ball at the end of the game.

Lineups and summary:

CRUICKSHANK TIES REVOLTA IN OPEN MEET AT ORLANDO

Richmond Veteran Rallies For 280; Runyan, Laffoon Are Next

Cruickshank

ORLANDO, Fla., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Sweeping over the obstacle of a two-stroke edge Johnny Revolta held over him, Bobby Cruickshank, Richmond, Va., golfer, today tied the P. G. A. champion for the Orlando Open golf championship with scores of 280 for the 72-hole tournament.

The Virginian was first to finish. He strode the final 18 holes with 33 out and 35 in for a 68, three under par. Because the field of 156 made the course so crowded, he played the last nine holes first and swept to his divided victory while the gallery crowded around the Milwaukee player he tied.

Revolta, now professional at the Miami-Biltmore, was paired with Ky Laffoon, Chicago, entering the final round. He held a stroke edge on his partner and two strokes on Cruickshank. He drew away from Laffoon by sinking a 20-foot putt at the tenth, then put his partner out of the running with par fours on the eleventh and twelfth and a birdie four on the fifteenth hole.

The P. G. A. titleholder blasted his chance to take the tournament when he went one over par, taking five on the sixteenth, and shooting into a trap on the eighteenth, ending with 73, scoring a total of 280.

Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., and Laffoon both finished with 284's. Gene Kunes took fifth prize money with 285. Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., Zell Eaton, Oklahoma City, Okla., and Willie MacFarland, Miami, tied with cards of 286.

Others finishing in the money were Harry Cooper, Chicago, Whiffy Cox, Washington, both with 287's, Tony Manero, Greensboro, N. C., Dick Metz, Chicago, Frank Walsh, Chicago, and Orville White, Memphis, Tenn., all with 288 cards.

Noteworthy exploits of the finals included Horton Smith's first 36-hole comeback in 139, three under par, to crash the circle of money winners and Willie MacFarland's procession of pars, carding sixteen pars this morning and seventeen this afternoon. But the birdies would not drop for the Aberdeen Scot.

Other scores included: Errie Ball, Mobile, Ala., 221-77—298.

COLUMBIA, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—Columbia Crimson Tide boys' basketball team has had much progress this week and are going to open the schedule with Winnfield in Winnfield Friday night.

The boys are expected to be in best of condition by game time Friday.

BRADDOCK COOL TOWARDS MATCH WITH SCHMELING

Heavy Champion Tells German To Dispose Of Joe Louis First

By Eddie Brietz
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—"There is only one direction in which the heavyweight champion can move—that's down."

The speaker was James J. Braddock, titular ruler of all the heavies. He sprawled on the divan of a hotel suite today and told why he wasn't leaping at a chance to fight Max Schmeling.

"In the first place, Max isn't much of a drawing card any more. I doubt if we could gross over $250,000—$350,000 at the most. And just suppose he managed to outpoint me—where would I be?

"No sir. Once you get the title you may as well think straight. There is nothing else to win. The only thing a guy can do is cash in as much as he can while he's hot. Everybody's going to be licked some day.

"That's why I say that when I defend my title it will be against the best man available. That looks to be Louis. He is the fighter in the public eye; not Schmeling.

"If Max really wants to get the title back, let him do like the rest of us had to do. That is, fight his way through the contenders and prove himself the logical challenger. Then I'll fight him. All he has to do is beat Joe Louis."

Joe Gould, the champ's manager, couldn't keep still any longer.

"Wait a minute, Jim," he urged. "Let me say something.

"When Jimmy beat Max Baer for the title last summer, Schmeling laughed and wanted to know 'who is Braddock?' Well, we're asking now, 'Who is Schmeling?' What right has he to come over here and demand a championship bout?"

So, while Schmeling, taken back by the somewhat cool reception he received Friday, enjoyed the six-day bike race; while Madison Square Gardent sent out feelers for a Schmeling-Braddock match, and while Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Century Sporting club, promised the German a gate of a million and a quarter if he'd sign with the negro, the heavyweight situation narrowed down to this:

Schmeling wants to fight Braddock for the championship. The German simply detests the idea of having to first hurdle the hard hitting Louis.

Braddock wants Louis because he believes the colored boy will outdraw Schmeling two to one. (But he'll take the German if he beats Louis).

Louis wants either man or both. He just loves to fight.

The belief grew along 49th street tonight that Schmeling will sail for Germany December 15th wthout signing to meet anybody.

TEN SELECTED IN MEDAL CONTEST

List Of Finalists For Sullivan Memorial Award Announced

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Ten American athletic stars, including four women, were named today as "finalists" in the annual contest for the Sullivan memorial medal, awarded by the amateur athletic union to the individual contributing most to the cause of sportsmanship.

The list was presented today to the annual A. A. U. convention by Gustavus T. Kirby, chairman of the Sullivan memorial award committee, as a result of preliminary country-wide balloting. A final poll will be taken to select the winner.

Conspicuously missing from the 1935 list is Jesse Owens, Ohio State's sensational track and field performer, four of whose world record performances were slated for A. A. U. approval today. Eulace Peacock of Temple, rival negro who beat Owens twice in the national A. A. U. track and field championships, is among the candidates for the award.

W. Lawson Little, Jr., world amateur golf champion whose omission from the 1934 list caused criticism, is among this year's finalists.

Delegates commented on the fact the list includes Jack Medica, Seattle's ace swimmer, but not Ralph Flannagan of Miami, who conquered Medica in the national outdoor aquatic championships this year at 880 yards and one mile.

Besides Peacock, Little and Medica, the 1935 list includes Percy Beard of the New York Athletic club, record-holding high hurdler; Helen Wills Moody of Berkeley, Calif., Wimbledon tennis champion; Leonore Kight of Homestead, Pa., national free style swimming champion; Helen Hull Jacobs of Berkeley, Calif., four-times national tennis champion; Keith Brown of Yale, new pole vault record-holder; Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas, national tennis champion; and Glenna Collett Vare, national golf champion.

Red river, which separates Oklahoma from Texas on the south, got its name through being fed in part by the waters of Red creek, Mud creek, Muddy Boggy creek and Deep Red run.

Joe Louis Favored To Continue His Winning Streak Against Paolino

By John J. Romano

Joe Louis will wrap six yards of gause bandage and two yards of adhesive tape on his fists and then try them out on the hard head of Paolino Uzcudun at Madison Square Garden in New York next Friday evening.

Louis is confronted with the task of accomplishing something 66 different fighters failed to do in the past 12 years. That is knock down or stop the sock-absorbing fighter from the Basque country of Spain.

Joe will have 15 rounds in which to turn the trick. He is capable of doing it.

If he does he will be quoted an odds on favorite to do the same to champion James J. Braddock. If he doesn't. It will not be because he did not try. Call it ambition if you will.

Louis loves knockouts. Not because they write another brilliant chapter in his spectacular record, but really because he does not exert himself overly much. What can be accomplished in one or two rounds should be done in such time and send the fans away quickly, so that he may get back to the sleep he dearly loves. Next to fighting Joe loves his sleep and fried chicken. One comes before the other. Unless Paolino has developed a better defense than he has shown on previous visits to this country this routine will not be changed.

Withstood Schmeling's Blows

Paolino returns to this country with the proud boast of having held Max Schmeling to a close decision in 12 rounds. The German was considered the most accurate hitter with a right hand until Joe Louis came on the scene. They say that anyone the German Schlager nails with a right hand will also go down.

But Paolino points to 39 rounds of action with Schmeling without once tasting the ignominy of being knocked off his feet. If further proof of his durability is required one has but to recall that the Basque successfully stood up under Baer's wallops for 20 rounds and the result was the same.

Talk to Paolino about Louis and he asks the simple question, "Who this Louis? Puncher! Bah! Louis maybe he can fight. But he no fight like Paolino. Maybe fellows like Baer, Carnera and Levinsky much too scared to fight. But Paolino no scared. Paolino he fight. Louis maybe he not so tough after the first round."

Has Plenty Of Courage

With simple, child-like faith in his prowess and ability to withstand the best wallops of the hardest punchers in the world, Paolino honestly thinks he has more than an even chance of halting the winning streak of the Detroit Bomber.

Those who saw Carnera, Levinsky and Baer wilt under the impassive gaze of the negro and then quiver like a hooked fish after sampling one of his blows think Paolino will execute a right about face and look for a soft spot on the canvas.

Paolino's gameness is not questioned. If a gamer fighter ever lived he has yet to show the same stuff Paolino exhibited in his first fight against Max Schmeling. It was not until after the Basque had stood up manfully under 15 rounds of merciless hammering was it disclosed that he entered the ring with a badly wrenched right arm.

For a week before that scrap Paolino refused to have his picture taken in ring clothes. He would disappear in the direction of Williamstown when he was supposed to go through his training stunts. The reason for this strange conduct was not known until after he was led to his dressing room, his face a mass of livid, bleeding welts and his injured arm giving him excrutiating pain.

"I hurt him," he mumbled as a doctor worked over the arm. "Hurt terrible but me no quit. I think I make good showing and get another chance. With good arm I lick him."

Believes In Himself

That is the sum and substance of the mental attitude of the man selected to test the wallop of the hardest hitter to come up in years. It is extremely doubtful if Paolino knows the meaning of fear. He is not dumb enough that he does not know all about Joe Louis. He would not have been urged to leave the security of his comfortable holdings in the gambling halls of Seville for the sake of picking up the loser's share of the purse if he was. Unlike some fighters who are better read than the Basque he has invested his money wisely and enjoys a splendid income. It is enough to permit him to retire in comfortable circumstances.

If he honestly did not think he could whip Louis, or go the distance without suffering a knockdown, no amount of urging or purse would induce him to come over and have his mouth mashed against his gold-covered teeth. Like the proud Basque one often reads about, Paolino retains the spirit of his ancestors. If he has to go down, he will do that in a spirited exchange.

Paolino comes at a time when age causes the retirement of better fighters than he. At thirty-six he is too far gone to assimilate the punching Louis will hand out. Add to that his few bouts scattered over a long length of time and you have the reason why the writer, and many others of the same frame of mind, consider Paolino Uzcudun the next victim of Joe Louis's pulverizing fists by a knockout.

DESSYE BOMBING IS PROTESTED

International Red Cross Sends Formal Note To League Of Nations

ADDIS ABABA, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Representatives of the international Red Cross dispatched a formal protest to the League of Nations today of the second bombing in as many days of Dessye, war capitol of Emperor Haile Selassie.

Italian airplanes made the second attack upon the emperior at 8 a.m. only 50 bombs were dropped today, in contrast to more than 1,000 yesterday. The first raid, Ethiopian authorities said, resulted in 55 deaths and more than 300 wounded.

A Norwegian nurse whose leg was broken in yesterday's bombardment was brought to a hospital here today and described the Italian attack as merciless.

The nurse, Miss Petra Hoevig, was carried to the capital by airplane. She was serving the American Seventh Day Adventist hospital in Dessye, which was struck by bombs.

"We ran out of the hospital to watch the Italian planes, when they suddenly came straight back and dropped their first bombs on us," she said.

"Machine-gun bullets penetrated the ceilings of the bedrooms.

"More than explosive and incendiary bombs were dropped in the hospital yard.

"Five bombs struck the hospital. Two wards occupied by sick persons, and the instrumental room, were destroyed."

Miss Hoevig broke her leg when she fled from the hospital for safety.

"I was forced to lie in a trench until 3 p.m. because the doctors were afraid to move me back to the hospital, thinking the Italians might return," she said.

YOUTH GIVES UP AFTER SLAYING

Confesses Being One Of Trio Who Robbed Bank And Slew Sheriff

NEW TAZEWELL, Tenn., Dec. 7.—(AP)—A youth of 22, Sheriff Frank Riley said, surrendered to him today and confessed to being one of three bandits who robbed a bank here yesterday and killed a sheriff in their flight.

Riley said the youth, Frank Hopson of Claiborne county, declared the other two members of the trio were Gus McCoig, 22, and Pete Dean, 18, convicts who escaped from the Tennessee penitentiary at Nashville Tuesday.

More than 50 men with nervous trigger fingers and orders to "shoot to kill" continued the hunt for McCoig and Dean. With the posse were two operatives of the federal bureau of investigation, sent from Nashville.

Entrance of the federal agents into the case was announced today. Orders went out to G-men in Kentucky, Virginia and North Carolina to put officers near east Tennessee borders on the alert for the bandits and prevent their escape into another state.

Hopson's surrender climaxed a 24-hour search. Near the outset of it Sheriff L. B. Hutchison of Union county was shot to death yesterday. Last night Leonard Barrett, a posseman, was wounded in the shoulder when the bandits, cornered in a mountain cabin, shot their way out.

Officers said two residents of the cabin were arrested on charges of harboring the fugitives.

With Sheriff Riley in charge of the man hunt were Sheriff J. Wesley Brewer of Knox county and Sheriff G. H. Clifton of Grainger county. Deputy Prison Warden Ed Connors, whom McCoig, Dean and George Wilbur Moss kidnaped but soon released when they broke out of prison, also aided and Warden A. W. Neely was en route here from Nashville.

The search was centered in the mountain fastnesses around Bunchtown, community near here, where Moss was captured by Deputy Sheriff Bob Hatfield Wednesday night. Hatfield was in the hunt today.

BERNICE-FARMERVILLE HIGHWAY WORKED OVER

BERNICE, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—The Bernice-Farmerville road has been worked over by road employes who built up the shoulders, re-graded the road and placed new gravel on it. The Bernice-Weldon road also had been worked over and a number of dirt roads were prepared for the rainy season which began this week-end.

Most of the farmers of Union parish have sold their cotton and received their government cotton acreage reduction checks.

DISTRICT MEDICAL MEETING IS HELD

American Society President Speaks Here On Modern Trends

A large attendance of members of the Fifth District Medical society was present at a program meeting here Friday afternoon at Hotel Frances. The principal address was given by Dr. James S. McLester, of Birmingham, Ala., president of the American Medical society, who spoke on modern medical knowledge and facilities as compared with those of 25 or 30 years ago.

Dr. McLester stressed the importance of modern facilities which aid medical men in making diagnoses and emphasized the importance for individual treatment for each patient.

Other speakers of the meeting were: Dr. Paul A. O'Leary, of the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn., skin diseases of the hand; Dr. E. Stanley Peterman, of Crowley, treatment of goiter; Dr. Howard Mahorner, of New Orleans, associate professor of surgery at Tulane university, methods of treating fractures. The latter subject was illustrated with slides.

A banquet at 6:30 p.m. brought the program to a close.

IMPORTANT TRADES LOOM AS BIG LEAGUES MEET

TWO BALL CLUBS AND MANY STARS ON THE MARKET

What Mack Will Do With His Four Aces Is Chief Topic Of Talk

By Paul Mickelson
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—(AP)—A baseball player market that promises to shatter all known records for rumors, denials and ultimate deals opens in Chicago Tuesday as soon as the hotel switchboard girls finish their "get up calls" to the traders, buyers and sellers.

Two whole ball clubs—the orphan Boston Braves and the St. Louis Browns—and a million dollars worth of player talent are on the mart, which will be kept open for 24 hours a day for almost a week. Every club, represented by three or four officials as a backstop lest some one of them gets talked into trading a star for buttons, will circulate around with well formed shopping tours.

For the fifth straight year, Connie Mack, grand patriarch of the Philadelphia Athletics, and Branch Rickey, farm boss for the St. Louis Cardinals, will be the central figures. Forced to develop stars and then sell them because of lack of patronage in their home parks, they are expected to release the flood gates for a score or more of big league deals.

The aged Connie is expected to announce the sale of one of the most sought after quartets in baseball—First Baseman Jimmy Foxx, Infielders Frank "Pinky" Higgins and Eric McNair and Outfielder Roger Cramer. Higgins is expected to go to the Yankees, McNair and Cramer to the Red Sox and Foxx to any second division club, possibly the White Sox, which will pay Connie's price of between $75,000 and $125,000.

Outfielder Al Simmons, who infuriated his bosses by ripping a 1936 contract that offered him $12,500 instead of last year's $25,000, also is slated to move, probably to Detroit.

The Giants, who traded Pitcher Roy Parmelee to the Cardinals for Second Baseman Burgess Whitehead during the Dayton meeting, are hot after First Baseman Johnny Mize and Pepper Martin. The New York Yankees, Boston Red Sox and Washington also are trying to swing a big three-cornered deal with Outfielder Roy Johnson of the Red Sox the central figure.

Cleveland is still after a first rank catcher, the Chicago Cubs admit they will swap any outfielder except Augie Galan and Frank Demaree for a starting pitcher, and so it goes with all the other clubs.

The St. Louis syndicate, headed by George Sisler, may close its deal for the purchase of the St. Louis Browns from the Phil Ball estate, but everything concerning the fate of the Boston Braves is pure conjecture.

Night baseball, successful last season at Cincinnati, will come up for discussion at the meetings of the club owners.

QUINN WANTS BRAVES

BOSTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Bob Quinn, former president of the Boston Red Sox and more recently general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was headed for Chicago today, prepared to bid in the bankrupt Boston Braves during next week's baseball meetings.

Quinn, according to C. F. Adams, whose 65 per cent equity in the Braves vanished when the National league took possession of that last-place club, has his financial backing and is prepared to offer $325,000, enough to erase the tribal debts.

If Quinn's offer is accepted by the league, Adams will provide him with enough credit to conduct the club's affairs on a major league scale. Adams, bowing to Commissioner J. M. Landis' stand against mixing horse racing with baseball, does not intend to own a single share of Braves' stock or have a word to say in its management.

Quinn, however, will encounter other bidders for the Braves. Adams has learned that other interests are prepared to make a $200,000 offer for the Boston club, which, during last season ran into dog track difficulties, lease problems and bankruptcy.

The Boston magnate, who heads a huge chain store system, owns two professional hockey clubs, and has an interest in Suffolk Downs race track, is eager now to step out of the baseball picture.

TWIN BILL PLAN ABANDONED

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Sunday double-headers and Monday holidays, the St. Louis Cardinals synthetic arrangement, will probably continue next season without the aid of the schedule-makers.

Sam Breadon, president of the club, who feels Sabbath twin bills bring more clicks in the turnstiles than single games on Sunday and Monday, said today he had decided not to campaign for a change in the regular schedules.

"I've given the idea some thought," he said, "but I haven't notified headquarters to place it before the joint major league meeting in Chicago next week, and therefore, so far as I am concerned, it will not be broached there.

"I may bring it up for discussion at the National league meeting earlier in the week at Chicago, but I will not request any definite conclusion."

If Breadon's idea were put into practice, no games would be scheduled on Monday's and there would be double-headers every Sunday.

Under present league rules, synthetic Sunday double-headers arranged by moving up Monday's games, are permitted after June 15. Perhaps more than any other club in either league, the Cardinals have been doing that for the past several seasons.

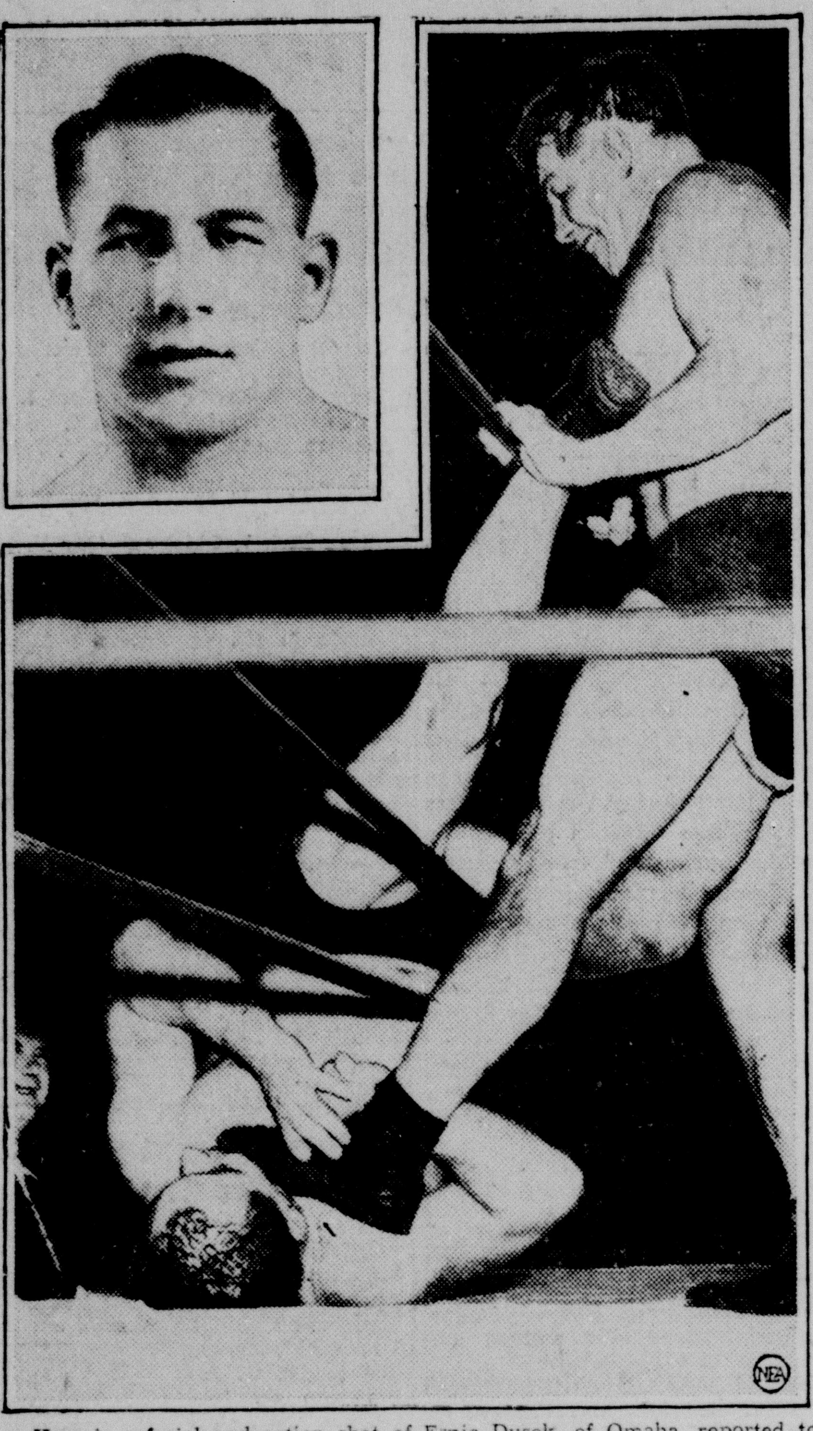
PICK OF THE PACHYDERMS



Here is a facial and action shot of Ernie Dusek, of Omaha, reported to have been selected as the successor to Danno O'Mahoney as heavyweight grappling champion. There are four Duseks, and they are known as Wrestling's Riot Squad, a reputation gained by stomping on opponents' physiognomies, as shown here, and generally contributing to the delight of the mat-minded.

Ernie Dusek Slated As Next Wrestling Champ

O'Mahoney Flops As Heavyweight Ruler And Will Be Deposed

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Those in command of the main body of heavyweight wrestlers are said to have decided upon the successor to Danno O'Mahoney as champion.

The fortunate young behemoth is reported to be Ernie Dusek, of the Four Omaha Duseks.

Ernie Dusek, 25, has filled out to a good 240 pounds within the last year, and is blessed with all the qualities of the ideal titleholder. He is one of the more magnetic attractions. He can emote with the best. The bugs either attend to see him pull somebody apart or be pulled apart himself. And the biggest thing of all in his favor is that he really can wrestle. The young man requires no policemen or bodyguards.

Ernie Dusek has been around several years now, and is entitled to the opportunity. Besides, his oldest brother, Rudy, is one of the powers of the industry, being actively associated with Jack Curley and Joe (Toots) Mondt, of the New York branch. I hear that it was Rudy's insistence that brought about the decision in his kid brother's favor.

O'Mahoney Poor Repeater

The dethroning of O'Mahoney is scheduled to take place between now and the Irishman's return to his native land in March.

O'Mahoney has served his purpose and even the clan is commencing to object to his being the head man.

The most damaging indictment against the former soldier is that he cannot be brought back to the more important centers at a proift.

O'Mahoney had little or no experience when Jack McGrath, of Worcester, imported him. Danno obtained a lot of publicity through the introduction of the Irish whip, whatever that is, but it generally was agreed that Jim Londos presented the title to him in Boston last summer. Danno was quite an attraction for a time, particularly with the Irish of south Boston, but lost appeal with each appearance. He does not look the part of a champion, and shortly began to attract unfavorable press notices. This is fatal to a star pachyderm.

"O'Mahoney doesn't know any more about wrestling than John Quincy Adams did at the age of 3," read one typical New York report. "He isn't strong. His arms and chest and legs are those of a youngster who is still years shy of complete development. He drew only a handful to the Garden."

San Francisco critics asserted that O'Mahoney represented in the crudest pattern the fraud of wrestling. In Detroit, he "looked like a high school tackle trying to make the team."

The grappling lords basked in the glow of O'Mahoney sucker money for a time, but have emerged with a painful sunburn. They fumbled with the gates when they tried to stuff Danno down the patrons' threats.

Wrestlers Demand Change

As long as O'Mahoney drew the customers, the remainder of the field made no protest, but when the trade stayed away in vast numbers, the clan commenced to howl for a worthier leader.

Billy Sandow, who managed Ed Strangler Lewis for more than 20 years, has led the fight against O'Mahoney.

It is significant that the man Sandow is ballyhooing, Everett Marshall, has not met O'Mahoney since the son of old Erin gained possession of the diamond belt. Every time Marshall appears, which is five or six nights a week, Sandow hops into the ring to offer O'Mahoney a substantial guarantee and $5,000 to charity in return for his signing for a match with Marshall. This isn't doing the bone-bending dodge any good, and the better ear manglers want a limb twister on top who can do something about it.

Ernie Dusek appears to be the man. The Duseks are known as Wrestling's Riot Squad. The other two brothers are Emil and Joey. They are Bohemians. Rudy was taught by the renowned Farmer Burns and in turn instructed his brothers. The present plan is for the four to make a world tour with Ernie wearing the crown.

Those close to the racket tell you that O'Mahoney will be the last of the trick, or built-up champions. It is expected that their experience with Danno has taught the powers a good lesson.

Wrestling may be largely acrobatics, but even those who pay to see it insist that the champion know a flying mare from a flying trapeze.

PITTSBURGH FIVE HAS IMPRESSIVE 8-YEAR RECORD

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—Strike out the 1931-33 season and the Pittsburgh Panthers—opponents of the L. S. U. Tigers, January 2 in the Sugar Bowl—have one of the greatest records in the game since 1927.

It was in '27 that Coach Dr. H. C. Carlson jacked-up his schedule, got his system to clicking and made Pitt basketball conscious.

If you discount a disasterous 1931-32 campaign, in which a long trip to the Pacific coast wrecked the team, the Panther record since 1927 is 130 victories against 24 defeats. In 1931 Pitt lost 16 and won only 15.

Since '27 Pittsburgh—playing the best in the game—has lost no more than five games in any one season and they've done that only twice. Here's their record:

1927-28—Won 21, lost 0.
1928-29—Won 17, lost 5.
1929-30—Won 23, lost 2.
1930-31—Won 20, lost 4.
1931-32—Won 15, lost 16.
1932-33—Won 17, lost 4.
1933-34—Won 18, lost 4.
1934-35—Won 17, lost 5.

Carlson, who has made famous the Panthers "figure eight" offense, was himself a basketball star and football player in his undergraduate days at Pittsburgh. He captained the undefeated and untied 1917 team and is rated one of the best ends in Pitt history.

Successor to Andy Kerr in 1922, Carlson is one coach who doesn't "moan." He believes that he can win 'em and doesn't hesitate to say so.

BOYCOTT MOTION IS DEFEATED BY NARROW MARGIN

Final Decision To Be Made In Last Convention Session Today

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—After voting to table a sweeping Olympic boycott resolution, by a narrow margin, the Amateur Athletic Union's annual convention was precipitated into a wide-open debate on the controversy late today by attempts to put through a substitute motion, toned down to support American participation in the games but still protest Nazi athletic policies.

The convention was split wide open on the whole issue as a direct consequence of the earlier tactical victory gained by proponents of American participation, led by Avery Brundage of Chicago, the president of the American Olympic committee.

The vote to table the original boycott resolution, offered by Louis Di Benedetto of New Orleans, was announced as 61 to 55, minus fractions which led to some subsequent dispute among tabulators of the balloting.

Charging they had been the victims of "double dealing," boycott advocates, led by Jeremiah T. Mahoney, president of the A. A. U., quickly seized their parliamentary opportunity to reopen their fight when a substitute motion was offered by Gustavus T. Kirby of New York.

Kirby's motion, in effect, was designed to put the A. A. U. on record as favoring full American participation but, simultaneously, demanding vigilance by international athletic authorities against racial or religious discrimination in Germany. The motion also included a denouncement of Nazi policies.

Kirby's motion, after several amendments designed to put "teeth" into it, was promptly followed by a substitute motion, flatly asking the A. A. U. to oppose participation in the Olympics, if they are held in Germany. This motion was put before the convention by Charles L. Ornstein of New York, who charged Brundage with violating pre-convention pledges.

Mahoney stepped down from the presiding chair to continue the attack and insist that there be no further side-stepping of the main issue, specificially Germany's adherence or non-adherence to Olympic pledges of fair play.

The session was adjourned shortly after seven o'clock, thus putting the final decision on the entire matter over to the final session of the convention tomorrow.

Brundage closed the debate for the day with a speech in which he cited numerous records and evidence to back his contention that Germany was adhering to its Olympic pledges. He again sounded the note of warning that the A. A. U. was in danger of wrecking itself if it insisted upon opposing participation in the Olympic games.

TIGERS WANT TO GO

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Bernie Moore, Louisiana State university's famed track—and football—coach and member of the Olympic coaching staff, and outstanding Louisiana spike athletes today favored American participation in the Berlin contests.

"I don't see why they don't quit this foolishness," Moore said, commenting on the controversy over American participation.

"This arguing isn't going to get us anywhere. We know we're going to be in them (the Olympics)."

Here's the way the athletes, most of whom were developed by Moore, sound off:

Jack Torrance, world champion shot-putter—"I don't see why we shouldn't go. Germany is putting out too much money preparing for these games to ruin them now. Besides they figure we have a pretty good chance to win this year * * *."

Glenn "Slats" Hardin, L. S. U., 400-meter world record holder—"there is no reason why we shouldn't enter."

Buddy Blair, L. S. U.'s javelin hurler—"Sure I want to go to Berlin. Herman Neugrass (Tulane sprinter) wants to go and he's Jewish."

Johnny Morriss, 1932 Olympic hurdler—"Of course we want to go. When we went over there to Berlin in 1933 they treated us swell. They aren't going to let a question of racial difference ruin their chances. I know Al Moreau, who had a great season in Europe last summer wants to go."

Ted O'Neal, L. S. U. distance man—"I am in favor of participating."

BANQUET TENDERED COLUMBIA PLAYERS

COLUMBIA, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—Last Tuesday night the football team of the Columbia high school was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. M. Tickeli with a banquet in honor of the boys.

Interesting talks were given by H. S. Bankston, principal and coach, and Rev. J. D. Kitchingham, pastor of First Baptist church.

The following players, cheer leaders and student managers were present: James Cook, Marvin Corley, Hollis Cruse, Edgar Duke, Cecil Duke, Garland Gregory, Herman Gunn, Joe Hauge, Don Haney, Vance Harrelson, James and John Russ Hawkins, John Edward Hundley, Ulis Kelly, Wilson Lee, Hebert Lewellyan, George Martin, Joe May, Bruce Mosely, John Self, Frank Tickeli and C. W. Traylor, players; Josephene Meredith, Mary Humble and J. W. James, cheer leaders; Drue Adams, Earl Harris, Elbern Carr, and Berl Wilkins, student managers.

RED DAWSON MAY SUCCEED TED COX AS TULANE COACH

St. Paul Paper Says Former Backfield Ace Will Return To Wave

ST. PAUL, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The St. Paul Pioneer Press says reports were being circulated in the Twin Cities tonight that Lowell (Red) Dawson, University of Minnesota backfield coach and former Tulane university quarterback, will return to his alma mater as head football coach.

Announcement was made in New Orleans several days ago that Ted Cox, Tulane coach, will be replaced as head coach, but will be retained in the athletic department.

Dawson came to Minnesota in 1932 with Bernie Bierman, former Tulane mentor, after starring under the latter's direction at the southern school.

Dawson was at Los Angeles today to scout the game between Southern California and Washington. The latter team is Minnesota's first gridiron opponent next year.

It was said here Dawson planned to visit New Orleans on his way back to Minnesota, lending strength to the report he may be named as successor to Cox.

IT'S TOUGH, MATES!

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The coach whose team loses the annual Louisiana State-Tulane football game generally gets the ax.

It didn't take Tulane long to act after the crushing 41-0 L. S. U. drubbing last Saturday.

The worst defeat in the history of the ancient classic wasn't a matter of record a week before the athletic council announced it was looking for a new mentor.

That's the way things were at L. S. U. last year when Tulane beat the Tigers 13-12 and brought the wrath of the late Senator Huey P. Long down upon Coach Biff Jones. Jones resigned.

Clark Shaughnessy, now coach at Chicago, lost his grip at Tulane when his team lost to L. S. U., 6-0 in 1926. Mike Donahue and Russ Cohen were other coaches who bid farewell to L. S. U. because the annual classic turned out "wrong."

No matter how bad a season is for the schools, the alumni will usually stick to the coach if he can come through with a season-end victory in the annual contest.

Tulane's season this year wasn't so bad, although the team lost four games and won six, but the alumni in recent years have been expecting a perfect record.

Cox last year turned out a team which tied for the Southeastern conference championship and won in the inaugural Sugar Bowl game against Temple. In his four years at Tulane his teams won 28 games and lost 10.

But the athletic council was looking for a new coach today. They were very secretive but fans believed they were trying to interest Major Bob Neyland, former coach at Tennessee, Dana X. Bible, coach at Nebraska, or Bernie Bierman, Minnesota coach, who gave Tulane its Rose Bowl team.

Waterproof, Springhill Meet Friday For Title

Record Crowd Expected At Waterproof For North Louisiana Classic

WATERPROOF, La., Dec. 7.—(Special).—The battle for the north Louisiana Class B football championship will be fought here between the Springhill Lumberjacks, champions of District One, and the Tigers of Waterproof High school, District Two titleholders, next Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Both teams are reported to be in fine shape for the title clash. The winner of this game will meet the winner of the south Louisiana title for the state championship.

Arrangements for Friday's battle were worked out last Friday at Homer following Springhill's 15 to 0 victory over the Arcadia Hornets for the District One title. H. S. Bankston of Columbia, chairman of the District Two class B football committee, and R. L. Phillips, of Plain Dealing, chairman of the District One committee, made the plans for the impending game.

The Tigers will be outweighed nearly 10 pounds per man by the Springhill eleven, which boasts one of the heaviest high school aggregations in the state. The difference in weight will be especially noted in the line, but the Waterproof backs will be about on par with the invaders in poundage.

The Bengal line averages 160 pounds and the backfield averages 164. The Springhill forwards will average 173 pounds and the backs 162. As a team the invaders will average 169 pounds per man to the locals 161 pounds per man.

Head Coach Statum Crosby and Assistant Coach Murray Lambre, both products of Louisiana State Normal college, will begin work Monday getting their squad in shape for the game, and believe that their charges will turn back Coach Cracker Brown's aggregation. The locals have hard workouts ahead of them for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday with stress on offensive and defensive tactics. They will rest Thursday preparatory to the game.

The locals have a stellar line in William Hunter, Joe Kyfes, Raymond Hudnall, J. B. Shelton, Corneal Goldman, Parker Wiggins and Parnell Stockstill. The work of Kyfes, guard; Goldman, tackle; and Wiggins, end, has been especially outstanding all season, and they have the support of Waterproof fans for all-state selections. Bob Fife, the stellar Tiger quarterback, is another whom Coach Crosby rates as all-state material. Fife with Willie Bennett, Almond Marron and Paul Welsh form the fast Bengal backfield.

Several members of the Waterproof reserve squad who may see action in the title game are Lewis Stockstill, taskle; V. P. Ferrington and Roy Gibson, guards; Dalton Miller and Robert Rife, ends; and Ustis Fulton and McGruder Adams, backs.

The powerful Lumberjack line composed of Pete Duke, Punjab Wright, Eber Haynes, Elva Haynes, Robert Smith, Curtis Coyle and Kelly Byrd is expected to give the local offensive plenty of trouble. The lightest man in the line is Elva Haynes, 155, at right guard, and the remainder of the forwards weigh well over 160 pounds. Duke and Wright are two powerful ends weighing 185 and 189 pounds, respectively. Two other linemen who play good ball are "Goat" Branton, tackle, and Marshall Green, center, both of the reserve squad.

Gus Boucher, Springhill's 175-pound quarterback, is hailed as one of the best ball carriers of the year and was accredited with a big part of the honors in defeating the Arcadia aggregation in the play-off battle. The remainder of the Lumberjack backfield consists of Charles Miller, William Maxwell and Ernie Tyler.

Coach Brown, a former Centenary star, has his Lumberjacks in fine trim and will continue working on his team's power this week. Waterproof is preparing for a big day when the two teams meet and the biggest crowd ever to witness a local football game is expected to be on hand.

The probable starting lineups as given by Coaches Brown and Crosby are:

Springhill	Wgt.	Pos.	Wgt.	Waterproof
Duke	185	LE	167	Wiggins
Coyle	168	LT	170	Shelton
Byrd	163	LG	155	Hudnall
Smith	173	C	145	Hunter
Elva Haynes	155	RG	150	Kyfes
Eber Haynes	179	RT	180	Goldman
Wright	189	RE	150	Stockstill
Boucher	175	QB	178	Fife
Miller	155	HB	147	Marron
Maxwell	140	HB	150	Welsh
Tyler	178	FB	180	Bennett

WASHINGTON UPSETS SOUTHERN CAL., 6-2

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Byron Haines added another weird chapter to the 1935 football season today when he accounted for all the scoring as Washngton defeated Southern California 6 to 2 before 35,000.

Playing for the first time since he was selected as an all-Coast halfback, Haines started by picking up the opening kickoff on his one-yard line and carrying it behind his goal line where he was tackled for a safety and two points for U. S. C.

Haines came back in the second period to justify his selection on the honor team by racing 25 yards for the only touchdown of the contest.

Southern California threatened three times in the final period but the Huskies stopped them.

GREAT TRACKMEN WILL COMPETE IN SUGAR BOWL MEET

First Preview Of Olympic Athletes To Be Held At Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—The first preview of the 1936 Olympic track and field games comes off December 28 in the Sugar Bowl's first invitational track carnival here at Loyola stadium.

Fifty-two of America's greatest performers from coast to coast—men who are certain to be in the Berlin games—are coming to New Orleans for the first outdoor track and field pageant ever held in the month of December.

This field was just "coming up" at the time of the 1932 games, although six of its members competed at Los Angeles and one—Glenn "Slats" Hardin of Louisiana State—set a world's record that year.

Featured events of the Sugar Bowl program—the mile, two mile, half mile, low hurdles and shot put—list athletes who have shattered either every world or American record on the books.

It's not hard to imagine just what will happen when Glenn Cunningham, owner of the mile record of 4:06.8, and two of his greatest rivals, Gene Venzke and Glenn Dawson, line up in the Bowl. Their three-cornered races were classics of the 1935 season.

Try to dope a two mile race between Joe Mangan, present American record holder at 9:15.4, and Norman Bright, the Californian who has clipped 2.2 seconds off that mark and now has his record up for adoption.

Picture a hurdle race that brings together Sam Allen, the intercollegiate champion and record holder; Al Moreau, who twice equalled the world's record of 14.2 last summer in Europe, and Johnny Morris whose 14.3 race was once the world's best.

Add to that the one event—shot put—which people, until big Jack Torrance came along, never looked upon as a thrill producer. Jack, a 300-pound specimen, changed all that with a 57 feet 1 inch heave, which surpassed what coaches and experts had set as a maximum in the event.

Top off these four events with a half mile race featuring Indiana's Charlie Hornbostel, the greatest since Ben Eastman; Ross L. Bush, whom Dean Cromwell, sage of Southern Cal., predicts as the best half miler of 1936, and Charlie Beetham, Ohio State star, who can keep up with either of the first two.

These events should produce more thrills than a three-ring circus, and the Sugar Bowl officials have also added the quarter mile, 75 yard dash and hop, step and jump to their program.

Glen Hardin, world record holder in the 400-meter hurdles, and twice king of the intercollegiate quarter-milers, has come closer to Ben Eastman's 440 record of 46.4 than any man since "Blazin' Ben" set his mark in 1932.

Hardin's great 46.8 Southeastern conference race is the fastest ever run in the south. He'll have George F. Arnold, Milrose A. C. star, and Ben Brothers of Rice to "push" him December 28.

Five men who have bettered 48 feet in the hop, step and jump—two who have brushed 50 feet—are entered in this event. Roland Romero, whose best is 50 feet 4 5-8 inches; Dudley Wilkins, boasting 49 feet 9 inches, and Sol Furth, a 1932 Olympic competitor, head the list.

Cunningham, Venzke, Hornbostel, Hardin, Furth and Frank Crowley, a steeplechaser who is entered in the mile, all completed for the U. S. in the Los Angeles games.

Here in the Sugar Bowl they are going to meet some of their teammates for the invasion of the reich.

VINTON WINS CLASS 'B' IN DISTRICT 3

LAKE CHARLES, La., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Vinton high today looked to southeast Louisiana for a title foe next week to decide the class "B" football championship of the southern part of the state.

Vinton won district three title Friday afternoon at Vinton with a 37-6 victory over Franklin in the play-off final.

Joe Turner and Burnie Richard, Vinton halfbacks, scored three and two touchdowns, respectively, and Waverly Dugas, diminutive fullback, accounted for the other. Willie Clifton scored Franklin's touchdown through the Vinton line after Neville Boudreaux had thrown passes to Joe Polito, Kelly Barrilleaux, and A. J. Dugas to put the ball in scoring position.

DAVIS WILL TALK AT FARM FORUM

Administrator Will Speak On 'AAA'S Cotton Program For 1936'

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Chester A. Davis, AAA administrator, Cully A. Cobb, chief of the AAA cotton section, and other agricultural leaders will be heard in addresses here Wednesday at the Commercial Appeal's mid-south farm forum.

Mr. Davis will speak via radio (NBC) from Chicago at 11:30 a.m. on the "AAA's Cotton Program for 1936," while Mr. Cobb will address the closing session of the conference in person at the newspaper's annual "plant to prosper" dinner Wednesday evening.

Other speakers to be presented include John M. Graham, president of the National City Bank of Rome, Ga., who will talk on "Farm Financing." David L. Cohn, Greenville, Miss., author of "God Shakes Creation," will discuss the tariff and its relation to the cotton business; and Dr. William J. Hale of the chemical foundation of New York will discuss "Chemurgy Points the Way."

T. Roy of Little Rock, regional director of the rural resettlement administration, will tell of the work of his organization.

The Commercial Appeal sponsors an annual "plant-to-prosper" competition among the farmers of the mid-south. More than 70 county winners will attend. The climax of the one-day forum will be the dinner, for the grand prize winner will be announced to that time.

The competition has the endorsement of the agricultural committee of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce and national farm leaders. It has for its purpose the creation of better farm life through diversified, "live-at-home" programs.

ployment of quotas and "escape clauses."

He told reporters in an interview which supplemented a parting memorandum to the president, that he was "going to stay right here in Washington and fight it out on this line, if it takes all winter."

Peek's idea is that through the operation of the "most favored nation tariff policy" a general reduction in tariffs is involved in concessions arranged for any one particular nation, since that policy means that a concession granted to one country shall apply impartially to all others having "favored" treaties with the United States.

His own method is to bargain with individual nations for arrangements whereby they will purchase American surpluses, and the United States take what they have to sell, with provisions made for settlement of accounts and the whole accomplished with no changes in tariff rates.

Peek said his resignation as president of the Export-Import bank a week ago was caused first of all by his "lack of sympathy with the whole general foreign trade policy," made acute by an Armistice day speech "which did not meet with the approval of the president."

He plans to open new offices here next week, financed by himself. Declaring himself open for invitations to address agricultural and other groups, he added he hoped to keep partisan politics out of the picture. He said he foresaw no tie-up with his close friend and former colleague, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson.

MISSENT LETTER LEADS TO DEATH

Man Finds Job And Then Is Told Of Suicide Of Wife And Daughter

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Gus Nicholas, 45, unemployed since he lost a $63,000 fortune, wrote to his wife and daughter, in New York City this week telling them he had landed a job. But his letters went to the wrong address.

Today police told him his wife, Margaret, 32, and their daughter, Iris, 15, were found dead last night in their gas-filled flat in New York City. Manhattan police said they apparently had committed suicide in despair. The mother left a note which read.

"Tessie: I am tired. Gus not home. Don't know where he is. Please send me home to Norfolk, Va., money is enough."

"Tessie" was the janitress at 109 Madison street, New York, where the Nicholas family lived.

Today the two letters that Nicholas wrote home came back to Schenectady, undelivered. Nicholas had addressed them to 109 Madison avenue instead of Madison street.

A bank book showing deposits of $277 was beside the body. Police also found a money order for five dollars telegraphed last night by Nicholas.

Chief of Police William H. Funston of Schenectady said Nicholas once was a prosperous candy manufacturer. But he lost his money and had no job. Three days ago he came to Schenectady on a truck.

He was hired as chef in a restaurant at $15 a week. Last night he borrowed five dollars from his employer and telegraphed it to his wife.

This morning police told him of the tragedy. Frantic, he dashed for a train and was borne toward New York.

ROOSEVELT WILL SPEAK 2 TIMES

Addresses Are Planned Monday At Chicago And Notre Dame

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Dec. 7.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said farewell to the folks here today and went to work tonight on addresses to be made Monday which inaugurate another period of busy activity.

He spent the evening dictating a speech to be delivered before the American Farm Bureau federation at Chicago Monday which is expected to outline his ideas for agriculture and to review what has been done.

Attention also was given the talk he will make at Notre Dame university at South Bend, Ind., Monday afternoon at a special convocation when he will be awarded an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

In view of his recent criticism by the Knights of Columbus for his refusal to intervene in Mexico on the religious question, interest naturally attaches to this talk.

It was a happy president who packed bags tonight to return to the White House. He has been here more than two weeks with old friends indulging in warm sunshine and outdoor exercise.

Of course, Mr. Roosevelt realizes as much as any one that the national campaign is ahead, but mention of it has brought no response from him.

Obviously he is preparing to go into action for the principles of the New Deal, but he apparently is still listening for the opening gong.

Today he visited the nearby civilian conservation camp en route for his daily plunge in the pool. In an informal talk he asserted: "As times get better I hope we will manage somehow to dig up money enough in the treasury to keep the CCC going as a permanent institution."

36 ROUNDS OF BOXING CARDED FOR TUESDAY NIGHT

HAZUDA-FALLETTA MATCH TOPS BIG SHOW AT STADIUM

Ashy Signed To Meet Raymond In Six-Round Semi-Final Bout

A program of 36 rounds of boxing has been completed for the second mitt show of the season at Roosevelt stadium Tuesday night, Promoter Charlie Bruscato announced last night. The card will be headed by a return engagement between Tony Faletta and Mickey Hazuda, the two lads who staged a spectacular battle at the stadium two weeks ago.

Bruscato has booked a semi-final match that he believes will rival the main event in interest, he said last night. It will be a six-rounder between "Wild Willie" Ashy, 159, of Memphis, Tenn., and Roscoe Raymond, 160, of Ferriday.

Ashy is said to be something of a sensation around Memphis. A goofy sort of bird who likes to slug it out with his opponent, "Wild Willie" is said to pack a terrific punch that has laid low 25 of his opponents in the past 27 battles. Ashy is peculiar in that he believes in fighting—something that has been strangely lacking in present day boxers. He's plenty tough, according to press notices.

Raymond is said to have a perfect record as a professional boxer. According to Bruscato, he has fought 35 pro battles and has yet to lose. He was an amateur of note before turning professional. Most of his victories have been won by knockouts, the promoter said.

Three six-round preliminary bouts between negro sluggers complete the card. One of more than ordinary interest will be that between "Battling Joe" Hawkins, 141, of Monroe, and Joe Gully, 143, of West Monroe.

However, it's the Falletta-Hazuda main event that is causing all the comment about town. These boys packed plenty of action in every round of their previous meeting and Promoter Bruscato expects a capacity crowd for their second encounter. Falletta has been working out regularly for the match and he expects to turn the tables on the Pittsburgh veteran, who eked out a close decision two weeks ago.

Two knockdowns gave Hazuda the edge in their match a couple of weeks ago, despite the fact that Falletta finished strong. There were some who thought Tony should have been given the decision, while others believed a draw was the worst the local Italian should have gotten. The bout Tuesday night will be over the 12-round route and Falletta is confident he can trim Hazuda in the longer battle.

Hazuda, however, apparently doesn't care how many rounds it goes. "It doesn't make any difference about the number of rounds," he said yesterday. "Give Falletta fifty rounds and I'll beat him. In fact, I'm going to make it more convincing than ever Tuesday night."

Bruscato said yesterday that Butch Martin will referee all bouts and the judges will be chosen from Sam J. Woods, G. N. Meyers, O. D. Douglas and John J. Stewart. Harry Prophit will make the announcements.

it with a series of line drives. Games will appear rougher because the offensive team does not depend upon calm, deliberate play as it did in the past.

Then there's another change that's going to cause plenty of arguments. A new rule leaves to the discretion of officials the counting of a field goal, scored after the whistle has been blown to signal a foul committed against the man throwing for the basket. If a team loses by one or two points and such a decision has been made against that team during the game, the howling is going to be long and loud.

Although the customers will find that basketball has become a faster game, some of the coaches and the boys who play the game are of the opinion that the rules committee is taking too many liberties with the ancient pastime.

TECH TIDINGS

By

Ruston Sports Correspondent

RUSTON, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—Some say one thing and some say another, but your morning newspaper along about Tuesday will set them all right on the subject of several more football schedules for 1936, including the one for Louisiana Tech.

Coach Eddie McLane plans to leave Ruston Sunday night for Birmingham, Ala., to attend the meeting of the S. I. A. A., at which gridiron cards will be shuffled and other affairs arranged.

In the meantime, how about finding out that six games have been booked definitely for Tech next year, and three others are on the fire? (The local drug stores don't even know that yet!)

Here is six-tenths of the Tech card: Southwestern Louisiana institute at Lafayette, October 9; Louisiana State Normal college at Natchitoches, October 24; Tulane university at New Orleans, October 31; Millsaps college at Ruston, November 13; Louisiana college at Ruston, November 20, and the University of Tampa at Ruston on Thanksgiving day, November 26.

Coach McLane has announced a tentative booking with the University of Mississippi, to be played here on October 3, if the party of the second part is willing. A possibility for October 16 is Birmingham-Southern. Either Howard college or Mississippi college may be the Tech opponent here on November 6.

Some Cutting Remarks

Nobody knows what will be the principal commotion at the coming meeting of the S. I. A. A. in Birmingham, but it is reasonable to assume that if all of the delegates to the convention were stood on top of each other, they would fall down and make a big noise. At the last count, there were 38 members of the "world's largest athletics conference," and another one was knocking at the door. Anywhere you go you can hear talk of a need for cutting that conference. The Tech coach is among those who feel that way, but, like many others, he doesn't know how to go about the matter of revision or division, since the problem of an accrediting agency is involved. It seems to be a case of hope without faith, at present. Some day some one will break up that group into about four pieces, and the "circuit breaker" will be a hero, many sports followers opine.

That Trip to Tampa

Upon inquiring at the local railroad depot as to how far it is from Ruston to Tampa, Fla., one gets the idea that Tampa is just a few miles this side of Tipperary—to which there is a long, long trail a-winding. Folks here wanted to know because Louisiana Tech plays the Tampa Spartans at Tampa Saturday afternoon, December 14. They learned that it is "about 965" miles from here to there, which will be the longest trip ever made by a Tech team. The grid squad, with about "one and one-half sports writers," will entrain for Tampa Wednesday night. The plan is to go by way of Birmingham, and the hope is to reach Tampa Friday morning.

Trainer Eddie Wojecki, who is about the only person at Tech who has ever been to Tampa, is telling the boys some tall tales about the country down there. He says the University of Tampa is partly made out of a three-million-dollar hotel, and that the students anchor their yachts in the bay when they come to school. He also swears that "when we were down there, we just went out in a park and picked our oranges for breakfast." But he didn't say how they got their bacon and eggs!

Notes of a Swan Song

Exactly enough men for one complete football team will end their gridiron careers with Louisiana Tech this coming Saturday. The 11 seniors include Captain Madison Brooks, Rhinehart, center; Alternate-Captain Bill Ruple, Ruple, guard; Jack Thigpen, Ruston, quarterback; Fred Beckett, Monroe, end; Will Cotten, Oak Grove, halfback; Archie Turner, Ferriday, fullback; Thomas Deas, Arcadia, guard; Ras Neal, Monroe, tackle; Lloyd Milam, Ruston, guard; W. C. Johnston, Ruston, guard, and Alton Dunnaway, Ruston, tackle.

The majority of these 11 men are not through with Tech athletics, however. Brooks, Thigpen and Cotton are basketball stars. Baseball will attract Neal, Cotten, Thigpen and Beckett. Turner will join the track squad, and the call of boxing will be answered by Milam and Deas.

Wouldn't This Bowl You Over!

There has been some talk of a Rose Bowl, a Sugar Bowl, an Orange Bowl, and a Cotton Bowl, but the one that takes the soap is the "Wash Bowl," suggested by Coach Eddie McLane of Louisiana Tech. The "Wash Bowl," he thinks, should become a kind of sports dish for North Louisiana. He made the remark in an off-moment of levity, but it might not be so bad when you consider its possibilities. A "Wash Bowl" wouldn't be a bad place to take some one for a cleaning; and what's more, everything comes out in the wash.

A Few Niblick Nibbles

Tryouts for the Louisiana Tech golf squad are now in order. Those having their trying moments include the following students: Longino Woodman, Carroll Thomas, Jack Bridges, Bill McDonald, Iley Barnes, Gerald McCallum, Robert Null, Jimmy Holland and Jack Armstrong.

The Tech candidates are drilling on the Ruston Golf club's property—and there may be some drilling of another kind out there some day. The poor people who own shares of stock in those acres have their ears to the ground, listening for rumblings of oil and gas.

BOBBY JONES SAYS

Golfers are always searching for some method of improving their game. Some seek a panacea that will cure their faults; others more optimistic hope that they will find the one secret of the game; a few words of advice, which if followed, will do wonders to their scores.

I was not trying to uncover any such secret when I first went to Tommy Armour but I did receive a suggestion which, if not the greatest tip in golf, will do until a better one comes along. This important bit of advice by Armour was the rather simple statement that the most important thing in the golf swing of all good golfers is a stop at the top of the backswing.

When Armour mentioned this I suddenly realized that I had heard the same thing before—I racked my brain until I remembered a book written by that famous 65-year-old English professional James Braid, who rather monopolized the British Open championship from 1900 to 1910.

When I returned home I dug up the book which I had read in 1923 and sure enough the same idea was there—"there should always be a slight suggestion of a pause at the top of the backswing."

With two such golf authorities advocating this procedure, I decided to make it a permanent fixture in my swing. In the light of later events I can truthfully say that it is the most valuable hint I have ever received.

The beauty of this pause or hesitation at the top of the backswing is that it is one of the few tips on golf that can be adopted and put into use without an appreciable amount of work. Yet the results are indeed surprising. At the very most the hesitation should be slight, lasting about a quarter of a second. If it is overdone the whole body becomes tense and rigid, a fault that more than offsets the benefits from the pause.

If carried out correctly there are so many advantages to be derived from it that the player should notice immediate improvement. It is one of the surest and quickest ways of eliminating hitting from the top of the swing too quickly which is called a "yip at the top." Anything can result from a "yippy" swing and the quicker it is eliminated the more consistent the player will become.

Up And Down-Stroke

It is obvious that if there is no pause at the top of the upstroke, the club will still be going back when the hands, arms and body reverse their action and start down. The club is a solid instrument and cannot therefore loosen or give. On the other hand the hands, arms and body are flexible and will give. Clearly then if a conflict results between the two the hands or arms are the factors which are going to loosen. This brings about a condition resulting in a fatal error in golf—the left hand loosening its grip through this reverse pull and losing its control over the club at that critical moment at the top of the swing, when the club is still travelling back and the hands and arms have started the downswing action. The left hand and left arm must remain firm (not stiff however) throughout the swing, otherwise control of the clubhead will be lost and a good shot dependent largely upon luck.

Better Hitting Position

Another advantage is that this slight hesitation seems to put one into the correct hitting position. The golfer feels that he is poised or cocked, ready and set to deliver a killing blow to the ball.

For further illustration a baseball pitcher might be considered. If he started his body and arm forward before his hand which holds the ball, stopped on its backward windup, he would snap his wrist in much the same fashion as a buggy whip is snapped. Pitching in this manner he would have very little control over the ball and his arm would not last long.

Another point in favor of this suggestion is that if one's timing is a little off, a slow backswing with a pause at the top is the best method I know of to regain it.

ROUGH GRAPPLERS ARE MATCHED FOR WEDNESDAY CARD

Vern Clark Sought For Semi-Final Bout On Card At Stadium

Otto Ludwig, the German villain, and "Bull" Jeffries, another grappler who prefers the modern style of wrestling with all the rough trimmings thrown in, will meet in the main event of the weekly wrestling show at Roosevelt stadium Wednesday night, Promoter Charlie Bruscato announced yesterday.

Ludwig made his first appearance here in more than two years last week and was disqualified in his match with Ace Freeman. The German continually used foul tactics on his opponent and Referee Butch Martin finally chased him from the ring. Incidentally, Butch and Otto exchanged blows several times and there may be a renewal of their fistic relations when the German returns.

Ludwig is about as rough as they grow in the light heavyweight ranks. In fact, one of his chief claims to fame is a victory over Wild Red Berry, scored at the stadium a couple of years ago.

He will be meeting another rugged performer in Jeffries. "Bull" showed here regularly for a couple of months when the light heavies were performing at the stadium two years ago, and he beat such foes as "Speedball" Craig, Andy Tremaine, Freddie Kupfer and "Roughhouse" Hagan.

Jeffries not only can hand his opponent plenty of misery but he can "take it" from the best of 'em. He is a crowd pleaser and Bruscato believes the Ludwig-Jeffries match will be quite spectacular.

The promoter said he was attempting to book Vern Clark, clever westerner, in here for another match. Clark has won quite a following here and Bruscato hope sto find another "scientific" wrestler to meet him on the Wednesday card. Vern has been featured in the past two shows and has proved popular with the fans.

The light heavyweight matches have been fast and the promoter said yesterday that he hoped to continue to employ wrestlers who are willing to "put out."

INDEPENDENT TEAMS MEET AT FERRIDAY

FERRIDAY, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock here the Ferriday Independents and a team composed of Natchez independent performers will engage in a benefit football game for the Ferriday high school "F" club and the Natchez Poor Children's Christmas Tree Fund.

The game Sunday is the first of a two-game series, the second tilt being scheduled to be played in Natchez next Sunday. Both squads are conducting strenuous workouts so as to be in shape for the series.

Ferriday's starting lineup will include George Boutwell, former University of Mississippi athlete and Dixie league baseball hurler of Laurel, now coaching at Newellton high school. The ex-Ole Miss player stole the show at the benefit tilts last year and he expects to again cut a prominent figure in the 1935 engagements.

Others on the Ferriday squad are Leroy Adams, Pat Price, Jack Pennington, J. S. Cross, Johnny Allred, Mickey Hazuda, Otts Wilson, Freddie Fairbanks, C. Godbold, Dallas Crisp, I. Levy, Leon Rozelle, Willard Schuchs, Dalton Faircloth, Arthur Taliaferro, Johnny Welsh and Gene Schuchs.

BATON ROUGE MEETS BLUE JAYS FOR TITLE

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The Jesuit Blue Jays who defeated the Warren Easton Eagles in their annual game here today will meet the Baton Rouge Bulldogs in the south Louisiana finals on next Saturday afternoon at Tulane stadium, officials of the two schools decided tonight.

The Jays automatically gained the right to participate in the playoff since they won the New Orleans preparatory championship by virtue of today's 6 to 0 victory over Warren Easton.

Baton Rouge, one of two undefeated teams within south Louisiana, played and defeated the only other undefeated south Louisiana team, Pontchatoula, for the right to play the Jays.

When the two teams meet next Saturday afternoon it will mark the second time this year. They battled each other in a regularly scheduled game earlier in the season which the Bulldogs won 12 to 7. The game was played in Baton Rouge.

The winner of the game next Saturday will meet Byrd high of Shreveport for the state championship.

JESUITS NOSE OUT WARREN EASTON, 6-0

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The Jesuits' Blue Jays won the city high school championship here today, defeating Warren Easton 6 to 0 before a crowd of 23,000 persons.

The contest was hard-fought throughout, and it was not until the last ten minutes of the fourth period that the Jays turned what seemed to be certain defeat into victory.

Warren Easton had penetrated Jesuit territory to the five-yard line where their smash bogged down before a stout defense of Co-Captain George Antonini to Co-Captain L. G. Friedrichs. After two futile thrusts at the line, on the 17-yard stripe, Antonini tossed one to Friedrichs who broke away from would-be tacklers and made for the sidelines where a group of Jays formed an interference for him that carried him over the goal. The play was good for 83 yards.

S. M. U. VICTORY FEATURES CLOSE OF GRID SEASON

T. C. U. Beats Santa Clara And Washington Shades Trojan Team

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The galloping Mustangs of Southern Methodist, bound for the Rose Bowl and a New Year's day football battle with Stanford, concluded their regular season without a defeat or a tie today as they buried Texas A. and M. under a 24 to 0 score in the final game of the Southwest conference season.

Southern Methodist's performance on a rain-swept field was by far the most impressive registered by the few teams which prolonged the 1935 season in scattered games through the west and south.

Texas Christian, leading rival of the Mustangs until they took their beating from S. M. U. and subsequently chosen to oppose Louisiana State at the New Orleans Sugar Bowl, ran into a tartar in Santa Clara, finally wininng, 10 to 6. Washington added to Southern California's miserable season by winning the Pacific Coast conference final from the Trojans, 6 to 2, to take sixth place.

Florida, like Washington, salvaged something from a poor season by rolling up a 22 to 0 score against South Carolina, another consistent loser in the south. Maryland won the state championship by defeating Western Maryland 22 to 7 in a post-season contest. An intersectional game, winding up the season in the east, saw Geneva of Pennsylvania pass its way to a 19 to 0 victory over Newberry of South Carolina. Two of the southwest's strong small colleges, Texas Tech and Oklahoma City, battled to a 7-7 tie.

The individual feats of two of the season's outstanding backs, all-America Bobby Wilson of Southern Methodist and Bill Guckeyson of Maryland, marked the day. Wilson paced the Mustangs to their 12th consecutive victory by racing 60 yards to score the first touchdown a few minutes after the opening whistle. Guckeyson's passes brought one touchdown for the Terps and paved the way for a field goal while he topped off the performance by intercepting a pass and sprinting 40 yards for the final tally.

GIRLS OF COLUMBIA HIGH PLAY FRIDAY

COLUMBIA, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—The Columbia Crimson Tide girls open their season next Friday with Winnfield, there. The girls have been working out for about a month. The same team is back this year with the exception of Ruby Rosser and Irene Broadway.

The girls won the title of being Caldwell parish champions last year and are contenders for the state title to be played in Baton Rouge in March.

Girls that are playing now that played last year are: Geraldine Kelly, Josephine Meredith, Thelma Grantham, Louise Thomas, Mary Humble, Hazel Cobb, Geraldine Roberts, Vivian Hudson, Mildred Slocumn and Ethel Childress. New members of the squad are: Gay Mosely, Lucille Jarrell, Troy Morris, Mary Elisebeth Cottingham and Johnny Ruth Cottingham.

LINVILLE MITTMEN WIN SECOND MATCH

LINVILLE, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—The Linville High school boxing team won its second encounter of the season by sweeping a four-bout card with Spearsville, winning two by knockouts and two via the decision route.

M. A. Blevins, 123 1-2, won his second consecutive first-round knockout when he gained a kayo at the expense of E. West, 124, just a few seconds before the initial stanza would have ended. Nathan Nolan, 129, won his second knockout victory in as many starts when he stopped E. Davis, 124, in the second round. Robin Parks, 130 1-2, making his first appearance in the ring this season, won a decision over B. Bryant, 138 1-2. Jack Parks, 153, also making his season debut, emerged victorious over C. West, 147.

PROS HAVE COMPANY IN SOUTH

Dixie is over-run with golfers seeking gold offered in winter tournaments, but all the players in the southland are not professionals. One is Judge Jeremiah T. Mahoney, left, president of the Amateur Athletic union and foremost leader against American participation in the Olympic games in Germany. He is driving at Pinehurst. Paul Waner, right, star of the Pittsburgh Pirates, swats a three-bagger at the Bay Shore course at Miami Beach.

Dykes Dean Of Big Loops As 1935 Grind Takes Big Toll Of Vets

By Harry Grayson
(NEA Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Babe Ruth made his final appearance as an active combatant on a semi-professional lot in Brooklyn this fall. The once mighty Bam announced that it was such from the field. What would have been a tremendous farewell at the Yankee stadium amounted to little or nothing in the obscure bush game. It was a rather sorry ending for the old home run king after 22 glorious campaigns.

Ruth's passing brings to mind that the years took an unusually heavy toll in 1935, with the last half dozen of the 20-year men among the more than two dozen veterans bowing to aching joints and barking bow-wows.

Walter James Maranville 23, Ruth 22, Sam Jones 22, Rogers Hornsby 21, Muddy Ruel 21, Sam Rice 20. Owners and managers wish the figures represented their ages, instead of the number of springs they went south and returned to stir up trouble for the opposition.

It seems likely that 1936 will be the first year since baseball was organized with the formation of the original National league in 1876 that the game will be without a single 20-year major leaguer or what was the equivalent of such an individual before the unionized sport was old enough to manufacture one of its own.

Haines Starts Seventeenth Season As Senior Slinger

Ty Cobb could still smack 'em and scoot following 24 championship grinds. Cy Young stuck around for 23 seasons; Fred Clarke, Honus Wagner, Nap Lajoie, and Tris Speaker for 21, and Grover Cleveland Alexander for 20.

So it is, with signs pointing to Jimmy Dykes launching his 19th season as the new major league dean in 1936, and Jess Haines the papa of the pitchers with 17 years behind him, it must be admitted that the boys are softening up.

Maranville declares that he will be back at second base for the Boston Braves, but it is feared that the daddy of them all will have to be led away from there. That is the only way that Pop Time will bag the plucky little Rabbit.

Dean Dykes still can play plenty of third base, but will groom an understudy when the White Sox report. The Cardinals are counting upon Frankie Frisch, who is to launch his 18th season, for part time duty. A kink must be worked out of Pie Traynor's throwing shoulder if he is to get into a good share of his Pirates' games in his 17th year.

Hornsby performed even less than he has in recent seasons as boss of the Browns in 1935, and Ruel chucked catching to coach the White Sox pitchers. Adolfo Luque also turned to coaching after 19 eventful races.

Charley Grimm and his lumbago stepped aside for the youthful Phil Cavarretta after illustrating how well one athlete can look after first base over an 18-year stretch. Dizzy Vance wound up with the semi-pros and Hughie Critz retired in their 15th autumn.

Reds Pay $25,000 For Successor To Bottomley

Cincinnati paid the Yankee-controlled Newark Internationals $25,000 for George McQuinn, who is to replace Sunny Jim Bottomley, a National league first sacker for 14 seasons.

Others who lingered for quite a spell before fading from the big league picture in 1935 include Frank O'Doul, who twice led senior wheel hitters; Chick Hafey, who topped them once; Willie Kamm, for whom the White Sox paid San Francisco $100,000 in 1922; Bill Cissell, for whom the White Sox gave the Portland Coasters $123,000 in cash and players in 1927; and eagle-eyed Max Bishop, who was released by the Red Sox after a 12-year run in the junior wheel and who supplants Cissell as manager of the Portland club.

Fred Marberry switched to umpiring but contemplates a pitching comeback. Stumpy Sparky Adams; overstuffed Shanty Hogan; Larry Benton, a corking churner before he lost the handcuffs; George Pipgras, who starred with the Yankees; Owen Carroll, once the darling of Holy Cross; Fidgety Phil Collins; Heinie Meine; Alphonse Thomas; and Bobby Burke, the perennial Washington recruit, recruit, were sent on their way.

All of them were not taken by the years, but it took time to throw out the better ones, who were good fellows, when they had it.

MEMPHIS SCHOOL TO QUIT S. I. A. A.

Southwestern To Withdraw At Conference Meeting Tomorrow

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 7.—(AP)—One member of the S. I. A. A., the largest collegiate athletic association in the world, announced today that it would withdraw at the annual meeting which opens here Monday.

Southwestern University of Memphis, member of the Dixie conference, confirmed reports today that it would withdraw from the S. I. A. A. and remain in the smaller body.

Coach Clyde Propst in making the announcement said there seemed to be no need for membership in both organizations with identical rules governing intercollegiate athletic eligibility.

Dr. J. W. Provine of Mississippi college, president of the organization for 15 years said today he knew of "nothing of startling interest to come up."

Commenting on the intention of Southwestern to withdraw, Dr. Provine said, "perhaps there will be others knocking at the door for entrance.

"The general condition of our association is excellent, I think. Of course, we, like all other athletic organizations, are confronted with the question of preserving amateurism in college sport."

The S. I. A. A. is composed of 34 colleges spread from the Virginia border to Texas, and Kentucky to Florida.

It is the parent body of the Southern conference, the Southeastern conference and the Dixie conference.

The Dixie conference meeting will be held here Wednesday, following the S. I. A. A. adjournment Tuesday night.

WHITE SOX TO PLAY GAMES IN MISSISSIPPI

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox, who hope to blossom into pennant contenders next season, will engage in 27 exhibition games, 13 of them with the Pittsburgh Pirates, during their 1936 training tour.

Character Training In Citizenship

There are persons who insist that the men who constitute our legislative bodies, from the congress of the United States down to municipal governing boards, should be well-advanced in age and have independent incomes. In that way, we are told, our law-making problems would be worked out by men with mature minds and with personal incomes of sufficient size to free them from the temptations of bribery.

To such a proposal is raised the objection that this would mean class legislation, since most men of independent means would be capitalistically inclined; and that it would be difficult for them to see things from the viewpoint of the welfare of the masses. Every legislative body, we are told, should be a cross section of our society.

Rule upon rule and law upon law are constantly being advocated and adopted to protect us from the iniquities of our fellows; but somehow the security we seek is never obtained.

The trouble is we are trying to get a spiritual result by mechanical means. We can not do that; it has never been done probably never will be done.

Of course, our laws and regulations, imperfectly administered and observed as they are, have a value. They protect us in a limited way, and save us from conditions that would be worse without them. But no laws we can ever devise will give us security and peace except when and until those laws represent the earnest desire and the cooperation of the public. The prohibition law is a vivid illustration of that fact.

Our only hope of establishing the kind of social order which we want, and which we must have if we are ever to live in reasonable comfort and contentment, is through the proper education of the individual as to his obligations and responsibilities to his fellows and to himself. It is worth infinitely more to the welfare and advancement of the people and the nation than all the conglomeration of studies through which the pupils of today are required to race or ramble.

Academic education, as such, is not enough if we are to have a higher type of citizenship. Education must be implemented by character if it is to accomplish the highest purposes on behalf of the human family. The most highly educated nation has been the world's greatest criminal. Does that prove anything to us? It should prove something that we already ought to know; namely, that proficiency in the sciences, in the arts, and in all things intellectual, has not, of necessity, anything to do with proficiency in things spiritual.

It might seem that the older men should dominate the affairs of a nation; for they have had more experience, they have seen more of life than the rest of the people. But unless they have had sufficient moral training, unless they have been educated and disciplined so that their spiritual faculties have become operative, there is no reason to believe that they will be any more honest and honorable than anybody else.

TEST THAT STRIKES BACK

The "truth serum"—that drug under the influence of which people are supposed to be powerless to tell lies—is generally looked on as a means of bringing the guilty to punishment. A recent case in Oklahoma indicates that it may also serve, occasionally, to protect the innocent.

An Oklahoman told the authorities that his divorced wife and a local justice of the peace had committed a murder 28 years ago. His story seemed plausible and properly detailed, and the two he accused were arrested. Then County Attorney Charles B. Leedy thought of the truth serum—and used it, not on the prisoners, but on their accuser.

This man, as a result, immediately confessed that he had "framed the whole story out of spite." The two prisoners were at once released.

It may be too soon to tell what place this drug will eventually occupy in detection of criminals. But it is encouraging to see that it can be used to keep people out of jail as well as to get people in.

STILL TOILING CHILDREN

It does no harm for us to be reminded that the child labor amendment to the constitution is still pending, and that the abuses against which it is aimed are still in existence.

With all its imperfections in conception and performance, the late lamented NRA did something at least to curb child labor. But the NRA has gone where the woodbine twineth, and the annual report of the national child labor committee, just issued, asserts that child labor conditions now are as bad as they were three years ago.

Wholesale employment of children, says Courtenay Dinwiddie, general secretary of the committee, is "one of the weakest spots in our defenses against an economic breakdown"; and since the former barrier there is down it might be well for us to meditate anew about the possibilities in a constitutional amendment.

More Truth Than Poetry

REGISTERING A PROTEST

(After reading a list of words that the government says we should all be acquainted with.)

I am not fond of fancy talk.
The folks with whom I mingle
Though rich or poor
Do not, I'm sure,
Employ the word "espringal."
I don't know what espringals are.
I do not want to know it.
I am not bright
Or erudite—
I'm just an humble poet.

"Typhonic" is another one
Of which I'm always wary.
The term, to me,
Appears to be
Not very necessary.
It may refer to a typhoon,
But I'm in no position
To say just what,
For I have not
The needful erudition.

And as for idiocrasy,
I'll say just this about it;
I'm rather sure
That rich and poor
Can get along without it.
Let's use the language we like best,
Not what grammarians hand us;
Then we shall know
That high and low
Can always understand us.

Sanctions And The League

By BRUCE CATTON

They tell a story out west about a fly-by-night oil stock artist who got an option on a few thousand acres of used cow-pasture and set out to make a raid on the suckers.

He had great sheaves of stock tastefully engraved and distributed, and just to make it look good he sunk one lone oil well as a concession to appearances. Then, just as he was ready to shear the suckers, his well struck a tremendously rich pool of oil, and before he knew quite what was happening he had become a great oil magnate, a captain of industry, and a multi-millionaire, instead of being just another flim-flam expert trying to beat the sheriff to the train.

If you glance in the direction of Geneva these days, you might find something in the air that would vaguely remind you of that touching little story.

The present round-robin of sanctions against Italy had an uncanny resemblance, right at the start, to the venture of this blue-sky promoter out Oklahoma way. That is, it looked very much as if someone were about to grind a large ax while the people of the world were looking the other way.

The British, who have taken more territory away from semi-civilized races at the point of a gun than any people since the ancient Romans, were raising a high moral issue against Mussolini and trying—with the help of outraged world opinion—to keep him from poaching on British preserves.

But today a queer sort of change has come over the whole picture. Down at the bottom, of course, Britain's self-interest remains unchanged; but the whole performance has somehow taken on a new light. For 52 sovereign nations have fallen into line on the sanctions program and they seem to be taking it very seriously.

In other words, the League of Nations idea is at last beginning to work—to the vast surprise, doubtless, of the cynical diplomats who run the outfit.

Little nations and big nations are sending notes to Rome, pointing out that they have nothing against the Italian people personally, but that the Ethiopian grab is just a little too raw for this modern age and that the pressure will stay on until the grab is abandoned. Italian threats of retaliation fail to have the slightest effect.

After years of disuse, the diplomats trotted out the poor old league—and people are taking it seriously. For people are tired of war, tired of seeing foreign affairs handled in the spirit that a Brooklyn gang handles its relations with competitors from the Bronx; and they do seem to be ready to exercise the sacrifice and intelligence to make the league a real force in world affairs.

It is the most welcome surprise of the whole post-war era.

New Deal In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—The administration probably is brewing a storm for itself in the next congress through its adventures in "neutrality."

Not just because it appears to have taken the worse of two alternatives in its desire to discourage shipments of oil and other raw materials to Italy. Its reason for that choice is being widely construed as an official desire to be in position to use neutrality legislation and sentiment as hole cards with which to play the game of international politics.

Popular support isn't lacking for the idea that the best way to keep out of war is to refrain from exporting war materials to belligerents.

But there will be a large contingent in congress to charge that Roosevelt and Hull should formally have embargoed shipments of oil to Italy and Ethiopia instead of adopting a method so dangerous in its precedent as that of making extra-legal threats to those engaged in the traffic.

Is Oil "War Implement"?

The temporary neutrality act says the president "shall" emgargo "arms, ammunition, and implements of war" when a state of war exists. Secretary Hull has said oil isn't "strictly an implement of war," but could be classed as a "war material."

The dictionary says an implement is "That which fulfills a want or use; especially an instrument, tool, or utensil used by man to accomplish a given work; as the implements of trade, of husbandry, or of war."

Lawyers have been debating whether raw materials, and especially oil and chemicals, could legally be classified as "implements." Opinion is divided.

The chief question raised is whether such definition would stand up in the courts. Many have pointed out that oil is an essential of warfare, an indispensable part of such armament as tanks, battleships, and guns.

Might Bar Aid to Britain

It seems obvious enough that an administration which has adopted a "Damn the torpedoes" attitude toward the courts in its legislation was not deterred by the fear of what the supreme court might decide—long after the present neutrality act expires—when it refused to class oil as an "implement."

And it can hardly blame outsiders who believe that in the back of the minds of Roosevelt and Hull is the fear that some time in the future such a precedent might bar this country from supplying oil to the British navy.

Those who believe it's important to play no favorites point out that this government beat the League of Nations—in whose policy England has played such a big part—to the jump, first when it officially recognized a state of war between Itlay and Ethiopia and, second, when it began to bring powerful pressure against oil exports to Italy before the league laid down an oil embargo.

Looks Bad to Italy

Without some underlying motive, they feel, this government hardly would have placed itself in what seems a more unneutral position than it would have assumed by simply placing oil on the embargo list. The latter course could easily have been defended as a carrying out of the congressional mandate.

But when the administration, without authority of the neutrality or other act, proceeds to discourage trade with belligerents by threats of coercion, the Italians are able to charge unfriendliness and convince their own people of it.

The course chosen has many more seeds of war than the other.

Threats Leave Bad Taste

Some good reason, it is also argued, must also lie behind the extraordinary decision to use the government's power as a creditor to threaten American shipping companies in debt to it by specifically pointing out to each company its debtor position in the same letter which said shipments of war material to Italy or Ethiopia were contrary to government policy.

One needn't be a rabid Republican to realize that such a method could be used to threaten bankers, railroads, insurance companies, home and farm owners and many others who owe the government.

There are many other complexities and conflicts in the neutrality problem, but the chief result of the current experience probably will be to stiffen the backs of those who insist that all neutrality legislation be mandatory on the executive branch.

TECH LIBRARIAN WRITES HISTORICAL PAMPHLET

RUSTON, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—Miss Kathleen Graham, librarian at Louisiana Tech, is the writer of "Notes on a History of Lincoln Parish," just completed by the printing department of the college here.

The pamphlet material was gathered by Miss Graham during the past year. Miss Graham is a life-long resident of Ruston and Vienna, in Lincoln parish, and has made the compilation from personal experience and from sources of parish history.

Included in the booklet are discussions of the social life in former days and religious denominations in the parish, the little town of Vienna, and notes on Louisiana Tech.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

LIVING SON OF A REVOLUTIONARY WAR SOLDIER—William C. Wheeler, of Marshfield, Vermont, 88-year-old veteran of the Civil war, claims to be the only living son of a Revolutionary war soldier. He is the son of Comfort Wheeler, who was born in Rehobeth, Mass., on March 13, 1766, and at the age of 14 enlisted in the army at Shongum, New York, re-enlisting three times. During his last term of service, he was orderly to General Nathaniel Greene.

When Comfort Wheeler was 76 years old, he married Permilia Ainsworth, and it was from this union that William Constant was born on December 4, 1847, at the time his father was 81 years of age.

OPOSSUMS—A litter of 18 opossums will weigh approximately 1-15 of an ounce at birth and can be conveniently lodged in an ordinary teaspoon. The young are born immature and undeveloped and the embryonic state of the opossum lasts only 12 1-2 days. They attach themselves to the mother's pouch for a period of 5-6 weeks, before they are able to move around on their own.

Lights Of New York

By George Ross

NEW YORK,—It's next to impossible to get a Broadway playwright to admit he's lampooning a real-life celebrity.

"First Lady," which Katharine Dayton wrote with George S. Kaufman, lightly disguises Alice Longworth and Dolly Gann, principals in the Washington social feuds, as its two leading characters. But, of course, the authors deny it. When Mrs. Longworth phoned from Washington the other day to ask about it, she was told that the show dealt with the brightest, most beautiful women in the Capitol. She said "Thank you" and hung up.

Another new Broadway smash-hit, "Boy Meets Girl," is about those two bad boys of Hollywood, Ben Hecht and Charlie MacArthur, and reveals their boyish pranks in the picture colony. Of course, this is vehemently denied by Sam and Bella Spewack (husband and wife), who wrote it. But when I saw Ben Hecht talking about the show the other evening, he was saying, "It can't be about us," with a smile.

Celebrities are taking their worst beating in Moss Hart and Cole Porter's "Jubilee" in which Johnny Weismuller is faintly concealed as Charlie Reismuller when people aren't calling him Mowgli. There are also laughs at the expense of Elsa Maxwell, Park Avenue's social arbiter. Noel Coward and any king or queen you might care to mention. We also still have with us "Personal Appearance," which rakes a movie siren over the coals, but the none-too-bright heroine could be plenty of motion picture Shebas.

Chorus Qualifications

The difference between an old-fashioned and new, streamlined chorus girl, according to Tom Weatherly, producer of musical shows, is plenty. Mr. Weatherly, hiring chorines for his new Illustrators' Review, demands these ten specifications from a lady of the ensemble:

She must be able to do simple stage and tap dancing. She must have distinctive personality. She must wear clothes with chic. She must be slender and perfectly proportioned. She must be intelligent. She must not be less than five feet three inches tall or more than five feet six. She must have undyed hair. No synthetic blondes, red-heads or what-have-you need apply. She must be vivacious. She must not have a vulgar or raucous voice. She must be a lady.

The last condition is the hardest.

Fashion Plate

New York and Hollywood clothiers can war to the finish about the Ten Best Dressed Men of America. But the best dressed man I've seen consistently well-groomed is Earl Benham, a tailor. He makes clothes to order for James J. Walker, William Gaxton, Adolphe Menjou and other sartorial notables.

Still the most inviolable sign in New York is the one that says "Men's Bar" across the threshold of the Men's Bar at the Waldorf-Astoria. Oscar of the Waldorf tells me that only three obstinate ladies have tried to crash through the sacred portals during the past year. They were politely edged out.

Whatever gentlemen may prefer outside of drinking hours, they like the Bar to themselves. Legends of the fabulous deals arranged in the Men's Bar of the old Waldorf, are being repeated in the new masculine sanctum. Market pools are formed over old-fashioneds and mergers are broached over rye highballs. For lighter recreation, the men can sit around and play chess or backgammon while watching the stock ticker. And they even have their own kitchen to serve them.

Bloomin' Stranger

And that reminds me of the fellow who sauntered into the florist's shop of a Park Avenue hotel and ordered enough gardenias to make, as he said, "a good-sized blanket." The salesman didn't even blink an eyelash because Park avenue florists get accustomed to anything. But then the customer left word with the florist that four seamstresses were to come up to his suite and sew the gardenias into a blanket by 8 o'clock that evening. Well, Park avenue florists hadn't heard an order like that one before and repeated it to make sure. The customer said he was serious.

And at 8 o'clock that evening, four seamstresses finished their task of sewing a couple of hundred gardenias into a blanket covering a six foot bed in the gentleman's apartment. The stranger paid the bill, which came to $400, tipped the sewing machine girls and sent them about their business. Were you waiting for the pay-off to this story? There isn't any. Nobody has yet satisfactorily explained the mystery of the gardenia blanket.

PITCHFORK STABS BRIDE

Dropped by a fellow worker on the top of a load of hay, a pitchfork pierced the heart of twenty-three-year-old Tine Menninger, killing her instantly near Untervolmau, North Bavaria. She had been married only three weeks before, and from the ground was helping to load hay on the family farm.

ONE MILL OF TAX IS GIVEN BACK TO MARION RESIDENTS

MARION, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—At the regular December meeting of the town officials of Marion, it was decided to refund to the taxpayers of the town one mill of the seven mills levied as taxes for the year 1935. For the past several years this practice has been followed, not more than six mills having ever been collected.

The town owes no bonds and has no indebtedness of any kind, the year 1935 being closed with all bills paid, a small balance in the treasury and the year's taxes due.

During the past few years expenses of the town have been drastically reduced, the salaries of all employes being cut, in some instances more than 50 per cent, the governing authorities taking the position that even though assessments have been declining, the town was not going into debt, but rather would reduce expenses in accordance with the revenue received. Only three parcels of property in the town have been adjudicated to the town for taxes during the past several years.

The town officials are: B. K. Watson, mayor; Roy B. Bird, J. A. Kyle and K. S. Thompson, aldermen; D. C. Simmons, marshal.

RUSTON, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—Louisiana Tech will be represented by at least one student and probably more delegates at the twelfth quadriennial convention of the student volunteer movement convention to be held in Indianapolis December 28 to January 1.

Religious organizations at the college have selected the following five students as possible representatives: Alice Daimwood, Monroe; Al Lyons, Shreveport; Nan Morgan, Ruston; Aloyse Wall, Epps, and Bonnie Sue Rector, Collinston.

The convention will be attended by delegates from all over the world, and talks will be made by several speakers of international importance.

YOUTH TRIED ON MURDER CHARGE GETS ACQUITTAL

BASTROP, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—Robert McDougall, 20, of Morehouse parish, was acquitted yesterday of the charge of murdering Derwood Causey, his 16-year-old friend, who, it was alleged, he had killed in a quarrel over a girl.

The jury deliberated the case five hours and brought in the "not guilty" verdict at 9 o'clock Friday night.

CYPRESS SCHOOL PLANS CAKE WALK, PIE SUPPER

A cake walk and pie supper will be given at the Cypress grade school, ward 9, next Friday, December 13, at 7:30 p.m. The purpose of the entertainment is to raise funds for the school playground, first aid equipment and library. An invitation to attend is extended to the public.

INDUSTRIAL AND REVIEW OF THE TWIN CITIES

PLANT REWINDS AUTO GENERATORS

Monroe Armature Works Buys Used Starters, Switches And Motors

Aside from the industrial field, the Monroe Armature works at 2019 DeSiard street does all kinds of automobile generator rewinding.

They specialize in rewinding starters of all makes and models of cars and also generators. Estimates will gladly be given on these kinds of jobs M. S. Harrison, president of the concern, said.

Another part of the business of the Monroe Armature works is the buying of used starters, switches and motors. These used items are reconditioned and put back into first class shape and are offered for sale to the public.

The firm caters largely to the industrial electrical work. Repairs on electrical motors, motor rewinding, control apparatus and supplies and power equipment are the specialties of the Monroe Armature works. The plant does not solicit house wiring or general automobile wiring jobs except for rewinding starters and generators.

The local concern employs only thoroughly skilled men and the class of work turned out is of the highest. Mr. Harrison has operated the local plant for eight years and in all he has been in the business for 15 years. At present he employs two experienced assistants.

Often the Monroe Armature works is called upon to enter the engineering field, such as rewinding motors for new speeds and changing motors to operate under new conditions. They are thoroughly capable of handling such jobs as their many satisfied clients will testify.

The installation of industrial motors and the rewiring of large industrial plants, sawmills, etc., are done by the local concern.

Mr. Harrison welcomes any inquiries concerning electrical work and he will gladly furnish estimates on any jobs and there is no obligation.

PRINCE TO SELL CLEANERS

Prince Bertil, third son of the Crown Prince of Sweden, is to become a vacuum cleaner salesman, according to reports received in Stockholm. He will shortly leave the Swedish navy and after being attached to the Swedish naval attache in Paris for a month will enter the vacuum cleaner firm.

SEVEN TIE FOR U. S. 'HEALTHIEST'

Even the judges gave up when they tried to pick America's healthiest boy and girl from this group, so they decided to award blue ribbons to all seven. The robust septet were winners in the 4-H club contest held annually at the international livestock show in Chicago and they're celebrating with deep draughts from their favorite beverage, milk. Left to right are Howard Cobb, 18, Greene, N. Y.; Eloise Garrett, 15, Uriah, Ala.; Fred Abel, 20, Gadsden, Ala.; Marion McLaughlin, 15, Trenary, Mich.; Alton Riffle, 20, Pleasant Hill, Mo.; June Castine, 15, Ridgeway, S. Beer In Cans Proves Popular As It Does Away With Return Of Bottles

The success of Stough's bar in Hotel Monroe is more than gratifying to the owner, Harry Stough. Although the bar has been in operation a little over eight months an excellent business has been enjoyed.

Mr. Stough personally operates the bar and he is an expert in his line.

All the well known brands of liquors, wines and beers are sold and a specialty of package goods at attractive prices is featured.

Mixed drinks of the finest ingredients are served at this well-known place. Expert "mixologists" make sure that you will get the correctly proportioned and best in mixed drinks.

Beer in cans was introduced in Monroe by Stough's bar. The most famous is Pabst's Export and it can be served in the can or in glasses. Now beer can be taken out and there are no bottles to be returned. This new way to handle beer has met the approval of the public and is in great demand.

Stough's popularity is shown by the large number of patrons. A visit to the Hotel Monroe bar will be found most enjoyable, and friends will tell you that it is the friendliest place in town.

MEETING HELD BY CHEVROLET MEN

New Orleans Branch Managers Point Out Sales Plan For Coming Year

A special meeting of all Northeast Louisiana Chevrolet dealers with the executives of the Chevrolet branch office in New Orleans was held at the Lee-Rogers Chevrolet company here.

Talks of points of interest concerning the 1936 Chevrolet were made by the visiting men. The extensive sales program of the Chevrolet company was presented and each of the dealers were shown the part they would have to play in the 1936 program.

Thirty dealers from this territory attended the meeting. Jack Rogers represented the local dealers.

Those who attended from the New Orleans office were: W. V. Shell, New Orleans zone branch manager; C. E. Humphrey, assistant manager; T. E. Towlls, manager of General Motors acceptance branch; R. R. Saunders, sales manager; T. Fischback, service manager; R. T. Freimuth, parts and accessories manager; P. Poffenburger, manager of truck division; L. S. Dehring, business manager; O. D. Ferrill, local district manager; D. L. Harris, local representative General Motors Acceptance Corp.

The new Chevrolet embodies marked advances in styling, engineering, and performance. Outstanding among the many new features of both the Master and Standard models for 1936 are perfected hydraulic brakes; improved engines have higher compression ratio, ballanced carburetor, and full length water jacketing.

Front doors of all models of both lines are hinged at the front.

Body interiors of the Master models show marked advances in comfort and style. An important innovation is found in the design of the front seating arrangement of the Master coach and town sedan. Instead of the usual divided and hinged front seat of the two-door models, a single seat cushion extends the full width of the car, permitting three passengers to ride comfortably.

Rain 'Serves Up' Fish As Stream Overflows

DUNDEE, Ky., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Residents of this community are eating lots of fish these days.

Heavy rains caused the Rough river to rise so high that finny inhabitants of the stream were carried over the main part of the dam here instead of passing downstream via the spillway provided for that purpose. Dawn found more than a thousand pounds of fish struggling on the rocks below the dam.

Residents flocked to the scene and carted away the fish in baskets, boxes and wagons.

Navy's Flagship Boasts 'Quintuplet' Sailor Unit

LONG BEACH, Calif., Dec. 7.—(AP)—The navy's flagship Pennsylvania has its "Cowdrey unit" to rival the Dionne quintuplets.

The unit is composed of five Cowdrey brothers from Virden, Ill., all of whom are serving as gobs on the ship—Paul, Burmen, Harry, Charlie and Manley.

Another brother, Orville, still a high school sophomore, plans to enlist in the navy some day and serve on the same ship as the other five.

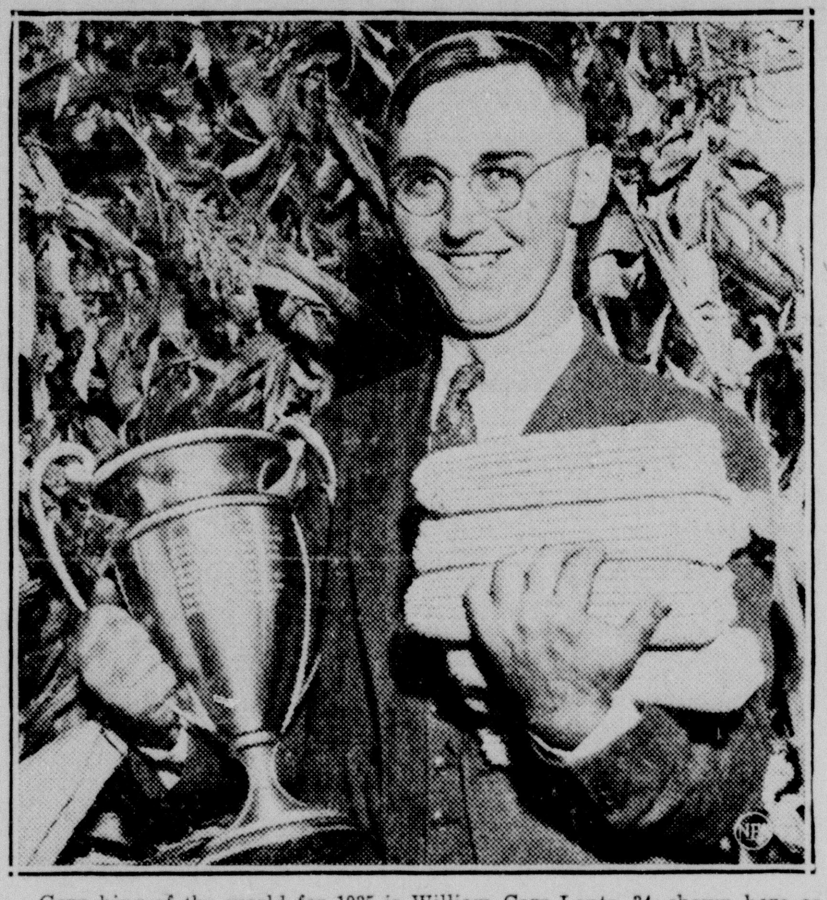
CROWNED CORN KING OF WORLD



Corn king of the world for 1935 is William Carr Lentz, 34, shown here as he proudly holds the trophy emblematic of the championship, won at the hay and grain show of the international livestock exposition in Chicago. The title was awarded him for his display of Johnson county white corn, samples of which he is holding, raised on his farm near Jeffersonville, Ind.

PLATE LUNCH IS FEATURE OF DIXIE

Tasty Original Sandwiches Are Served By Local Restaurant

The Dixie Sandwich shop at 407 Walnut features a chicken dinner every day for 25 cents. The order includes chicken and two vegetables. Popular prices prevail on all orders.

Oysters are served in the various styles and they are received daily from the gulf.

Tom Leos, operator of the establishment, features many kinds of sandwiches which he originates himself. Among some of them is the Dixie special which is sold for 15 cents. The double deck hamburger is another feature at 10 cents. Fine barbeque is kept at all times.

Ice cold beer is kept in bottles. A mechanical refrigeration system is used to keep drinks ice cold.

For those who wish to be served in their car, there is plenty of parking space, and curb service is a part of the service offered by Mr. Leos.

Inside Mr. Leos has built-in booths to seat many of his customers. Excellent service is rendered at all times.

The Dixie Sandwich shop is conveniently located near the downtown area on one of the main streets of Monroe. It is ideally situated for those who desire supper or lunch.

Mr. Leos welcomes the patronage of the citizens of the Twin Cities and offers his excellent service to them.

LARGE NUMBER OF CONTEST FOLDERS GIVEN BY ST. JOHN

Everyone is entering the contest at St. John Electric company. Two hundred and fifty of the official contest folders which are necessary to enter the contest have been given out at the electric company. The contest is only started, as the deadline is midnight December 24, 1935.

The award of the contest is a beautiful new Kelvinator which will be given to the person writing the best letter on "why I want a Kelvinator for Christmas." It is now on display at the St. John Electric company and all contestants are invited to see the new model and let a salesman explain the various features which will help everyone in writing the letter.

Local judges will be selected and they will consider neatness, sincerity and the practical reasons advanced in selecting the winner.

To enter the contest, the contestant must first get an official contest folder, which will be furnished free to anyone. Then write a letter of not less than 100 words on "why you want a Kelvinator for Christmas." Send or bring it to the St. John Electric company before midnight December 24, 1935.

H. A. St. John of the concern stated that the contest was open to everyone without cost or obligation. For further details go to St. John Electric company.

Markets--Financial

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Small net gains of 1 to 2 points were marked up today by cotton futures in the quiet week-end session on the market here today.

The volume of business was limited and consisted largely of evening up operations in preparation for the government's crop report to be announced Monday.

There was little important selling in the market and available contracts were absorbed by the trade.

Speculative interests was almost entirely lacking.

December closed at 11.90, March two points higher at 11.58, May one point higher at 11.50 and October was up nominally at 11.25.

Outside news developments were lacking today and a waiting attitude was apparent among nearly all traders.

Cotton futures closed steady at net advances of 1 to 2 points.

BIDS ASKED BY STATE FOR OLLA-SIKES ROAD

JENA, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—One of the most important road links in this section of the state is being advertised by the Louisiana state highway commission for grading and surfacing. It is the Olla-Sikes highway located in LaSalle and Winn parishes and it covers a distance of 11.464 miles.

Citizens of the Olla community have been asking for this road for some time and they point out that it will fill a long-felt need, as there is much farming land in that section which has had no outlet to markets.

The highway commission is also advertising for bids on the Grayson highway, located in Caldwell and La Salle parishes.

These two highways make the fifth "farm-to-market" roads the highway commission has advertised in the parish. Other projects are the Nebo-White Hall, Jena-Routon and Rosefield-Antioch roads.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Stocks rallied today under the leadership of merchandising and metal issues.

A number of new highs for the past several years were recorded with gains ranging from fractions to 2 or more points. Trading, quiet at the start, picked up speed in the final hour. The close was firm. Transfers approximated 1,200,000 shares.

As a market influence the foreign situation appeared to be about a stand-off, but the tension of the past several days apparently was not so pronounced.

Speculative and investment sentiment evidently turned to the bullish side of equities as the domestic economic picture continued to grow brighter.

A number of low-priced shares were again lively performers for a time at small advances. Scattered "blue chips" came into prominence at the tail-end of the proceedings.

Grains were inclined to sag during the greater part of the day and cotton was hesitant. Bonds were steady. The gold currencies, including the French franc, held their own and sterling improved.

Shares of Coca-Cola got up around 7 points and lesser advances were registered by Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, McCrory Stores, Remington Rand, Eastman Kodak, International Nickel, Anaconda, Cerro de Pasco, American Smelting, Howe Sound, Case, American Can, Adams Express, Chrysler, General Motors, Young Spring & Wire, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Telephone, Western Union, Consolidated Gas, North American, Postal Telegraph, N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Douglas Aircraft and United Aircraft.

Strength exhibited by scattered stocks was attributed largely to buying on expectations of generous disbursements. During the week there were 68 favorable dividend announcements against only 1 unfavorable.

Brokers reported an increase in cash purchases with an expansion of orders from the west.

HEAD OF COLLEGE ATTACKS DRINKING

Virginian Says Professors Got Drunk, Cursed in Class Rooms

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Dr. J. W. Cammack, president of Averett college, says in the current issue of the Religious Herald that he has a "first hand" report of a state college president who while making a public speech gave "distinct evidence of being under the influence of liquor."

From another institution, he said, came reports of professors cursing in classrooms, from still another of professors coming to class under the influence of liquor and from another source came a story of college professors getting so drunk at a president's reception that they were not able to drive their automobiles safely.

The charges against the four unnamed institutions were contained in a paragraph of a column written by Dr. Cammack: "News and Notes from Here and There."

"On my desk," he wrote, "is a letter from a student in one of our Virginia state schools. The letter says in part: 'The cold atmosphere here would freeze any ordinary religious nature. It is tragic. The professors curse in class, and say that religion is a hindrance to civilization.' The same week this letter came another state school student regretted to say that some of her teachers came in class under the influence of liquor. The week before this a report comes, first hand, that a Virginia state school president invited his faculty to a reception in his home and liquor was flowing freely, and some teachers left in such condition that it was not safe to drive an auto."

Governor Peery, told of the charges voiced by Dr. Cammack, said he would not ask "an investigation of just general rumors."

"It seems to me," the chief executive said, "that when a man makes charges of that kind he should have the facts to support them."

Saying that was the first intimation of any such conditions as alleged by Dr. Cammack, Governor Peery said the Averett college president should have made "specific charges" rather than to confine his article to hearsay.

CAMPUS LEADERS CHOSEN AT TECH

Students Are Elected For 'Who's Who' Section Of 'Lagniappe'

RUSTON, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—By vote of a faculty-student committee, 14 campus leaders have been chosen for the "Who's Who" section of the Lagniappe, Louisiana Tech annual. The winners, including seven women students and seven men students, are as follows:

Women—Jean Craighead, Athens; Sara Ellen Cooper, Mansfield; Nan Morgan, Ruston; Alice Daimwood, Monroe; Jo Ellen Posey, Ruston; Llewellyn Breed, Ruston; and Mabel Camp, Haynesville.

Men—Jack Thigpen, Ruston; Carroll Thomas, Ruston; Madison Brooks, Rhinehart; Billy Mitchell, Ruston; Harold Fincher, Mansfield; Clare Clark, Mer Rouge, and Billy Lewis, Ruston.

Sixty-one students, including only juniors and seniors, were nominated for the honor by members of the committee. Following the nominations each member of the committee voted by secret ballot for seven boys and seven girls separately.

In both the voting for the men and women students, there were ties for seventh place. The seventh winner in each case, therefore, is the student elected in separate voting upon the tied nominees.

Members of the committee making the selections included the following: Faculty—A. W. Ford, Dr. H. L. Hughes, J. T. Folk, Mrs. H. J. Sachs, Dr. Gustaf Freden, Miss Miriam Moss and Miss Helen Graham. Fraternity and sorority; Llewellyn Breed, Ruston; Mary Alice Cheatwood, Ruston; Dola Green, Hico; Billy Lewis, Ruston; J. E. Thompson, McComb, Miss., and Clare Clark, Mer Rouge. Unorganized representatives—Herman McKinney, Winnfield; Harper Lyles, Ruston; W. D. Holmes, Winnfield; Dean Brown, Doyline; Robbie Crane, Ruston; and Ethel Turner, Ruston.

Searching Out Tuberculosis

Simple, harmless and painless though it is, the tuberculin test is a reliable means of discovering whether germs are in the body. The girl above is receiving the test. It consists simply of the injection of a drop of harmless liquid, called tuberculin, under the upper layer of skin on the forearm. If a red spot appears there by the following day it indicates that tubercle bacilli, the germs that cause tuberculosis, have obtained a foothold in the body. This does not mean that disease exists, but an X-ray picture should be taken to discover whether any harm has been done to the lungs and to what extent. If active disease is present the child should be placed in a sanatorium immediately. Tuberculin tests among school children to help discover the disease in its early and curable stage are one of the most important projects conducted by tuberculosis associations throughout the country. Such work is paid for by Christmas Seal funds.

NEW BREAD MADE BY CONCERN HERE

Pimiento Cheese Loaf Popular Product Of Iron Mountain Bakery

A distinctly new bread, "Holsum Pimiento Cheese Bread," was placed on the market in the Twin Cities and northeast Louisiana Friday by the Iron Mountain Bakery, 508 Harrison street, and immediately became one of the most popular breads ever produced by a baking establishment here.

The bread is one of a variety of special breads offered the public by the Iron Mountain Bakery on designated days, it was stated by William E. Bennett, manager of the establishment. Holsum Pimiento cheese Bread will be on sale in retail stores on Tuesdays and Fridays.

Beginning next Wednesday, the bakery will place on sale in retail stores in northeast Louisiana a special new loaf to be known as "Holsum Raisin Bread." This bread will be available at the stores on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Mr. Bennett and the staff of the Iron Mountain Bakery were more than pleased with the reception given Holsum Pimiento Cheese Bread by the public.

Several types of cheese breads have been produced here in the past, but never before had a pimiento cheese bread been made locally, according to Mr. Bennett. One of the reasons for this was that pimientos and cheese, because of their weight, retard the fermentation or rising of the loaves before baking. A special blend of flour was obtained by Mr. Bennett for the new loaf. American cheese and canned pimientos are used with the flour and a highly satisfactory loaf is produced.

HOME IS MRS. BORAH'S FIRST JOY

Though her 27 years in Washington have made her one of the best-known figures in capital society circles, Mrs. Mary McConnell Borah, like her distinguished senator-husband, rates her home and books above the social life. Here, in her capital apartment, the daughter of a former Idaho governor is pictured in her favorite company, a book and the portrait of her distinguished husband, who is being boomed as possible presidential nominee.

Maintenance Of Medical Society Standing Is Aim

Dr. J. H. Pankey, New Parish Group President, Takes Up Duties

The Ouachita Parish Medical society, which has for years held an important place in the Louisiana State Medical society, entered another fiscal year of its history during the past week when officers were elected at an annual meeting. Dr. J. H. Pankey, the new president, in an interview yesterday outlined some of the objectives of his office for the year and reviewed some of the honors which have been earned by members of the society in the state and nation.

Pointing out that the Ouachita Parish Medical society's membership of 52 physicians and surgeons includes virtually every practitioner in the parish eligible for membership, Dr. Pankey said one of his principal objectives as president of the society will be to maintain its membership standing in the state organization. This will give support to the state society, aiding in maintaining its standing and representation in the American Medical association.

The parish medical society's virtual 100 per cent record in membership alone shows an active organization, as the state membership average is only about 50 per cent.

Fellowship as a factor for aiding in the continuance of the parish society's membership standing, also is to figure prominently in Dr. Pankey's activities as president, he said.

Another of the prime objectives of Dr. Pankey will be to work towards making a strong Monroe bid for the 1937 convention of the Louisiana State Medical society. The convention customarily is alternately held at New Orleans one year and at some other city in the state the following year. In 1936 the convention will be held at New Orleans.

Dr. Pankey listed among the honors earned by members of the parish society the following: Dr. C. P. Gray, Sr., is president of the Louisiana State Medical society; Dr. John G. Snelling is retiring president of the Fifth District Medical society; Dr. J. Q. Graves is the Louisiana delegate to the American Medical association convention; Dr. J. B. Vaughan is councillor of the state medical society; the Ouachita Parish Medical society, in proportion to population, has a greater number of surgeons accepted as fellows of the American College of Surgeons than any other parish.

The Ouachita Parish Medical society, from the beginning of its history, has been actively identified with movements for the advancement of the standards of the profession. The late Dr. I. J. Newton years ago saw enacted as state legislation a movement in which he was associated as a leader and which had had far reaching results. The legislation requires high qualifications of persons admitted to medical and surgical practice, including graduation from a medical college or university.

Dr. Pankey will have associated with him in his work in the parish organization two other new officers, Dr. C. U. Johnson, vice-president, and Dr. Ralph Talbot, secretary-treasurer.

COMPLETE DIRT LEVEE SYSTEM

West Monroe Link Is Finished By Contracting Firm

Jones and Bland, contractors, Saturday completed the construction of the earth levee which extends from LaZarre's point to the old traffic bridge at Coleman avenue in West Monroe.

This construction is the final link in the West Monroe levee system which starts north of McGuire park and extends to Claiborne street, where it connects with a cement levee wall. On the south the levee wall extends from the traffic bridge to a point beyond the southern city limits and thence west to a point south of the plant of the Brown paper mill and into the highlands north of Bawcomville.

The levee wall from Claiborne street to the traffic bridge is being built of cement over steel piling driven deep into the ground in similar manner to the walls on South Grand street on the Monroe side of the river.

It is said that the last levee wall in West Monroe to be constructed will be that between the old and new traffic bridges.

A pumping plant near Black bayou will complete the flood control project for West Monroe. This will operate to remove surface water and convey it into the river.

GOLSON OIL TEST WILL BE ABANDONED

The third test of the American Liberty Oil company's Golson No. 1 well, located in section 25-71-1 east, resulted in salt water yesterday afternoon, and the well will be abandoned.

The test was a try for production from 16 feet of sand at 5,216 feet, and was swabbed yesterday after cement plug was drilled from 5,187 to 5,216 feet.

COUPLE TO BE MARRIED AT WATERPROOF CHURCH

HARRISONBURG, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—Mr. and Mrs. William W. Stripling announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Anna Louise, and Joseph Testa, Jr. The ceremony will be performed at the Presbyterian church in Waterproof next Thursday at 3:30 p.m. Rev. R. L. McRaney, the pastor, will officiate.

A number of pre-nuptial parties are to be given in honor of the bride early in the week.

BIBLE CLASS AND MEN'S CLUB HOLD JOINT MEET

Sixty members of the Frank P. Stubbs Memorial Bible class and the Men's club of the First Presbyterian church attended a joint gathering of the two organizations held Friday night in the cafeteria fo Neville High school. A chicken gumbo supper was served by ladies of the Presbyterian church, following which an interesting program of music, dialogues and fun stunts was presented. One of the hilarious episodes was a "mysic" feature given by R. M. Troy, impersonating a clairvoyant. Prizes were awarded to the members of the group giving the largest number of correct answers to a series of definitions describing the various men in the group.

"Chick" Foster presided as toastmaster, assisted by D. Curtis Seamon, president of the Men's club, and R. M. Troy, president of the Bible class. Mr. and Mrs. Gauschell gave instrumental and vocal duets. Leon Hammond directed community singing. Dr. Charles E. Kenney was chairman of the committee on arrangements.

GUM TAKEN FROM ORANGES

Pectin, a gelatin used for gum, has been extracted from the white inner skin of oranges by Dr. M. Bergmann, a German-Jewish professor at the Daniel Sieff institute in Rehoboth, Palestine. The discovery is considered of great commercial value and it is expected to cause a revolution in the orange by-products market. Potatoes have until now been used in Jerusalem to produce pectin.

WIDE SPLITS MAY OCCUR IN FIGHT FOR PRESIDENCY

on measures under attack in time to have congress at this session reconsider any invalidated. The asserted intent is to seek the same objectives in laws that will weather the court.

This practical challenge may be elaborated by Mr. Roosevelt in his address to the American farm bureau federation at Chicago Monday. The importance of AAA in administration policy, and favor it has, enjoyed among farmers, is well known.

Should it be outlawed, the likelihood of party splits on the farm question would have to be considered anew. If sustained, Republican disagreement over it may threaten party solidarity the more. The leadership is deferring attempts to get a farm plank on paper until the supreme court speaks.

The extent to which the G. O. P. accords with the anti-New Deal "platform" of the industrial spokesmen may afford a measure of conservative-liberal alignments. President Green of the American Federation of Labor, for example, predicted "labor and all its friends" would support Roosevelt if the opposition subscribes to the organized business credo.

He will have more to think about in a day or two. The lawyers committee of the American Liberty league is expected to publish a report on the Guffey law through which the bituminous industry is controlled by the tax arm. Its first report considered the Wagner law for settlement of labor disputes to be unconstitutional.

EASTERN STAR CHAPTER AT DELHI INSTITUTED

DELHI, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—The recently organized Lee Emmett Thomas chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star, of Delhi, held its first initiation service Friday night with 11 women being inducted and one other petition for membership being received.

Visitors were present from six other chapters, the Dixie Lee and Louise L. McGuire chapters of Monroe; Bethel chapter of Rayville, Clarks and Haynesville chapters and Clayton chapter of Clayton, New Mexico.

The chapter was instituted by Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Agate, of Lafayette, worthy grand patron and worthy grand matron.

Following the initiation refreshments were served to about 80 persons.

The federal district court for Massachusetts upheld the levy but the circuit court of appeals at Boston ruled that the entire act was unconstitutional. Money raised by the tax is used to pay farmers who curtail acreage planted in basic farm products.

The government will be represented Monday by Solicitar General Stanley Reed, who expects to talk two hours in contending that the legislation is necessary to promote the "general welfare" of the United States.

George Wharton Pepper, former Republican senator from Pennsylvania, will lead the legislation constitutes an invalid delegation of power and does not directly affect interstate commerce. These were the grounds on which the court unanimously upset NRA.

The oral arguments will start late in the day after the court announces decisions in some of the 44 cases that are ready for final action.

On Tuesday, after the Hoosac case is submitted, the court will hear arguments on validity of the Bankhead cotton control act through which the government taxes the ginning of cotton produced in excess of allotment quotas.

The petition of Louisiana rice millers for a permanent injunction against paying processing taxes under the amnded AAA will be argued December 16 and a case involving validity of the Tennessee Valley act December 19.

ELLIS H. PARKER SAID TO BELIEVE BRUNO INNOCENT

that Hauptmann's prosecutors know "just where I stand" on the famous case.

Parker made his assertion in confirming Governor Harold G. Hoffman's statement that the famous detective had conferred with him a number of times on the case. In these conferences, the governor said, Parker voiced his belief Hauptmann was not guilty of the Lindbergh kidnap murder.

Official sources countered quickly. A high authority disclosed Parker on the eve of the Flemington trial told prosecution and investigating officials he was convinced of the Bronx carpenter's guilt and that he had no evidence in the case.

Meanwhile speculation flared anew on the governor's nocturnal visit to Hauptmann's death house cell, for it was recalled that on October 28, eleven days afterwards, the governor, in a formal statement, outlined the procedure for the condemned man's electrocution, "when and if" it takes place.

This statement directed that only a limited number of witnesses be present and the execution be carried out "with the dignity and the solemnity the occasion warrants."

The day brought other developments:

Governor Hoffman emphasized Parker's activity did not mean he had reopened the case; denied the new investigation had brought arrests; refused to assay the value of the information he has received from the detective; declined to discuss his own opinions in the case, and said his interest was not "a publicity stunt."

Parker, in the statement issued at Mt. Holly, threw no light on his sole investigation or the results it may have achieved. "The case is on review before the United States supreme court and perhaps will come up before the board of pardons. It would be unethical for me to speak at this time," he said.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, father of the murdered child, the New York Post said in a copyrighted article, does not take the Parker theory seriously because it is unsupported by tangible evidence. Lindbergh is "morally certain Hauptmann did a one-man job," the newspaper said.

Associates of Parker, corroborating the governor's statement, quoted the detective as saying: "Bruno Hauptmann will not die in the electric chair" and "Hauptmann is innocent of the Lindbergh kidnaping." One associate said Parker was "upset" by the "premature publicity" given his activities.

Hoffman's death house visit to Hauptmann drew sharp criticism in the editorial columns of some state papers. The expression "politico-publicity" was used to describe the latest turn in event in the Lindbergh case. One paper called the visit "most abhorrent" and a "stunt, more adapted to the circus ring, than to the governorship." Another spoke of "superficial publicity seeking and a gubernatorial flare for Broadway theatricals."

Some Mt. Holly residents observed that six unsolved homicide cases have accumulated in the county during the time that Parker, chief of the county detectives, reputedly has been engaged in the Lindbergh investigation.

Senator A. Harry Moore, the state's chief executive when the crime occurred, bluntly denied Governor Hoffman's assertion he had brought Parker into the case at the outset.

"Whatever work Parker has done on this case has been done as a free-lance investigator," he said.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz, chief of the Flemington trial prosecution, and Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, state police superintendent who directed the kidnap investigation, refused comment on the latest events.

Parker, veteran of the solution of a score of baffling mysteries, kept in seclusion throughout the day and issued his statement through his secretary.

"What Governor Hoffman says about me talking to him about this case is true. Long before he was governor we discussed the proposition, and several times since. I have also told the attorney general of the state exactly what I thought about it so there is no misunderstanding as to just where I stand."

The detective said he had asked state police for information only once and he was refused. Governor Hoffman had said previously he understood state police "blocked" Parker.

The conference at which Parker was quoted as saying he believed Hauptmann guilty was a "showdown," a high authority informed the Associated Press. "We were tired of hearing about Parker and all the important information he was supposed to have on the case."

The meeting took place in the attorney general's office here, but as far as could be learned Wilentz himself was not present. Assistant Attorney General Robert Peacock, a member of the prosecution, Lieut. Arthur Keaten, of the state police, other legal and police officials and stenographers were present, the official said. It was a month before the Hauptmann trial started.

Peacock, the official said, offered Parker all the men he needed and all the resources of the state police for his investigation.

Parker was then asked, the official said, just what information he had, and his reply was:

"Frankly, I haven't got a single lead and furthermore I am convinced Hauptmann was the man."

from Alaska to destroy New York and Chicago and return to their base. And this country is without means of preventing such an attack.

THE JAPANESE have learned much from the west since Admiral Perry opened the doors of Japan, invited her to come out and look around. She has mastered western science, eclipsed western industry, in low-cost production, made herself the military equal of the west on land, at sea and in the air.

Japan has also learned from the west that when you get tired of treaties you tear them up.

England, leading Uncle Sam by the hand as an obedient little boy is led, reminds Japan of the "nine-power Chinese integrity treaty."

JAPAN SAYS, "Yes," but that's old. Conditions change. It is time to recognize the dominating position of Japan in China.

This country, having abandoned her Philippine territory to Japan, should not worry about Japan's activity in Asia.

It may worry our British friends with their 300,000,000 Asiatic subjects in India and her Island empire of Australia and New Zealand, lying under Japan's shadow.

AN OFFICIAL representative of Russia said to this writer not long since: "We have nothing to fear from Japan. They waited three years too long." While Japan was waiting Russia established a great submarine and air base at Vladivostok within short striking distance of everything Japanese.

Since then Japan and Russia have got along peacefully. This country may suddenly wake up to find problems on its hands more important than any collection of initials or any theory on how to make everybody happy on short notice.

JAPAN KNOWS the airplane's value. John Goette, from Peiping, writes: "To the constant accompaniment of the droning motors of Japanese army bombing and pursuit planes flying overhead, Chinese War Minister Ho Ying-Ching and members of his entourage conferred with representative of Gen. Kenji Doihara, Japanese chief of military intelligence in China, and Col. Tan Takahashi, military attache of Japan's Peiping legation."

It is a great advantage to have your bombing and pursuit planes "droning" overhead when you discuss important matters on the ground.

relations squarely on his shoulders," said General Isogai.

(Authoritative quarters in Peiping predicted a new North China administrative organization, approved by Nanking, the Japanese and North China leaders, would soon be established

"A compromise agreement on the autonomy issue has been reported reached between Gen. Ho Ying-Ching, barring unforeseen developments, said officials in Peiping, the crisis has been solved).

PITIFUL APPEALS ARE MADE FOR AID

he gets work just once in a while." He writes that his brother is eight and his sister five and that neither can go to school because they have no warm clothes. "I have tried to get a little work to do to buy some clothes but I can't find anything to do," he explains, and ends his letter with an urgent plea that clothes and shoes be given so they can attend school regularly.

One little girl writes:

"Dear Santa Claus: I want a kiddie car and some doll clothes and a pair of doll shoes. I will be a good girl."

Another recites: "Dear Good Fellows: Thought I would write you a line or two to see if you will help me during Christmas. We don't have any job or anything. Anything will be appreciated."

A friend writes in behalf of some neighbors stating that the needs of three little boys, Johnnie, 3, Billy, 4, and Tommie, 2, are likely to be passed by at the holiday season unless someone comes to their assistance.

Letters are stacked high on the desk of the Good Fellows and could the general public read these there would be no need to seek further for funds, for their hearts would be moved to aid these unfortunate ones in our very midst.

Send in the money and send it at the earliest possible time, is the word that is passed out. The money should be sent or brought in person to the Good Fellows, at the News-Star and Morning World office. Dollars thus invested are guaranteed to bring the maximum amount of happiness for we are all well aware of the truth of the sacred word, "It is better to give than to receive. Inasmuch as ye have done it to the least of these my children, ye have done it unto Me."

METHODISTS HEAR UNIFICATION PLAN

dictions with bishops elected by each jurisdiction.

A northeastern jurisdiction would include New England and other states east of the Ohio and north of the Potomac river. The southeastern jurisdiction would take in all states south of the Potomac and east of the Mississippi river, except Louisiana.

Texas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska would comprise a south-central jurisdiction. The Pacific coast states and Rocky mountain regions would form a western jurisdiction.

Negro members of the entire church would be in a separate division, the central jurisdiction. They would have the right to join white congregations where such memberships were acceptable. Foreign branches would be separate jurisdictions.

Annual and general conferences would be held as at present.

"Adoption of this plan would be the church's first great step toward christian unity," Bishop Mouzon said. "Christian forces must present a solid front if we are to break down narrowness and other evils which are threatening our civilization. I believe the Methodist plan will influence other evangelical groups to unite."

Bishop Mouzon was the southern representative of the three-member commission which drafted the unification plan.

MUSSOLINI SAYS WAR TO CONTINUE

which a hospital and Red-Cross tents were struck.

From Addis Ababa, representatives of the International Red Cross dispatched a protest to Geneva.

A Norwegian nurse who broke her leg during the attack, described it as "merciless."

MUSSOLINI HITS AT SANCTIONS PLAN

ROME, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini lashed out the the "penal code of the League of Nations" today and warned sanctionists Italy will take what she wants despite an economic siege.

"There is no siege that can make us bow; no coalition, however numerous, that can turn us from our path," he declared in a speech opening parliament.

Il Duce said an oil embargo will "gravely prejudice" attempts for peace.

His determined words brought fervent cheers from more than 350 black uniformed deputies.

"A full recognition of our rights and the safeguarding of our East African interests" alone can solve the crisis, the dictator said.

Mussolini warned his legions against "premature and excessive optimism," although conceding there had been "a slight improvement" in the last few hours.

He had conferred shortly before going to the chamber with Sir Eric Drummond, the British ambassador, who delivered to Il Duce a fresh appeal from Great Britain for peace.

Mussolini pledged that the Italians would be as strong and as determined on "the 365th day of the siege as on the first."

He spoke for 12 minutes, reading from a manuscript. When he assailed the league for "injustices" his clenched fist was raised and his face contorted with emotion.

Diplomatic galleries were filled—but the British and French ambassadors were not there. Around one gallery were placards with the names of sanctionist countries.

Every radiator in the chamber was cold. Each bore a sign saying: "Turned off to save fuel to resist sanctions."

Italy, Mussolini said, "will listen to words but judge by acts.

"The act that is announced for the 12th of December is an embargo of oil, and it is such as to prejudice gravely the outcome of the situation."

Attacking the league's application of sanctions, he asserted: "The league's penal code has no past, because for 16 years it never was applied in cases infinitely more grave and more suitable than ours. Neither has it any future.

"This penal code of the league, drafted while the memory of the war still was warm, has only a present. It is applied only today; only against Italy; exclusively against Italy, a nation guilty of striking the chains from slaves in barbarous lands where treaties and the moral rights of blood and sacrifice have conferred on Italy for a half century undisputed and recognized priority.

"Capital punishment by economic asphyxiation, as decreed by the Geneva humanitarians, * * * is inflicted today on Italy because she is poor in raw materials and it exempts from Geneva's law rich people, armed by their riches and by the greater armaments which their riches make possible."

In concluding, Mussolini demanded the carrying out of Italy's full program, declaring:

"I mean to reaffirm in the clearest way that a solution of this crisis can be found only in full recognition of our right in safeguarding our African interests.

"In the meantime, action continues in Italy and Africa, where soldiers and blackshirts are united in danger and are giving a merited and decisive victory to their country."

HOLIDAY BUYERS START BIG RUSH

the best for this time of year since November of 1929.

Steel mills stepped up another point to 56.4 per cent of capacity, as reported by the American Iron & Steel institute, a level which was only slightly below the highest since the institute inaugurated its reporting system in 1933.

Notable were the orders and inquiries from railroads and construction organizations.

Cotton textile sales in some eastern markets forged ahead rapidly, textile manufacturing activity, measured by the Associated Press on a seasonal basis, was the highest since September of 1933 at 101.9 per cent of the 1929-30 average.

Freight car loadings during the week ended Nov. 30 decreased from the previous week, but the drop was much less than normal for this period of the year, making the aggregate the best since November of 1931.

At the same time, gross revenue of railroads during November was estimated at $300,000,000, establishing a record for that month likewise going back to November, 1931.

Power production for that same week declined, indicating the lessened holiday requirements of industry, but the drop was slightly more than expected.

The more sensitive commodity markets and those in international trade was sharply influenced on the favorable side by the third vote of confidence accorded the Laval government by the French chamber of deputies.

An extremely heavy flow of gold from France to the United States was halted by the development which sent the franc high enough to preclude a profit on gold shipment to New York. Traders who had taken a short position in francs in the foreign exchange market were trapped by the rise.

In America, business as represented by the National Association of Manufacturers lined up for a political battle against President Roosevelt and the New Deal. Statements of the businessmen, however, had no apparent influence on the current progress of business, industry or finance.

Amazing things have been accomplished by this new medical discovery, Gly-Cas, which is being introduced to crowds of local people every day at the Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard street, Monroe. A man helpless with rheumatism four years suddenly found himself able to work; a lady down in bed near paralysis was up and around before finishing the first box Gly-Cas; another lady who had suffered severely with stomach disorder for the past 28 years is now able to eat and enjoy the foods she wishes without any ill effects afterwards.

Now another surprising statement, read what Mrs. B. B. Milner, 609 Grammont street, Monroe, highly respected apartment house manager, said recently in lauding the action of this new remedy:

"I cannot overestimate the qualities of Gly-Cas," said Mrs. Milner, "For years kidney and bladder trouble had been a constant cause for distress with me until I was unable to attend to my work properly. Finally I reached the place where I was unable to get a good nights sleep which was continually wearing me out and naturally lowering my resistance. My stomach became disordered until I could not properly digest my foods. I became terribly nervous and suffered constantly with severe headaches. The poisons accumulated over my system until pains settled in my back, arms and neck. It was many miserable years I endured, trying first one medicine then another and not being able to find a single one that could correct my terrible suffering until I was finally persuaded to give Gly-Cas a trial—it proved to be the very medicine I should have had years before."

"Gly-Cas showed me great improvement from the very first few doses and today I am feeling like a new person," continued Mrs. Milner, "I have only taken two boxes of this new Gly-Cas yet I am freed of those awful aches and pains. My kidneys are now functioning properly, bowels regulated and even my stomach is in good condition. I eat the foods I wish, enjoy my meals without those awful suffering anymore. My former pep and energy has been restored and I am now sleeping fine, get up in the morning refreshed and ready for my daily work. Gly-Cas is one medicine sufferers should not hesitate to try—for it gives REAL RESULTS which are lasting."

Gly-Cas is sold by Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard street, this city, and by leading druggists in surrounding towns.

Price $1.00 box—6 boxes for $5.00. Postage paid on receipt of price.—Adv.

SICARD OVERPASS WILL OPEN SOON

West Monroe was held the past week to formulate tentative plans for the holding of a celebration when the new bridge is formally opened.

The Sicard overpass and the Louisville avenue paving have given work to many men, all of whom have been furnished by the Louisiana state employment service, of which R. E. Young is manager. Some of the employes on the bridge construction job were furnished also by the employment service.

2 DIONNE SISTERS' NEW TEETH WORRY MOVIE PRODUCERS

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Film executives groaned today when they learned that Emilie and Yvonne Dionne, of the quintuplets, have sprouted new teeth during the filming of their first feature-length picture, at Callander, Ont.

"Watch the letters roll in when, or if, audiences notice it," said studio workers.

The reason for this lies in the difference—before and after, so to speak—in the baby's cinematic appearance.

Makeup men said the arrival of a new tooth radically alters the shape of a baby's mouth, as it appears to the camera's eye.

Furthermore, they pointed out, movie scenes are not filmed in the order of their appearance in the finished picture. There have been cases where an infant appeared, in the early part of the story with a tooth—but in latter scenes, the tooth wasn't there!

JAPANESE DEMAND SHIP PARITY WITH U. S. AND BRITAIN

LONDON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Japan announced flatly today she demanded absolute naval parity with the United States and Great Britain. The announcement threw even more gloom about the international conference opening Monday.

It was this Japanese demand which caused the breakup of an unsuccessful preliminary conference early this year between the United States, Japan and Great Britain.

To enforce their position, the Japanese said no other question can be discussed until their demand is met. Their country is now on the short end of a 5-5-3 ratio with Great Britain and the United States.

The Japanese position was conveyed to the British admiralty at a conference which the oriental delegation asked specially.

BORAH CAUTIONS AGAINST CHANGES

ernment and the preservation of liberty.

"I ask tonight whose liberty? What liberty? The man or group of men who hedge about or control my right to engage in or remain in business are my masters and the masters of my children.

"The power which fixes the price of the things I must have that I may live and clothe and educate my family shapes my course in life and delimits my possibilities as completely as if I were its indentured servant.

"If we are going into a fight on the lines where the battle swings let us fight for free enterprise, free economic system, free America, free from monopoly control, free from bureaucratic control. The times will not permit of a sham fight. 'If the trumpet gives an uncertain sound who shall prepare himself for the battle?' "

In his sole reference to a New Deal activity by name, Borah said recovery was generally thought to date from the supreme court decision invalidating the NRA.

"In only recur to the decision at this time as a basis for the view that when we undertake to sell short the American democracy we almost certainly make a mistake," he said. "It proves again as it has been proven often that the American way, both in business and politics, is after all the safest and most effective way.

"One of the strange theories which our confused and troubled days have thrown to the surface is that Democratic institutions in some way or other stand in the way of economic progress.

"It is urged that our doctrine of states' rights and the federal constitution in many ways are hindrances to prosperity and embarrass or retard our nation in its struggle for power.

"When we disparage or discredit the power of Democratic government to deal with our present problems we are rejecting nothing less and nothing more than the part which the people are to have in modern government.

"When you propose to wipe out state sovereignty you are not proposing mere change in our form of government but you are proposing to destroy it. There can be no such thing as a great federal union without great commonwealths upon which it may rest.

"When it is proposed to curtail or limit the rights of the citizen and control his judgment as to how we shall direct his business you are not changing our form of government—you are destroying it. Once the dike of constitutional restraint is opened and the sea of arbitrary power which lies behind is invited in, the inundation of personal rights and personal liberty will ultimately be full and complete.

"We should strengthen the dike at every point."

In addition there is a health survey in Ouachita parish which will be directly under the direction of the supervision of the United States public health service. Soil conservation service and other allied projects are operated by men supplied by the WPA, Mr. Lassiter stated.

He said these projects are now either in actual operation or will be begun not later than Monday or Tuesday of this week. Some of the projects will be completed by the first of the year, while others will require much longer.

Mr. Lassiter predicted that other projects will in all probability be approved in this district which will bring up the total to $1,500,000. All work is being done and will be done on publicly owned property, according to Mr. Lassiter.

2 BANDITS WOUNDED IN GUN BATTLE AS THEY STAGE HOLDUP

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Two bandits were wounded tonight in a gun battle as a gang of four robbers made a futile attempt to hold up an armored car in the Oak Lane section of north Philadelphia.

One of the holdup men, dressed in a policeman's uniform, was wounded so seriously physicians said he probably will die. Police said he gave his name as Edward Dee, and Detective Harry Heanley said he has a record as a gunman.

The other wounded robber was shot in the chest, but managed to get to his feet and escape before police arrived. The two other bandits fled.

Harry Arnold, Jr., 37, who was at the wheel of the armored car when the robbers staged their attempted holdup was wounded slightly in the leg in a struggle with one of the bandits.

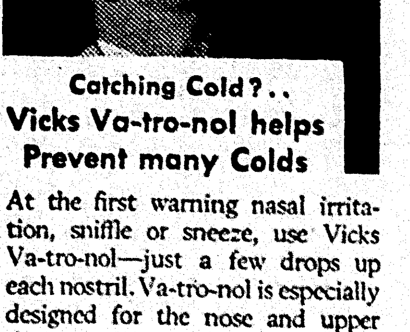
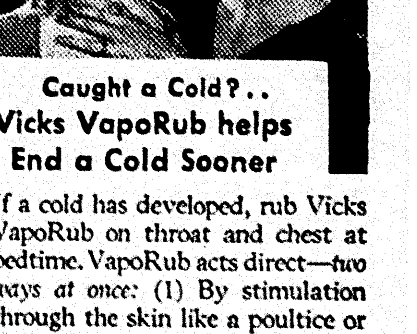
How to Keep Colds
UNDER better CONTROL



Catching Cold?..
Vicks Va-tro-nol helps
Prevent many Colds

At the first warning nasal irritation, sniffle or sneeze, use Vicks Va-tro-nol—just a few drops up each nostril. Va-tro-nol is especially designed for the nose and upper throat—where most colds start. It stimulates Nature's own functions—in the nose—to help prevent colds, and to throw off head colds in their early stages. Used in time, Va-tro-nol helps avoid many colds.



Caught a Cold?..
Vicks VapoRub helps
End a Cold Sooner

If a cold has developed, rub Vicks VapoRub on throat and chest at bedtime. VapoRub acts direct—two ways at once: (1) By stimulation through the skin like a poultice or plaster; (2) By inhalation of its medicated vapors direct to inflamed air-passages. Through the night, this combined vapor-poultice action loosens phlegm, soothes irritation, helps break congestion.

Follow Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds

Observance Of Christmas Is About Same As Centuries Ago

Hospitality, Charity Feature Celebration

Many Dishes Of Day Are Same; Gayety Similar Throughout Years; Scenes During Holidays Like Those Of Yore

By EVE BRADFORD

Christmas! Christmas! The words run like sweet music through the month of December. If Washington Irving could drop in at the typical American home on Christmas day, he would find very little change has come over the observance of the holiday in the century and more since he visited the Bracebridges. He would miss the boar's head, the baked peacock reclad in its rainbow plumage, but he would find nevertheless, "the fire of hospitality in the hall, the genial flame of charity in the heart." Also the mince pie and the blazing plum pudding for which he confessed a weakness.

Mr. Pickwick, who led the Christmas dance with Mr. Wardle's old mother at Dingley Hall back in the days of Charles Dickens, would fit perfectly into the gayety of American homes today and would be the life of the party even though a hundred years have passed since his time. In Irving's Yorkshire coach, laden with hampers of game, were boys joyously returning from boarding school and city folks with bundles and band boxes going back to the country for Christmas. It is the same today—boys and girls will come bounding home again for the holidays and relatives from the four corners of the globe will be reunited.

The Yule log still glows for sentiment's sake, though the house be gas heated; and though every room is not "with ivy leaves dressed and every post with holly." There is holly bright over the fireplace and more of it swings in the windows, bidding "Merry Christmas" to the world outside.

Good cheer overflows from the inside of the home to the outside, where lights festoon the evergreens and doorways during Christmas week, regardless of electricity bills. All of which reminds us that we saw Edna Richards hurrying into the office of the News-Star editor to talk "city-wide home lighting." The Garden club would like to sponsor a city beautiful during Christmas week and to urge every home owner to illuminate his doorway, windows or yard.

All the Christmas cheer we spread, however, will be for naught, if Albert Horuff, Arnold Bernstein and Minta Vaughan continue ill. Without their smiling faces among us, something of infinite value and something that all the gold and tinsel of the Yuletide cannot replace will be taken from us. Saw Peggy Prindle, with curls flying and eyes shining, telling a friend of the beautiful birthday gifts she received last week from her adoring uncle and aunt, Judge and Alice Dawkins. Peggy is a sweet, lovely mannered child and blossoming, all too soon, into young womanhood. Alice is quite thrilled over the prospects of a new daughter-in-law. Harriet White made a wise decision when she answered yes to Benjamin Dawkins' question. Not only will she gain a devoted husband, but the devotion of his father and mother, whose good will is to be valued quite beyond price.

The proverbial feather could have knocked us over when we heard that Mary Ann Dixon, who moved among us like a sweet lovable child, had been married since last June. Secrets are never steel bound, however, and sooner or later make their escape. Just yesterday, Mary Ann and her husband, John Bishop Johnston, Jr., decided to break the news. It was like a bombshell exploding, but parental blessing was bestowed upon them, and now they are off to New Orleans on a belated honeymoon.

Monroe has two perennial honeymooners—Henry and Catherine Blanks. They lunch together in town every day, and never, never are bored with each other's company. We heard some one say the other day that Henry Blanks could never be anything but a gentleman, regardless of conditions, environment or circumstance. That just about covers everything to our way of thinking.

Enola Rogers hostessed a very fine bit of sustenance the other night at her home for Esther Ewing Brown of New Orleans, who, by the way, is Wilson and Toulmin Ewing's most attractive sister.

Janet Powell has created a furore of excitement among her friends over the four-day diet she brought with her from Detroit. Six pounds in four days is the loss assured all those who care to reduce. Janet is a good exponent as she is the trimmest looking person imaginable and wears her clothes with a certain verve and dash envied by all women.

So eager was Joel and William Whitley to set up housekeeping in their shining new apartment in Baton Rouge, they dashed into town last week from their honeymoon and stowed every wedding gift possible in their car and were on their way again before the family had caught its breath.

The Delta Beta Sigmas are gathering their forces for the Christmas gayeties. A cabaret and their annual dansant will grace the calendar, as customary each year.

Some how the holiday season would lose considerable luster without these D. B. S. affairs. The members are among Monroe's loveliest young girls and when they step out like Solomon in all his glory, they are visions of sartorial splendor.

There is an old saying, "Tell me who your friends are and I will tell you what you are." No need to ask Mrs. J. E. Walsworth, just home from Nashville, where she has been with her daughter, Barrier, a student at Vanderbilt. Association with Barrier and her young friends has imbued Mrs. Walsworth with the spirit of youth. We saw her the other day in a rust colored tailleur and black seal cape that was most becoming.

Spread Christmas

The whole month of December can be glamorous, zestful and brimming with interesting experiences if Christmas is spread out instead of lasting just one day. Commence tomorrow to get together your glistening, colorful wrapping paper, tags and ribbons and then set aside one evening for wrapping gifts with the aid of the children, of course.

Never, never make the mistake of waiting until Christmas eve to buy gifts. This hallowed night should be reserved for the oft repeated story of the Christ child.

Don't wait until the eleventh hour to make your holly wreaths and garlands. Revel in the spicy fragrance of the woods and select your pine tree with deliberation. The house should be hung with holly wreaths at least a week before Christmas, as they lose their appeal immediately Christmas is over.

How earnestly we strive to keep alive the old-style Christmas spirit. The child, the home, the hearth, the tree, the light in the window, the outhung latchstring—these old time symbols are as true and as sound today as ever before.

Innovations creep into Christmas. Beautifully engraved cards flood the mail, the radio supplants carol-singers at the door, electric lights banish the tallow candles from the tree and the window candles that now gleam to welcome the belated guest never set the curtains afire, but nevertheless the mechanical wizardy of the age will never dim the radiance of the old-fashioned Christmas.

Christmas eve also has its beautiful music of old. No gold, frankincense or myrrh of the wise men can rival in beauty the music and the spell of the midnight music.

Who has not responded to the poignant beauty of "Silent Night, Holy Night" and "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear." The age old song, "Hark! the Herald Angels Sing" never fails to stir our hearts and immediately we hear "O Little Town of Bethlehem," we visualize the Christ child in the lowly manger. "Jingle Bells" always brings to mind prancing reindeer and jolly old Santa Claus. "The First Noel" stirs up memories of carolers 'neath our windows on Christmas eve.

All these beautiful old melodies will soon be flooding our homes, and especially on Christmas eve. If for no other reason than to sit and listen to the music of mighty choruses brought to us over the radio, we should be free on Christmas eve from last minte shopping and gift wrapping.

Bach-Handel Event

"As a man thinketh, so he is," runs the proverb. If this is really so, then we must guard our thoughts with care and have them of such a nature that we will express a character of which we may be proud.

Music is always associated with the beautiful and lifts our thoughts to a higher plane. It might be well then to cultivate a taste for only the best music and to attend concerts where we are certain of being uplifted.

One of the most glorious outpourings of good music of the entire year is ours for the asking today at Grace church, where members of the Musical coterie will present a twilight concert of Bach-Handel music. Clad in crimson vestments, they will walk down the candlelit aisle singing Bach's hymn of thankfulness and praise.

As a prelude, "Largo," by Handel, will be rendered by Roger C. Frisbie on the organ.

The entire program follows:

Voice, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," from oratorio Messiah (Handel), Mrs. Clyde Sanders.

Time has been powerless to dim the glory of Handel's Messiah; it is an ecstatic vision.—Hamilton.

Piano, English Suite in G Minor (written for Clavier), (Bach), Prelude—Allemande Gavotte and Musette—Gigue, Mrs. C. L. Moore, Jr.

The suite as Bach conceived it consisted of a group of pieces in dance form and in the same key. The G minor suite is throughout a splendid example of its geius.—Elson.

Voice, "Sleepers, Wake," a voice is sounding, charole from church cantata (Bach), Coterie chorus.

By introducing folk song into hymnody, Martin Luther reconciled secular and sacred music, created the German chorale and gave a foundation upon which the art of Bach was built.—Bauer.

Violin, Air (written for the G string) (Bach), Mrs. Roger C. Frisbie.

Bach had a short experience as violinist in a court band.—Hamilton.

Organ, Toccato and Fugue in E Minor, written for organ by Bach, Roger C. Frisbie, M. B.

Almost all of Bach's life was passed as an organist. On this instrument he displayed fully his marvelous faculty of weaving and interweaving simple melodic figures into the most exquisite musical tracery. He became the greatest master of counterpoint the world has ever seen.—Elson.

Voice, "My Heart Faithful," from Pfingst Cantata (Bach), Mrs. F. V. Allison.

Bach wrote about 300 church cantatas.—Hamilton.

Piano, Concerto in the Italian style (written for Clavier), (Bach), Presto Giojose, Last Movement, Miss Mary Grace Lawn.

This concerto shows the master in urbanely expansive mood. The Italian style of the period was pianistically effective; hence doubtless the title. The last movement bubbles with irrepressable gayety.—Elson.

Voice, "Crucified," from Mass B Minor (Bach), Coterie chorus.

The glory of God, the majesty of death have never been more plausible to the mind of man than in a Bach chorale.—Downes.

Piano, Chromatic Fantasie and Fugue (written for Clavier), (Bach), Fantasia Cromatica, Miss Florence Ziegler.

Recessional, "Rejoice, the Lord Is King"—hymn (Handel).

Postlude, Hallelujah Chorus (arranged for organ) from Messiah (Handel), Roger C. Frisbie, M. B.

At the completion of the Hallelujah chorus Handel exclaimed, with tears in his eyes, "I did think I did see all heaven before me, and the great God himself!"—Hamilton.

Personnel of chorus: Mrs. Clyde Sanders, Mrs. Henry Whitfield, Mrs. Floyd Allison, Mrs. Ben Rush, Mrs. Louis Hullum, Mrs. C. B. Moore, Jr., Mrs. Frances Wilson, Mrs. George Moffett, Mrs. R. L. George, Mrs. Frances Miller Leavell.

Members of the Musical coterie are: Mrs. Floyd Allison, Mrs. Roger Frisbie, Mrs. R. L. George, Mrs. Grayson Guthrie, Miss Sue Hefley, Mrs. Louis Hullum, Mrs. H. L. Johns, Mrs. J. B. Kugler, Mrs. H. H. Land, Miss Mary Grace Lawn, Mrs. Frances Miller Leavell, Mrs. George Moffett, Mrs. C. L. Moore, Jr., Mrs. R. H. Oliver, Jr., Mrs. P. L. Perot, Mrs. William Rodriguez, Mrs. Ben Rush, Mrs. Clyde Sanders, Mrs. Henry Whitfield, Miss Frances Wilson, Miss Florence Ziegler.

Communication Received

Mrs. Louis Hullum, state president of the Louisiana Federation of Music Clubs, received the following communication from the national president, Mrs. John Alexander Jardine, and is taking this means of bringing it before every member of the Louisiana Federated Clubs in this city:

"While in New York recently we were in conference with Dr. Nikolai Sokoloff, director of the federal music project of the works progress administration. Dr. Sokoloff is depending upon our federation to help put over the general program of the federal music project. Newspaper publicity sent from our federation headquarters has already been received by you. That you may have an understanding of the possibilities for helpfulness, I shall attempt to give you a brief explanation of the project, its purpose, and the general program.

"The federal music project is designed to give employment to professional musicians registered on relief rolls.

The real purpose is to establish high standards of musicianship; to rehabilitate musicians by assisting them to become self-supporting; to retrain musicians, and educate the public in an appreciation of musical opportunities.

"The establishment of symphony orchestras, small orchestral ensembles, string quartets, chamber music ensembles, dance orchestras, vocal groups, festivals, opera companies, and projects to utilize teachers, soloists, composers, music copyists, music librarians, and piano tuners. The units are to be organized in the larger and secondary cities and the development of programs from these centers will be used to carry music to outlying areas where such facilities are not now available.

"Local advisory committees to assist local projects, to help create and maintain high standards of musicianship, and to enlist the services of cooperating sponsors are a part of the federal music project set-up.

"It is important that some altruistic organization take an interest in each work project—such a local sponsor is called the "cooperating sponsor."

"A great opportunity for federation service is within our reach. We have been asked by the federal music project director, Dr. Sokoloff, to make ourselves available for advisory committee membership, and to serve as cooperating sponsors. The music project is an emergency measure, but it will come from it. If through the help of our federated members as cooperating sponsors, communities can be convinced there is need of greater civic musical development, a field will be opened up for the higher types of units which are now being organized under this emergency measure.

"Again the federation has been called upon to take the leadership at a very critical moment when success in meeting the emergency of the needy musician will undoubtedly bring to America a more certain and definite federal recognition of music, and a greater field of opportunity for musicians, artists, and composers. Even a day's delay on your part will mean a loss of effort. Federation members, please get in touch immediately with your state director of the federal music project to offer your assistance to any plan which he may suggest.

"May we ask that, within the next ten days, each one of you to whom this communication has been mailed, write to our Fargo office to report upon the results of your efforts to serve the cause of the needy musicians in your community in cooperation with the federal music project."

Briefer Verses, Brighter Colors Mark '35 Christmas Card Mode

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Christmas cards, which cost the American public $50,000,000 a year, are brighter, bluer, less religious and more modernistic this year than ever in history.

So says Herbert Covert, who claims to be the man who put the color on our Christmas cards 24 years ago. Covert has time to relax and talk about this card situation now. A greeting card manufacturer and verse-writer, he has been working on this year's Christmas cards since last January, and his work is done now.

Verses are shorter this year. They cost the card manufacturers an average of 50 cents a line, so the manufacturers using rhymes on their cards have solved the problem by advising their writers to be sweet and brief.

Covert says Santa's reindeer are things of the past. You may be able to fool the children about the old man, but you can't tell them he comes in a sleigh. They know very well he flies a big tri-motor plane, and that's that!

Santa himself has scored a comeback, though, this year. The card manufacturers have been so eager to be clever and different in the past few years that they almost overlook the old fellow. Admittedly there are a few streamlined versions of him, but he's back nevertheless in one form or another.

Silver and blue are the predominating colors. Covert thinks there is more originality in the cards this season than in some time. More people are using photographs of the interior of their homes to illustrate their cards. Some are even employing artists to sketch their houses in winter settings, for use on their cards.

In other words, Covert says, there is more money being spent on cards this year.

Majors In Citizenship

The old-fashioned club, which was based on a policy of exclusiveness and had for its objective self-culture, has been replaced by the club which majors in citizenship. The federated club of today studies the things of national, state and local interest, then assumes much of the responsibility for the enactment of that which is determined good.

Many of the Red Cross drives, Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. drives, tuberculosis seal sales, community Christmas celebrations and city beautification programs are dependent upon club women for their success. Countless numbers of young men and young women have attended school on club loan scholarships. It has been said that the federated club is an unselfish club, for there is no room there for selfishness.

In the field of fine arts, art, poetry, music and creative writing have been placed within the reach of all who really desire them; for, while club chairmen necessarily confine their activities to clubs, they are ever ready to assist groups in organizing clubs for those who do not have the privilege of membership in a club.

It is the policy of the federated club to share their pleasures with others Since the beginning of the fall season, a number of clubs of the fifth district have invited their friends to meetings which would be of general interest. The Altrurian Book club of West Monroe was hostess to a large group when they presented one of their favorite daughters, Miss Eleanor N. Faulk, who entertained delightfully with recitals of her experiences on a two years' trip around the world. The Literary guild of Monroe presented Mr. H. J. Sachs of Louisiana Polytechnic institute, who spoke on the philosophical background of poetry. The Arts, Cosmos and Pierian clubs of Ruston are featuring open programs, the speakers being authorities on current affairs. The Tallulah Book club, a large department club, is featuring programs by the various organizations of the town—the D. A. R's, P.-T. A.'s, the Garden club, American Legion and the music and dramatic departments of the club.

The Woman's Departmental club of Oak Grove sponsors a flower show each year. They have recently placed drinking fountains on the courthouse square. The Ferriday Woman's club is building a club house, and is featuring reciprocity programs with the clubs of nearby towns. A certain bit of pride centers around one of their members, Mrs. Sam Rife, who was winner of first place in the short story contest of the L. F. W. C. The motto of the Cosmopolitan club of St. Joseph is "Not for ourselves alone, but for others as well," which speaks for itself. Their program for the year is a miscellaneous one. The Tensas Garden club is making elaborate plans for the provision of Christmas cheer for the children of the community. The planting of trees on the courthouse square has been their major activity for the season.

Miss Mary Sue Wigley of Alabama, the featured speaker at the state convention of L. F. W. C. in Lafayette in 1934, was recently presented by the Lambda-Kappa and the Junior Literary clubs of Rayville. Club women were in attendance from Monroe, Ruston and surrounding communities. The Junior Literary club, in cooperation with other organizations of the town, will provide a community Christmas tree with all the attendant joy and glamor of celebration.

Two Meetings Slated

Two meetings of great interest and importance to the club women of the country are scheduled for January in Washington, D. C. They are the meeting of the board of directors of the General Federation of Women's clubs and the annual conference on the cause and cure of war.

The board of directors of the general federation will hold its mid-winter meeting at federation headquarters January 14-18, the president, Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, presiding. According to time honored custom, the business sessions will be prefaced by a reception. To this several hundred invitations will be issued, the directors being privileged to invite the members of congress from their states and their wives. Others prominent in the official and social life of the nation's capital will make up the distinguished guest company.

"Education for Living" being the keynote of this administration, the various phases of education as they relate to the problems of the day will be discussed by the club women and by qualified outside speakers.

At the business sessions, plans will be presented, programs and projects for the coming three years by the chairmen will be discussed, and forum discussions on current problems will be held. Because of the gravity of many public questions today, much time will be given to their consideration.

Dr. Hugh S. Cummings, surgeon general of the United States, will discuss public health problems. Hon. Wesley E. Disney, member of the house of representatives from Oklahoma, will discuss the bill which he introduced into congress during the last session providing for the establishment of the National Academy of Public Affairs. This is a project which Mrs. Lawson is deeply interested in because of its relationship to the general federation's educational program.

The board meeting brings women from every state in the union and i is expected that this session will als be attended by representatives of several clubs in foreign countries.

The eleventh annual conference or the cause and cure of war will b held in the hall of nations at Hote Washington in Washington, D. C., January 21-24, inclusive. The General Federation of Women's clubs is the largest member organization of the conference and will have 100 delegates in attendance. The general objectives of the conference are: (1) To build effective peace machinery; (2) To reduce war machinery; (3) To obtain guaranteed security against war for every nation.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, the beloved honorary chairman, in issuin the call for this year's conference said

"War must be abolished. Do no mistake the conflict in Ethiopia, i violation of all the new treaties designed to guarantee peace, as evidence that wars cannot be prevented. Know why the peace machinery failed to restrain Italy and join those who now are searching for methods to strengthen the weak places in this machinery.

"War will end as certainly as the sun will rise tomorrow, but the only power that can and will drive it from the earth is public opinion. Today public opinion is too ill informed, too uncertain, too hesitating to warrant a strong League of Nations or a courageous American congress."

Birthday Celebrated

Joy Harper, lovely little blonde daughter of Judge and Mrs. William Harper, wore a yellow accordian pleated frock when she welcomed her most intimate friends to her home last Thursday afternoon when a birthday party was arranged by her mother in commemoration of her eighth birthday anniversary.

The spirit of the Yuletide, abroad in the land, was everywhere in evidence. Games reminiscent of the Christmas season were enjoyed throughout the afternoon, with the arrival of jolly old St. Nicholas a grand climax to the festivities. From his pack he bestowed gifts upon each guest.

As a result of their successful efforts in the games, David King, Jo Ann Biedenharn, Jane Eckhart and Elmer Richards, Jr., received the prizes.

A bewildering array of confections were served with the ices to the thirty-five guests present.

Mrs. Harper was assisted by Mrs. Roy Beaman and Mrs. Victor Barringer.

Sam Rubin, Jr., to the regret of his friends, sustained injuries while playing football last week.

To Exhibit Paintings

"Cultivate an interest in pictures. It is a part of education always within your reach," said Sir Joshua Reynolds.

Following the precedent set by most study and music clubs to present at least one guest speaker or artist during the club year, the painting department of the Fine Arts club is happy to present some lovely canvases from the brush of Marie A. Hull, nationally famed artist of Jackson, Mississippi, along with their own work in their annual exhibition and reception Monday night at 8 o'clock at the American Legion home. The public is cordially invited to attend.

The following musical program will be featured during the evening: Vocal solo, Mrs. Lydia Oakland Nichols; piano solo, Mrs. P. A. Poag; violin solo, Miss Helen Vawter; string ensemble, Mr. Wayne Wamsley, Mrs. F. C. Holden, Mr. Alfred Hennen, Mr. Leon Hammonds, Mr. Wayne Wamsley, Jr.

Paintings to be exhibited are "The J. H. Watkins Garden," by Mrs. Fred Thatcher; "Hydrangeas," "Petunias," "Chrysanthemums," "Country Village," "Hunting Scene," "The Barn," by Mrs. Anthony Thebo; "Southern Bayou," "Pastel," "Bowl of Roses," "Indian Summer," by Mrs. F. C. Holden; "Country Road," "On the Half Shell," "Summer Day," "Autumn Glory," "Lilies," by Mrs. H. C. Mays; "Landscape," by Mrs. H. J. Fernandez; "Dubach Hills in Autumn," "Zinnias," "Shifting Sands, New Mexico Desert," "California Hills," "Western Skies," "Mining Camp," "Country Lane," "House on the Hill," by Mrs. H. M. James; "Two Portraits of Elderly Gentlemen," "California Coast," "Negro Cabin," "Malissa," (portrait), "Magnolias," "Cordes, France," "Flowers," "Tulips," "Cocoanut Palms, Miami," "French Farm House," by Marie A. Hull.

Attend Meeting

Seventeen members of John C. Marsh court No. 1144, Catholic Daughters of America, motored to Alexandria to attend the diocesan meeting and group reception of members, with Court Gibbons No. 679 of Alexandria as hostess. Before the high mass at 10 o'clock, the state regent, Mrs. Margaret Broussard of New Orleans, addressed the junior court at a meeting held at Victory hall. The junior court greeted the senior courts in a most impressive manner and led the procession into the church to attend the solemn high mass. Bishop Desmond preached a beautiful sermon at the mass. After mass, all assembled at the Bentley hotel, where a luncheon was served to more than 125 Catholic Daughters, the Bishop and six priests. Miss Zilda Lauve, grand regent of Court Gibbons, welcomed the guests. After the luncheon, the reception of members took place at the Knights of Columbus hall. The principal speakers were the state regent, Mrs. Broussard, the district deputy, Mrs. A. Booth of Baton Rouge, the state regent of Texas, Mrs. LeBlanc, Father Olinger and Father John Vandegaer.

MUSTANGS CLINCH SOUTHWEST TITLE IN 24-0 TRIUMPH

Bobby Wilson Races 60 Yards At Start Of Game For First Score

By Bill Parker
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Dec. 7.—Coach Madison Bell's stampeding Southern Methodist Mustangs will battle Stanford in the Rose Bowl with an untied and unbeaten record. Playing in rain and on a sloppy field, they completed their great record today by smothering Texas A. and M., 24 to 0, to win their first Southwest conference championship since 1931.

It was the Mustangs' twelfth and final hurdle on a schedule that included some of the nation's outstanding teams. They scored in the first few minutes when elusive Robert Wilson, all-American halfback, raced through a broken field for sixty yards to a touchdown.

Coach Bell, once his charges had a substantial advantage, used numerous reserves in order to save his regulars for New Year's day at Pasadena.

It was a typical Southern Methodist game, sprinkled with long touchdown runs, daring forward passes and a field goal by Giant Maurice Orr, a tackle.

After Wilson's run he soon passed to Tipton, end, who raced twenty yards for the second touchdown of the first period. Both times, Orr placed kicked goal.

Southern Methodist made it 17 to 0 early in the third period when Orr booted a field goal from the 16-yard line after the Mustangs had been held for three downs.

The third touchdown came late in the fourth on a 28-yard pass, and Turner's line plunge from the one-yard line. Weant kicked the goal.

Considering the inclement weather, Southern Methodist played a smooth, easy game. Wilson, Shelley Burt, Johnny Sprague and J. R. Smith constantly ripped through the Aggie line. J. C. "Iron Man" Wetsel and Truman Spain, guard and tackle, were outstanding in the forward wall. Numerous times they broke through and spilled Aggie ball carriers without gain.

It was a happy crew of Mustangs that bounded off the field, ready to start preparing for California's Rose Bowl.

Claude E. (Tiny) Thornhill, Stanford coach, sat in the drizzling rain and watched his opposition in the Rose Bowl game run wild on the slippery field.

Starting line-ups:

FLORIDA RALLIES TO WHIP SOUTH CAROLINA

TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 7—(AP)—The University of Florida football team after a scoreless half, today became the "Fighting 'Gators" in the last two periods, scoring three touchdowns and a safety to defeat decisively the University of South Carolina, 22 to 0. It was the final game of the season for both state universities.

Hendricks and Jesse Jones were the outstanding ground gainers for Florida. Carlisle Hughes, Florida guard, and Bud Alexander, captain and quarterback for the Gamecocks were the outstanding offensive players.

The Carolinians threatened in the first period but weakened and were completely outplayed in the last three quarters.

MISS. TEACHERS TRIM UNION, 12-6

Intercepted Pass Ends Bulldog Threat Late In Fourth Period

HATTIESBURG, Miss., Dec. 7.—(AP)—The Mississippi Teachers concluded their football season here today with a sensational 12 to 6 victory over the Union university Bulldogs of Jackson, Tenn.

Union threatened to score late in the fourth period but Austin, Teachers center, intercepted a pass on his own 20-yard line and ran the ball to the 37 as the game ended.

The Bulldogs scored first in the opening period on a drive from their own 30-yard mark. Phillips was the big gun in this offensive, reeling off dazzling runs through the line and around end. Joyner carried the ball over from the one-yard line. An attempted placement was blocked.

The Teachers came back in the second period and scored on one of the queerest plays ever viewed here. With the ball in Union's possession on their own one-yard line, King punted 36 yards to Purvis, Teacher fullback, who ran into one of his own men, then reversed, outsprinted four Union tacklers to the right sideline and raced to a touchdown. An attempted placement was blocked.

Soon after the second half opened the Teachers tallied again. Taking a punt on Union's 41-yard line, the Mississippians bucked and passed to the six. Stonestreet slanted off right tackle to score. Another placement was blocked.

A break gave the Teachers the ball again on the Union ten-yard line late in the third period when Pechonick was trapped near the sidelines and attempted to pass. Phillips, Teacher tackle, intercepted and was downed. Union held on the one-yard line and the Teachers lost the ball on downs.

Lineup:

Union	Pos.	Teachers
Johnson	LE	Smith
Graham	LT	Phillips
Ammons	LG	Cowart
Half	C	Reynolds
Barag	RG	Cox
Perry	RT	Ladner
Brown	RE	Fletcher
Phillips	QB	Allen
Pechonick	LH	Stonestreet

Alexander	FB	Odom

Scoring touchdowns: Teachers, Purvis and Stonestreet. Union, Joyner.

Officials: Davis (Memphis), referee; Pierce (Ala.) umpire; Vann (Ole Miss.) head linesman; Robertson, (Ala.), field judge.

SPORTS Chatter

BY GEO. V. LOFTON

IN THE SPOTLIGHT

Baseball occupies the center of the stage again this week as the major league magnates gather at Chicago for their annual meeting. The big confab opens Tuesday and plenty of interesting news will be released to give the bugs something to talk about until the 16 clubs depart for sunny climes in the spring.

Night baseball and the disposition of the Boston Braves franchise are two of the important topics to be disposed of, but the fans are more interested in the announcements of the trades that have been or will be consummated. The greatest shifting of talent in many years has been predicted, with old man Connie Mack holding the big hand with his four aces.

Each baseball writer in the majors has taken his turn at guessing just where Jimmie Foxx will land, with Mr. Mack denying each rumor. However, Foxx himself let the cat out of the bag last week when he announced that Mack had advised him that he would be sold or traded before the 1936 campaign rolls around. The latest report is that Foxx has been sold to the White Sox for $75,000, but confirmation was not forthcoming, either from the Athletics or the Sox.

Just what will happen to the Braves remains to be a mystery. It is likely that a Boston syndicate has been formed to take over the club. Baltimore has made a bid for the franchise but it isn't expected that the Orioles will be successful in their attempt to return to major league baseball after a lapse of 35 years.

The factions for and against night baseball are lined up for the battle this week. The National league seems to have a majority in favor of the night game, while in the American the opposition is stronger. Both Washington and St. Louis, however, are ready to install lights and are merely awaiting permission to play after dark.

Incidentally, New Orleans club owners have announced that the Pels will play night baseball next season. That's going to be slightly embarrassing, if possible, for certain New Orleans sports writers who scoffed at night baseball several years ago, and predicted that such a bush league practice would never be tolerated in the Crescent city.

ON TO TAMPA!

Eddie McLane's Louisiana Tech football team—at times referred to as the Bulldogs, Light Brigade, Techsters, Technicians and Engineers, but more properly known as a tough bunch to beat—will leave their own domain Wednesday in search of further laurels on foreign fields. They play Tampa U. at Tampa, Florida, next Saturday afternoon and Tech fans expect their favorites to end their most successful season in years with a victory.

This time last year Tech was holding up the entire S. I. A. A. conference with no victories and five defeats. They had scored a total of six points against S. I. A. A. opposition. This year they played eight conference games, won seven and lost one and compiled the best scoring record in the league. The Bulldogs have scored 231 points to 35 for their foes. No opponent held them to less than 20 points. Their only loss was to Millsaps, the Majors winning 21 to 20.

It's a record that Tech can well be proud of, particularly when you remember that most of McLane's players were sophomores. There were 25 first-year men on the 1935 squad. These sophs will be juniors next year, and that's something that will cause a few nightmares in the S. I. A. A. coaching ranks next season.

BASKETBALL CHANGES

Basketball, like football, has been pepped up by a couple of rules changes that should make the game more interesting for the customers and considerably faster than in the past. There haven't been many changes but these that have been incorporated in the 1935-36 brand of basketball are of paramount importance.

Elimination of the tip-off after a successful foul throw has probably done more to change the game than anything else. The defensive team immediately puts the ball in play from the sidelines. Both squads dash to the other end of the court and that injects a bit of speed into the game that wasn't there last year.

The pivot play in the foul circle has been eliminated by means of a new three-second rule for the offensive team. The idea was to reduce the congestion in the foul zone, caused by constant jockeying of the pivot man and his guard, but instead of preventing some of the roughness heretofore caused by the play, the rule has made the game rougher. According to one cage authority, one team sets a defense across the floor and the other attempts to smash through

Miami Authorities Unwilling To Meet $10,000 Guarantee Asked

AUBURN, Ala., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Coach Jack Meagher announced tonight that Auburn's Plainsmen would not represent the south in the Orange Bowl football game in Miami, Fla., New Year's Day.

Coach Meagher said all negotiations with the Orange Bowl committee had been terminated.

It was understood that Miami authorities were unwilling to meet the $10,000 guarantee asked by athletic authorities here.

Coach Meagher said he would come to Birmingham Monday to coach a high school squad for a charity game, and that there was no posibility of a reconsideration of the game here.

Auburn was one of the schools which had been "felt out" on the contest, but it was generally believed here the Plainsmen would be given an official invitation if terms were satisfactory.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Turned down by Vanderbilt, Miami's Orange Bowl committee sought tonight to get Auburn to represent the south in the annual New Year's day football classic.

W. Keith Phillips, committee chairman, said he was optimistic arrangements for the Alabama eleven, which previously expressed interest in the game, to meet Catholic university, the northern contender, could be completed this evening.

The decision of Vanderbilt's athletic committee not to accept the invitation had been expected here, and feelers were sent out to Auburn and North Carolina university.

L. S. U.'S BOWL BID OKEHED BY TIGERT

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 7.—(AP)—President John J. Tigert of the Southeastern conference today conveyed to Louisiana State university the conference's permission to play in the Sugar Bowl football game.

President Tigert said the permission had been delayed because of his absence from home, and extended L. S. U. his good wishes.

T. P. Heard, L. S. U. athletic director, said he had been informed that additional seats were being built at Tulane stadium where the Bowl Game will be played to accommodate 34,000.

FROGS PROTECT EARLY LEAD TO SHADE BRONCOS

Sammy Baugh Stars In Southwest Team's Victory Before 20,000

By Russell J. Newland
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Texas Christian defeated Santa Clara 10 to 6 in a thrill-a-minute game before 20,000 fans.

Two minutes after the Santa Clara kickoff Texas Christian converted a fumble into a touchdown. Quarterback Sammy Baugh opened the southwest team's bag of tricks by quick-kicking on the first down. Hal Seramin chased the ball as it bounced along. He got his fingers on it, but he let it get away.

Big Drew Ellis, Texas left tackle, pounced on the oval—four yards from the Bronco goal. The ball had traveled 65 yards.

Baugh whipped one of his bullet passes to McClure, right half, who caught it on the line and stepped over for the touchdown. Roach, right end, place kicked.

Each team scored in the third period, Texas first, when Taldon Manton, fullback, place-kicked a field goal from the 22 yard marker.

Behind 10 to 0, Santa Clara turned a freak play into a touchdown. On T. C. U.'s 26 yard line, Montgomery, sub right half, was carrying the ball when it zipped from his arms after a hard tackle. The ball popped into the air, and Dutton, Santa Clara left end, caught it on the fly.

He started goalward. George Kline, Texas left half, overtook him, but not before Dutton flipped the oval back to Dowd, sub right guard. Dowd had a clear field ahead of him and sped over the line.

Fullback Falaschi failed on the place-kick.

Baugh's passing and all around generalship was the highlight of the contest.

In the second period, Santa Clara moved from its own 42 to the T. C. U. 19 with a forward lateral, De Rosa to Gomez to Dougherty providing 18 yards. T. C. U. held and punted. Santa Clara ripped off three first downs to the T. C. U. 15 but two runnings plays lost six yards and passes failed, giving T. C. U. the ball on its own 21. The Broncos had the ball back on their own 21 as the half ended.

All-American center Darrell Lester of T. C. U. was a sparkplug in the line during the scoreless fourth period. Toward the quarter's close, Montgomery intercepted a pass on Santa Clara's 28. Baugh passed to Meyer on the 10 but McCusker, Santa Clara, intercepted another and ran to his 18. The two teams traded intercepting again and Santa Clara was on its own 12 with the ball at the end of the game.

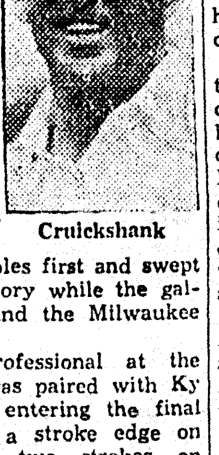
CRUICKSHANK TIES REVOLTA IN OPEN MEET AT ORLANDO

Richmond Veteran Rallies For 280; Runyan, Laffoon Are Next

ORLANDO, Fla., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Sweeping over the obstacle of a two-stroke edge Johnny Revolta held over him, Bobby Cruickshank, Richmond, Va., golfer, today tied the P. G. A. champion for the Orlando Open golf championship with scores of 280 for the 72-hole tournament.



Cruickshank

The Virginian was first to finish. He strode the final 18 holes with 33 out and 35 in for a 68, three under par. Because the field of 156 made the course so crowded, he played the last nine holes first and swept to his divided victory while the gallery crowded around the Milwaukee player he tied.

Revolta, now professional at the Miami-Biltmore, was paired with Ky Laffoon, Chicago, entering the final round. He held a stroke edge on his partner and two strokes on Cruickshank. He drew away from Laffoon by sinking a 20-foot putt at the tenth, then put his partner out of the running with par fours on the eleventh and twelfth and a birdie four on the fifteenth hole.

The P. G. A. titleholder blasted his chance to take the tournament when he went one over par, taking five on the sixteenth, and shooting into a trap on the eighteenth, ending with 73, scoring a total of 280.

Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., and Laffoon both finished with 284's. Gene Kunes took fifth prize money with 285. Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., Zell Eaton, Oklahoma City, Okla., and Willie MacFarland, Miami, tied with cards of 286.

Others finishing in the money were Harry Cooper, Chicago, Whiffy Cox, Washington, both with 287's, Tony Manero, Greensboro, N. C., Dick Metz, Chicago, Frank Walsh, Chicago, and Orville White, Memphis, Tenn., all with 288 cards.

Noteworthy exploits of the finals included Horton Smith's first 36-hole comeback in 139, three under par, to crash the circle of money winners and Willie MacFarland's procession of pars, carding sixteen pars this morning and seventeen this afternoon. But the birdies would not drop for the Aberdeen Scot.

Other scores included: Errie Ball, Mobile, Ala., 221-77—298.

COLUMBIA QUINTET TO MEET WINNFIELD

The boys are expected to be in best of condition by game time Friday.

BRADDOCK COOL TOWARDS MATCH WITH SCHMELING

Heavy Champion Tells German To Dispose Of Joe Louis First

By Eddie Brietz
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—"There is only one direction in which the heavyweight champion can move—that's down."

The speaker was James J. Braddock, titular ruler of all the heavies. He sprawled on the divan of a hotel suite today and told why he wasn't leaping at a chance to fight Max Schmeling.

"In the first place, Max isn't much of a drawing card any more. I doubt if we could gross over $250,000—$350,000 at the most. And just suppose he managed to outpoint me—where would I be?

"No sir. Once you get the title you may as well think straight. There is nothing else to win. The only thing a guy can do is cash in as much as he can while he's hot. Everybody's going to be licked some day.

"That's why I say that when I defend my title it will be against the best man available. That looks to be Louis. He is the fighter in the public eye; not Schmeling.

"If Max really wants to get the title back, let him do like the rest of us had to do. That is, fight his way through the contenders and prove himself the logical challenger. Then I'll fight him. All he has to do is beat Joe Louis."

Joe Gould, the champ's manager, couldn't keep still any longer.

"Wait a minute, Jim," he urged. "Let me say something.

"When Jimmy beat Max Baer for the title last summer, Schmeling laughed and wanted to know 'who is Braddock?' Well, we're asking now, 'Who is Schmeling?' What right has he to come over here and demand a championship bout?"

So, while Schmeling, taken back by the somewhat cool reception he received Friday, enjoyed the six-day bike race; while Madison Square Garden sent out feelers for a Schmeling-Braddock match, and while Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Century Sporting club, promised the German a gate of a million and a quarter if he'd sign with the negro, the heavyweight situation narrowed down to this:

Schmeling wants to fight Braddock for the championship. The German simply detests the idea of having to first hurdle the hard hitting Louis.

Braddock wants Louis because he believes the colored boy will outdraw Schmeling two to one. (But he'll take the German if he beats Louis).

Louis wants either man or both. He just loves to fight.

The belief grew along 49th street tonight that Schmeling will sail for Germany December 15th wthout signing to meet anybody.

TEN SELECTED IN MEDAL CONTEST

List Of Finalists For Sullivan Memorial Award Announced

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Ten American athletic stars, including four women, were named today as "finalists" in the annual contest for the Sullivan memorial medal, awarded by the amateur athletic union to the individual contributing most to the cause of sportsmanship.

The list was presented today to the annual A. A. U. convention by Gustavus T. Kirby, chairman of the Sullivan memorial award committee, as a result of preliminary country-wide balloting. A final poll will be taken to select the winner.

Conspicuously missing from the 1935 list is Jesse Owens, Ohio State's sensational track and field performer, four of whose world record performances were slated for A. A. U. approval today. Eulace Peacock of Temple, rival negro who beat Owens twice in the national A. A. U. track and field championships, is among the candidates for the award.

W. Lawson Little, Jr., world amateur golf champion whose omission from the 1934 list caused criticism, is among this year's finalists.

Delegates commented on the fact the list includes Jack Medica, Seattle's ace swimmer, but not Ralph Flannagan of Miami, who conquered Medica in the national outdoor aquatic championships this year at 880 yards and one mile.

Besides Peacock, Little and Medica, the 1935 list includes Percy Beard of the New York Athletic club, record-holding high hurdler; Helen Wills Moody of Berkeley, Calif., Wimbledon tennis champion; Leonore Kight of Homestead, Pa., national free style swimming champion; Helen Hull Jacobs of Berkeley, Calif., four-times national tennis champion; Keith Brown of Yale, new pole vault record-holder; Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas, national tennis champion; and Glenna Collett Vare, national golf champion.

Red river, which separates Oklahoma from Texas on the south, got its name through being fed in part by the waters of Red creek, Mud creek, Muddy Boggy creek and Deep Red run.

Joe Louis Favored To Continue His Winning Streak Against Paolino

By John J. Romano

Joe Louis will wrap six yards of gause bandage and two yards of adhesive tape on his fists and then try them out on the hard head of Paolino Uzcudun at Madison Square Garden in New York next Friday evening.

Louis is confronted with the task of accomplishing something 66 different fighters failed to do in the past 12 years. That is knock down or stop the sock-absorbing fighter from the Basque country of Spain.

Joe will have 15 rounds in which to turn the trick. He is capable of doing it.

If he does he will be quoted an odds on favorite to do the same to champion James J. Braddock. If he doesn't. It will not be because he did not try. Call it ambition if you will.

Louis loves knockouts. Not because they write another brilliant chapter in his spectacular record, but really because he does not exert himself overly much. What can be accomplished in one or two rounds should be done in such time and send the fans away quickly, so that he may get back to the sleep he dearly loves. Next to fighting Joe loves his sleep and fried chicken. One comes before the other. Unless Paolino has developed a better defense than he has shown on previous visits to this country this routine will not be changed.

Withstood Schmeling's Blows

Paolino returns to this country with the proud boast of having held Max Schmeling to a close decision in 12 rounds. The German was considered the most accurate hitter with a right hand until Joe Louis came on the scene. They say that anyone the German Schlager nails with a right hand will also go down.

But Paolino points to 39 rounds of action with Schmeling without once tasting the ignominy of being knocked off his feet. If further proof of his durability is required one has but to recall that the Basque successfully stood up under Baer's wallops for 20 rounds and the result was the same.

Talk to Paolino about Louis and he asks the simple question, "Who this Louis? Puncher! Bah! Louis maybe he can fight. But he no fight like Paolino. Maybe fellows like Baer, Carnera and Levinsky much too scared to fight. But Paolino no scared. Paolino he fight. Louis maybe he not so tough after the first round."

Has Plenty Of Courage

With simple, child-like faith in his prowess and ability to withstand the best wallops of the hardest punchers in the world, Paolino honestly thinks he has more than an even chance of halting the winning streak of the Detroit Bomber.

Those who saw Carnera, Levinsky and Baer wilt under the impassive gaze of the negro and then quiver like a hooked fish after sampling one of his blows think Paolino will execute a right about face and look for a soft spot on the canvas.

Paolino's gameness is not questioned. If a gamer fighter ever lived he has yet to show the same stuff Paolino exhibited in his first fight against Max Schmeling. It was not until after the Basque had stood up manfully under 15 rounds of merciless hammering was it disclosed that he entered the ring with a badly wrenched right arm.

For a week before that scrap Paolino refused to have his picture taken in ring clothes. He would disappear in the direction of Williamstown when he was supposed to go through his training stunts. The reason for this strange conduct was not known until after he was led to his dressing room, his face a mass of livid, bleeding welts and his injured arm giving him excruciating pain.

"I hurt him," he mumbled as a doctor worked over the arm. "Hurt terrible but me no quit. I think I make good showing and get another chance. With good arm I lick him."

Believes In Himself

That is the sum and substance of the mental attitude of the man selected to test the wallop of the hardest hitter to come up in years. It is extremely doubtful if Paolino knows the meaning of fear. He is not dumb enough that he does not know all about Joe Louis. He would not have been urged to leave the security of his comfortable holdings in the gambling halls of Seville for the sake of picking up the loser's share of the purse if he was. Unlike some fighters who are better read than the Basque he has invested his money wisely and enjoys a splendid income. It is enough to permit him to retire in comfortable circumstances.

If he honestly did not think he could whip Louis, or go the distance without suffering a knockdown, no amount of urging or purse would induce him to come over and have his mouth mashed against his gold-covered teeth. Like the proud Basque one often reads about, Paolino retains the spirit of his ancestors. If he has to go down, he will do that in a spirited exchange.

Paolino comes at a time when age causes the retirement of better fighters than he. At thirty-six he is too far gone to assimilate the punching Louis will hand out. Add to that his few bouts scattered over a long length of time and you have the reason why the writer, and many others of the same frame of mind, consider Paolino Uzcudun the next victim of Joe Louis's pulverizing fists by a knockout.

Engagement Of Miss Ruby Wise And Benjamin Parnell Announced; Wedding To Take Place In December

A wedding announcement which comes as a complete surprise and one in which the affectionate interest of friends in this section of the state is centered, due to the prominence of the families, is that made today by Mr. and Mrs. Melville S. Dixon as follows:

"Mr. and Mrs. Melville Dixon announce the marriage of their daughter
Mary Ann
to
Mr. John Bishop Johnston, Junior
Friday, June the twenty-eighth, 1935,
in Oak Grove, Louisiana."

Mrs. Johnston, one of the most charming members of the younger set is a member of this year's senior class of Neville High school. She is a member of one of Monroe's most prominent families, all of whom have long been identified with the social and civic life of this community.

Mr. Johnston is a graduate of the City High school and attended the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., and Louisiana State university. He is a member of Kappa Sigma and Delta Sigma fraternities. Mr. Johnston is also a member of an old southern family, prominent in the civic affairs of this city for many years.

Mr. Johnston and his bride will make their home in this city, where Mr. Johnston is associated with the Louisiana Cotton Cooperative association.

Wedding Date Set

Interest is centered today in the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. William Thurmon of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Dorothy Apgar, to Mr. J. Wesley Hodge, son of Mrs. J. W. Wesley Hodge and the late Dr. Hodge of West Monroe.

The marriage, characterized by simplicity, will take place at the home of the bride-elect's parents on the twenty-second of December at four o'clock in the afternoon.

Miss Apgar is a graduate of Neville High school and for the past year has been engaged in secretarial work in the office of Dr. Charles E. Kenney, principal of Neville High school. She is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Apgar on her paternal side and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Gaines on her maternal side. Mr. Apgar was mayor of Monroe for several years and the Gaines family descended from an old French family of New Orleans.

Mr. Hodge attended Chamberlain Hunt academy, Port Gibson, Miss., and is a member of Sigma Phi Omega fraternity. He is manager of Delta Point plantation.

Brilliant Nuptial Event

A brilliant nuptial event of unusual prominence and one in which the attention of society in this section of the state is centered claimed in marriage Miss Louise Cummings, attractive daughter of Mrs. Benton Orville Cummings and the late Mr. B. O. Cummings of Columbia, La., and Mr. Micajah Cicero McGehee of Houston, Texas, son of Mrs. Ella L. McGehee of Meadville, Miss.

The ceremony was performed at the First Methodist church of Columbia, Saturday, December the seventh, at six o'clock in the evening, with Reverend V. D. Morris, officiating.

A nuptial concert was rendered by Mr. J. L. Adams, cousin of the bride, while the fashionable assemblage was being seated. "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" and "Because" were sung in beautiful voice by Mrs. S. L. Adams, who wore a lovely bronze lace model. "The Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin was played for the processional and Mendelssohn's wedding march used for the recessional. During the ceremony, Liszt's "Liebestraum" was impressively rendered.

Southern smilax, palms and luxuriant ferns formed the background for a central grouping of tall, tulle-tied Marie Antoinette baskets filled with clusters of bronze chrysanthemums. Wrought-iron candelabra holding lighted cathedral tapers placed at artistic intervals added a note of beauty. Southern smilax entwined the circular chancel rail at each end of which was placed a seven-branched candelabrum holding lighted tapers. The pews reserved for the families and out-of-town guests were marked by bows of white satin ribbon.

The attendants of the bride included the matron of honor, Mrs. Floyd Noblin of Forest, Miss.; the maid of honor, Miss Rosalie Elam of Portland, Ark.; the bridesmaids, Miss Rae Thomas of Alexandria, La., Miss Regina Morton of Brookhaven, Miss., Miss Helane King of Helena, Ark., and Miss Cornelia Burk of Columbia, La.

The best man was Mr. J. C. Means, Jr., of Houston, Texas. Entering first were the groomsmen, Mr. Joe McGehee, brother of the groom, of Houston, Texas; Mr. Harry Boyd Williams of Houston, Texas; Mr. Oren O. Cummings, brother of the bride, of Farmerville, La.; Mr. William E. Dyche, of Houston, Texas. The groom, Mr. McGehee, his best man, the groomsmen, and Mr. Russell Cummings, who entered with the bride, were in formal evening attire.

The bridesmaids wore classic marigold velvet models with cowl necklines and full Grecian sleeves buttoned at the wrist. Small velvet buttons were placed down the back of the waist and the flaring floor-length skirts that ended in a short train. Marigold satin slippers and close-fitting turbans of velvet with maline veils caught to the back, were worn. Picturesque sheaves of bronze colored chrysanthemums tied with copper laque ribbons were carried.

Mrs. Floyd Noblin, sister of the groom, was the charming matron of honor. She was gowned in copper laque velvet fashioned along the same graceful lines as the gowns of the bridesmaids and carried an arm bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums tied with copper laque ribbon.

Miss Rosalie Elam of Portland, Ark., the maid of honor, was beautiful in a gown of orange glow velvet, the lines of which followed the style of the bridesmaids' dresses. She carried an arm bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums from which fell streamers of orange glow satin ribbon.

The beautiful bride was accompanied to the altar by her brother, Russell Cummings, of Columbia, by whom she was given in marriage, and was met at the chancel by the groom and his best man, Mr. J. C. Means, Jr.

The bride's brunette beauty was enhanced by her regal robe of ivory bridal satin. Her imported gown, a Tafel model, was lovely in its simplicity. The bodice had a cowl neckline, and pleated sleeves that ended in full puffs at the elbow, from which extended tight-fitting cuffs. The skirt fell into a court train over which fell a misty veil of ivory illusion. The veil was arranged cap effect to the back of the head and caught with a band of orange blossoms. With charming sentiment she wore a great aunt's yellow gold, diamond-cluster antique bar pin. Her superb bridal bouquet was of orchids, bride's roses and lilies of the valley tied with white satin ribbon.

Immediately after the wedding an informal reception was held at the bride's home for the bridal party, relatives, and intimate friends. Mrs. Cummings was assisted in receiving by the groom's mother, Mrs. McGehee, his sister, Mrs. Noblin and by Mrs. S. L. Adams.

Mrs. Cummings, mother of the bride, wore a model of brick velvet fashioned along lines that accentuated her stateliness. A corsage of Talisman roses added a distinctive touch.

Mrs. McGehee, charming mother of the groom, was lovely in a blue lace model with a corsage of Talisman roses.

The reception suite was beautifully decorated in yellow chrysanthemums and southern smilax. Extending across the arched opening to the dining room were garlands of southern smilax. The dining room reflected a bridal theme, with groups of tall baskets of white chrysanthemums. On the buffet, silver candelabra held white cathedral candles. The bridal table was laid with white satin veiled with a handsome cloth of Venetian lace. The center of the table was graced by a three-tiered bride's cake surmounted by a miniature bride and groom and beautifully embossed with bride's roses set in exquisite filet work. Candlesticks held white tapers. Graciously assisting in the dining room were Mrs. L. H. Wells, Mrs. R. B. Reitzell and Miss Idalee King.

Beautiful gifts were on display in the solarium where Mrs. L. R. Adams and Mrs. L. L. West greeted the guests. The bride's book was kept by Mrs. G. W. Brown of Portland, Ark.

Mr. and Mrs. McGehee left for Los Angeles, Calif. Mrs. McGehee wore for traveling a dark green model trimmed in silver fox with black accessories. A corsage of orchids completed the costume. They will make their home in Houston, Texas.

Since the announcement of her engagement the bride, who is a member of Kappa Delta sorority and a popular member of younger society has been feted socially. She graduated from Whitworth Junior college, Brookhaven, Miss., and later graduated in voice from Louisiana State university. She is prominently connected in north Louisiana.

Mr. McGehee received his A. B.

IMPORTANT TRADES LOOM AS BIG LEAGUES MEET

TWO BALL CLUBS AND MANY STARS ON THE MARKET

What Mack Will Do With His Four Aces Is Chief Topic Of Talk

By Paul Mickelson
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—(AP)—A baseball player market that promises to shatter all known records for rumors, denials and ultimate deals opens in Chicago Tuesday as soon as the Hotel switchboard girls finish their "get up calls" to the traders, buyers and sellers.

Two whole ball clubs—the orphan Boston Braves and the St. Louis Browns—and a million dollars worth of player talent are on the mart, which will be kept open for 24 hours a day for almost a week. Every club, represented by three or four officials as a backstop lest some one of them gets talked into trading a star for buttons, will circulate around with well formed shopping tours.

For the fifth straight year, Connie Mack, grand patriarch of the Philadelphia Athletics, and Branch Rickey, farm boss for the St. Louis Cardinals, will be the central figures. Forced to develop stars and then sell them because of lack of patronage in their home parks, they are expected to release the flood gates for a score or more of big league deals.

The aged Connie is expected to announce the sale of one of the most sought after quartets in baseball—First Baseman Jimmy Foxx, Infielders Frank "Pinky" Higgins and Eric McNair and Outfielder Roger Cramer. Higgins is expected to go to the Yankees, McNair and Cramer to the Red Sox and Foxx to any second division club, possibly the White Sox, which will pay Connie's price of between $75,000 and $125,000.

Outfielder Al Simmons, who infuriated his bosses by ripping a 1936 contract that offered him $12,500 instead of last year's $25,000, also is slated to move, probably to Detroit.

The Giants, who traded Pitcher Roy Parmelee to the Cardinals for Second Baseman Burgess Whitehead during the Dayton meeting, are hot after First Baseman Johnny Mize and Pepper Martin. The New York Yankees, Boston Red Sox and Washington also are trying to swing a big three-cornered deal with Outfielder Roy Johnson of the Red Sox the central figure.

Cleveland is still after a first rank catcher, the Chicago Cubs admit they will swap any outfielder except Augie Galan and Frank Demaree for a starting pitcher, and so it goes with all the other clubs.

The St. Louis syndicate, headed by George Sisler, may close its deal for the purchase of the St. Louis Browns from the Phil Ball estate, but everything concerning the fate of the Boston Braves is pure conjecture.

Night baseball, successful last season at Cincinnati, will come up for discussion at the meetings of the club owners.

QUINN WANTS BRAVES

BOSTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Bob Quinn, former president of the Boston Red Sox and more recently general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was headed for Chicago today, prepared to bid in the bankrupt Boston Braves during next week's baseball meetings.

Quinn, according to C. F. Adams, whose 65 per cent equity in the Braves vanished when the National league took possession of that last-place club, has his financial backing and is prepared to offer $325,000, enough to erase the tribal debts.

If Quinn's offer is accepted by the league, Adams will provide him with enough credit to conduct the club's affairs on a major league scale. Adams, bowing to Commissioner J. M. Landis' stand against mixing horse racing with baseball, does not intend to own a single share of Braves' stock or have a word to say in its management.

Quinn, however, will encounter other bidders for the Braves. Adams has learned that other interests are prepared to make a $200,000 offer for the Boston club, which, during last season ran into dog track difficulties, lease problems and bankruptcy.

The Boston magnate, who heads a huge chain store system, owns two professional hockey clubs, and has an interest in Suffolk Downs race track, is eager now to step out of the baseball picture.

TWIN BILL PLAN ABANDONED

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Sunday double-headers and Monday holidays, the St. Louis Cardinals synthetic arrangement, will probably continue next season without the aid of the schedule-makers.

Sam Breadon, president of the club, who feels Sabbath twin bills bring more clicks in the turnstiles than single games on Sunday and Monday, said today he had decided not to campaign for a change in the regular schedules.

"I've given the idea some thought," he said, "but I haven't notified headquarters to place it before the joint major league meeting in Chicago next week, and therefore, so far as I am concerned, it will not be broached there.

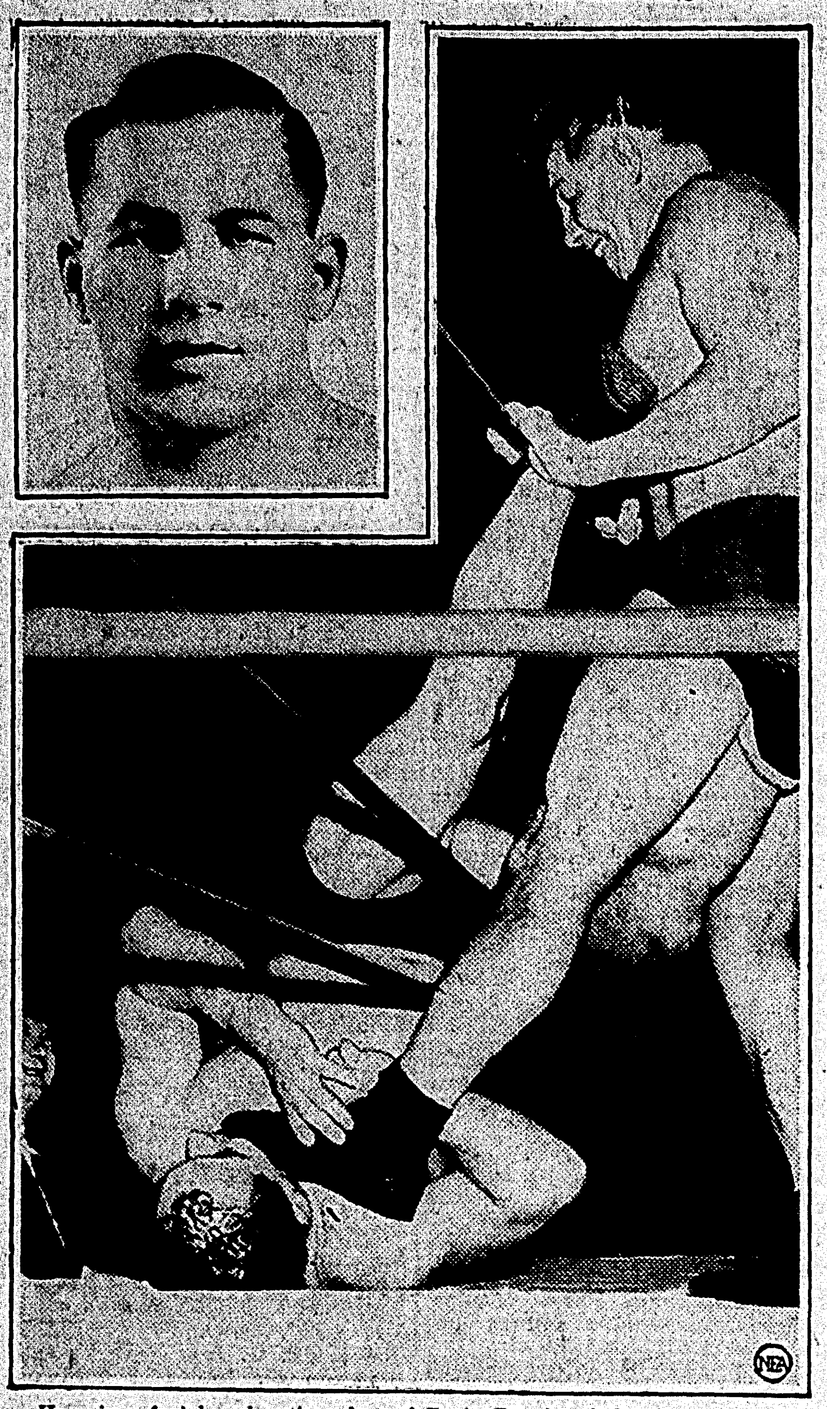
"I may bring it up for discussion at the National league meeting earlier in the week at Chicago, but I will not request any definite conclusion."

If Breadon's idea were put into practice, no games would be scheduled on Monday's and there would be double-headers every Sunday.

Under present league rules, synthetic Sunday double-headers arranged by moving up Monday's games, are permitted after June 15. [illegible] more than any other club in [illegible] the Cardinals have been [illegible] for the past several sea-

A. A. U. Convention Debates U. S. Participation In Olympics

PICK OF THE PACHYDERMS



Here is a facial and action shot of Ernie Dusek, of Omaha, reported to have been selected as the successor to Danno O'Mahoney as heavyweight grappling champion. There are four Duseks, and they are known as Wrestling's Riot Squad, a reputation gained by stomping on opponents' physiognomies, as shown here, and generally contributing to the delight of the mat-minded.

Ernie Dusek Slated As Next Wrestling Champ

O'Mahoney Flops As Heavyweight Ruler And Will Be Deposed

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Those in command of the main body of heavyweight wrestlers are said to have decided upon the successor to Danno O'Mahoney as champion.

The fortunate young behemoth is reported to be Ernie Dusek, of the Four Omaha Duseks.

Ernie Dusek, 25, has filled out to a good 240 pounds within the last year, and is blessed with all the qualities of the ideal titleholder. He is one of the more magnetic attractions. He can emote with the best. The bugs either attend to see him pull somebody apart or be pulled apart himself. And the biggest thing of all in his favor is that he really can wrestle. The young man requires no policemen or bodyguards.

Ernie Dusek has been around several years now, and is entitled to the opportunity. Besides, his oldest brother, Rudy, is one of the powers of the industry, being actively associated with Jack Curley and Joe (Toots) Mondt, of the New York branch. I hear that it was Rudy's insistence that brought about the decision in his kid brother's favor.

O'Mahoney Poor Repeater

The dethroning of O'Mahoney is scheduled to take place between now and the Irishman's return to his native land in March.

O'Mahoney has served his purpose and even the clan is commencing to object to his being the head man.

The most damaging indictment against the former soldier is that he cannot be brought back to the more important centers at a proift.

O'Mahoney had little or no experience when Jack McGrath, of Worcester, imported him. Danno obtained a lot of publicity through the introduction of the Irish whip, whatever that is, but it generally was agreed that Jim Londos presented the title to him in Boston last summer. Danno was quite an attraction for a time, particularly with the Irish of south Boston, but lost appeal with each appearance. He does not look the part of a champion, and shortly began to attract unfavorable press notices. This is fatal to a star pachyderm.

"O'Mahoney doesn't know any more about wrestling than John Quincy Adams did at the age of 3," read one typical New York report. "He isn't strong. His arms and chest and legs are those of a youngster who is still years shy of complete development. He drew only a handful to the Garden."

San Francisco critics asserted that O'Mahoney represented in the crudest pattern the fraud of wrestling. In Detroit, he "looked like a high school tackle trying to make the team."

The grappling lords basked in the glow of O'Mahoney sucker money for a time, but have emerged with a painful sunburn. They fumbled with the gates when they tried to stuff Danno down the patrons' threats.

Wrestlers Demand Change

At long as O'Mahoney drew, the customers, the remainder of the field made no protest, but when the trade stayed away in vast numbers, the clan commenced to howl for a worthier leader.

Billy Sandow, who managed Ed Strangler Lewis for more than 20 years, has led the fight against O'Mahoney.

It is significant that the man Sandow is ballyhooing, Everett Marshall, has not met O'Mahoney since the son of old Erin gained possession of the diamond belt. Every time Marshall appears, which is five or six nights a week, Sandow hops into the ring to offer O'Mahoney a substantial guarantee and $5,000 to charity in return for his signing for a match with Marshall. This isn't doing the bone-bending dodge any good, and the better ear manglers want a limb twister on top who can do something about it.

Ernie Dusek appears to be the man. The Duseks are known as Wrestling's Riot Squad. The other two brothers are Emil and Joey. They are Bohemians. Rudy was taught by the renowned Farmer Burns and in turn instructed his brothers. The present plan is for the four to make a world tour with Ernie wearing the crown.

Those close to the racket tell you that O'Mahoney will be the last of the trick, or built-up champions. It is expected that their experience with Danno has taught the powers a good lesson.

Wrestling may be largely acrobatics, but even those who pay to see it insist that the champion know a flying mare from a flying trapeze.

PITTSBURGH FIVE HAS IMPRESSIVE 8-YEAR RECORD

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—Strike out the 1931-33 season and the Pittsburgh Panthers—opponents of the L. S. U. Tigers, January 2 in the Sugar Bowl—have one of the greatest records in the game since 1927.

It was in '27 that Coach Dr. H. C. Carlson jacked-up his schedule, got his system to clicking and made Pitt basketball conscious.

If you discount a disasterous 1931-32 campaign, in which a long trip to the Pacific coast wrecked the team, the Panther record since 1927 is 130 victories against 24 defeats. In 1931 Pitt lost 16 and won only 15.

Since '27 Pittsburgh—playing the best in the game—has lost no more than five games in any one season and they've done that only twice. Here's their record:

1927-28—Won 21, lost 0.
1928-29—Won 17, lost 5.
1929-30—Won 23, lost 2.
1930-31—Won 20, lost 4.
1931-32—Won 15, lost 16.
1932-33—Won 17, lost 4.
1933-34—Won 18, lost 4.
1934-35—Won 17, lost 5.

Carlson, who has made famous the Panthers "figure eight" offense, was himself a basketball star and football player in his undergraduate days at Pittsburgh. He captained the undefeated and untied 1917 team and is rated one of the best ends in Pitt history.

Successor to Andy Kerr in 1922, Carlson is one coach who doesn't "moan." He believes that he can win 'em and doesn't hesitate to say so.

BOYCOTT MOTION IS DEFEATED BY NARROW MARGIN

Final Decision To Be Made In Last Convention Session Today

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—After voting to table a sweeping Olympic boycott resolution, by a narrow margin, the Amateur Athletic Union's annual convention was precipitated into a wide-open debate on the controversy late today by attempts to put through a substitute motion, toned down to support American participation in the games but still protest Nazi athletic policies.

The convention was split wide open on the whole issue as a direct consequence of the earlier tactical victory gained by proponents of American participation, led by Avery Brundage of Chicago, the president of the American Olympic committee.

The vote to table the original boycott resolution, offered by Louis Di Benedetto of New Orleans, was announced as 61 to 55, minus fractions which led to some subsequent dispute among tabulators of the balloting.

Charging they had been the victims of "double dealing," boycott advocates, led by Jeremiah T. Mahoney, president of the A. A. U., quickly seized their parliamentary opportunity to reopen their fight when a substitute motion was offered by Gustavus T. Kirby of New York.

Kirby's motion, in effect, was designed to put the A. A. U. on record as favoring full American participation but, simultaneously, demanding vigilance by international athletic authorities against racial or religious discrimination in Germany. The motion also included a denouncement of Nazi policies.

Kirby's motion, after several amendments designed to put "teeth" into it, was promptly followed by a substitute motion, flatly asking the A. A. U. to oppose participation in the Olympics, if they are held in Germany. This motion was put before the convention by Charles L. Ornstein of New York, who charged Brundage with violating pre-convention pledges.

Mahoney stepped down from the presiding chair to continue the attack and insist that there be no further side-stepping of the main issue, specificially Germany's adherence or non-adherence to Olympic pledges of fair play.

The session was adjourned shortly after seven o'clock, thus putting the final decision on the entire matter over to the final session of the convention tomorrow.

Brundage closed the debate for the day with a speech in which he cited numerous records and evidence to back his contention that Germany was adhering to its Olympic pledges. He again sounded the note of warning that the A. A. U. was in danger of wrecking itself if it insisted upon opposing participation in the Olympic games.

TIGERS WANT TO GO

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Bernie Moore, Louisiana State university's famed track—and football—coach and member of the Olympic coaching staff, and outstanding Louisiana spike athletes today favored American participation in the Berlin contests.

"I don't see why they don't quit this foolishness," Moore said, commenting on the controversy over American participation.

"This arguing isn't going to get us anywhere We know we're going to be in them (the Olympics)."

Here's the way the athletes, most of whom were developed by Moore, sound off:

Jack Torrance, world champion shot-putter—"I don't see why we shouldn't go. Germany is putting out too much money preparing for these games to ruin them now. Besides they figure we have a pretty good chance to win this year * * *."

Glenn "Slats" Hardin, L. S. U., 400-meter world record holder—"there is no reason why we shouldn't enter."

Buddy Blair, L. S. U.'s javelin hurler—"Sure I want to go to Berlin. Herman Neugrass (Tulane sprinter) wants to go and he's Jewish."

Johnny Morriss, 1932 Olympic hurdler—"Of course we want to go. When we went over there to Berlin in 1933 they treated us swell. They aren't going to let a question of racial difference ruin their chances. I know Al Moreau, who had a great season in Europe last summer wants to go."

Ted O'Neal, L. S. U. distance man—"I am in favor of participating."

BANQUET TENDERED COLUMBIA PLAYERS

COLUMBIA, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—Last Tuesday night the football team of the Columbia high school was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. M. Tickell with a banquet in honor of the boys.

Interesting talks were given by H. S. Bankston, principal and coach, and Rev. J. D. Kitchingham, pastor of First Baptist church.

The following players, cheer leaders and student managers were present: James Cook, Marvin Corley, Hollis Cruse, Edgar Duke, Cecil Duke, Garland Gregory, Herman Gunn, Joe Hauge, Don Haney, Vance Harrelson, James and John Russ Hawkins, John Edward Hundley, Ulis Kelly, Wilson Lee, Hebert Lewellyan, George Martin, Joe May, Bruce Mosely, John Self, Frank Tickell and C. W. Traylor, players; Josephene Meredith, Mary Humble and J. W. James, cheer leaders; Drue Adams, Earl Harris, Elbern Carr, and Berl Wilkins, student managers.

RED DAWSON MAY SUCCEED TED COX AS TULANE COACH

St. Paul Paper Says Former Backfield Ace Will Return To Wave

ST. PAUL, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The St. Paul Pioneer Press says reports were being circulated in the Twin Cities tonight that Lowell (Red) Dawson, University of Minnesota backfield coach and former Tulane university quarterback, will return to his alma mater as head football coach.

Announcement was made in New Orleans several days ago that Ted Cox, Tulane coach, will be replaced as head coach, but will be retained in the athletic department.

Dawson came to Minnesota in 1932 with Bernie Bierman, former Tulane mentor, after starring under the latter's direction at the southern school.

Dawson was at Los Angeles today to scout the game between Southern California and Washington. The latter team is Minnesota's first gridiron opponent next year.

It was said here Dawson planned to visit New Orleans on his way back to Minnesota, lending strength to the report he may be named as successor to Cox.

IT'S TOUGH, MATES!

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The coach whose team loses the annual Louisiana State-Tulane football game generally gets the ax.

It didn't take Tulane long to act after the crushing 41-0 L. S. U. drubbing last Saturday.

The worst defeat in the history of the ancient classic wasn't a matter of record a week before the athletic council announced it was looking for a new mentor.

That's the way things were at L. S. U. last year when Tulane beat the Tigers 13-12 and brought the wrath of the late Senator Huey P. Long down upon Coach Biff Jones. Jones resigned.

Clark Shaughnessy, now coach at Chicago, lost his grip at Tulane when his team lost to L. S. U., 6-0 in 1926. Mike Donahue and Russ Cohen were other coaches who bid farewell to L. S. U. because the annual classic turned out "wrong."

No matter how bad a season is for the schools, the alumni will usually stick to the coach if he can come through with a season-end victory in the annual contest.

Tulane's season this year wasn't so bad, although the team lost four games and won six, but the alumni in recent years have been expecting a perfect record.

Cox last year turned out a team which tied for the Southeastern conference championship and won in the inaugural Sugar Bowl game against Temple. In his four years at Tulane his teams won 28 games and lost 10.

But the athletic council was looking for a new coach today. They were very secretive but fans believed they were trying to interest Major Bob Neyland, former coach at Tennessee, Dana X. Bible, coach at Nebraska, or Bernie Bierman, Minnesota coach, who gave Tulane its Rose Bowl team.

Waterproof, Springhill Meet Friday For Title

Record Crowd Expected At Waterproof For North Louisiana Classic

WATERPROOF, La., Dec. 7.—(Special).—The battle for the north Louisiana Class B football championship will be fought here between the Springhill Lumberjacks, champions of District One, and the Tigers of Waterproof High school, District Two titleholders, next Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Both teams are reported to be in fine shape for the title clash. The winner of this game will meet the winner of the south Louisiana title for the state championship.

Arrangements for Friday's battle were worked out last Friday at Homer following Springhill's 15 to 0 victory over the Arcadia Hornets for the District One title. H. S. Bankston of Columbia, chairman of the District Two class B football committee, and R. L. Phillips, of Plain Dealing, chairman of the District One committee, made the plans for the impending game.

The Tigers will be outweighed nearly 10 pounds per man by the Springhill eleven, which boasts one of the heaviest high school aggregations in the state. The difference in weight will be especially noted in the line, but the Waterproof backs will be about on par with the invaders in poundage.

The Bengal line averages 160 pounds and the backfield averages 164. The Springhill forwards will average 173 pounds and the backs 162. As a team the invaders will average 169 pounds per man to the locals 161 pounds per man.

Head Coach Statum Crosby and Assistant Coach Murray Lambre, both products of Louisiana State Normal college, will begin work Monday getting their squad in shape for the game, and believe that their charges will turn back Coach Cracker Brown's aggregation. The locals have hard workouts ahead of them for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday with stress on offensive and defensive tactics. They will rest Thursday preparatory to the game.

The locals have a stellar line in William Hunter, Joe Kyfes, Raymond Hudnall, J. B. Shelton, Corneal Goldman, Parker Wiggins and Parnell Stockstill. The work of Kyfes, guard; Goldman, tackle; and Wiggins, end, has been especially outstanding all season, and they have the support of Waterproof fans for all-state selections. Bob Fife, the stellar Tiger quarterback, is another whom Coach Crosby rates as all-state material. Fife with Willie Bennett, Almond Marron and Paul Welsh form the fast Bengal backfield.

Several members of the Waterproof reserve squad who may see action in the title game are Lewis Stockstill, taskle; V. P. Ferrington and Roy Gibson, guards; Dalton Miller and Robert Rife, ends; and Ustis Fulton and McGruder Adams, backs.

The powerful Lumberjack line composed of Pete Duke, Punjab Wright, Eber Haynes, Elva Haynes, Robert Smith, Curtis Coyle and Kelly Byrd is expected to give the local offensive plenty of trouble. The lightest man in the line is Elva Haynes, 155, at right guard, and the remainder of the forwards weigh well over 160 pounds. Duke and Wright are two powerful ends weighing 185 and 189 pounds, respectively. Two other linemen who play good ball are "Goat" Branton, tackle, and Marshall Green, center, both of the reserve squad.

Gus Boucher, Springhill's 175-pound quarterback, is hailed as one of the best ball carriers of the year and was accredited with a big part of the honors in defeating the Arcadia aggregation in the play-off battle. The remainder of the Lumberjack backfield consists of Charles Miller, William Maxwell and Ernie Tyler.

Coach Brown, a former Centenary star, has his Lumberjacks in fine trim and will continue working on his team's power this week. Waterproof is preparing for a big day when the two teams meet and the biggest crowd ever to witness a local football game is expected to be on hand.

The probable starting lineups as given by Coaches Brown and Crosby are:

Springhill	Wgt.	Pos.	Wgt.	Waterproof
Duke	185	LE	167	Wiggins
Coyle	168	LT	170	Shelton
Byrd	163	LG	155	Hudnall
Smith	173	C	145	Hunter
Elva Haynes	155	RG	150	Kyfes
Eber Haynes	179	RT	180	Goldman
Wright	189	RE	150	Stockstill
Boucher	175	QB	178	Fife
Miller	155	HB	147	Marron
Maxwell	140	HB	150	Welsh
Tyler	178	FB	180	Bennett

WASHINGTON UPSETS SOUTHERN CAL., 6-2

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Byron Haines added another weird chapter to the 1935 football season today when he accounted for all the scoring as Washngton defeated Southern California 6 to 2 before 35,000.

Playing for the first time since he was selected as an all-Coast halfback, Haines started by picking up the opening kickoff on his one-yard line and carrying it behind his goal line where he was tackled for a safety and two points for U. S. C.

Haines came back in the second period to justify his selection on the honor team by racing 25 yards for the only touchdown of the contest.

Southern California threatened three times in the final period but the Huskies stopped them.

GREAT TRACKMEN WILL COMPETE IN SUGAR BOWL MEET

First Preview Of Olympic Athletes To Be Held At Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—The first preview of the 1936 Olympic track and field games comes off December 28 in the Sugar Bowl's first invitational track carnival here at Loyola stadium.

Fifty-two of America's greatest performers from coast to coast—men who are certain to be in the Berlin games—are coming to New Orleans for the first outdoor track and field pageant ever held in the month of December.

This field was just "coming up" at the time of the 1932 games, although six of its members competed at Los Angeles and one—Glenn "Slats" Hardin of Louisiana State—set a world's record that year.

Featured events of the Sugar Bowl program—the mile, two mile, half mile, low hurdles and shot put—list athletes who have shattered either every world or American record on the books.

It's not hard to imagine just what will happen when Glenn Cunningham, owner of the mile record of 4:06.8, and two of his greatest rivals, Gene Venzke and Glenn Dawson, line up in the Bowl. Their three-cornered races were classics of the 1935 season.

Try to dope a two mile race between Joe Mangan, present American record holder at 9:15.4, and Norman Bright, the Californian who has clipped 2.2 seconds off that mark and now has his record up for adoption.

Picture a hurdle race that brings together Sam Allen, the intercollegiate champion and record holder; Al Moreau, who twice equalled the world's record of 14.2 last summer in Europe, and Johnny Morris whose 14.3 race was once the world's best.

Add to that the one event—shot put—which people, until big Jack Torrance came along, never looked upon as a thrill producer. Jack, a 300-pound specimen, changed all that with a 57 feet 1 inch heave, which surpassed what coaches and experts had set as a maximum in the event.

Top off these four events with half mile race featuring Indiana' Charlie Hornbostel, the greatest sinc Ben Eastman; Ross L. Bush, whom Dean Cromwell, sage of Souther Cal., predicts as the best half mile of 1936, and Charlie Beetham, Ohi State star, who can keep up wit either of the first two.

These events should produce mor thrills than a three-ring circus, an the Sugar Bowl officials have als added the quarter mile, 75 yard das and hop, step and jump to their pro gram.

Glen Hardin, world record holde in the 400-meter hurdles, and twic king of the intercollegiate quarte milers, has come closer to Ben East man's 440 record of 46.4 than any ma since "Blazin' Ben" set his mark 1932.

Hardin's great 46.8 Southeaster conference race is the fastest ever ru in the south. He'll have George Arnold, Milrose A. C. star, and Be Brothers of Rice to "push" him D cember 28.

Five men who have bettered 48 fe in the hop, step and jump—two wh have brushed 50 feet—are entered this event. Roland Romero, who best is 50 feet 4 5-8 inches; Dudl Wilkins, boasting 49 feet 9 inches, a Sol Furth, a 1932 Olympic compe tor, head the list.

Cunningham, Venzke, Hornbost Hardin, Furth and Frank Crowley, steeplechaser who is entered in t mile, all completed for the U. S. the Los Angeles games.

Here in the Sugar Bowl they going to meet some of their tea mates for the invasion of the reich

P.-T. A. Is Making Progress In Dressing Dolls For Needy

Pressing Necessity Of Shoes Is Reported

By-Laws Of Twin City Council Are Amended To Include A Number Of Additional Standing Committees

At a meeting of the Twin City P.-T. A. council Thursday, Mrs. King Hunt, chairman of the doll committee, gave a report revealing that members of each local P.-T. A. organization are making excellent progress in dressing Christmas dolls for underprivileged children.

Another report rendered at the meeting stated that a pressing need for shoes for some children exists in schools here.

The council amended its by-laws to include standing committees for publicity, hospitality, programs, finance, membership and motion pictures.

It was voted to ask each P.-T. A. member to contribute one cent towards defraying the expenses of the fifth district director in her work about the district.

To Present Play

The Parent-Teacher association of the fifth district is sponsoring a play, "The Holly Wreath," to be presented by the children's theater on December 19 at the Central Grammar school, Monroe.

Members of the cast are experienced in presenting such productions and are being carefully trained for their forthcoming appearance.

Funds derived from the play will be used to assist the district officers in carrying on their work.

The cast is composed of members of the children's theater of the Monroe recreation department. The play is being supervised by Miss Lucyle Godwin, director of the recreation department.

The proceeds will be devoted to furthering P.-T. A. work in the fifth district.

President's Letter

Comments on December activities of the Louisiana Parent-Teacher association and greetings of the Christmas season are expressed in a news-letter written by Mrs. Albert L. Smith, of Winnfield, president of the state association. The letter, addressed to P.-T. A. members through the medium of this newspaper, follows:

"We are now entering the month of December, the best month of all the year, the month when our thoughts turn to home and friends and when the whole atmosphere is charged with good cheer and a desire to make someone happy. May your plans and hopes culminate at the Christmas time in the happiest holiday season you have ever experienced.

"The suggested study group topic for the month of December, 'Home Play and Recreation,' claims our interested attention. If only we would study and knowledge of this subject many of our puzzling home problems would be solved quickly and pleasantly.

"Our program topic presented by the National Parent-Teacher Magazine for this month, 'History An Aid To Modern Living,' gives us an opportunity to learn of the new meaning history has come to have for the younger generation and the important place it does and should occupy in the school curriculum.

"The National Parent-Teacher Magazine becomes better with each issue and we should go far beyond our quota in subscriptions early this year because of the usefulness of this splendid publication. However, 'its usefulness depends altogether upon its use.' Of course you are using it for your programs and study groups but have your room mothers tried the plan of circulating copies in each room in school to give every parent an opportunity to become acquainted with the magazine? This plan is becoming more popular each month and we heartily recommend that you give it a trial.

What is your group doing to interpret parent education to the community and stimulate interest in the study of child guidance problems? Dr. Ada Hart Arlitt said: 'Someone has said the truly handicapped child is not he who has physical defects but the child whose parents have no understanding of children. This would seem to be true since an understanding of the modern child is essential, not only to the ease of family living, but the child's growth and development. Its purpose is happier families and healthy, happy, thoroughly trained children.' May all Louisiana become parent-education conscious!"

Millsaps P.-T. A.

A program by students, election of a new treasurer to fill a vacancy created by resignation, routine reports, a decision to hold a study course and appointment of room mothers featured the monthly meeting of the Millsaps school Parent-Teacher association of the Louisiana Congress of Parents and Teachers.

With Mrs. Fred Bennett, president, presiding, the meeting was opened with a group of songs by pupils of the first and second grades. Pupils of the third grade gave a Swedish folk dance and song number.

A short business session was held and the resignation of Mrs. Grandstaff as treasurer was read and accepted. Mrs. Pritchett was elected to fill this vacancy. The treasurer's report was read and showed a satisfactory balance of cash on hand.

Mrs. Bennett gave a report on the shoes and clothes that has been given to the needy children of Millsaps school this winter.

It was voted to hold the study course the second Wednesday in January at Mrs. Cooper's, 1404 Cypress street at 2 p. m.

Room mothers were appointed at this time as follows: Mrs. Golson, first grade; Mrs. Hinton, second grade; Mrs. Schlikau, third grade; Mrs. Pickett, fourth grade; Mrs. Brothers, fifth grade; Mrs. Cooper, sixth grade.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the room count of the mothers was made. Miss Phylis Flanigan's second grade room was awarded the candy for having the largest number of mothers attending this meeting.

Fairbanks P.-T. A.

FAIRBANKS, La., Dc. 7.—(Special)—Dr. Gustaf Freden's address, "Armistice," was reviewed at a meeting of the Fairbanks Parent-Teacher association. Dr. Freden is a member of the faculty of Louisiana Tech. His address, in part, follows:

"The signing of the armistice on November 11, 1918, was a signal to release pent-up emotions into channels of behavior that knew no limits.

"We paid fifty-one billions of dollars for our two years in the war. 'Truly the ransom of an empire burned up in battle.' Do not forget that ten million men were deliberately killed and still a greater nummer wounded and maimed. As we come together once a year to focus our thoughts on Armistice day, how can we rejoice and make it a hilarious celebration? Down through the ages we still hear the great chorus: 'Peace on earth, good will toward men.' Again we have the sacred command: 'Thou shalt not kill!' And we broke that command in wholesale slaughter. To the wounded, helpless men in the government hospitals the war will never end. They will pay the price until relieved by death. You will turn away with a prayer that Almighty God mey grant the rulers of nations wisdom to mobilize not for war, but for everlasting peace."

The parent-teacher association's membership chairman reported 42 paid-up members and the treasurer's report showed $75.50 had been raised. It was voted to contribute $10 to an annual Christmas tree fund.

Two readings were given at the meeting by students. Kathryn Louise Worley presented "Thanksgiving Day" and James Lewis Saterfield presented "Come, Little Leaves."

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by Mesdames Boyd, Brazil, Bender, Carroll, Carter and Eubanks.

Mrs. G. B. Wilson, the association president, presided.

Welcome Branch Meets

The Welcome Branch Book club held its regular meeting Wednesday afternoon at the Y. W. C. A. Mrs. George Lofton and Mrs. Paul Neal gave interesting reports on the state convention at Natchitoches.

Outstanding in Mrs. Neal's report was the resume of Mrs. Anna Steese Richardson's talk against communists, especially those of the drawing room type. Mrs. Richardson is director of the Good Citizenship bureau of the Woman's Home Companion.

Mrs. Lofton's report on Mrs. R. C. Lawson's address on "Education for Living," was most uplifting and portrayed Mrs. Lawson, who is president of the General Federation of Women's club as a most interesting character.

Mrs. E. C. Gibson presented to the club a plan by which the FHA is building civic club houses. The members were particularly interested and hope with the aid of other clubs to build one in Monroe.

Apropos of the decision reached by members of the club to donate toward the Will Rogers memorial fund was the poem, "Aw Shucks," in memory of Will Rogers, read by the president, Mrs. George Lofton, as follows:

Ambling along, his shrewd kindly eyes
Shyly viewing the beauties
Of a new land—
Seizing the hand of an old crony,
Or of a president, fellow ambassador, senator,
Or prince—
Grinning wistfully—and humbly before his Creator
Perhaps saying whimsically:
"Y'know, Lord, all I know is what I've read
In the papers
'N' picked up as I gadded around
Hither 'n' yon;
But all this stuff that's in the papers
Just now
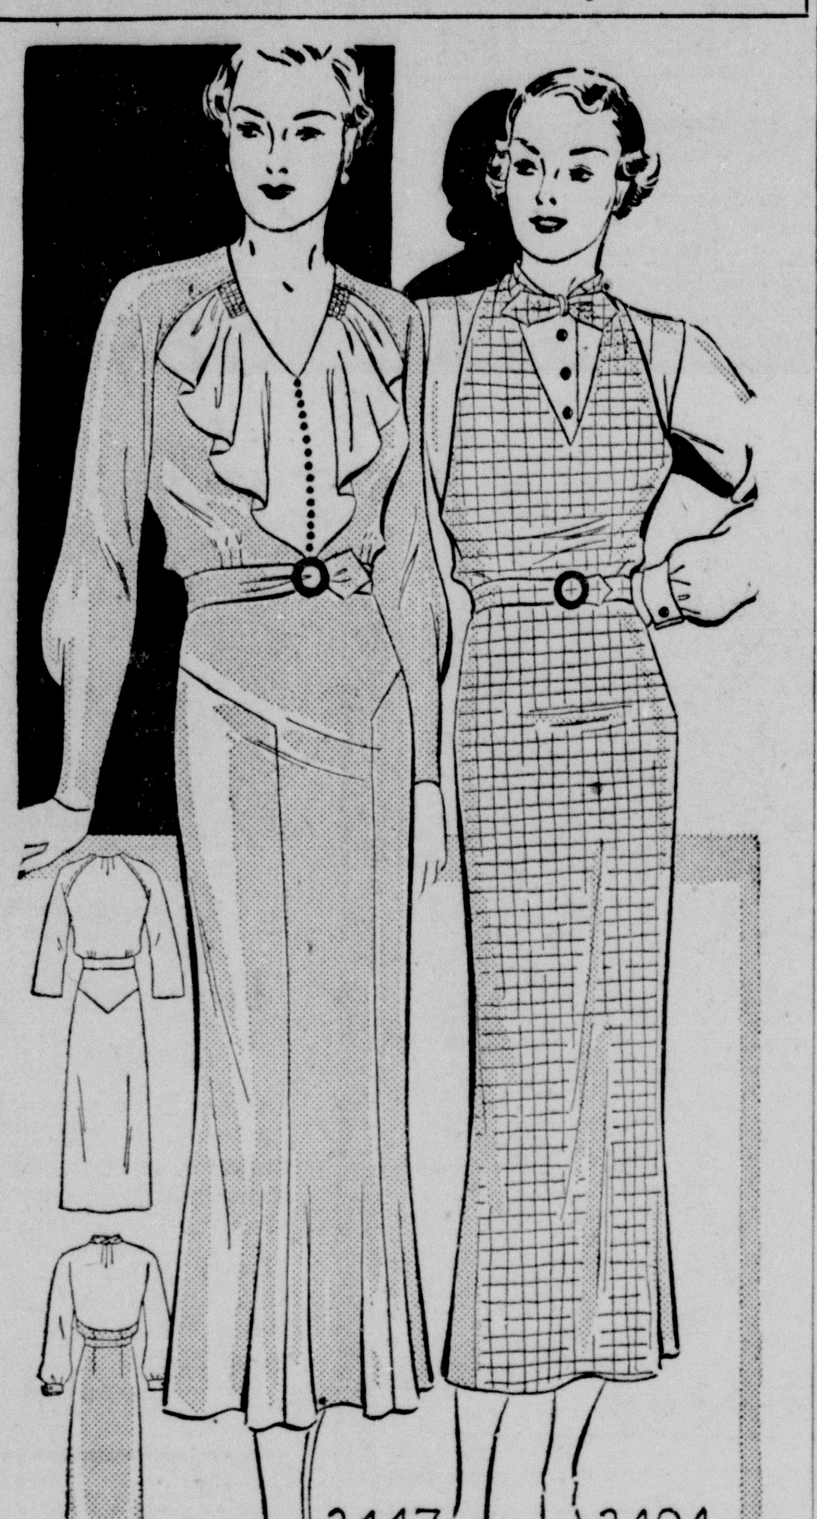
Aw, shucks, Lord,
I wish I coulda earned
A little mite of it.
They mean well, Lord—don't hold it against 'em,
Let's just call it good-intentioned
Exaggeration;
They're just bein' kind
To an ignorant ol' cowhand
From Oologah.
Y'know, Lord, that's a great bunch you've got down there,
Senators 'n' all;
I'm gonna miss 'em for a while,
But they'll be coming along.
I had no idy
They felt—that way—about—aw, shucks, Lord—
After the way I've kidded 'em,
'N' all—
But I've never hurt 'em till now
An' I'm just wonderin', Lord,
If there ain't some way
You can ease it up for 'em,
Just tell 'em that—shucks—it ain't bad like that a-tall—
An' that this round-up's just fine an'
Prettier than the song.
Y'see, Lord, that down there gets right next to me, an'
Shucks, there ain't nothin'
I c'n do about it;
So do what you can, won't you, Lord?

Club members present were Mmes. Frank Black, K. S. Elliott, W. C. Faulk, E. C. Gibson, George Lofton, George Marsh, D. M. Moore, John Leist, Albion Lassiter, E. C. Gibson, Paul Neal, J. F. Prendergast, Louis Oyster, Charles Swain, J. W. Treadwell, J. R. White, F. F. Smith, Dudley Stone and Hauser.

Slender Rivalry



PATTERNS 2447 AND 2404

Rivals in slenderness, aren't they—and who's to judge the winner! The matron's choice is Pattern 2447—a soft line crepe frock which makes slenderness a matter of proportion—not size. A jabot of flattering contrast—sleeve and skirt diagonals—all tend to minimize the size of bust and hips. Lovely in crepe or satin. The young miss finds Pattern 2404 a grand daytime and all-purpose frock, its halter-neck jumper of wool, jersey or velveteen, cut low in back to show off a tailored blouse of challis, crepe or satin. Isn't the bow-tie perky?

Pattern 2447 is available in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 takes 3 3-4 yards 39 inch fabric and 1-2 yard contrasting. Price 15c.

Pattern 2404 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 takes 2 1-8 yards 54 inch fabric for jumper; blouse 1 3-4 yards 39 inch contrasting. Price 15c. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with each pattern.

Bride-Elect Honored

Prominent among the many beautiful pre-nuptial affairs honoring Miss Louise Cummings of Columbia was the brilliant afternoon tea at the home of Dr. and Mrs. L. R. Adams.

The spacious reception suite was florally adorned with beautiful bronze colored chrysanthemums, and in the dining room a Yuletide theme was reflected in the decorations of crimson and white.

The tea table, overlaid with handsome Venice lace banquet cloth, had for central ornamentation a plaque of crimson radiance roses. The crystal punch bowl, at one end of the table, was imbedded in crimson roses and tall crimson tapers in silver candelabra burned at intervals along the board. Silver salvers held a delectable array of open-faced sandwiches and sweet confections. Red and white mints and bon-bons were placed for the convenience of the guests.

Mrs. D. C. Sherman, smartly attired in black crepe, and Mrs. V. D. Morris, in a green model, presided at the punch bowl. Three beautiful sub-debs served. They were Josephine Meredith, Pauline Thompson and Nellie Ruth Vinson.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Adams, Mrs. E. O. Cummings, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. Wayne Blanks, Miss Mary King, Mrs. William G. Banks, of Minden, Mrs. Thomas Burke, Mrs. Smith Butler, Mrs. J. E. McClanahan, Mrs. W. E. Godfrey and Mrs. E. Kidd.

Mrs. Adams wore an elegant afternoon model of wine red crepe, floor length, with full sleeves. She wore a corsage of yellow chrysanthemums.

Miss Cummings was radiantly lovely in a rust crepe with gold bodice. She wore a corsage of bronze chrysanthemums and yellow coreopsis.

Mrs. Cummings wore a smart black and flesh crepe model with a corsage of yellow chrysanthemums.

Mrs. William G. Banks of Minden was lovely in a fuscia crepe, with which she wore a corsage of yellow chrysanthemums.

To the accompaniment of Wagner's "Bridal March," played on the piano by Miss Margaret Kitchingham, the bride-elect followed little Nan Elizabeth Banks and Margaret French into the reception room, where she was presented with a huge basket of linens, Wedgewood and rose point china and numerous other beautiful articles.

Nan Elizabeth Banks, beautiful little daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William G. Banks of Minden wore a picturesque colonial costume of blue taffeta. Margaret French, also of Minden, wore a lovely model of pink taffeta.

Four-year-old Maurine Kitchingham sang in her inimitable and gracious manner, "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," "Honey" and "Honeymoon Hotel."

A large assemblage of guests were present to enjoy the many courtesies extended.

Bride Is Feted

Mrs. William Whitley, who, before her marriage on Thanksgiving day, was Miss Joel Nichols, was plunged into a furore of nuptial activities immediately after she and Mr. Whitley arrived in Baton Rouge from their honeymoon.

Monroe girls attending the state university planned a series of charming affairs complimentary to Mrs. Whitley, of prominence being a tea, with Miss Happy Tidwell hostess. The affair took place in beautiful Highland hall, where the curtains were drawn against the winter sky and the beautiful room flooded with soft candlelight.

Miss Tidwell added to the beauty of the picture in a green velvet model with gold Juliet cap and gold accessories. She was assisted by Miss Louise Gray, who wore a Burgundy colored velvet model with corsage of golden hued blossoms and presided with charming grace over the handsome silver tea service.

Mrs. Whitley, the central figure in the bevy of exquisitely frocked young women, wore a stunning blue velvet model with gold accessories.

The tea table around which the guests flocked was developed in silver and blue, with an immense blue bowl overflowing with silver flowers for central adornment. Luscious tidbits were served on silver salvers.

Miss Tidwell's bridal gift to Mrs. Whitley was gold banded Tiffany.

Among the guests were noted many Monroe co-eds, including Misses Lillie Thompson, Clara Terzia, Dot Calvert, Marshal Russell, Nantelle Mitchener, Rachel Haynes, Carolyn Meyers, Mollie Allen Jagoe, Jessie Gray Worthington, Mable Sharp Davenport, Sara Talbot and Gladys Warner and Mrs. Palmer Hardie.

Still another charming affair was Miss Jeanna Perkins' crystal shower and buffet supper. A luncheon with Miss Ruth Williams of Mer Rouge and Miss Ann Jane Shaw of Bastrop, hostesses, included ten intimate friends of Mrs. Whitley's. A lovely feature of the luncheon was the cutting of a handsomely embossed wedding cake by the honor guest, who wore a stunning black crepe model with long full sleeves and off-the-face hat. The hostesses presented Mrs. Whitley with silver in the pattern selected for her wedding silver.

Several other affairs of prominence have been given for Mr. and Mrs. Whitley.

Handkerchief Shower

A charming compliment to a beautiful bride-elect, Miss Louise Cummings of Columbia, was the handkerchief shower at seven o'clock on Friday evening, with Mrs. L. L. West and Mrs. G. E. Erskine the gracious hostesses, in the home of Mrs. G. E. Ray.

The reception room was banked in beautiful yellow chrysanthemums for the occasion.

Interesting innovations for diversion, in the form of fortune-telling games and contests, were enjoyed by the guests.

Lovely handkerchiefs, fashioned into a picturesque nosegay, were presented to the bride-elect.

Sharing the delightful hospitality were Miss Cummings, Miss Lillian Ferrand, Miss Nellie Ruth Vinson, Miss Ida Lee King, Miss Mary King, Miss Katie McSween, Miss Chrissie Davis, Mrs. J. H. Traylor, Mrs. W. H. Malin, Mrs. V. D. Morris and Mrs. J. Brown, Jr.

Reduction Diet

Would you like to lose six pounds this week? Well, you can do so very easily by following Jean Harlow's four-day diet.

This diet is causing considerable excitement in Monroe at the present moment, as several women have tried it with successful results. It positively takes off six pounds in four days, which, in itself, is sufficient to make it exciting. A feature of this diet is that it continues for only four days and for the rest of the month you can eat anything you want, with moderation. If extra reduction is desired, resume the diet again in four weeks.

Here is the diet:

BREAKFAST (all four days)
Black coffee
Orange juice (after the coffee).

LUNCH (First three days)
2 broiled lamb chops
2 whole tomatoes (with salt and pepper).
Black coffee.
1-2 grapefruit (after eating).

FIRST DINNER
1 broiled sirloin steak
2 tomatoes (salt and pepper).
Black coffee.
Orange ....uice (after eating).

SECOND DINNER
1 broiled lamb chop
1 dish spinach
1 hardboiled egg
2 tomatoes (salt and pepper).
Black coffee.
Orange juice (after eating).

THIRD DINNER
Scrambled eggs
2 tomatoes (salt and pepper).
Fruit jello.
Black coffee.
Orange juice (after eating).

FOURTH LUNCH
1-2 fried chicken
2 tomatoes (salt and pepepr).
Black coffee.
Orange juice (fter eating).

FOURTH DINNER

Study Club Entertained

Shaggy yellow chrysanthemums adorned the reception suite of Mrs. Carl McHenry's home when she entertained members of the Study club.

A splendid paper on "German Art, Artists and Architecture," presented by Mrs. J. E. Walsworth, comprised the afternoon's program. It is interesting to note that a gift of books, bestowed annually to the Monroe Public library, has just been made. Outstanding among them are "Skyward," by Admiral Byrd, and "Geography," by Van Loon.

The social hour permitted the hostess to serve a luscious salad course, spiced cakes, ices and salted nuts to: Mmes. Nelson Abell, James Drew, David Garrett, H. H. Land, Neil McHenry, Elmer Richards, James Walsworth, Henry Montgomery, Alymer Montgomery, Fillmore Meadows, Alfred Reid and Lewis Slator and Miss Carrie D. Drew.

Concert Scheduled

The Christmas holidays will be flooded with beautiful music, judging from the splendid programs to be presented by Monroe's music lovers.

Outstanding on the season's calendar of events is the concert on the eighteenth of December at Grace church under the auspices of the Student Musicians' club.

The public is cordially invited to be present. The hour is eight o'clock and the program follows:

Program Annotations, Chester DeCuir.

Organ and piano duet, prelude, Lowry Jefferson and Billy Reagan.

Hark the Herald Angels Sing, chorus.

O Come All Ye Faithful, chorus.

Soprano solo, selected, Elizabeth Greene.

The First Noel, chorus.

Trio, We Three Kings, Louis Monroe, Garland Shell and Jack May.

Violin duet, Ave Marie, Helen H. Vawter, Wayne Wamsley.

Baritone solo, O Holy Night, Frank Mullen.

It Came Upon the Midnight Clear, chorus.

Trio, O Little Town of Bethlehem, Lydia Nichols, Josephine Combs, Beatrice Rhymes.

There's a Song in the Air, Jesu Bambina, John Winkler.

Silent Night, chorus.

Card Club Entertained

Beautiful golden hued chrysanthemums lifted shaggy heads in the reception suite of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Frizzell's home, Thursday night, when they entertained, with customary graciousness, members of the Married People's Card club.

The guests, upon arrival, were served a delicious, two-course supper at the beautifully-appointed tables, where the interesting games of cards were later enjoyed.

Handsome Wedgwood china comprised the ladies' high score gifts, presented to Mrs. Harvey Trousdale and Mrs. F. P. Stubbs. Gentlemen's high score prizes, silk hosiery in attractive boxes, were claimed by Mr. J. R. Gilhula and Mr. George Weaks.

Mrs. Frizzell was assisted in the courtesies by Mrs. Janet Powell, Mrs. Clarence Oakley and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Davis.

Members present were Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Gilhula, Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Stubbs, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. George Weaks, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Trousdale, Mrs. Minnie Ruffin, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Ferguson, Mrs. Percy Sandel, Mrs. Victor Barringer, Mrs. F. P. Stubbs and Mrs. B. Granary.

36 ROUNDS OF BOXING CARDED FOR TUESDAY NIGHT

HAZUDA-FALLETTA MATCH TOPS BIG SHOW AT STADIUM

Ashy Signed To Meet Raymond In Six-Round Semi-Final Bout

A program of 36 rounds of boxing has been completed for the second mitt show of the season at Roosevelt stadium Tuesday night, Promoter Charlie Bruscato announced last night. The card will be headed by a return engagement between Tony Faletta and Mickey Hazuda, the two lads who staged a spectacular battle at the stadium two weeks ago.

Bruscato has booked a semi-final match that he believes will rival the main event in interest, he said last night. It will be a six-rounder between "Wild Willie" Ashy, 159, of Memphis, Tenn., and Roscoe Raymond, 160, of Ferriday.

Ashy is said to be something of a sensation around Memphis. A goofy sort of bird who likes to slug it out with his opponent, "Wild Willie" is said to pack a terrific punch that has laid low 25 of his opponents in the past 27 battles. Ashy is peculiar in that he believes in fighting—something that has been strangely lacking in present day boxers. He's plenty tough, according to press notices.

Raymond is said to have a perfect record as a professional boxer. According to Bruscato, he has fought 35 pro battles and has yet to lose. He was an amateur of note before turning professional. Most of his victories have been won by knockouts, the promoter said.

Three six-round preliminary bouts between negro sluggers complete the card. One of more than ordinary interest will be that between "Battling Joe" Hawkins, 141, of Monroe, and Joe Gully, 143, of West Monroe.

However, it's the Falletta-Hazuda main event that is causing all the comment about town. These boys packed plenty of action in every round of their previous meeting and Promoter Bruscato expects a capacity crowd for their second encounter. Falletta has been working out regularly for the match and he expects to turn the tables on the Pittsburgh veteran, who eked out a close decision two weeks ago.

Two knockdowns gave Hazuda the edge in their match a couple of weeks ago, despite the fact that Falletta finished strong. There were some who thought Tony should have been given the decision, while others believed a draw was the worst the local Italian should have gotten. The bout Tuesday night will be over the 12-round route and Falletta is confident he can trim Hazuda in the longer battle.

Hazuda, however, apparently doesn't care how many rounds it goes. "It doesn't make any difference about the number of rounds," he said yesterday. "Give Falletta fifty rounds and I'll beat him. In fact, I'm going to make it more convincing than ever Tuesday night."

Bruscato said yesterday that Butch Martin will referee all bouts and the judges will be chosen from Sam J. Woods, G. N. Meyers, O. D. Douglas and John J. Stewart. Harry Prophit will make the announcements.

it with a series of line drives. Games will appear rougher because the offensive team does not depend upon calm, deliberate play as it did in the past.

Then there's another change that's going to cause plenty of arguments. A new rule leaves to the discretion of officials the counting of a field goal, scored after the whistle has been blown to signal a foul committed against the man throwing for the basket. If a team loses by one or two points and such a decision has been made against that team during the game, the howling is going to be long and loud.

Although the customers will find that basketball has become a faster game, some of the coaches and the boys who play the game are of the opinion that the rules committee is taking too many liberties with the ancient pastime.

TECH TIDINGS

By Ruston Sports Correspondent

RUSTON, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—Some say one thing and some say another, but your morning newspaper along about Tuesday will set them all right on the subject of several more football schedules for 1936, including the one for Louisiana Tech.

Coach Eddie McLane plans to leave Ruston Sunday night for Birmingham, Ala., to attend the meeting of the S. I. A. A., at which gridiron cards will be shuffled and other affairs arranged.

In the meantime, how about finding out that six games have been booked definitely for Tech next year, and three others are on the fire? (The local drug stores don't even know that yet!)

Here is six-tenths of the Tech card: Southwestern Louisiana institute at Lafayette, October 9; Louisiana State Normal college at Natchitoches, October 24; Tulane university at New Orleans, October 31; Millsaps college at Ruston, November 13; Louisiana college at Ruston, November 20, and the University of Tampa at Ruston on Thanksgiving day, November 26.

Coach McLane has announced a tentative booking with the University of Mississippi, to be played here on October 3, if the party of the second part is willing. A possibility for October 16 is Birmingham-Southern. Either Howard college or Mississippi college may be the Tech opponent here on November 6.

Some Cutting Remarks

Nobody knows what will be the principal commotion at the coming meeting of the S. I. A. A. in Birmingham, but it is reasonable to assume that if all of the delegates to the convention were stood on top of each other, they would fall down and make a big noise. At the last count, there were 38 members of the "world's largest athletics conference," and another one was knocking at the door. Anywhere you go you can hear talk of a need for cutting that conference. The Tech coach is among those who feel that way, but, like many others, he doesn't know how to go about the matter of revision or division, since the problem of an accrediting agency is involved. It seems to be a case of hope without faith, at present. Some day some one will break up that group into about four pieces, and the "circuit breaker" will be a hero, many sports followers opine.

That Trip to Tampa

Upon inquiring at the local railroad depot as to how far it is from Ruston to Tampa, Fla., one gets the idea that Tampa is just a few miles this side of Tipperary—to which there is a long, long trail a-winding. Folks here wanted to know because Louisiana Tech plays the Tampa Spartans at Tampa Saturday afternoon, December 14. They learned that it is "about 965" miles from here to there, which will be the longest trip ever made by a Tech team. The grid squad, with about "one and one-half sports writers," will entrain for Tampa Wednesday night. The plan is to go by way of Birmingham, and the hope is to reach Tampa Friday morning.

Trainer Eddie Wojecki, who is about the only person at Tech who has ever been to Tampa, is telling the boys some tall tales about the country down there. He says the University of Tampa is partly made out of a three-million-dollar hotel, and that the students anchor their yachts in the bay when they come to school. He also swears that "when we were down there, we just went out in a park and picked our oranges for breakfast." But he didn't say how they got their bacon and eggs!

Notes of a Swan Song

Exactly enough men for one complete football team will end their gridiron careers with Louisiana Tech this coming Saturday. The 11 seniors include Captain Madison Brooks, Rhinehart, center; Alternate-Captain Bill Ruple, Ruple, guard; Jack Thigpen, Ruston, quarterback; Fred Beckett, Monroe, end; Will Cotten, Oak Grove, halfback; Archie Turner, Ferriday, fullback; Thomas Deas, Arcadia, guard; Ras Neal, Monroe, tackle; Lloyd Milam, Ruston, guard; W. C. Johnston, Ruston, guard, and Alton Dunnaway, Ruston, tackle.

The majority of these 11 men are not through with Tech athletics, however. Brooks, Thigpen and Cotton are basketball stars. Baseball will attract Neal, Cotten, Thigpen and Beckett. Turner will join the track squad, and the call of boxing will be answered by Milam and Deas.

Wouldn't This Bowl You Over!

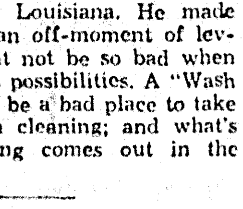
There has been some talk of a Rose Bowl, a Sugar Bowl, an Orange Bowl, and a Cotton Bowl, but the one that takes the soap is the "Wash Bowl," suggested by Coach Eddie McLane of Louisiana Tech. The "Wash Bowl," he thinks, should become a kind of sports dish for North Louisiana. He made the remark in an off-moment of levity, but it might not be so bad when you consider its possibilities. A "Wash Bowl" wouldn't be a bad place to take some one for a cleaning; and what's more, everything comes out in the wash.

A Few Niblick Nibbles

Tryouts for the Louisiana Tech golf squad are now in order. Those having their trying moments include the following students: Longino Woodman, Carroll Thomas, Jack Bridges, Bill McDonald, Iley Barnes, Gerald McCallum, Robert Null, Jimmy Holland and Jack Armstrong.

The Tech candidates are drilling on the Ruston Golf club's property—and there may be some drilling of another kind out there some day. The poor people who own shares of stock in those acres have their ears to the ground, listening for rumblings of oil and gas.

BOBBY JONES SAYS



Golfers are always searching for some method of improving their game. Some seek a panacea that will cure their faults; others more optimistic hope that they will find the one secret of the game; a few words of advice, which if followed, will do wonders to their scores.

I was not trying to uncover any such secret when I first went to Tommy Armour but I did receive a suggestion which, if not the greatest tip in golf, will do until a better one comes along. This important bit of advice by Armour was the rather simple statement that the most important thing in the golf swing of all good golfers is a stop at the top of the backswing.

When Armour mentioned this I suddenly realized that I had heard the same thing before—I racked my brain until I remembered a book written by that famous 65-year-old English professional James Braid, who rather monopolized the British Open championship from 1900 to 1910.

When I returned home I dug up the book which I had read in 1923 and sure enough the same idea was there —"there should always be a slight suggestion of a pause at the top of the backswing."

With two such golf authorities advocating this procedure, I decided to make it a permanent fixture in my swing. In the light of later events I can truthfully say that it is the most valuable hint I have ever received.

The beauty of this pause or hesitation at the top of the backswing is that it is one of the few tips on golf that can be adopted and put into use without an appreciable amount of work. Yet the results are indeed surprising. At the very most the hesitation should be slight, lasting about a quarter of a second. If it is overdone the whole body becomes tense and rigid, a fault that more than offsets the benefits from the pause.

If carried out correctly there are so many advantages to be derived from it that the player should notice immediate improvement. It is one of the surest and quickest ways of eliminating hitting from the top of the swing too quickly which is called a "yip at the top." Anything can result from a "yippy" swing and the quicker it is eliminated the more consistent the player will become.

Up And Down-Stroke

It is obvious that if there is no pause at the top of the upstroke, the club will still be going back when the hands, arms and body reverse their action and start down. The club is a solid instrument and cannot therefore loosen or give. On the other hand the hands, arms and body are flexible and will give. Clearly then if a conflict results between the two the hands or arms are the factors which are going to loosen. This brings about a condition resulting in a fatal error in golf—the left hand loosening its grip through this reverse pull and losing its control over the club at that critical moment at the top of the swing, when the club is still travelling back and the hands and arms have started the downswing action. The left hand and left arm must remain firm (not stiff however) throughout the swing, otherwise control of the clubhead will be lost and a good shot dependent largely upon luck.

Better Hitting Position

Another advantage is that this slight hestitation seems to put one into the correct hitting position. The golfer feels that he is poised or cocked, ready and set to deliver a killing blow to the ball.

For further illustration a baseball pitcher might be considered. If he started his body and arm forward before his hand which holds the ball, stopped on its backward windup, he would snap his wrist in much the same fashion as a buggy whip is snapped. Pitching in this manner he would have very little control over the ball and his arm would not last long.

Another point in favor of this suggestion is that if one's timing is a little off, a slow backswing with a pause at the top is the best method I know of to regain it.

ROUGH GRAPPLERS ARE MATCHED FOR WEDNESDAY CARD

Vern Clark Sought For Semi-Final Bout On Card At Stadium

Otto Ludwig, the German villain, and "Bull" Jeffries, another grappler who prefers the modern style of wrestling with all the rough trimmings thrown in, will meet in the main event of the weekly wrestling show at Roosevelt stadium Wednesday night, Promoter Charlie Bruscato announced yesterday.

Ludwig made his first appearance here in more than two years last week and was disqualified in his match with Ace Freeman. The German continually used foul tactics on his opponent and Referee Butch Martin finally chased him from the ring. Incidentally, Butch and Otto exchanged blows several times and there may be a renewal of their fistic relations when the German returns.

Ludwig is about as rough as they grow in the light heavyweight ranks. In fact, one of his chief claims to fame is a victory over Wild Red Berry, scored at the stadium a couple of years ago.

He will be meeting another rugged performer in Jeffries. "Bull" showed here regularly for a couple of months when the light heavies were performing at the stadium two years ago, and he beat such foes as "Speedball" Craig, Andy Tremaine, Freddie Kupfer and "Roughhouse" Hagan.

Jeffries not only can hand his opponent plenty of misery but he can "take it" from the best of 'em. He is a crowd pleaser and Bruscato believes the Ludwig-Jeffries match will be quite spectacular.

The promoter said he was attempting to book Vern Clark, clever westerner, in here for another match. Clark has won quite a following here and Bruscato hepe sto find another "scientific" wrestler to meet him on the Wednesday card. Vern has been featured in the past two shows and has proved popular with the fans.

The light heavyweight matches have been fast and the promoter said yesterday that he hoped to continue to employ wrestlers who are willing to "put out."

INDEPENDENT TEAMS MEET AT FERRIDAY

FERRIDAY, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock here the Ferriday Independents and a team composed of Natchez independent performers will engage in a benefit football game for the Ferriday high school "F" club and the Natchez Poor Children's Christmas Tree Fund.

The game Sunday is the first of a two-game series, the second tilt being scheduled to be played in Natchez next Sunday. Both squads are conducting strenuous workouts so as to be in shape for the series.

Ferriday's starting lineup will include George Boutwell, former University of Mississippi athlete and Dixie league baseball hurler of Laurel, now coaching at Newellton high school. The ex-Ole Miss player stole the show at the benefit tilts last year and he expects to again cut a prominent figure in the 1935 engagements.

Others on the Ferriday squad are Leroy Adams, Pat Price, Jack Pennington, J. S. Cross, Johnny Allred, Mickey Hazuda, Otts Wilson, Freddie Fairbanks, C. Godbold, Dallas Crisp, I. Levy, Leon Rozelle, Willard Schuchs, Dalton Faircloth, Arthur Taliaferro, Johnny Welsh and Gene Schuchs.

BATON ROUGE MEETS BLUE JAYS FOR TITLE

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The Jesuit Blue Jays who defeated the Warren Easton Eagles in their annual game here today will meet the Baton Rouge Bulldogs in the south Louisiana finals on next Saturday afternoon at Tulane stadium, officials of the two schools decided tonight.

The Jays automatically gained the right to participate in the playoff since they won the New Orleans preparatory championship by virtue of today's 6 to 0 victory over Warren Easton.

Baton Rouge, one of two undefeated teams within south Louisiana, played and defeated the only other undefeated south Louisiana team, Pontchatoula, for the right to play the Jays.

When the two teams meet next Saturday afternoon it will mark the second time this year. They battled each other in a regularly scheduled game earlier in the season which the Bulldogs won 12 to 7. The game was played in Baton Rouge.

The winner of the game next Saturday will meet Byrd high of Shreveport for the state championship.

JESUITS NOSE OUT WARREN EASTON, 6-0

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The Jesuits' Blue Jays won the city high school championship here today, defeating Warren Easton 6 to 0 before a crowd of 23,000 persons.

The contest was hard-fought throughout, and it was not until the last ten minutes of the fourth period that the Jays turned what seemed to be certain defeat into victory.

Warren Easton had penetrated Jesuit territory to the five-yard line where their smash bogged down before a stout defense of Co-Captain George Antonini to Co-Captain L. G. Friedrichs. After two futile thrusts at the line, on the 17-yard stripe, Antonini tossed one to Friedrichs who broke away from would-be tacklers and made for the sidelines where a group of Jays formed an interference for him that carried him over the goal. The play was good for 83 yards.

S. M. U. VICTORY FEATURES CLOSE OF GRID SEASON

T. C. U. Beats Santa Clara And Washington Shades Trojan Team

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The galloping Mustangs of Southern Methodist, bound for the Rose Bowl and a New Year's day football battle with Stanford, concluded their regular season without a defeat or a tie today as they buried Texas A. and M. under a 24 to 0 score in the final game of the Southwest conference season.

Southern Methodist's performance on a rain-swept field was by far the most impressive registered by the few teams which prolonged the 1935 season in scattered games through the west and south.

Texas Christian, leading rival of the Mustangs until they took their beating from S. M. U. and subsequently chosen to oppose Louisiana State at the New Orleans Sugar Bowl, ran into a tartar in Santa Clara, finally wininng, 10 to 6. Washington added to Southern California's miserable season by winning the Pacific Coast conference final from the Trojans, 6 to 2, to take sixth place.

Florida, like Washington, salvaged something from a poor season by rolling up a 22 to 0 score against South Carolina, another consistent loser in the south. Maryland won the state championship by defeating Western Maryland 22 to 7 in a post-season contest. An intersectional game, winding up the season in the east, saw Geneva of Pennsylvania pass its way to a 19 to 0 victory over Newberry of South Carolina. Two of the southwest's strong small colleges, Texas Tech and Oklahoma City, battled to a 7-7 tie.

The individual feats of two of the season's outstanding backs, all-America Bobby Wilson of Southern Methodist and Bill Guckeyson of Maryland, marked the day. Wilson paced the Mustangs to their 12th consecutive victory by racing 60 yards to score the first touchdown a few minutes after the opening whistle. Guckeyson's passes brought one touchdown for the Terps and paved the way for a field goal while he topped off the performance by intercepting a pass and sprinting 40 yards for the final tally.

GIRLS OF COLUMBIA HIGH PLAY FRIDAY

COLUMBIA, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—The Columbia Crimson Tide girls open their season next Friday with Winnfield, there. The girls have been working out for about a month. The same team is back this year with the exception of Ruby Rosser and Irene Broadway.

The girls won the title of being Caldwell parish champions last year and are contenders for the state title to be played in Baton Rouge in March.

Girls that are playing now that played last year are: Geraldine Kelly, Josephine Meredith, Thelma Grantham, Louise Thomas, Mary Humble, Hazel Cobb, Geraldine Roberts, Vivian Hudson, Mildred Slocumn and Ethel Childress. New members of the squad are: Gay Mosely, Lucille Jarrell, Troy Morris, Mary Elisebeth Cottingham and Johnny Ruth Cottingham.

LINVILLE MITTMEN WIN SECOND MATCH

LINVILLE, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—The Linville High school boxing team won its second encounter of the season by sweeping a four-bout card with Spearsville, winning two by knockouts and two via the decision route.

M. A. Blevins, 123 1-2, won his second consecutive first-round knockout when he gained a kayo at the expense of E. West, 124, just a few seconds before the initial stanza would have ended. Nathan Nolan, 129, won his second knockout victory in as many starts when he stopped E. Davis, 124, in the second round. Robin Parks, 130 1-2, making his first appearance in the ring this season, won a decision over B. Bryant, 138 1-2. Jack Parks, 153, also making his season debut, emerged victorious over C. West, 147.

PROS HAVE COMPANY IN SOUTH

Dixie is over-run with golfers seeking gold offered in winter tournaments, but all the players in the southland are not professionals. One is Judge Jeremiah T. Mahoney, left, president of the Amateur Athletic union and foremost leader against American participation in the Olympic games in Germany. He is driving at Pinehurst. Paul Waner, right, star of the Pittsburgh Pirates, swats a three-bagger at the Bay Shore course at Miami Beach.

Majors To Start Without Single Twenty-Year Man

Dykes Dean Of Big Loops As 1935 Grind Takes Big Toll Of Vets

By Harry Grayson
(NEA Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Babe Ruth made his final appearance as an active combatant on a semi-professional lot in Brooklyn this fall. The once mighty Bam announced that it was such from the field. What would have been a tremendous farewell at the Yankee stadium amounted to little or nothing in the obscure bush game. It was a rather sorry ending for the old home run king after 22 glorious campaigns.

Ruth's passing brings to mind that the years took an unusually heavy toll in 1935, with the last half dozen of the 20-year men among the more than two dozen veterans bowing to aching joints and barking bow-wows.

Walter James Maranville 23, Ruth 22, Sam Jones 22, Rogers Hornsby 21, Muddy Ruel 21, Sam Rice 20. Owners and managers wish the figures represented their ages, instead of the number of springs they went south and returned to stir up trouble for the opposition.

It seems likely that 1936 will be the first year since baseball was organized with the formation of the original National league in 1876 that the game will be without a single 20-year major leaguer or what was the equivalent of such an individual before the unionized sport was old enough to manufacture one of its own.

Haines Starts Seventeenth Season As Senior Slinger

Ty Cobb could still smack 'em and scoot following 24 championship grinds. Cy Young stuck around for 23 seasons; Fred Clarke, Honus Wagner, Nap Lajoie, and Tris Speaker for 21, and Grover Cleveland Alexander for 20.

So it is, with signs pointing to Jimmy Dykes launching his 19th season as the new major league dean in 1936, and Jess Haines the papa of the pitchers with 17 years behind him, it must be admitted that the boys are softening up.

Maranville declares that he will be back at second base for the Boston Braves, but it is feared that the daddy of them all will have to be led away from there. That is the only way that Pop Time will bag the plucky little Rabbit.

Dean Dykes still can play plenty of third base, but will groom an understudy when the White Sox report. The Cardinals are counting upon Frankie Frisch, who is to launch his 18th season, for part time duty. A kink must be worked out of Pie Traynor's throwing shoulder if he is to get into a good share of his Pirates' games in his 17th year.

Hornsby performed even less than he has in recent seasons as boss of the Browns in 1935, and Ruel chucked catching to coach the White Sox pitchers. Adolfo Luque also turned to coaching after 19 eventful races.

Charley Grimm and his lumbago stepped aside for the youthful Phil Cavarretta after illustrating how well one athlete can look after first base over an 18-year stretch. Dizzy Vance wound up with the semi-pros and Hughie Critz retired in their 15th autumn.

Reds Pay $25,000 For Successor To Bottomley

Cincinnati paid the Yankee-controlled Newark Internationals $25,000 for George McQuinn, who is to replace Sunny Jim Bottomley, a National league first sacker for 14 seasons.

Others who lingered for quite a spell before fading from the big league picture in 1935 include Frank O'Doul, who twice led senior wheel hitters; Chick Hafey, who topped them once; Willie Kamm, for whom the White Sox paid San Francisco $100,000 in 1922; Bill Cissell, for whom the White Sox gave the Portland Coasters $123,000 in cash and players in 1927; and eagle-eyed Max Bishop, who was released by the Red Sox after a 12-year run in the junior wheel and who supplants Cissell as manager of the Portland club.

Fred Marberry switched to umpiring but contemplates a pitching comeback. Stumpy Sparky Adams; overstuffed Shanty Hogan; Larry Benton, a corking churner before he lost the handcuffs; George Pipgras, who starred with the Yankees; Owen Carroll, once the darling of Holy Cross; Fidgety Phil Collins; Heinie Meine; Alphonse Thomas; and Bobby Burke, the perennial Washington recruit, recruit, were sent on their way.

All of them were not taken by the years, but it took time to throw out the better ones, who were good fellows, when they had it.

MEMPHIS SCHOOL TO QUIT S. I. A. A.

Southwestern To Withdraw At Conference Meeting Tomorrow

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 7.—(AP)—One member of the S. I. A. A., the largest collegiate athletic association in the world, announced today that it would withdraw at the annual meeting which opens here Monday.

Southwestern University of Memphis, member of the Dixie conference, confirmed reports today that it would withdraw from the S. I. A. A. and remain in the smaller body.

Coach Clyde Propst in making the announcement said there seemed to be no need for membership in both organizations with identical rules governing intercollegiate athletic eligibility.

Dr. J. W. Provine of Mississippi college, president of the organization for 15 years said today he knew of "nothing of startling interest to come up."

Commenting on the intention of Southwestern to withdraw, Dr. Provine said, "perhaps there will be others knocking at the door for entrance.

"The general condition of our association is excellent, I think. Of course, we, like all other athletic organizations, are confronted with the question of preserving amateurism in college sport."

The S. I. A. A. is composed of 34 colleges spread from the Virginia border to Texas, and Kentucky to Florida.

It is the parent body of the Southern conference, the Southeastern conference and the Dixie conference.

The Dixie conference meeting will be held here Wednesday, following the S. I. A. A. adjournment Tuesday night.

Bastrop

The Abraham Morehouse chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution celebrated their third birthday by entertaining members and guests at a beautifully appointed luncheon served at the Louisiana hotel.

Baskets and vases overflowing with yellow chrysanthemums were used most artistically. Guests found their places marked by clever hand painted cards which afforded pleasure as each depicted the name of a book or well known author. Blue mirrored plaques upon which three silver ships sailed, surrounded by yellow chrysanthemums, blue heather and trailing fern, carried out the national colors of the D. A. R. and paid homage to the three ships whose voyage resulted in "our America." Silver tapers surrounded the center and their reflected light upon the silver sheen of the ships called to mind the silver lining that has existed for every cloud on America's horizon. Smaller plaques at either end of the luncheon table marked the places of Mrs. J. A. Davenport, regent, and Miss Lucille Huffman, former regent.

Mrs. Davenport in a few words of welcome gave the spirit and objectives of D. A. R. chapters. She then presented Miss Huffman, the former regent, with a D. A. R. pin of recognition for her loyal and efficient work in behalf of the Morehouse chapter. Miss Huffman most graciously accepted the token of esteem from her coworkers. Mrs. C. E. Faulk, regent of Fort Miro, was introduced and brought greetings from the Monroe chapter.

Miss Mildred Cohen and Miss Edna Nolan graciously presented their pupils, Lola Bell Johnson and Dorothy Alice Pomeroy, in a clever dance and song number. Miss Nolan then sang and Miss Cohen added a tap number, which concluded the entertainment program.

Those who attended the meeting were Mesdames J. A. Davenport of Mer Rouge, C. E. Faulk and David I. Garrett of Monroe, J. T. Howell, R. L. Carr and Miss Elizabeth Carr of Collinston, Mesdames J. A. Davenport, Jr., and T. H. B. Rankin of Mer Rouge, Mesdames Frank W. Files, William Nolan, E. B. Folse, Misses May Traylor, Ada Mott, Lucille Huffman, Queenie McDuffie, Mildred Files, Virginia Nolan and Edna Nolan of Oak Ridge, Mesdames J. P. Madison, F. L. Billington, James Madison, W. T. Smith, H. M. Patton, Leland Howard, Arthur Ross and George T. Madison of Bastrop.

The Camp Fire Girls held their regular meeting in the courthouse. In the absence of the president, Monica Liles, the meeting was called to order by Elizabeth Orr. The minutes of the past meeting were read by the secretary, Betty Volk, and were approved.

The members present were Betty Volk, Elizabeth Orr, Mary Tom Nunnally, Douglass Pettiss, Anita Graham, Florence Oliver, the leader, Miss Arlie Mixon, and assistant director, Miss Mattie Bell Harper.

Mer Rouge

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Clark and son, Junior, spent the Thanksgiving holidays in Jackson as guests of relatives.

Miss Nell Williams, a student at L. S. U., in Baton Rouge, was a guest of her mother during the Thanksgiving holidays.

Miss Gertrude White, Miss Rose Ruth Kirby and Miss Ruby Mae Winham, all students at Louisiana Tech in Ruston, spent Thanksgiving here with Miss White's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Shelby White.

Miss Bess Depart spent the Thanksgiving holidays in Shereveport.

The Misses Mildred Lee and Joyce Howell spent a recent week-end in Montrose with relatives.

Mrs. L. M. Gibson and granddaughters, Nora Marie and Mary Anita Leonard, of Monroe were recent week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ginn.

Miss Ruth Williams and Mr. George Vordenbowdemer of Baton Rouge were guests of Miss Williams' mother, Mrs. A. N. Williams, Thanksgiving.

The Missionary society of the Baptist church met at the church recently for its regular monthly business meeting. The president, Mrs. E. T. Davidson, opened the meeting with a devotional on stewardship. Mrs. W. H. McKelvey, secretary and treasurer, read the minutes and called the roll. Then new and old business was discussed, after which Mrs. W. C. Jordan finished teaching the book, "The Conquerable Christ." Those present for the meeting were Mesdames E. T. Davidson, U. H. McKelvey, E. M. Clark, Lee Roy Simms, McVae Higginbotham, F. U. Rives, Frank Howell, J. H. Edwards and John Lee.

New 'Boom' Hits Toyville's Market---- Santa's Pack To Be Heavier, Costlier

By Charles Norman

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—There is a "boom" in Toyville, and Santa Claus' pack will be heavier—and costlier—this Christmas.

Santa, of course, is not interested in figures—but they show that the $200,000,000 toy industry is experiencing its best year since 1929, with advance sales 10 per cent ahead of last year, and a scarcity already apparent in "quality toys"—those of higher price.

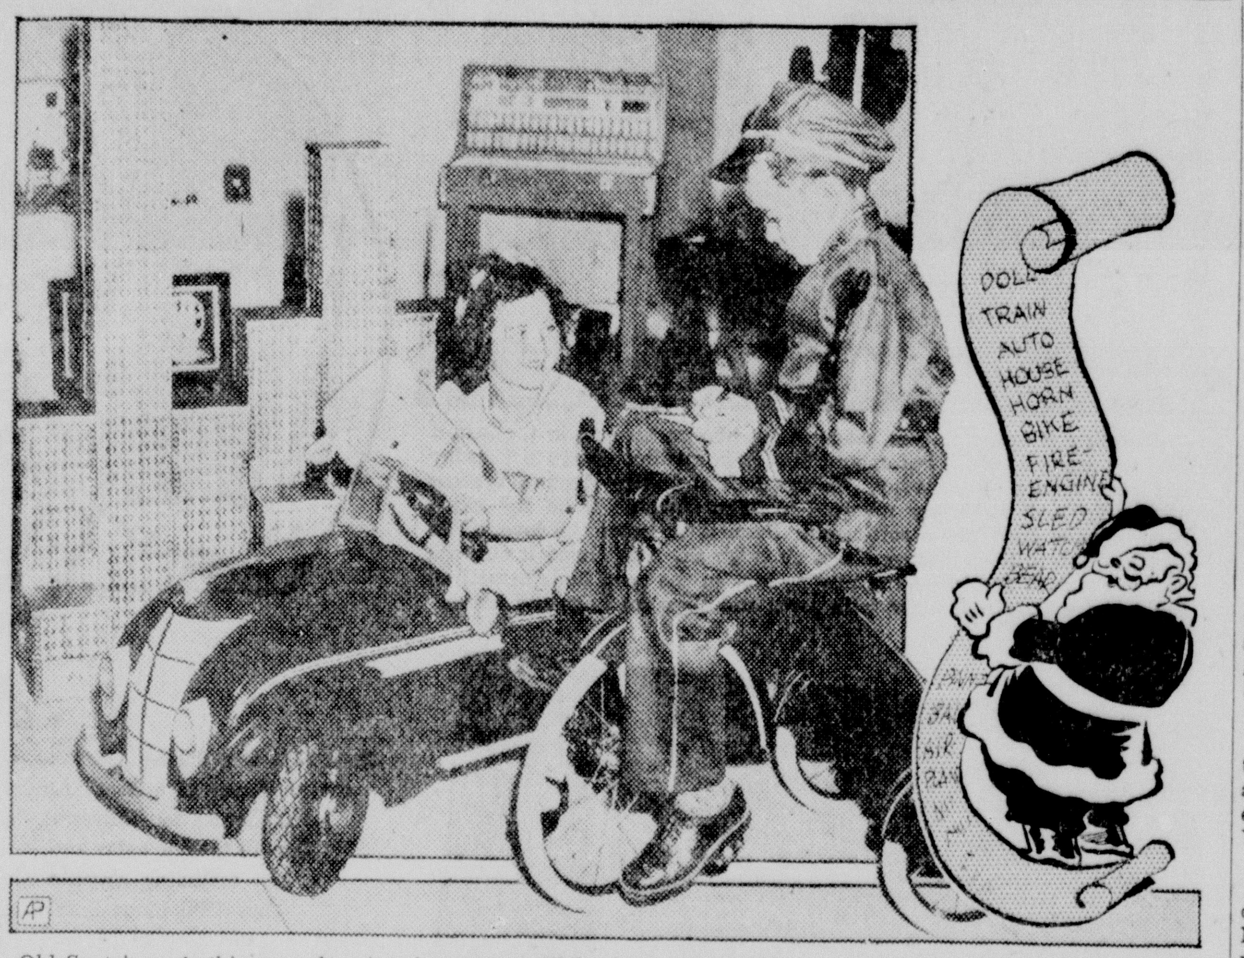
And toy factories, as a result, are working night and day, in 30 states, to keep up with the demands, says the Toy Manufacturers of the U. S. A., Inc.

A glance at Santa Claus' 1935 pack shows every type of industry represented in "put-the-children-to-work" playthings. From housekeeping to building, toys are efficient, gleaming and streamlined. Stoves that can cook a turkey, electric trains from $4 to $2,000, and grocery stores with scales that really weight, safes with combinations, dial telephones and cash registers are "in the bag" for Santa.

Farm toys are very popular, too, says the toy group, ascribing it to the wide publicity given the farm belt by the drouth. Farm animals, barns with modern lines, and tractors with snow plows are some of the headliners.

In keeping with the "toys that work" motif, there are lead-casting sets with which youngsters can make their own toys, if they wish; cement-mixers that mix cement; optometrist sets with which Johnny can grind glasses for microscopes, and chemicals used in industry.

There is an add-a-room house that can be built on the "installment" plan and enlarged after the initial building is started.



Old Santa's pack this year, heavier than ever, will be brimming with new toys—streamlined toys—speed toys—building toys—toys that really work. Here, according to Santa, is just a sample of some of the things Johnny and Mary might expect on Christmas morning.

For the large number of children—and adults—fascinated by trains and tracks there is an automatic gateman who jumps out of his booth and waves at the train. Some of the trains this year have a whistle that sounds just like the real thing—enough so to make commuting fathers run for the station when they hear it.

Dolls are numberless—and realistic, for children, says the toy group, are realists. The Dionne quintuplets have helped boost the "birth rate" of dolls.

Streamlining, while not new for toys, has been brought to the 10-cent division for the first time. Fifty thousand new designs in playthings, representing the combined efforts of more than 400 manufacturers, will pour from the larger pack of Santa this year to delight America's children.

'Sky's Limit' At Girls' School

PAINESVILLE, O., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Add flying to the curriculum of a girls' college and you have the latest thrill in the education of Miss 1935.

It's the newest course at Lake Erie college here and already has attracted more than 30 students and several members of the faculty.

Whether Lake Erie is the first woman's college to offer such a course is not known, but it is a fact that none is more popular.

Before beginning the course every student is required to present written permission from her parents. After that "the sky is the limit."

First on the program is a thorough study of ground-work—fundamentals of flying and instruction on weather conditions. This is followed by lectures by pilots and demonstrations of parachute jumping.

The actual flying is the climax. Every student has two hours in the air sharing the controls with the instructor, Philip A. Meinke, operator of a flying service in nearby Willoughby.

At present, Miss Suzanne Grant of Columbus, O., now ready for her third hour in the air, is one of the advanced students. From the faculty are Miss Rheta B. Edmundson of Newport, R. I., and Miss Dorothy R. Corcoran of Painesville.

The pretty coed fliers hail from all sections of the country with the city of Cleveland leading with nine enrolled in the class. They are Mary Belle and Vivian Armstrong, Joyce Schelley, Gretel Gerstenberger, Eugenia Flanders, Alice Nagy, Ruth Warren, Pauline Swaim and Janet Walther.

Among the others are Ruth McCracken, Shanghai, China; Mary Louise Miller, Columbus, O.; Nellie Marshall, Betty Ellett and Aileen Reed, all of Akron, O.; Betty Bachman, Sharon, Pa.; Elizabeth Dawson, Warren, Pa.; Allie Lou Hall, East Springfield, Pa.; Mary Louise McFarren, Northeast, Pa.

Betty Thomas and Emily Miller, both of Pittsburgh; Jean Swauger, Connellsville, Pa.; Georgia Wales and Betty Wiltsie, both of Binghamton, N. Y.; Barbara Clark, Syracuse, N. INDUSTRIAL AND REVIEW OF THE TWIN CITIES

PLANT REWINDS AUTO GENERATORS

Monroe Armature Works Buys Used Starters, Switches And Motors

Aside from the industrial field, the Monroe Armature works at 2019 DeSiard street does all kinds of automobile generator rewinding.

They specialize in rewinding starters of all makes and models of cars and also generators. Estimates will gladly be given on these kinds of jobs M. S. Harrison, president of the concern, said.

Another part of the business of the Monroe Armature works is the buying of used starters, switches and motors. These used items are reconditioned and put back into first class shape and are offered for sale to the public.

The firm caters largely to the industrial electrical work. Repairs on electrical motors, motor rewinding, control apparatus and supplies and power equipment are the specialties of the Monroe Armature works. The plant does not solicit house wiring or general automobile wiring jobs except for rewinding starters and generators.

The local concern employs only thoroughly skilled men and the class of work turned out is of the highest. Mr. Harrison has operated the local plant for eight years and in all he has been in the business for 15 years. At present he employs two experienced assistants.

Often the Monroe Armature works is called upon to enter the engineering field, such as rewinding motors for new speeds and changing motors to operate under new conditions. They are thoroughly capable of handling such jobs as their many satisfied clients will testify.

The installation of industrial motors and the rewiring of large industrial plants, sawmills, etc., are done by the local concern.

Mr. Harrison welcomes any inquiries concerning electrical work and he will gladly furnish estimates on any jobs and there is no obligation.

PRINCE TO SELL CLEANERS

Prince Bertil, third son of the Crown Prince of Sweden, is to become a vacuum cleaner salesman, according to reports received in Stockholm. He will shortly leave the Swedish navy and after being attached to the Swedish naval attache in Paris for a month will enter the vacuum cleaner firm.

Immediate application of a good wax coating is advisable for a new car to conserve its color and luster.

SEVEN TIE FOR U. S. 'HEALTHIEST'

Even the judges gave up when they tried to pick America's healthiest boy and girl from this group, so they decided to award blue ribbons to all seven. The robust septet were winners in the 4-H club contest held annually at the international livestock show in Chicago and they're celebrating with deep draughts from their favorite beverage, milk. Left to right are Howard Cobb, 18, Greene, N. Y.; Eloise Garrett, 15, Uriah, Ala.; Fred Abel, 20, Gadsden, Ala.; Marion McLaughlin, 15, Trenary, Mich.; Alton Riffle, 20, Pleasant Hill, Mo.; June Castine, 15, Ridgeway, S. C.; and Charles Jordan, 17, Beloit, Kan.

STOUGH FEATURES ALL FINE LIQUORS

Beer In Cans Proves Popular As It Does Away With Return Of Bottles

The success of Stough's bar in Hotel Monroe is more than gratifying to the owner, Harry Stough. Although the bar has been in operation a little over eight months an excellent business has been enjoyed.

Mr. Stough personally operates the bar and he is an expert in his line.

All the well known brands of liquors, wines and beers are sold and a specialty of package goods at attractive prices is featured.

Mixed drinks of the finest ingredients are served at this well-known place. Expert "mixologists" make sure that you will get the correctly proportioned and best in mixed drinks.

Beer in cans was introduced in Monroe by Stough's bar. The most famous is Pabst's Export and it can be served in the can or in glasses. Now beer can be taken out and there are no bottles to be returned. This new way to handle beer has met the approval of the public and is in great demand.

Stough's popularity is shown by the large number of patrons. A visit to the Hotel Monroe bar will be found most enjoyable, and friends will tell you that it is the friendliest place in town.

You Can Copyright Dish In Hungary---If It's New

BUDAPEST, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Recipes for a new sauce, or a novel twist in the preparation of a dish of noodles, may be copyrighted and are entitled to the same protection as songs or paintings, it was ruled by the Hungarian supreme court.

The court held that no one, at this late date, could copyright Hungarian goulash but ruled that publishers of new recipes must make suitable arrangements with their originators.

Sales at the fall auto show recently held in New York City showed an increase of approximately 60 per cent over the exhibition held last winter.

MEETING HELD BY CHEVROLET MEN

New Orleans Branch Managers Point Out Sales Plan For Coming Year

A special meeting of all Northeast Louisiana Chevrolet dealers with the executives of the Chevrolet branch office in New Orleans was held at the Lee-Rogers Chevrolet company here.

Talks of points of interest concerning the 1936 Chevrolet were made by the visiting men. The extensive sales program of the Chevrolet company was presented and each of the dealers were shown the part they would have to play in the 1936 program.

Thirty dealers from this territory attended the meeting. Jack Rogers represented the local dealers.

Those who attended from the New Orleans office were: W. V. Shell, New Orleans zone branch manager; C. E. Humphrey, assistant manager; T. E. Towlls, manager of General Motors acceptance branch; R. R. Saunders, sales manager; T. Fischback, service manager; R. T. Freimuth, parts and accessories manager; P. Poffenburger, manager of truck division; L. S. Dehring, business manager; O. D. Ferrill, local district manager; D. L. Harris, local representative General Motors Acceptance Corp.

The new Chevrolet embodies marked advances in styling, engineering, and performance. Outstanding among the many new features of both the Master and Standard models for 1936 are perfected hydraulic brakes; improved engines have higher compression ratio, ballanced carburetor, and full length water jacketing.

Front doors of all models of both lines are hinged at the front.

Body interiors of the Master models show marked advances in comfort and style. An important innovation is found in the design of the front seating arrangement of the Master coach and town sedan. Instead of the usual divided and hinged front seat of the two-door models, a single seat cushion extends the full width of the car, permitting three passengers to ride comfortably.

Rain 'Serves Up' Fish As Stream Overflows

DUNDEE, Ky., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Residents of this community are eating lots of fish these days.

Heavy rains caused the Rough river to rise so high that finny inhabitants of the stream were carried over the main part of the dam here instead of passing downstream via the spillway provided for that purpose. Dawn found more than a thousand pounds of fish struggling on the rocks below the dam.

Residents flocked to the scene and carted away the fish in baskets, boxes and wagons.

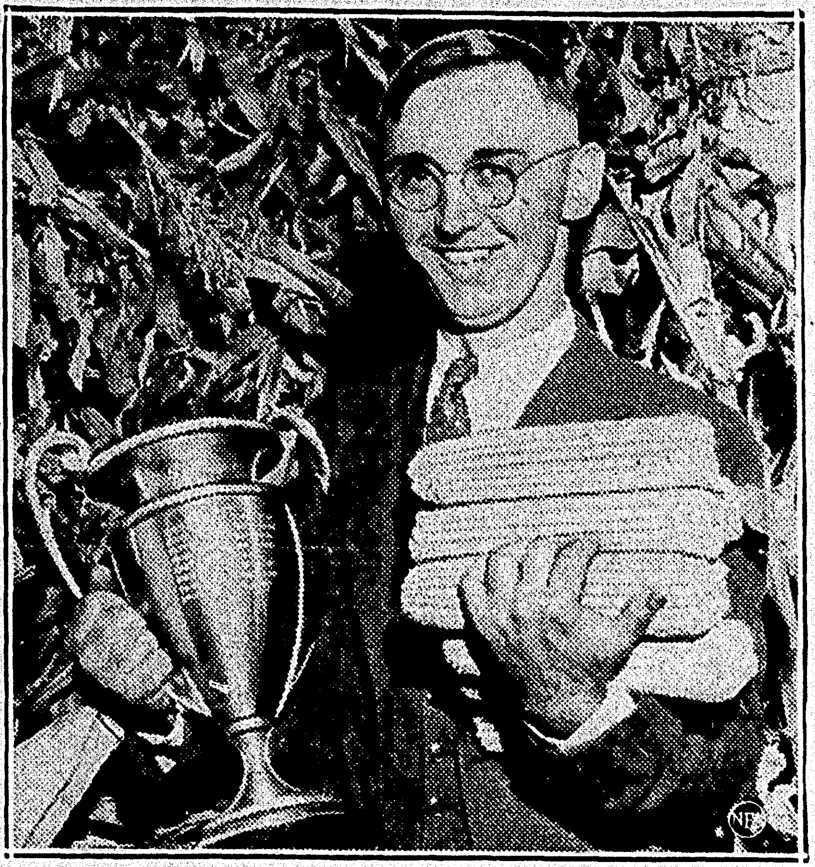
Navy's Flagship Boasts 'Quintuplet' Sailor Unit

LONG BEACH, Calif., Dec. 7.—(AP)—The navy's flagship Pennsylvania has its "Cowdrey unit" to rival the Dionne quintuplets.

The unit is composed of five Cowdrey brothers from Virden, Ill., all of whom are serving as gobs on the ship—Paul, Burmen, Harry, Charlie and Manley.

Another brother, Orville, still a high school sophomore, plans to enlist in the navy some day and serve on the same ship as the other five.

CROWNED CORN KING OF WORLD



Corn king of the world for 1935 is William Carr Lentz, 34, shown here as he proudly holds the trophy emblematic of the championship, won at the hay and grain show of the international livestock exposition in Chicago. The title was awarded him for his display of Johnson county white corn, samples of which he is holding, raised on his farm near Jeffersonville, Ind.

PLATE LUNCH IS FEATURE OF DIXIE

Tasty Original Sandwiches Are Served By Local Restaurant

The Dixie Sandwich shop at 407 Walnut features a chicken dinner every day for 25 cents. The order includes chicken and two vegetables. Popular prices prevail on all orders.

Oysters are served in the various styles and they are received daily from the gulf.

Tom Leos, operator of the establishment, features many kinds of sandwiches which he originates himself. Among some of them is the Dixie special which is sold for 15 cents. The double deck hamburger is another feature at 10 cents. Fine barbeque is kept at all times.

Ice cold beer is kept in bottles. A mechanical refrigeration system is used to keep drinks ice cold.

For those who wish to be served in their car, there is plenty of parking space, and curb service is a part of the service offered by Mr. Leos.

Inside Mr. Leos has built-in booths to seat many of his customers. Excellent service is rendered at all times.

The Dixie Sandwich shop is conveniently located near the downtown area on one of the main streets of Monroe. It is ideally situated for those who desire supper or lunch.

Mr. Leos welcomes the patronage of the citizens of the Twin Cities and offers his excellent service to them.

Farmers Fought 'Mud' They Sell As Bentonite

BELLE FOURCHE, S. D., Dec. 7.—(AP)—From mud to face powder is the story of Bentonite, mineral "infant prodigy" that has sprouted into a leading industry of western South Dakota in five years.

Until 1929 farmers fought the clayish substance that layered the soil in this area.

Now three mills are operating in Belle Fourche and two more are to be constructed. Several hundred men have employment because of it.

ADDIS ABABA TOURS LISTED

Excursions to the "new Italian Territories in Africa" are being advertised by all leading Italian travel agencies. One announcement to tourists, which appears in Rome, Milan and Venice reads: "In 1936 we are organizng special trips by Pullman Autocars from Milan to Addis Ababa. Return via Eritrea and Libya. Visit the former kingdom of the Negus!"

LARGE NUMBER OF CONTEST FOLDERS GIVEN BY ST. JOHN

Everyone is entering the contest at St. John Electric company. Two hundred and fifty of the official contest folders which are necessary to enter the contest have been given out at the electric company. The contest is only started, as the deadline is midnight December 24, 1935.

The award of the contest is a beautiful new Kelvinator which will be given to the person writing the best letter on "why I want a Kelvinator for Christmas." It is now on display at the St. John Electric company and all contestants are invited to see the new model and let a salesman explain the various features which will help everyone in writing the letter.

Local judges will be selected and they will consider neatness, sincerity and the practical reasons advanced in selecting the winner.

To enter the contest, the contestant must first get an official contest folder, which will be furnished free to anyone. Then write a letter of not less than 100 words on "why you want a Kelvinator for Christmas." Send or bring it to the St. John Electric company before midnight December 24, 1935.

H. A. St. John of the concern stated that the contest was open to everyone without cost or obligation. For further details go to St. John Electric company.

Homespun Names Appear In Missouri Plant Study

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Homespun botany appears in the study of Missouri plant life published by the Missouri Botanical garden here.

"Shin oak," "beggar's lice," "evil's claws," "tear blanket," "old man's beard" and "Dutchman's pipe" are some of the provincial names. Sheep sorrel is known as "sheepsour" and purslane is called "pusley." Hawthorn is more generally known as "red haw."

Pigeons Expose Poultry To Disease, Parasites

STILLWATER, Okla., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Pigeons, from their barn roosts, have exposed poultry flocks of this state to a number of diseases and parasites, says Prof. L. H. Moe, bacteriologist and veterinarian of Oklahoma A. & M. college.

In addition to lice and fleas, Moe said pigeons could have spread tuberculosis, typhoid and pullorum diseases reported in flocks over the state.

ROBOT INVENTOR FINED

Claiming to be the man who introduced robot traffic lights into England, Carl Janssen, a Dane, was arrested recently in Stepney on a charge of failing to observe traffic lights. Janssen contended the lights were green when he passed them, but changed to red before he got across the street because he slowed down to allow pedestrians to pass.

A truck is the only motor vehicle in all Spitzbergen.

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Small net gains of 1 to 2 points were marked up today by cotton futures in the quiet week-end session on the market here today.

The volume of business was limited and consisted largely of evening up operations in preparation for the government's crop report to be announced Monday.

There was little important selling in the market and available contracts were absorbed by the trade.

Speculative interests was almost entirely lacking.

December closed at 11.90, March two points higher at 11.58, May one point higher at 11.50 and October was up nominally at 11.25.

Outside news developments were lacking today and a waiting attitude was apparent among nearly all traders.

Cotton futures closed steady at net advances of 1 to 2 points.

Sugar

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—A sale of 18.590 bags of Cuban sugar at 3.10 was the only business reported on the sugar market today.

Aside from the Dec. position, which was relatively steady, futures were generally lower. Dec. advanced from 2.05 to 2.06 and closed at 2.05 while July sold off from 2.10 to 2.08, closing at the lower level. Sales were 4,7 tons.

Refined was unchanged with all refiners accepting orders at 4.00 con for prompt shipment with only a moderate inquiry reported.

BIDS ASKED BY STATE FOR OLLA-SIKES ROA

JENA, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—One of the most important road links in this section of the state is being advertised by the Louisiana state highway commission for grading and surfacing. It is the Olla-Sikes highway located in LaSalle and Winn parish and it covers a distance of 11.464 mil

Citizens of the Olla community have been asking for this road for some time and they point out that it will fill a long-felt need, as there is much farming land in that section which has had no outlet to markets.

The highway commission is also advertising for bids on the Grays highway, located in Caldwell and La Salle parishes.

These two highways make the fi "farm-to-market" roads the highway commission has advertised in the parish. Other projects are the Neb White Hall, Jena-Routon and Ro field-Antioch roads.

'So Red The Rose,' Drama Of Old South, At Paramount

War Between States Theme Of Dixie Epic

Margaret Sullavan And Randolph Scott Head Cast Of Popular Stars

"SO Red the Rose," Paramount's stirring adaptation of Stark Young's novel of the same name, opened last night at the Paramount theater. Margaret Sullavan is the star, and the supporting cast includes such well known names as Walter Connolly, Randolph Scott, Janet Beecher, Elizabeth Patterson, Harry Ellerbe and the child actor, Dickie Moore.

"So Red the Rose" is a story of our south, a romantic and poignant account of those turbulent days of the War Between the States. More than that, it reveals the ideals and hopes and bravery of a gentle southern family when the clarion call of strife made men and women array themselves on the side of duty, sure of the righteousness of their cause.

It is the story of a young girl's love for a man, a man who hesitates to answer the fighting call of his people, and who, in his efforts to do what he believes is right, is even willing to sacrifice love on the altar of his beliefs.

Margaret Sullavan is the girl, Vallette, a pretty, vivacious belle of the south. It is a role delicately in tune with Miss Sullavan's subtle gifts as an actress and she brings to her portrayal the artistry that his distinguished her work on stage and screen.

The boy, Duncan, is portrayed by Randolph Scott, a handsome and talented actor who in "So Red the Rose" forsakes his "western" characterizations which have won him fame and proves his versatility as an actor.

Walter Connolly, one of the foremost character actors of our day, is splendid as Vallette's father, and Janet Beecher, Harry Ellerbe and Elizabeth Patterson (in one of her biting roles) do well in parts that give background and authenticity to the story.

The direction of King Vidor ranks high among his many works remembered by picture audiences. For "So Red the Rose" gives forth the full flavor of Stark Young's nostalgic and romantic novel, capturing completely the spirit, movement and feeling that made "So Red the Rose" one of last year's most important contributions to American fiction.

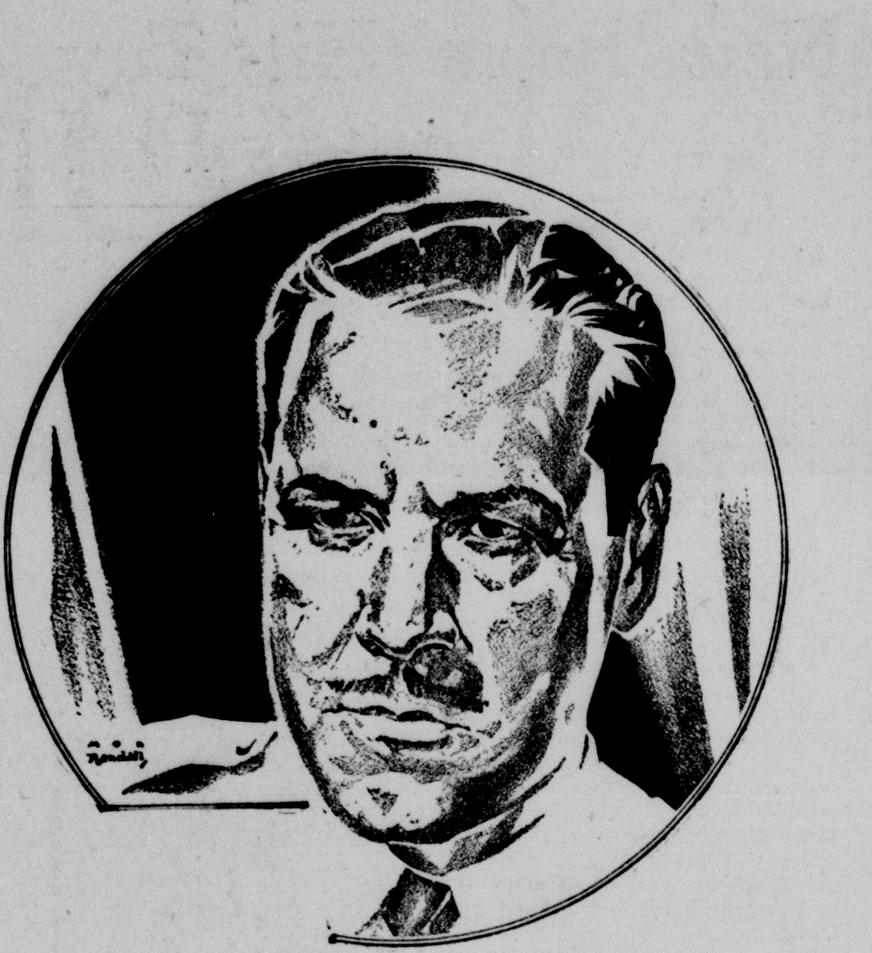
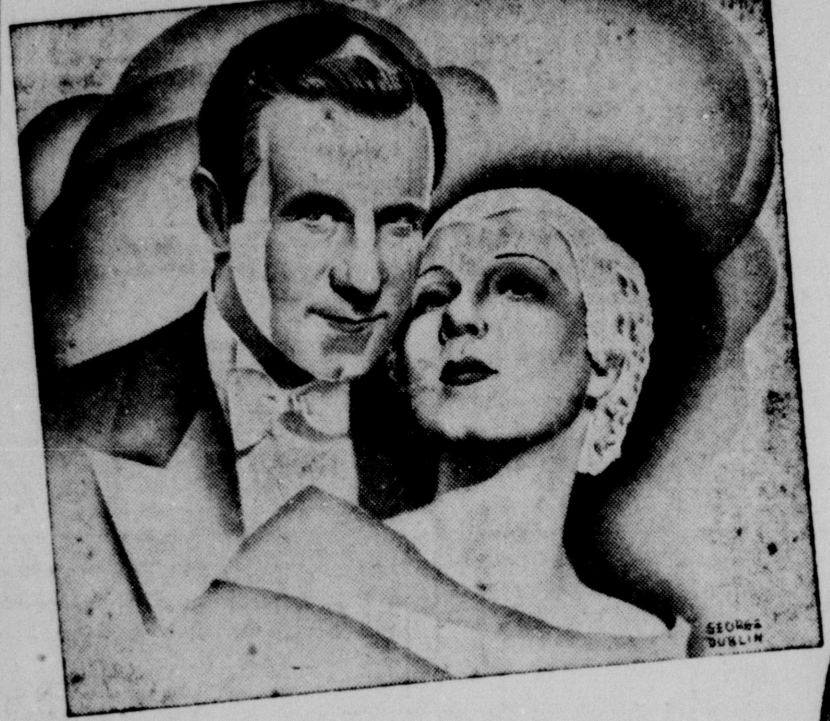
Rough and ready . . . yes, ready to put him on the spot in the fastest film fun featured at the Paramount theater in months. It starts Tuesday and runs through Wednesday. George Raft and Joan Bennett become hilariously and thrillingly involved in "She Couldn't Take It," when hard-as-nails Raft gives soft-as-silk Bennett a lesson in love. The smartest deb in town discovers that although she could hand it out, she couldn't take it, and instead of putting him on the spot, finds herself on the spot from morn to night with socks and slaps for hugs and kisses.



Jack Holt is a daring American aviator of fortune who throws his lot with the air forces of a South American country in the throes of war in his latest picture for Universal, "Storm Over the Andes," playing at the Capitol theater today and Monday. He has an excellent supporting cast including Antonio Moreno, screen favorite for 20 years; beautiful Mona Barrie, comic Gene Lockhart, Grant Withers, George Lewis and others.

Moroni Olsen as Porthos, Paul Lukas as Athos, Onslow Stevens as Aramis, in "The Three Musketeers," the attraction at the Paramount theater Thursday and Friday. Here is the grandest romance ever born from the pen of the immortal Alexandre Dumas. Others in the big cast include Walter Able, Heather Angel, Rosamond Pinchot and Margot Grahame. The reckless sons of the flashing blade ride, and raid, and love again, in the story that is dearest to the heart of everyone who has dreamed of bold heroics and high adventure.



Maureen O'Sullivan, Joel McCrea and Lewis Stone are the principals of M-G-M's exciting new action romance, "Woman Wanted," which will be the attraction at the Capitol theater Friday. Miss O'Sullivan is given one of her greatest dramatic opportunities as a girl fleeing from an unjust prison sentence who catapults herself and her lover in a series of hair raising situations which rise to a high powered climax. Louis Calhern, Edgar Kennedy and Adrienne Ames have prominent supporting roles.

"Paris in Spring," coming to the Capitol theater Tuesday, is a musical toast to the city of lovers . . . sung straight from the hearts of the lovely star, Mary Ellis, and the handsome hero, Tullio Carminati. "Paris in the Spring" is a spirited revelry in the city of happiness. Romance, comedy and song make it delightful entertainment. Ida Lupino and Lynne Overman are also featured in the cast.

Walter Connolly, Randolph Scott, Janet Beecher, Margaret Sullavan, Elizabeth Patterson and Dickie Moore, who are featured in Stark Young's romantic novel of the glamorous south, "So Red the Rose," the attraction playing at the Paramount theater today and Monday. You'll find it the finest picture of the old south to come out of Hollywood since "The Birth of a Nation."

Screen Life In Hollywood

By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Pola Negri lives up to the "mystery" tradition of film exotics in her latest announcement of an engagement to marry.

Her progress across the cinema horizon front-paged now for nearly 15 years, Pola has been fairly consistently an exponent of "mystery" in her personal life, although she will take the world into her confidence —to a certain extent.

For instance, in London recently she described her new fiance—a certain "middle-aged British statesman, a former member of Parliament, enormously wealthy—you'll be amazed when you find out who it is, in about two weeks."

Changed Her Mind

Hollywood, scene of Pola's former triumphs and failures, prepared itself to be amazed, and none the less checked back on Pola's last engagement announcement. On February 6, 1932, in Chicago, Pola told the world of her new grand romance. She would marry, she said, a Chicago man ("but his name is a secret") who was then "wintering at his estate at Montecito, Calif." He was "someone everyone looks up to and admires." Three months later, in Cleveland, Pola set the date "in July or August" but still did not reveal the name. What happened then? Well, Pola must have changed her mind.

Changing her mind has been Pola's prerogative—and custom—ever since she blazed into film fame in the German film, "Passion," and was brought to Hollywood, in 1922, as reward. Matrimonially, she already had changed her mind once. She had divorced her first husband, Count Eugene Dombski, a garrison commander on the Russian border. In Hollywood, where her films scarcely lived up to the promise of her European successes, her romances with various film figures were noted eagerly.

At one time it was Charles Chaplin to whom she was reported engaged, at another it was Rudolph Valentino, and when the Latin idol died in New York after a brief sudden illness, the Polish star's spectacle of grief was one long to be remembered here.

But it was Prince Serge Mdivani—of the "marryin' Mdivanis"—whom she married in Paris in 1927, at a great and princely wedding. Two years later, in Paris, Pola's flair for the dramatic asserted itself in the very hall of justice where she had gone to secure a divorce. She and Serge, meeting in the courtroom, embraced, kissed and made up—and the reconciliation lasted a year, when Pola finally called a halt and got a decree.

Sued And Was Sued

That, however, did not end her connection with Serge Mdivani. She was to sue him for $80,000 she assertedly lent him, and meet a counter-suit asking $131,000 from her. The legal scrap was ended recently in a dismissal of both actions, terms unrevealed. Serge later married Mary McCormic, but they too are divorced now.

Pola's last Hollywood film, "A Woman Commands," made in 1931, was a personal triumph but a boxoffice failure. Her starring lately has been done abroad, but Hollywood nevertheless watches the doings of this moon-faced, raven-tressed actress who once was its foremost symbol of fire and temperament.

This Week's Movie Program

AT THE CAPITOL

Today and Monday—Jack Holt in "Storm Over the Andes" with Mona Barrie, Antonio Moreno, Gene Lockhart, Grant Withers, Barry Norton and George Lewis.

Tuesday—"Paris in Spring," with Mary Ellis, Tullio Carminati, Ida Lupino and Lynne Overman.

Wednesday and Thursday—Carl Brisson in "Ship Cafe," with Arline Judge, William Frawley, Mady Christians and Eddie Davis.

Friday—"Woman Wanted," with Maureen O'Sullivan, Joel McCrea, Lewis Stone, Louis Calhern, Edgar Kennedy and Adrienne Ames.

Saturday—Nick Foran in "Moonlight on the Prairie," with Sheila Mannors, George E. Stone, Joseph Sawyer, Robert Barrat, Gordon Elliott and Joseph King.

Eddie Davis, noted Broadway night club entertainer, making his film debut in Paramount's romantic comedy, "Ship Cafe," coming to the Capitol theater Wednesday and Thursday, pounds out a few of his favorite songs for the benefit of other leading members of the cast, including Carl Brisson, Arline Judge, William Frawley and Inez Courtney. The film centers around the hilarious career of a singing ship stoker, who is a sailor bold with a voice of gold and two fists swinging free.

Notes On Life In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD—The directly expressed opinions of the public have little weight in Hollywood.

Indirectly, however, by its approval or disapproval as reflected in box office receipts, it rules the roost.

In the millions of letters that come to Hollywood every year, there are many thousands of suggestions about stories, castings and, particularly, the teaming of certain stars. Very few of these direct suggestions are adopted.

The exceptions to this rule are not numerous. Several hundred people, for example, wanted to see Shirley Temple in "The Little Colonel." The picture was made. As a result of so many letters asking to hear John Boles' voice, his employers have him sing whenever it is practical. Richard Dix switched to dress-up and modern roles; his public didn't like them and registered protests by mail. Dix is again making western pictures on the order of "Cimarron."

'Hamlet' A Possibility

Perhaps Mae West had an Alaskan gold rush character in mind, but anyway fans wrote numerous letters asking to see her in such a role. They may consider she is obliging them with "Klondike Lou." Lovers of Shakespeare want to see "Hamlet" on the screen and many of them even go so far as to cast the picture. From all indications, "Hamlet" is a remote possibility.

For the several years since Warner Baxter created the character of the Cisco Kid in "In Old Arizona" and "The Cisco Kid," fans have made their favorite topic in letters a discussion of their approval of the character coupled with the request that he play it again. He has twice—in "Under the Pampas Moon" and in "Robin Hood of El Dorado." The Charlie Chan series is being continued, and it will be indefinitely no doubt, both as a result of letters and box office approval.

Carole's Genealogy

Speaking of letters, a genealogist went to the trouble—and expense, apparently, since he subtly billed her for "services rendered"—of looking up Carole Lombard's family tree.

She was very impressed with the report on her supposed ancestors, the Lombards. But it didn't mean a thing to her.

Her real name is Peters.

Wendy Barrie is one of the most cosmopolitan actresses in town. Her father is English, her mother is Irish. Wendy was born in Hongkong, educated in England and "polished" in a finishing school in Switzerland.

Frances Farmer, who has just come into the movies, studied for a journalistic career at the University of Washington.

Jack Holt Starred In Air Film

Spectacular 'Storm Over The Andes,' Plays At Capitol Today

CALLED one of the finest productions in which Jack Holt ever has been starred, Universal's thrilling screenplay dealing with aviation and love in South America, "Storm Over the Andes," comes today to the Capitol theater. The screenplay deals with the adventures of Holt as an American soldier of fortune who joins the air corps of one of the fighting countries as a combat pilot.

In the cast of the production are Antonio Moreno, making a comeback on the American screen after five years in Spanish motion pictures; beautiful Mona Barrie, who plays the part of a gay senora; Gene Lockhart celebrated as a stage and screen comedian, Juanita Garfas, a Spanish pepperpot, Grant Withers, Barry Norton and George Lewis, famous for his work in "The Collegians."

Colorful highlights of the story include a gay fiesta in a South American city; the strafing of airports at the front; several air battles; the blasting of munitions dumps, and some spectacular flying by veteran aviators. Two plane crashes take place in the course of the picture.

Holt saves his commanding officer, brings down a giant bomber, captures the ace of the enemy air forces and does several other hair-raising and thrilling stunts. The production was directed for Universal by W. Christy Cabanne, from a story by Eliot Gibbons and Laclede Christy with screenplay by Al Demond, Lt. Com. Frank Wead and Eve Green.

For the production an entire airport was constructed, complete with hangars, administration buildings and officers quarters. Fourteen airplanes and as many professional pilots were engaged to do their stunts, and hundreds of soldiers were enrolled for the extensive action scenes over the miles of South American wastes.

Other colorful backgrounds include an entire city gay in the habiliments of the fiesta days, the beautiful South American home of a noted army officer and diplomat, huge cafes, where merry-making continued into the small hours of the morning, and actual battlefronts.

In the course of the production, two ammunition dumps were exploded especially for the picture. In addition, three airplanes were crashed and there were other thrilling scenes to add color and glamor to it.

SNOWBALLS AT EQUATOR

East Africa's first snowball battle has just been recorded in Rombo, near Nairobi. The village is on the eastern slopes of Kilimanjaro and only 7,000 feet above sea level. The first heavy fall of snow ever recorded at such a low altitude in Africa enabled hundreds of native children to stage a snow fight. At the same time a few miles away an old volcano started to smoke for the first time known.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank

(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Stocks rallied today under the leadership of merchandising and metal issues.

A number of new highs for the past several years were recorded with gains ranging from fractions to 2 or more points. Trading, quiet at the start, picked up speed in the final hour. The close was firm. Transfers approximated 1,200,000 shares.

As a market influence the foreign situation appeared to be about a stand-off, but the tension of the past several days apparently was not so pronounced.

Speculative and investment sentiment evidently turned to the bullish side of equities as the domestic economic picture continued to grow brighter.

A number of low-priced shares were again lively performers for a time at small advances. Scattered "blue chips" came into prominence at the tail-end of the proceedings.

Grains were inclined to sag during the greater part of the day and cotton was hesitant. Bonds were steady. The gold currencies, including the French franc, held their own and sterling improved.

Shares of Coca-Cola got up around 7 points and lesser advances were registered by Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, McCrory Stores, Remington Rand, Eastman Kodak, International Nickel, Anaconda, Cerro de Pasco, American Smelting, Howe Sound, Case, American Can, Adams Express, Chrysler, General Motors, Young Spring & Wire, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Telephone, Western Union, Consolidated Gas, North American, Postal Telegraph, N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Douglas Aircraft and United Aircraft.

Strength exhibited by scattered stocks was attributed largely to buying on expectations of generous disbursements. During the week there were 68 favorable dividend announcements against only 1 unfavorable.

Brokers reported an increase in cash purchases with an expansion of orders from the west.

CHAPTER XX

Frank Watson and Al Peters were waiting outside the entrance to the West Park hotel when Larry drove up. They stepped forward as he got out of his car.

"Tony and Tommy are inside," said Watson. "Tony's up at the entrance to the suite, and Tommy is with the manager. The people'd checked out just about 30 minutes before we got here. The manager says they seemed to be in a hurry."

"I'll bet they were," said Larry. "You did a good job to locate it as soon as you did. We'll go up and look the place over and see what there is to see."

They entered the lobby and crossed to the desk, where Tommy Waters was talking with the manager, a worried-looking individual in a morning coat He looked up as they drew near, and spoke to Larry with petulant concern.

"I hope you'll be able to conduct your investigation quietly," he said. "It would be a bad thing for us to have any publicity about this."

"Yes, I imagine it would," said Larry. "One good way to avoid things like that is to be a little careful about who you rent rooms to."

He took the key which the manager handed him, glanced at the number, said curtly, "You needn't come with us," and led the other agents to the elevator.

They went up and found Tony LaRocco lounging at the apartment entrance. Larry unlocked, the door and they all went inside, closing the door after them.

The suite consisted of a large ornately-furnished living room, two bedrooms, an elaborately-tiled bathroom, and a small kitchenet and dinalcove. Larry looked about him appreciatively.

"They did themselves well, these birds," he said. Tommy Waters nodded.

"Took the place just over three weeks ago, and paid $150 a week for it," he said. "That's according to that fish-eyed manager, anyhow."

They crossed the living room and entered the larger of the bedrooms. It was in disorder. The twin beds were unmade, the drawers of bureaus and dressing tables stood open, a tray containing highball glasses with the dregs still in them stood on a little table between the beds, and a crumpled newspaper lay on the floor nearby. There was a discarded necktie on a dresser, and a crumpled sheet of wrapping paper beside it.

"Nothing much to see here," observed Larry. "Let's look farther."

The bathroom was similarly disordered. The other bedroom seemed not to have been occupied, and was in applie pie order; but the dining alcove table still bore plates and cups with the remains of a meal, and empty bottles stood on the shelves of the little kitchenet.

Larry inspected the alcove table.

"Set for three," he said. "Looks like supper rather than breakfast. Well, we'll soon find out."

* * *

LaRocco was inspecting the used glasses and empty bottles in the kitchenet. He looked up to remark, Some swell prints here."

"Good," said Larry. "Get 'em."

LaRocco got out the apparatus from the little bag Larry had brought with him and went to work. Larry continued his inspection of the dining alcove, while the other men explored the living room.

"This stuff came from the kitchen downstairs," he said at last. "They didn't prepare it themselves. Let's get the manager up here."

One of the agents reached for the phone and summoned that individual. He arrived in a few minutes, still wearing his look of apprehensive and injured innocence.

"I want to know when these people last had an order from the kitchen," said Larry. "Find out for me and send up the waiter who served it."

The manager bowed and left, to return a little later with a waiter.

The waiter explained that he had served supper for three in the apartment the night before, at about 9:30 Two men and one woman were in the party; the woman and one of the men were the people who occupied the suite regularly; the other man was a visitor who frequently came to the apartment but never spent the night there.

Larry took out a rogue's gallery picture of Wingy Lewis and handed it to him with a question. The waiter looked at it and nodded slowly.

"I think so," he said. "I can't be quite sure. It looks like him, though."

"Did you notice his hands?" asked Larry.

The waiter looked at him, uncomprehending; then a light dawned in his eyes and he nodded. "Yes, yes," he said excitedly. "His left hand—he had but four fingers."

"That's him," said Larry, slipping the picture back in his pocket. "Now then, do you remember where they were seated when you served the meal?"

Theh waiter thought for a moment, then touched a chair with his hand.

"The man with the mutilated hand, he sat here," he said. "The lady here, and the guest opposite, here."

Larry bent over the table.

"Come here, Tony," he said. "See if you can get any prints off the silver."

He loked up at the waiter speculatively.

"Do you remember," he asked, "when you laid the places, did you happen to wipe off the silver with a napkin?"

The waiter looked at him blankly, then shook his head.

"Then your prints would probably be on it?"

"Yes. And also, perhaps, the prints of the bus boy who carries the silver from the place where it is washed and dried to the rack from which we collect it."

Larry turned to the manager.

"Find that bus boy and get him up here," he said. "Meanwhile—" turning back to the waiter as the manager left, "let us have your fingerprints, will you?"

Grinning broadly, the waiter complied. The bus boy, looking very scared, was brought up a moment later, and his prints likewise were recorded. Then, dismissing the servants and the manager, Larry turned to LaRocco.

"Finding anything?"

"Plenty," said LaRocco grimly. One of the other agents was wrapping up the odds and ends of discarded belongings that had been found in the place. There were not many; a nearly empty tube of shaving cream, a necktie, a torn slip of pink silk, half a dozen detective-story magazines, and so on. The other two were going over furniture and walls like ferrets, looking for anything and everything and finding nothing.

An hour later Larry made a final survey of the place, and nodded to the others.

"We're through here," he said. "Let's go."

As they reached the lobby he sought out the doorman.

"Where do the guests here usually park their cars?" he asked. The doorman named a commercial garage a block away.

LaRocco and Tommy Waters called a cab and went downtown, while the other three hurried to the garage. There Larry sought out the manager and produced once more his rogue's gallery portrait of Wingy Lewis.

The manager studied it thoughtfully, then nodded.

"Looks like him," he said.

Once more Larry asked the inevitable question, "Did you notice his hands?" The garage manager replied as the waiter had done; after puzzling over the question for a moment his face brightened, and he recalled that the man had lacked the index finger on his left hand. Larry grunted with satisfaction.

"What kind of a car did he drive?" he asked.

"Well, he came here with a LaPlace sedan," said the manager. "Then about a week or ten days ago he came in with a new one—a big 12-cylinder Frontenac, dark blue with gold beading and blue wire wheels."

He stuck his head out of the little wicket in his office, where they were talking, and called a colored attendant. "Hey, Hank! Come here, will you?"

Hank came over; a tall, intelligent-looking colored man in tan breeches and puttes, a blue shirt open at the throat. Larry immediately asked him about Mr. Lewis's big blue Frontenac: had he ever noticed anything unusual about it?

"Nothin' 'cept that it was awful heavy," said Hank.

"Ah," said Larry softly. "How'd you happen to notice that?"

"Well," said Henry, "he brought it in one night an' told me to change the oil, so I took it up on the third floor and run it on the rack. 'Stead of havin' pits here we got wooden racks, like—" He gestured with his hands to illustrate their arrangement of inclined parallel rails. "I run it up on there, and the first upright on the right-hand rail broke. Didn't break off short—just cracked an' split. I back it off an' had a look at the upright. Good strong piece of wood; I never thought anything less'n a five-ton truck would crack it. So I took the car over to the fillin' station on the corner, where they got pits, an' had it done."

"Mmm. Notice anything else about it?"

"Wings of the hood was awful heavy, too. Like liftin' pieces of steel to open up an' get at the oil intake."

Beyond that, Hank had noticed nothing. He was dismissed, and Larry turned to the manager and asked him when Lewis had left that morning.

"Just about an hour ago," the manager replied. "Bought 10 gallons of gas and shoved off, with a girl in the front seat beside him and suitcases in the back."

"Just a girl? There wasn't another man along?"

"No. Just the girl."

After jotting down the license number of the car, and ascertaining that Lewis had neither asked for any road maps nor made any casual remarks that would give any clew as to the direction he had planned to take, Larry and his men returned to the federal building. In his office Larry reassembled his staff about him.

"Now," he said, "we've got to drift around town and ask ten million questions. Somewhere around Dover there must be someone who has some sort of notion what part of the country these people were apt to head for. It's up to us to find out—fast."

2 AUTOMOBILE MISHAPS OCCUR HERE SATURDAY

Poor visibility on the streets as the result of heavy rains accounted for two automobile accidents in the city yesterday, although no one was reported injured.

Myrtle Black, of Fox court, collided with a switch engine at DeSiard and Sixth streets, while traveling west on DeSiard street. She tried to stop her car, she reported, but was on the tracks before she could do so.

C. J. Shirah, Hotel Grand, collided with a city dump truck driven by J. D. Thatcher, on Washington street, between Fifth and Sixth streets. In his report of the accident, Shirah claimed that he failed to see the truck until it struck him. His car suffered a broken windshield and other damage. The city dump truck was only slightly damaged.

GASOLINE TAX REPORT FOR PARISH RETURNED

Gasoline taxes paid in Ouachita parish for the month of October amounted to $6,673.81, making a total of $58,884.22 for the the 10 months' period ending October 31, according to a report just returned.

The gasoline was shipped into the parish in 716 tank cars and 177 truck loads. This money, less the cost of collecting, was turned over to the government agency's local board by Mrs. E. H. Hill, secretary of the Ouachita parish police jury. The money is used to care for unemployables of the parish.

The cost of collecting and transportation charges totaled $1,500.

CHICKENS STOLEN

Will Rogers, negro, 105 Renwick street, reported to police yesterday that his chicken coop was raided Friday night, and two Rhode Island Red hens taken.

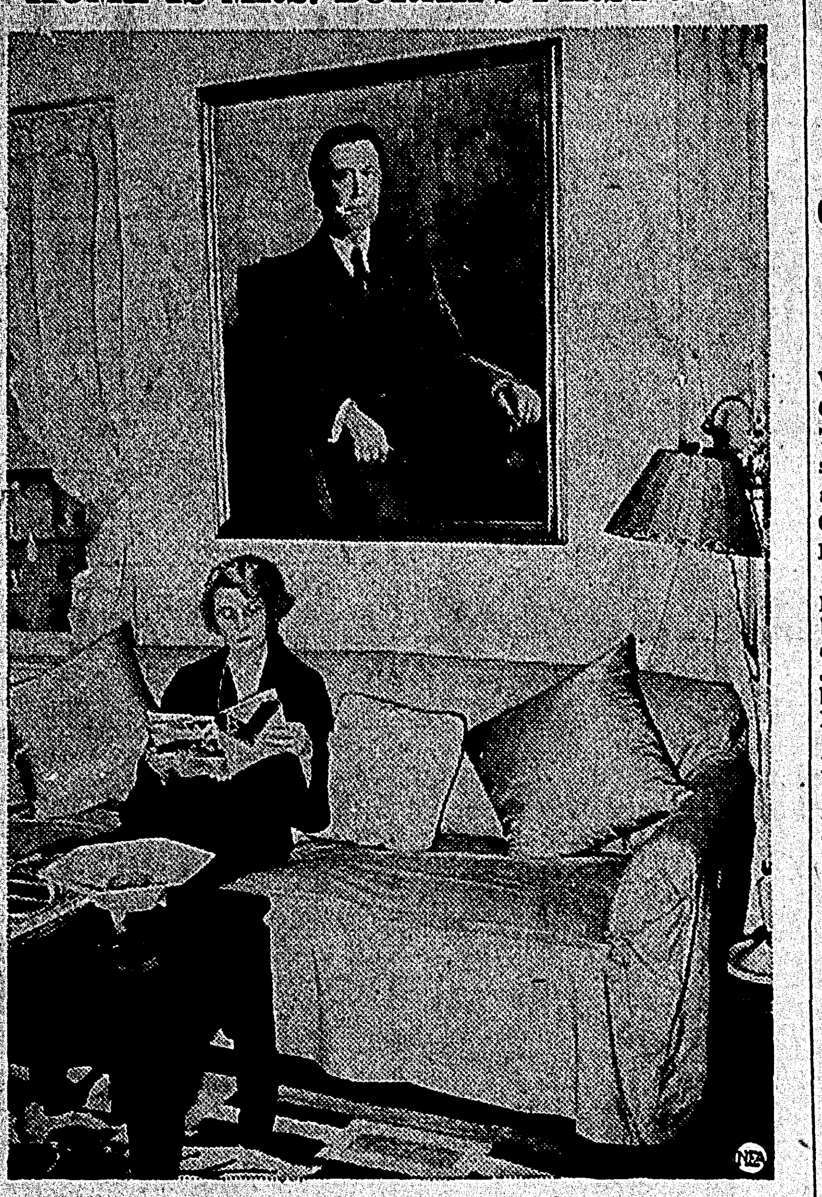
HOME IS MRS. BORAH'S FIRST JOY



Though her 27 years in Washington have made her one of the best-known figures in capital society circles, Mrs. Mary McConnell Borah, like her distinguished senator-husband, rates her home and books above the social life. Here, in her capital apartment, the daughter of a former Idaho governor is pictured in her favorite company, a book and the portrait of her distinguished husband, who is being boomed as possible presidential nominee.

Maintenance Of Medical Society Standing Is Aim

Dr. J. H. Pankey, New Parish Group President, Takes Up Duties

The Ouachita Parish Medical society, which has for years held an important place in the Louisiana State Medical society, entered another fiscal year of its history during the past week when officers were elected at an annual meeting. Dr. J. H. Pankey, the new president, in an interview yesterday outlined some of the objectives of his office for the year and reviewed some of the honors which have been earned by members of the society in the state and nation.

Pointing out that the Ouachita Parish Medical society's membership of 52 physicians and surgeons includes virtually every practitioner in the parish eligible for membership, Dr. Pankey said one of his principal objectives as president of the society will be to maintain its membership standing in the state organization. This will give support to the state society, aiding in maintaining its standing and representation in the American Medical association.

The parish medical society's virtual 100 per cent record in membership alone shows an active organization, as the state membership average is only about 50 per cent.

Fellowship as a factor for aiding in the continuance of the parish society's membership standing, also is to figure prominently in Dr. Pankey's activities as president, he said.

Another of the prime objectives of Dr. Pankey will be to work towards making a strong Monroe bid for the 1937 convention of the Louisiana State Medical society. The convention customarily is alternately held at New Orleans one year and at some other city in the state the following year. In 1936 the convention will be held at New Orleans.

Dr. Pankey listed among the honors earned by members of the parish society the following: Dr. C. P. Gray, Sr., is president of the Louisiana State Medical society; Dr. John G. Snelling is retiring president of the Fifth District Medical society; Dr. J. Q. Graves is the Louisiana delegate to the American Medical association convention; Dr. J. B. Vaughan is councillor of the state medical society; the Ouachita Parish Medical society, in proportion to population, has a greater number of surgeons accepted as fellows of the American College of Surgeons than any other parish.

The Ouachita Parish Medical society, from the beginning of its history, has been actively identified with movements for the advancement of the standards of the profession. The late Dr. I. J. Newton years ago saw enacted as state legislation a movement in which he was associated as a leader and which had had far reaching results. The legislation requires high qualifications of persons admitted to medical and surgical practice, including graduation from a medical college or university.

Dr. Pankey will have associated with him in his work in the parish organization two other new officers, Dr. C. U. Johnson, vice-president, and Dr. Ralph Talbot, secretary-treasurer.

COMPLETE DIRT LEVEE SYSTEM

West Monroe Link Is Finished By Contracting Firm

Jones and Bland, contractors, Saturday completed the construction of the earth levee which extends from LaZarre's point to the old traffic bridge at Coleman avenue in West Monroe.

This construction is the final link in the West Monroe levee system which starts north of McGuire park and extends to Claiborne street, where it connects with a cement levee wall. On the south the levee wall extends from the traffic bridge to a point beyond the southern city limits and thence west to a point south of the plant of the Brown paper mill and into the highlands north of Bawcomville.

The levee wall from Claiborne street to the traffic bridge is being built of cement over steel piling driven deep into the ground in similar manner to the walls on South Grand street on the Monroe side of the river.

It is said that the last levee wall in West Monroe to be constructed will be that between the old and new traffic bridges.

A pumping plant near Black bayou will complete the flood control project for West Monroe. This will operate to remove surface water and convey it into the river.

COUPLE TO BE MARRIED AT WATERPROOF CHURCH

HARRISONBURG, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—Mr. and Mrs. William W. Stripling announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Anna Louise, and Joseph Testa, Jr. The ceremony will be performed at the Presbyterian church in Waterproof next Thursday at 3:30 p.m. Rev. R. L. McRaney, the pastor, will officiate.

A number of pre-nuptial parties are to be given in honor of the bride early in the week.

BIBLE CLASS AND MEN'S CLUB HOLD JOINT MEET

Sixty members of the Frank P. Stubbs Memorial Bible class and the Men's club of the First Presbyterian church attended a joint gathering of the two organizations held Friday night in the cafeteria fo Neville High school. A chicken gumbo supper was served by ladies of the Presbyterian church, following which an interesting program of music, dialogues and fun stunts was presented. One of the hilarious episodes was a "mysic" feature given by R. M. Troy, impersonating a clairvoyant. Prizes were awarded to the members of the group giving the largest number of correct answers to a series of definitions describing the various men in the group.

"Chick" Foster presided as toastmaster, assisted by D. Curtis Seamon, president of the Men's club, and R. M. Troy, president of the Bible class. Mr. and Mrs. Gauschell gave instrumental and vocal duets. Leon Hammond directed community singing. Dr. Charles E. Kenney was chairman of the committee on arrangements.

GUM TAKEN FROM ORANGES

Pectin, a gelatin used for gum, has been extracted from the white inner skin of oranges by Dr. M. Bergmann, a German-Jewish professor at the Daniel Sieff institute in Rehoboth, Palestine. The discovery is considered of great commercial value and it is expected to cause a revolution in the orange by-products market. Potatoes have until now been used in Jerusalem to produce pectin.

SPECIAL SESSION COMES TO CLOSE

Last Meeting Of Legislature Under Conner Administration Ends

JACKSON, Miss., Dec. 7.—(AP)—The 1935 extraordinary session of the Mississippi legislature and the last of the Conner administration, was history tonight.

Convened October 1 for the stated purpose of providing relief for 31,000 unemployable Mississippians dropped from federal relief rolls, the retiring state solons tonight could look back not only on passage of the relief bill, but also on the following legislative acts:

(1) Enactment of a corrupt practices act drastically changing the complexion of Mississippi primary campaigns and elections;

(2) Appropriation of $3,049,215.28, of which schools received $1,125,000; retirement of bonds not yet due $1,040,000;and $700,000 for relief;

(3) Scores of enabling acts which will allow various counties, communities and cities to participate in public works administration building programs;

(4) A series of tax bills estimated to save Mississippi taxpayers approximately $1,285,000, of which counties and cities will suffer a loss of approximately $700,000 in revenue;

(5) A veterans' homestead bill, setting up a veterans' board with power to buy farms and homes for resale to veterans upon easy payment terms (limited to $2,000);

(6) Exemption of TVA rural electrification and transmission power lines from taxation for a period of five years.

In addition, the solons approved a large number of bills of lesser importance.

Altogether, one hundred bills were aproved by both houses, of which 47 were "local and private" measures.

All of these bills had been approved by Governor Sennett Conner tonight save house bill 41 which would move up the date of second primary elections from three weeks to two weeks after the first primary.

BIBLE CONFERENCE IS SLATED NEXT THURSDAY

A one-day Bible conference will be sponsored by Immanuel Baptist church, West Monroe, on Thursday. The morning session will open at 10 o'clock and afternoon sessions at 1:30 and 6:30 p. m.

Speakers will include Rev. L. T. Hastings, Rev. I. J. Brooks, Rev. C. R. Johnson, Rev. D. D. Cantrell, Rev. A. G. Anderson, Rev. W. E. James and Rev. A. H. Johnson.

The subject themes announced are as follows: "The Bible, Whose Book Is It?" "Soul Winning, Whose Job Is It?" "Prophecy, Is It Being Fulfilled?" "What Think Ye of Christ, Whose Son Is He?" "Calvary, What Happened There?" "The Holy Spirit, What Is He To You?" Prayer, praise and testimony meetings will be held at 6:30 p.m. and at 7:30 p.m., the discussion will be concerning the topic, "The Lord's Return—Is It the Blessed Hope?"

The church is located at the corner of North Fourth and Vernon streets in West Monroe.

CHARGED WITH THEFT

Leroy Minor and Amos Nellon, negro youths, were arrested yesterday by Officers L. G. Parker and D. J. Bedsole, on a charge of stealing. The negroes are said to have taken 25 raincoats from the Hunt & Whitaker store some time last week. Reports that the youths were selling the coats led police officers to investigate, with the result that they not only nabbed the alleged thieves, but also recovered the coats.

WILD WARRIORS PLEDGE LOYALTY TO SELASSIE

Outcome Satisfactory, Says Clarkson; Some 'T. B.' Data Given

The special committee named by A. B. Clarkson, chairman of the Christmas seal sale, reported Friday night to the effect that $600 had been raised through solicitation of businessmen of the city, and that a total of $1,000 can be expected when final reports are submitted some day this week. The goal set for total seal sales in the parish is $5,000, the larger part of which will be raised by solicitation through the mails.

Mr. Clarkson expressed complete satisfaction at the record made thus far and indicated that the total seal sale for Ouachita parish will run $1,000 more than was the case in 1934.

Letters will be mailed out tomorrow to persons throughout the parish who will be asked to purchase seals in this manner as personal solicitation in the campaign is limited only to business houses.

The net returns will be devoted to the fund of the Ouachita Tuberculosis and Public Health association.

The local tuberculosis group is in possession of many statistics regarding this dread disease. Figures show that this is the leading cause of death in the United States between the ages of 20 and 40 years. In Louisiana in 1934, there were 1,523 deaths from this cause and more than 15,000 persons are suffering from the disease.

Dr. W. H. Seeman, president of the Tuberculosis and Public Health association of Louisiana, states that it has been found from a study of tuberculosis cases in sanatoria that only 16 per cent were in the early or incipient stage at the time of entrance. The remainder he says were so sick that they will have to remain long and their chance of recovery is lessened.

Continuing he said:

"It was revealed also that 71 per cent of the women were under 30 years of age; 53 per cent of the men under 30. Half of the women had been admitted before they were 25.

"The educational campaign of the National Tuberculosis association and its affiliated groups, of which the Tuberculosis and Public Health association of Louisiana is one, is financed by funds derived from the sale of Christmas seals in the month between Thanksgiving and Christmas. These seals bear each year a different design but always the symbol of the double-barred cross. They sell for one cent each and are issued by the national association but the money raised through the sale of them in Louisiana is used by the state and local organizations—only 5 per cent going to national headquarters," Dr. Seemann concluded.

43 BOY SCOUTS RECEIVE AWARDS

Promotions Given At Special Convocation Of Ouachita Valley Council

Forty-three Boy Scouts, members of troops in the central district of Ouachita Valley council, were awarded advancements of rank at a special convocation of the district court of honor, held Friday night in the parish high school auditorium.

An impressive ceremony of the convocation was the investiture of two scouts with the eagle rank, highest honor that can be worn by a Boy Scout, Pat McHenry of troop 31, Monroe, and Frank Smith, of troop 67, Sterlington, were the new eagles. During the ceremony the mothers of the two boys, Mrs. R. L. McHenry and Mrs. M. Frank Smith, pinned the coveted eagle badge on the uniforms of their sons. The new eagles, in turn, decorated their mothers with a tiny replica of the eagle badge. Each of the mothers was escorted to the rostrum by her son, while the entire body of boy scouts as well as the audience stood at attention.

Judge W. M. Harper, president of the Ouachita Valley council, delivered the introductory address, stressing the importance of scouting in the moulding of character and the elements of citizenship among boys of school age. He urged that fathers of the community take more interest in the scout work, because of its significance in physical, moral and intellectual training.

"Scouting furnishes an opportunity for fathers to demonstrate their citizenship," he said, "by lending their interest to a movement that insures a finer quality of citizenship for the future."

Scout Commissioner J. W. Rohr, Scout Executive Olan H. Black, President Harper and P. J. Mulhearn made the awards in the various ranks. Fred Williamson conducted the eagle scout investiture. He paid tribute to the mothers whose influence, he said, "is responsible in the largest degree for the developments of the highest quality of manhood amongst the boys who are to be citizens of tomorrow."

A feature of the ceremonies was the appearance of the Brown Safety Harmonica band, which gave a program similar to one recently broadcast over the nation by radio from Fort Worth. Philip Bernhardt directed the program. Troop 31, of Monroe, was assigned the honor of conducting the flag ceremony at the opening and the "Taps" ceremony at the close.

Following is the list of awards:

Second class—Troop 13, West Monroe: Leon Dopson; James Sherrard, Jack Holder, Henry Clayton Salley; Troop 31, Monroe: Harold Mouk; Troop 67, Sterlington; Frank Wright.

First Class—Troop 31, Monroe. Billy Clement, S. K. Henninger, Jr.; Troop 34, Monroe: J. B. Swanson.

Star Rank—Troop 1, Monroe: Frank Anzalone, Billy Naff; Troop 29, Monroe: James Whitten; Troop 31, Monroe: Floyd Stone, Louis Milner; troop 67, Sterlington: Harold Williams, George T. Wall, Dalton Veatch, Sam McInnis.

Merit badges—Troop 1, Monroe; Frank Anzalone, carpentry, gardening, cooking; Joe Shaughnessy, firemanship, cooking. Troop 29, Monroe; James Whitten, safety, scholarship, mechanical drawing, civics; Troop 34, Monroe, J. B. Swanson, life saving, swimming, handicraft, bookbinding; Roy Russell, cooking; Henry Mayo, life saving. Troop 67 Sterlington, Frank Smith, bookbinding, camping, cooking, pioneering, pathfinding. Troop 31, Monroe, Billy Clement, life saving, swimming; S. K. Henninger, Jr., horsemanship, personal health, swimming, handicraft, public health, life saving; Floyd Stone, personal health, bookbinding, swimming; Louis Milner, music; J. W. McClendon, bird study; Bob Gansted, music; Pat McHenry, mechanical drawing. Troop 67, Sterlington, George T. Wall, bookbinding, handicraft, carpentry; Dalton Veatch, first aid, public health, personal health; Sam McInnis, angling, first aid, swimming, handicraft, personal health; Charles Roberts, first aid; William Trezavant, camping, bird study, civics, safety; Eugene Tull, beef production, gardening, carpentry; John Wilhite, farm home; Edmund Moore, scholarship; A. T. Ward, safety, handicraft, pathfinding.

SUIT AND TOP HAT OF DELHI CITIZEN PLACED IN MUSEUM

DELHI, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—The suit and top hat worn in 1890 by the late Edward A. Wisner, former Delhi publisher and banker, is now on display at the Cabildo, Louisiana state museum in New Orleans. In a department on the third floor of the massive old structure in which the title of the Louisiana territory was transferred from Spain to France, and eventually from France to the United States, the old suit, in a perfect state of preservation, stands on a model in a glass frame.

Mr. Wisner is remembered by older residents of Delhi as the man who built the Hotel Richland, organized a bank, laid the town of Delhi off in lots, and purchased huge tracts of land in this section.

Although the marker on the suit does not so state, local people believe it was probably the suit worn at the opening and reception of the Richland hotel, which was said to be the best hotel in Louisiana at the time. Mr. Wisner was publisher of the Delhi Daily Pressette.

CALDWELL COTTON TOTALED

COLUMBIA, La., Dec. 6.—(Special)—There were 5,590 bales of cotton ginned in Caldwell parish from the crop of 1935 prior to Dec. 1, compared with 5,634 bales ginned to Dec. 1, 1934.

Observance Of Christmas Is About Same As Centuries Ago

Hospitality, Charity Feature Celebration

Many Dishes Of Day Are Same; Gayety Similar Throughout Years; Scenes During Holidays Like Those Of Yore

By EVE BRADFORD

Christmas! Christmas! The words run like sweet music through the month of December. If Washington Irving could drop in at the typical American home on Christmas day, he would find very little change has come over the observance of the holiday in the century and more since he visited the Bracebridges. He would miss the boar's head, the baked peacock reclad in its rainbow plumage, but he would find nevertheless, "the fire of hospitality in the hall, the genial flame of charity in the heart." Also the mince pie and the blazing plum pudding for which he confessed a weakness.

Mr. Pickwick, who led the Christmas dance with Mr. Wardle's old mother at Dingley Hall back in the days of Charles Dickens, would fit perfectly into the gayety of American homes today and would be the life of the party even though a hundred years have passed since his time. In Irving's Yorkshire coach, laden with hampers of game, were boys joyously returning from boarding school and city folks with bundles and band boxes going back to the country for Christmas. It is the same today—boys and girls will come bounding home again for the holidays and relatives from the four corners of the globe will be reunited.

The Yule log still glows for sentiment's sake, though the house be gas heated; and though every room is not "with ivy leaves dressed and every post with holly." There is holly bright over the fireplace and more of it swings in the windows, bidding "Merry Christmas" to the world outside.

Good cheer overflows from the inside of the home to the outside, where lights festoon the evergreens and doorways during Christmas week, regardless of electricity bills. All of which reminds us that we saw Edna Richards hurrying into the office of the News-Star editor to talk "city-wide home lighting." The Garden club would like to sponsor a city beautiful during Christmas week and to urge every home owner to illuminate his doorway, windows or yard.

All the Christmas cheer we spread, however, will be for naught, if Albert Horuff, Arnold Bernstein and Minta Vaughan continue ill. Without their smiling faces among us, something of infinite value and something that all the gold and tinsel of the Yuletide cannot replace will be taken from us. Saw Peggy Prindle, with curls flying and eyes shining, telling a friend of the beautiful birthday gifts she received last week from her adoring uncle and aunt, Judge and Alice Dawkins. Peggy is a sweet, lovely mannered child and blossoming, all too soon, into young womanhood. Alice is quite thrilled over the prospects of a new daughter-in-law. Harriet White made a wise decision when she answered yes to Benjamin Dawkins' question. Not only will she gain a devoted husband, but the devotion of his father and mother, whose good will is to be valued quite beyond price.

The proverbial feather could have knocked us over when we heard that Mary Ann Dixon, who moved among us like a sweet lovable child, had been married since last June. Secrets are never steel bound, however, and sooner or later make their escape. Just yesterday, Mary Ann and her husband, John Bishop Johnston, Jr., decided to break the news. It was like a bombshell exploding, but parental blessing was bestowed upon them, and now they are off to New Orleans on a belated honeymoon.

Monroe has two perennial honeymooners—Henry and Catherine Blanks. They lunch together in town every day, and never, never are bored with each other's company. We heard some one say the other day that Henry Blanks could never be anything but a gentleman, regardless of conditions, environment or circumstance. That just about covers everything to our way of thinking.

Enola Rogers hostessed a very fine bit of sustenance the other night at her home for Esther Ewing Brown of New Orleans, who, by the way, is Wilson and Toulmin Ewing's most attractive sister.

Janet Powell has created a furore of excitement among her friends over the four-day diet she brought with her from Detroit. Six pounds in four days is the loss assured all those who care to reduce. Janet is a good exponent as she is the trimmest looking person imaginable and wears her clothes with a certain verve and dash envied by all women.

So eager was Joel and William Whitley to set up housekeeping in their shining new apartment in Baton Rouge, they dashed into town last week from their honeymoon and stowed every wedding gift possible in their car and were on their way again before the family had caught its breath.

The Delta Beta Sigmas are gathering their forces for the Christmas gayeties. A cabaret and their annual dansant will grace the calendar, as customary each year.

Some how the holiday season would lose considerable luster without these D. B. S. affairs. The members are among Monroe's loveliest young girls and when they step out like Solomon in all his glory, they are visions of sartorial splendor.

There is an old saying, "Tell me who your friends are and I will tell you what you are." No need to ask Mrs. J. E. Walsworth, just home from Nashville, where she has been with her daughter, Barrier, a student at Vanderbilt. Association with Barrier and her young friends has imbued Mrs. Walsworth with the spirit of youth. We saw her the other day in a rust colored tailleur and black seal cape that was most becoming.

Spread Christmas

The whole month of December can be glamorous, zestful and brimming with interesting experiences if Christmas is spread out instead of lasting just one day. Commence tomorrow to get together your glistening, colorful wrapping paper, tags and ribbons and then set aside one evening for wrapping gifts with the aid of the children, of course.

Never, never make the mistake of waiting until Christmas eve to buy gifts. This hallowed night should be reserved for the oft repeated story of the Christ child.

Don't wait until the eleventh hour to make your holly wreaths and garlands. Revel in the spicy fragrance of the woods and select your pine tree with deliberation. The house should be hung with holly wreaths at least a week before Christmas, as they lose their appeal immediately Christmas is over.

How earnestly we strive to keep alive the old-style Christmas spirit. The child, the home, the hearth, the tree, the light in the window, the out-hung latchstring—these old time symbols are as true and as sound today as ever before.

Innovations creep into Christmas. Beautifully engraved cards flood the mail, the radio supplants carol-singers at the door, electric lights banish the tallow candles from the tree and the window candles that now gleam to welcome the belated guest never set the curtains afire, but nevertheless the mechanical wizardy of the age will never dim the radiance of the old-fashioned Christmas.

Christmas eve also has its beautiful music of old. No gold, frankincense or myrrh of the wise men can rival in beauty the music and the spell of the midnight music.

Who has not responded to the poignant beauty of "Silent Night, Holy Night" and "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear." The age old song, "Hark! the Herald Angels Sing" never fails to stir our hearts and immediately we hear "O Little Town of Bethlehem," we visualize the Christ child in the lowly manger. "Jingle Bells" always brings to mind prancing reindeer and jolly old Santa Claus. "The First Noel" stirs up memories of carolers 'neath our windows on Christmas eve.

All these beautiful old melodies will soon be flooding our homes, and especially on Christmas eve. If for no other reason than to sit and listen to the music of mighty choruses brought to us over the radio, we should be free on Christmas eve from last minte shopping and gift wrapping.

Bach-Handel Event

"As a man thinketh, so he is," runs the proverb. If this is really so, then we must guard our thoughts with care and have them of such a nature that we will express a character of which we may be proud.

Music is always associated with the beautiful and lifts our thoughts to a higher plane. It might be well then to cultivate a taste for only the best music and to attend concerts where we are certain of being uplifted.

One of the most glorious outpourings of good music of the entire year is ours for the asking today at Grace church, where members of the Musical coterie will present a twilight concert of Bach-Handel music. Clad in crimson vestments, they will walk down the candlelit aisle singing Bach's hymn of thankfulness and praise.

As a prelude, "Largo," by Handel, will be rendered by Roger C. Frisbie on the organ.

The entire program follows:

Voice, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," from oratorio Messiah (Handel), Mrs. Clyde Sanders.

Time has been powerless to dim the glory of Handel's Messiah; it is an ecstatic vision.—Hamilton.

Piano, English Suite in G Minor (written for Clavier), (Bach), Prelude—Allemande Gavotte and Musette—Gigue, Mrs. C. L. Moore, Jr.

The suite as Bach conceived it consisted of a group of pieces in dance form and in the same key. The G minor suite is throughout a splendid example of its geius.—Elson.

Voice, "Sleepers, Wake," a voice is sounding, charole from church cantata (Bach), Coterie chorus.

By introducing folk song into hymnody, Martin Luther reconciled secular and sacred music, created the German chorale and gave a foundation upon which the art of Bach was built.—Bauer.

Violin, Air (written for the G string) (Bach), Mrs. Roger C. Frisbie.

Bach had a short experience as violinist in a court band.—Hamilton.

Organ, Toccato and Fugue in E Minor, written for organ by Bach, Roger C. Frisbie, M. B.

Almost all of Bach's life was passed as an organist. On this instrument he displayed fully his marvelous faculty of weaving and interweaving simple melodic figures into the most exquisite musical tracery. He became the greatest master of counterpoint the world has ever seen.—Elson.

Voice, "My Heart Faithful," from Pfingst Cantata (Bach), Mrs. F. V. Allison.

Bach wrote about 300 church cantatas.—Hamilton.

Piano, Concerto in the Italian style (written for Clavier), (Bach), Presto Giojose, Last Movement, Miss Mary Grace Lawn.

This concerto shows the master in urbanely expansive mood. The Italian style of the period was pianistically effective; hence doubtless the title. The last movement bubbles with irrepressable gayety.—Elson.

Voice, "Crucified," from Mass B Minor (Bach), Coterie chorus.

The glory of God, the majesty of death have never been more plausible to the mind of man than in a Bach chorale.—Downes.

Piano, Chromatic Fantasie and Fugue (written for Clavier), (Bach), Fantasia Cromatica, Miss Florence Ziegler.

Recessional, "Rejoice, the Lord Is King"—hymn (Handel).

Postlude, Hallelujah Chorus (arranged for organ) from Messiah (Handel), Roger C. Frisbie, M. B.

At the completion of the Hallelujah chorus Handel exclaimed, with tears in his eyes, "I did think I did see all heaven before me, and the great God himself!"—Hamilton.

Personnel of chorus: Mrs. Clyde Sanders, Mrs. Henry Whitfield, Mrs. Floyd Allison, Mrs. Ben Rush, Mrs. Louis Hullum, Mrs. C. B. Moore, Jr., Mrs. Frances Wilson, Mrs. George Moffett, Mrs. R. L. George, Mrs. Frances Miller Leavell.

Members of the Musical coterie are: Mrs. Floyd Allison, Mrs. Roger Frisbie, Mrs. R. L. George, Mrs. Grayson Guthrie, Miss Sue Hefley, Mrs. Louis Hullum, Mrs. H. L. Johns, Mrs. J. B. Kugler, Mrs. H. Communication Received

Mrs. Louis Hullum, state president of the Louisiana Federation of Music Clubs, received the following communication from the national president, Mrs. John Alexander Jardine, and is taking this means of bringing it before every member of the Louisiana Federated Clubs in this city:

"While in New York recently we were in conference with Dr. Nikolai Sokoloff, director of the federal music project of the works progress administration. Dr. Sokoloff is depending upon our federation to help put over the general program of the federal music project. Newspaper publicity sent from our federation headquarters has already been received by you. That you may have an understanding of the possibilities for helpfulness, I shall attempt to give you a brief explanation of the project, its purpose, and the general program.

"The federal music project is designed to give employment to professional musicians registered on relief rolls.

The real purpose is to establish high standards of musicianship; to rehabilitate musicians by assisting them to become self-supporting; to retrain musicians, and educate the public in an appreciation of musical opportunities.

"The establishment of symphony orchestras, small orchestral ensembles, string quartets, chamber music ensembles, dance orchestras, vocal groups, festivals, opera companies, and projects to utilize teachers, soloists, composers, music copyists, music librarians, and piano tuners. The units are to be organized in the larger and secondary cities and the development of programs from these centers will be used to carry music to outlying areas where such facilities are not now available.

"Local advisory committees to assist local projects, to help create and maintain high standards of musicianship, and to enlist the services of cooperating sponsors are a part of the federal music project set-up.

"It is important that some altruistic organization take an interest in each work project—such a local sponsor is called the "cooperating sponsor."

"A great opportunity for federation service is within our reach. We have been asked by the federal music project director, Dr. Sokoloff, to make ourselves available for advisory committee membership, and to serve as cooperating sponsors. The music project is an emergency measure, but it will come from it. If through the help of our federated members as cooperating sponsors, communities can be convinced there is need of greater civic musical development, a field will be opened up for the higher types of units which are now being organized under this emergency measure.

"Again the federation has been called upon to take the leadership at a very critical moment when success in meeting the emergency of the needy musician will undoubtedly bring to America a more certain and definite federal recognition of music, and a greater field of opportunity for musicians, artists, and composers. Even a day's delay on your part will mean a loss of effort. Federation members, please get in touch immediately with your state director of the federal music project to offer your assistance to any plan which he may suggest.

"May we ask that, within the next ten days, each one of you to whom this communication has been mailed, write to our Fargo office to report upon the results of your efforts to serve the cause of the needy musicians in your community in cooperation with the federal music project."

Briefer Verses, Brighter Colors Mark '35 Christmas Card Mode

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Christmas cards, which cost the American public $50,000,000 a year, are brighter, bluer, less religious and more modernistic this year than ever in history.

So says Herbert Covert, who claims to be the man who put the color on our Christmas cards 24 years ago. Covert has time to relax and talk about this card situation now. A greeting card manufacturer and verse-writer, he has been working on this year's Christmas cards since last January, and his work is done now.

Verses are shorter this year. They cost the card manufacturers an average of 50 cents a line, so the manufacturers using rhymes on their cards have solved the problem by advising their writers to be sweet and brief.

Covert says Santa's reindeer are things of the past. You may be able to fool the children about the old man, but you can't tell them he comes in a sleigh. They know very well he flies a big tri-motor plane, and that's that!

Santa himself has scored a comeback, though, this year. The card manufacturers have been so eager to be clever and different in the past few years that they almost overlook the old fellow. Admittedly there are a few streamlined versions of him, but he's back nevertheless in one form or another.

Silver and blue are the predominating colors. Covert thinks there is more originality in the cards this season than in some time. More people are using photographs of the interior of their homes to illustrate their cards. Some are even employing artists to sketch their houses in winter settings, for use on their cards.

In other words, Covert says, there is more money being spent on cards this year.

GREETINGS
'Tis a DEAR CHILD at CHRISTMAS
AP

Here are a few of the 1935 crop of Christmas cards. Blue and silver are the favored colors. Santa is present, but he has graduated from his reindeer to a plane.

Majors In Citizenship

The old-fashioned club, which was based on a policy of exclusiveness and had for its objective self-culture, has been replaced by the club which majors in citizenship. The federated club of today studies the things of national, state and local interest, then assumes much of the responsibility for the enactment of that which is determined good.

Many of the Red Cross drives, Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. drives, tuberculosis seal sales, community Christmas celebrations and city beautification programs are dependent upon club women for their success. Countless numbers of young men and young women have attended school on club loan scholarships. It has been said that the federated club is an unselfish club, for there is no room there for selfishness.

In the field of fine arts, art, poetry, music and creative writing have been placed within the reach of all who really desire them; for, while club chairmen necessarily confine their activities to clubs, they are ever ready to assist groups in organizing clubs for those who do not have the privilege of membership in a club.

It is the policy of the federated club to share their pleasures with others Since the beginning of the fall season, a number of clubs of the fifth district have invited their friends to meetings which would be of general interest. The Altrurian Book club of West Monroe was hostess to a large group when they presented one of their favorite daughters, Miss Eleanor N. Faulk, who entertained delightfully with recitals of her experiences on a two years' trip around the world. The Literary guild of Monroe presented Mr. H. J. Sachs of Louisiana Polytechnic institute, who spoke on the philosophical background of poetry. The Arts, Cosmos and Pierian clubs of Ruston are featuring open programs, the speakers being authorities on current affairs. The Tallulah Book club, a large department club, is featuring programs by the various organizations of the town—the D. A. R's, P.-T. A.'s, the Garden club, American Legion and the music and dramatic departments of the club.

The Woman's Departmental club of Oak Grove sponsors a flower show each year. They have recently placed drinking fountains on the courthouse square. The Ferriday Woman's club is building a club house, and is featuring reciprocity programs with the clubs of nearby towns. A certain bit of pride centers around one of their members, Mrs. Sam Rife, who was winner of first place in the short story contest of the L. F. W. C. The motto of the Cosmopolitan club of St. Joseph is "Not for ourselves alone, but for others as well," which speaks for itself. Their program for the year is a miscellaneous one. The Tensas Garden club is making elaborate plans for the provision of Christmas cheer for the children of the community. The planting of trees on the courthouse square has been their major activity for the season.

Miss Mary Sue Wigley of Alabama, the featured speaker at the state convention of L. F. W. C. in Lafayette in 1934, was recently presented by the Lambda-Kappa and the Junior Literary clubs of Rayville. Club women were in attendance from Monroe, Ruston and surrounding communities. The Junior Literary club, in cooperation with other organizations of the town, will provide a community Christmas tree with all the attendant joy and glamor of celebration.

To Visit Reviews

Mrs. Jennie M. Little, supreme captain of the Women's Benefit association, of Port Huron, Michigan; Mrs. Pearl H. Croy, regional director, Birmingham, Alabama; and Mrs. Lucille M. Sharpe, managing deputy, Birmingham, Alabama, will arrive in Monroe Sunday to be the guests of W. B. A. Reviews No. 11 and No. 26.

There will be a "dutch treat" supper Tuesday, Dec. 10th, at 7 at the Presbyterian church, immediately followed by a meeting and initiation of candidates at the K. of P. hall, under the supervision of Mrs. Little, Mrs. Croy and Mrs. Sharpe.

Election and installation of officers will also be held. All members are urged to attend.

Two Meetings Slated

Two meetings of great interest and importance to the club women of the country are scheduled for January in Washington, D. C. They are the meeting of the board of directors of the General Federation of Women's clubs and the annual conference on the cause and cure of war.

The board of directors of the general federation will hold its mid-winter meeting at federation headquarters January 14-18, the president, Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, presiding. According to time honored custom, the business sessions will be prefaced by a reception. To this several hundred invitations will be issued, the directors being privileged to invite the members of congress from their states and their wives. Others prominent in the official and social life of the nation's capital will make up the distinguished guest company.

"Education for Living" being the keynote of this administration, the various phases of education as they relate to the problems of the day will be discussed by the club women and by qualified outside speakers.

At the business sessions, plans will be presented, programs and projects for the coming three years by the chairmen will be discussed, and forum discussions on current problems will be held. Because of the gravity of many public questions today, much time will be given to their consideration.

Dr. Hugh S. Cummings, surgeon general of the United States, will discuss public health problems. Hon. Wesley E. Disney, member of the house of representatives from Oklahoma, will discuss the bill which he introduced into congress during the last session providing for the establishment of the National Academy of Public Affairs. This is a project which Mrs. Lawson is deeply interested in because of its relationship to the general federation's educational program.

The board meeting brings women from every state in the union and it is expected that this session will also be attended by representatives of several clubs in foreign countries.

The eleventh annual conference on the cause and cure of war will be held in the hall of nations at Hotel Washington in Washington, D. C., January 21-24, inclusive. The General Federation of Women's clubs is the largest member organization of the conference and will have 100 delegates in attendance. The general objectives of the conference are: (1) To build effective peace machinery; (2) To reduce war machinery; (3) To obtain guaranteed security against war for every nation.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, the beloved honorary chairman, in issuing the call for this year's conference said

"War must be abolished. Do not mistake the conflict in Ethiopia, in violation of all the new treaties designed to guarantee peace, as evidence that wars cannot be prevented. Know why the peace machinery failed to restrain Italy and join those who now are searching for methods to strengthen the weak places in this machinery.

"War will end as certainly as the sun will rise tomorrow, but the only power that can and will drive it from the earth is public opinion. Today public opinion is too ill informed, too uncertain, too hesitating to warrant a strong League of Nations or a courageous American congress."

Birthday Celebrated

Joy Harper, lovely little blonde daughter of Judge and Mrs. William Harper, wore a yellow accordian pleated frock when she welcomed her most intimate friends to her home last Thursday afternoon when a birthday party was arranged by her mother in commemoration of her eighth birthday anniversary.

The spirit of the Yuletide, abroad in the land, was everywhere in evidence. Games reminiscent of the Christmas season were enjoyed throughout the afternoon, with the arrival of jolly old St. Nicholas a grand climax to the festivities. From his pack he bestowed gifts upon each guest.

As a result of their successful efforts in the games, David King, Jo Ann Biedenharn, Jane Eckhart and Elmer Richards, Jr., received the prizes.

A bewildering array of confections were served with the ices to the thirty-five guests present.

Mrs. Harper was assisted by Mrs. Roy Beaman and Mrs. Victor Barringer.

Sam Rubin, Jr., to the regret of his friends, sustained injuries while playing football last week.

To Exhibit Paintings

"Cultivate an interest in pictures. It is a part of education always within your reach," said Sir Joshua Reynolds.

Following the precedent set by most study and music clubs to present at least one guest speaker or artist during the club year, the painting department of the Fine Arts club is happy to present some lovely canvases from the brush of Marie A. Hull, nationally famed artist of Jackson, Mississippi, along with their own work in their annual exhibition and reception Monday night at 8 o'clock at the American Legion home. The public is cordially invited to attend.

The following musical program will be featured during the evening: Vocal solo, Mrs. Lydia Oakland Nichols piano solo, Mrs. P. A. Poag; violin solo, Miss Helen Vawter; string ensemble, Mr. Wayne Wamsley, Mrs. F C. Holden, Mr. Alfred Hennen, Mr Leon Hammonds, Mr. Wayne Wamsley, Jr.

Paintings to be exhibited are "The J. H. Watkins Garden," by Mrs. Frec Thatcher; "Hydrangeas," "Petunias," "Chrysanthemums," "Country Village," "Hunting Scene," "The Barn," by Mrs. Anthony Thebo; "Southern Bayou," "Pastel," "Bowl of Roses, "Indian Summer," by Mrs. F. Dorothy Apgar To Wed Wesley Hodge Dec. 22

Engagement Of Miss Ruby Wise And Benjamin Parnell Announced; Wedding To Take Place In December

A wedding announcement which comes as a complete surprise and one in which the affectionate interest of friends in this section of the state is centered, due to the prominence of the families, is that made today by Mr. and Mrs. Melville S. Dixon as follows:

"Mr. and Mrs. Melville Dixon announce the marriage of their daughter
Mary Ann
to
Mr. John Bishop Johnston, Junior
Friday, June the twenty-eighth, 1935,
in Oak Grove, Louisiana."

Mrs. Johnston, one of the most charming members of the younger set is a member of this year's senior class of Neville High school. She is a member of one of Monroe's most prominent families, all of whom have long been identified with the social and civic life of this community.

Mr. Johnston is a graduate of the City High school and attended the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., and Louisiana State university. He is a member of Kappa Sigma and Delta Sigma fraternities. Mr. Johnston is also a member of an old southern family, prominent in the civic affairs of this city for many years.

Mr. Johnston and his bride will make their home in this city, where Mr. Johnston is associated with the Louisiana Cotton Cooperative association.

Wedding Date Set

Interest is centered today in the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. William Thurmon of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Dorothy Apgar, to Mr. J. Wesley Hodge, son of Mrs. J. W. Wesley Hodge and the late Dr. Hodge of West Monroe.

The marriage, characterized by simplicity, will take place at the home of the bride-elect's parents on the twenty-second of December at four o'clock in the afternoon.

Miss Apgar is a graduate of Neville High school and for the past year has been engaged in secretarial work in the office of Dr. Charles E. Kenney, principal of Neville High school. She is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Apgar on her paternal side and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Gaines on her maternal side. Mr. Apgar was mayor of Monroe for several years and the Gaines family descended from an old French family of New Orleans.

Mr. Hodge attended Chamberlain Hunt academy, Port Gibson, Miss., and is a member of Sigma Phi Omega fraternity. He is manager of Delta Point plantation.

Brilliant Nuptial Event

A brilliant nuptial event of unusual prominence and one in which the attention of society in this section of the state is centered claimed in marriage Miss Louise Cummings, attractive daughter of Mrs. Benton Orville Cummings and the late Mr. B. O. Cummings of Columbia, La., and Mr. Micajah Cicero McGehee of Houston, Texas, son of Mrs. Ella L. McGehee of Meadville, Miss.

The ceremony was performed at the First Methodist church of Columbia, Saturday, December the seventh, at six o'clock in the evening, with Reverend V. D. Morris, officiating.

A nuptial concert was rendered by Mr. J. L. Adams, cousin of the bride, while the fashionable assemblage was being seated. "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" and "Because" were sung in beautiful voice by Mrs. S. L. Adams, who wore a lovely bronze lace model. "The Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin was played for the processional and Mendelssohn's wedding march used for the recessional. During the ceremony, Liszt's "Liebestraum" was impressively rendered.

Southern smilax, palms and luxuriant ferns formed the background for a central grouping of tall, tulle-tied Marie Antoinette baskets filled with clusters of bronze chrysanthemums. Wrought-iron candelabra holding lighted cathedral tapers placed at artistic intervals added a note of beauty. Southern smilax entwined the circular chancel rail at each end of which was placed a seven-branched candelabrum holding lighted tapers. The pews reserved for the families and out-of-town guests were marked by bows of white satin ribbon.

The attendants of the bride included the matron of honor, Mrs. Floyd Noblin of Forest, Miss.; the maid of honor, Miss Rosalie Elam of Portland, Ark.; the bridesmaids, Miss Rae Thomas of Alexandria, La., Miss Regina Morton of Brookhaven, Miss., Miss Helane King of Helena, Ark., and Miss Cornelia Burk of Columbia, La.

The best man was Mr. J. C. Means, Jr., of Houston, Texas. Entering first were the groomsmen, Mr. Joe McGehee, brother of the groom, of Houston, Texas; Mr. Harry Boyd Williams of Houston, Texas; Mr. Oren O. Cummings, brother of the bride, of Farmerville, La.; Mr. William E. Dyche, of Houston, Texas. The groom, Mr. McGehee, his best man, the groomsmen, and Mr. Russell Cummings, who entered with the bride, were in formal evening attire.

The bridesmaids wore classic marigold velvet models with cowl necklines and full Grecian sleeves buttoned at the wrist. Small velvet buttons were placed down the back of the waist and the flaring floor-length skirts that ended in a short train. Marigold satin slippers and close-fitting turbans of velvet with maline veils caught to the back, were worn. Picturesque sheaves of bronze colored chrysanthemums tied with copper laque ribbons were carried.

Mrs. Floyd Noblin, sister of the groom, was the charming matron of honor. She was gowned in copper laque velvet fashioned along the same graceful lines as the gowns of the bridesmaids and carried an arm bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums tied with copper laque ribbon.

Miss Rosalie Elam of Portland, Ark., the maid of honor, was beautiful in a gown of orange glow velvet, the lines of which followed the style of the bridesmaids' dresses. She carried an arm bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums from which fell streamers of orange glow satin ribbon.

The beautiful bride was accompanied to the altar by her brother, Russell Cummings, of Columbia, by whom she was given in marriage, and was met at the chancel by the groom and his best man, Mr. J. C. Means, Jr.

The bride's brunette beauty was enhanced by her regal robe of ivory bridal satin. Her imported gown, a Tafel model, was lovely in its simplicity. The bodice had a cowl neckline, and pleated sleeves that ended in full puffs at the elbow, from which extended tight-fitting cuffs. The skirt fell into a court train over which fell a misty veil of ivory illusion. The veil was arranged cap effect to the back of the head and caught with a band of orange blossoms. With charming sentiment she wore a great aunt's yellow gold, diamond-cluster antique bar pin. Her superb bridal bouquet was of orchids, bride's roses and lilies of the valley tied with white satin ribbon.

Immediately after the wedding an informal reception was held at the bride's home for the bridal party, relatives, and intimate friends. Mrs. Cummings was assisted in receiving by the groom's mother, Mrs. McGehee, his sister, Mrs. Noblin and by Mrs. S. L. Adams.

Mrs. Cummings, mother of the bride, wore a model of brick velvet fashioned along lines that accentuated her stateliness. A corsage of Talisman roses added a distinctive touch.

Mrs. McGehee, charming mother of the groom, was lovely in a blue lace model with a corsage of Talisman roses.

The reception suite was beautifully decorated in yellow chrysanthemums and southern smilax. Extending across the arched opening to the dining room were garlands of southern smilax. The dining room reflected a bridal theme, with groups of tall baskets of white chrysanthemums. On the buffet, silver candelabra held white cathedral candles. The bridal table was laid with white satin veiled with a handsome cloth of Venetian lace. The center of the table was graced by a three-tiered bride's cake surmounted by a miniature bride and groom and beautifully embossed with bride's roses set in exquisite filet work. Candlesticks held white tapers. Graciously assisting in the dining room were Mrs. L. H. Wells, Mrs. R. B. Reitzell and Miss Idalee King.

Beautiful gifts were on display in the solarium where Mrs. L. R. Adams and Mrs. L. L. West greeted the guests. The bride's book was kept by Mrs. G. W. Brown of Portland, Ark.

Mr. and Mrs. McGehee left for Los Angeles, Calif. Mrs. McGehee wore for traveling a dark green model trimmed in silver fox with black accessories. A corsage of orchids completed the costume. They will make their home in Houston, Texas.

Since the announcement of her engagement the bride, who is a member of Kappa Delta sorority and a popular member of younger society has been feted socially. She graduated from Whitworth Junior college, Brookhaven, Miss., and later graduated in voice from Louisiana State university. She is prominently connected in north Louisiana.

Mr. McGehee received his A. B.

P.-T. A. Is Making Progress In Dressing Dolls For Needy

Pressing Necessity Of Shoes Is Reported

By-Laws Of Twin City Council Are Amended To Include A Number Of Additional Standing Committees

At a meeting of the Twin City P.-T. A. council Thursday, Mrs. King Hunt, chairman of the doll committee, gave a report revealing that members of each local P.-T. A. organization are making excellent progress in dressing Christmas dolls for underprivileged children.

Another report rendered at the meeting stated that a pressing need for shoes for some children exists in schools here.

The council amended its by-laws to include standing committees for publicity, hospitality, programs, finance, membership and motion pictures.

It was voted to ask each P.-T. A. member to contribute one cent towards defraying the expenses of the fifth district director in her work about the district.

To Present Play

The Parent-Teacher association of the fifth district is sponsoring a play, "The Holly Wreath," to be presented by the children's theater on December 19 at the Central Grammar school, Monroe.

Members of the cast are experienced in presenting such productions and are being carefully trained for their forthcoming appearance.

Funds derived from the play will be used to assist the district officers in carrying on their work.

The cast is composed of members of the children's theater of the Monroe recreation department. The play is being supervised by Miss Lucyle Godwin, director of the recreation department.

The proceeds will be devoted to furthering P.-T. A. work in the fifth district.

President's Letter

Comments on December activities of the Louisiana Parent-Teacher association and greetings of the Christmas season are expressed in a news-letter written by Mrs. Albert L. Smith, of Winnfield, president of the state association. The letter, addressed to P.-T. A. members through the medium of this newspaper, follows:

"We are now entering the month of December, the best month of all the year, the month when our thoughts turn to home and friends and when the whole atmosphere is charged with good cheer and a desire to make someone happy. May your plans and hopes culminate at the Christmas time in the happiest holiday season you have ever experienced.

"The suggested study group topic for the month of December, 'Home Play and Recreation,' claims our interested attention. If only we would study and knowledge of this subject many of our puzzling home problems would be solved quickly and pleasantly.

"Our program topic presented by the National Parent-Teacher Magazine for this month, 'History An Aid To Modern Living,' gives us an opportunity to learn of the new meaning history has come to have for the younger generation and the important place it does and should occupy in the school curriculum.

"The National Parent-Teacher Magazine becomes better with each issue and we should go far beyond our quota in subscriptions early this year because of the usefulness of this splendid publication. However, 'its usefulness depends altogether upon its use.' Of course you are using it for your programs and study groups but have your room mothers tried the plan of circulating copies in each room in school to give every parent an opportunity to become acquainted with the magazine? This plan is becoming more popular each month and we heartily recommend that you give it a trial.

What is your group doing to interpret parent education to the community and stimulate interest in the study of child guidance problems? Dr. Ada Hart Arlitt said: 'Someone has said the truly handicapped child is not he who has physical defects but the child whose parents have no understanding of children. This would seem to be true since an understanding of the modern child is essential, not only to the ease of family living, but the child's growth and development. Its purpose is happier families and healthy, happy, thoroughly trained children.' May all Louisiana become parent-education conscious!"

Wins Poster Contest

CHOUDRANT, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—Frances Barrett, 10-year-old student of the fifth grade of the Choudrant school, was the winner of a poster contest conducted by the local Parent-Teacher association. The poster portrayed a group of men dancing around a circle in the roles of state senator, congressman, sheriff, police officer, legislator, constable and public service commissioner.

Millsaps P.-T. A.

A program by students, election of a new treasurer to fill a vacancy created by resignation, routine reports, a decision to hold a study course and appointment of room mothers featured the monthly meeting of the Millsaps school Parent-Teacher association of the Louisiana Congress of Parents and Teachers.

With Mrs. Fred Bennett, president, presiding, the meeting was opened with a group of songs by pupils of the first and second grades. Pupils of the third grade gave a Swedish folk dance and song number.

A short business session was held and the resignation of Mrs. Grandstaff as treasurer was read and accepted. Mrs. Pritchett was elected to fill this vacancy. The treasurer's report was read and showed a satisfactory balance of cash on hand.

Mrs. Bennett gave a report on the shoes and clothes that has been given to the needy children of Millsaps school this winter.

It was voted to hold the study course the second Wednesday in January at Mrs. Cooper's, 1404 Cypress street at 2 p. m.

Room mothers were appointed at this time as follows: Mrs. Golson, first grade; Mrs. Hinton, second grade; Mrs. Schlikau, third grade; Mrs. Pickett, fourth grade; Mrs. Brothers, fifth grade; Mrs. Cooper, sixth grade.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the room count of the mothers was made. Miss Phylis Flanigan's second grade room was awarded the candy for having the largest number of mothers attending this meeting.

Fairbanks P.-T. A.

FAIRBANKS, La., Dc. 7.—(Special)—Dr. Gustaf Freden's address, "Armistice," was reviewed at a meeting of the Fairbanks Parent-Teacher association. Dr. Freden is a member of the faculty of Louisiana Tech. His address, in part, follows:

"The signing of the armistice on November 11, 1918, was a signal to release pent-up emotions into channels of behavior that knew no limits.

"We paid fifty-one billions of dollars for our two years in the war. 'Truly the ransom of an empire burned up in battle.' Do not forget that ten million men were deliberately killed and still a greater nummer wounded and maimed. As we come together once a year to focus our thoughts on Armistice day, how can we rejoice and make it a hilarious celebration? Down through the ages we still hear the great chorus: 'Peace on earth, good will toward men.' Again we have the sacred command: 'Thou shalt not kill!' And we broke that command in wholesale slaughter. To the wounded, helpless men in the government hospitals the war will never end. They will pay the price until relieved by death. You will turn away with a prayer that Almighty God may grant the rulers of nations wisdom to mobilize not for war, but for everlasting peace."

The parent-teacher association's membership chairman reported 42 paid-up members and the treasurer's report showed $75.50 had been raised. It was voted to contribute $10 to an annual Christmas tree fund.

Two readings were given at the meeting by students. Kathryn Louise Worley presented "Thanksgiving Day" and James Lewis Saterfield presented "Come, Little Leaves."

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by Mesdames Boyd, Brazil, Bender, Carroll, Carter and Eubanks.

Mrs. G. B. Wilson, the association president, presided.

Sterlington P.-T. A.

STERLINGTON, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—At a regular monthly meeting of the Sterlington P.-T. A., a committee was appointed to solicit clothing for the needy children in the school.

With Mrs. Gilford Wright presiding, plans were made to have the December meeting at night on the 12th to encourage better attendance of fathers.

The membership committee reported 145 members at the close of the membership drive, the seventh grade winning the prize for obtaining the most members.

Grayson P.-T. A.

GRAYSON, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—The Grayson High school Parent-Teacher association of the Louisiana Congress of Parents and Teachers met December 2. Fifteen members were present.

The following program was presented:

A report on the parent-eacher conference at the Louisiana Teachers' association convention in Alexandria by Mrs. T. L. Johnston.

"In Our Neighborhood," by Ruby Mae Pine.

"Management of Money in Homes," by Lora B. McKeithen.

Welcome Branch Meets

The Welcome Branch Book club held its regular meeting Wednesday afternoon at the Y. W. C. A. Mrs. George Lofton and Mrs. Paul Neal gave interesting reports on the state convention at Natchitoches.

Outstanding in Mrs. Neal's report was the resume of Mrs. Anna Steese Richardson's talk against communists, especially those of the drawing room type. Mrs. Richardson is director of the Good Citizenship bureau of the Woman's Home Companion.

Mrs. Lofton's report on Mrs. R. C. Lawson's address on "Education for Living," was most uplifting and portrayed Mrs. Lawson, who is president of the General Federation of Women's club as a most interesting character.

Mrs. E. C. Gibson presented to the club a plan by which the FHA is building civic club houses. The members were particularly interested and hope with the aid of other clubs to build one in Monroe.

Apropos of the decision reached by members of the club to donate toward the Will Rogers memorial fund was the poem, "Aw Shucks," in memory of Will Rogers, read by the president, Mrs. George Lofton, as follows:

Ambling along, his shrewd kindly eyes
Shyly viewing the beauties
Of a new land—
Seizing the hand of an old crony,
Or of a president, fellow ambassador,
senator,
Or prince—
Grinning wistfully—and humbly before his Creator
Perhaps saying whimsically:
"Y'know, Lord, all I know is what I've read
In the papers
'N' picked up as I gadded around
Hither 'n' yon;
But all this stuff that's in the papers
Aw, shucks, Lord,
I wish I coulda earned
A little mite of it.
They mean well, Lord—don't hold it against 'em,
Let's just call it good-intentioned
Exaggeration;
They're just bein' kind
To an ignorant ol' cowhand
From Oologah.
Y'know, Lord, that's a great bunch
you've got down there,
Senators 'n' all;
I'm gonna miss 'em for a while,
But they'll be coming along.
I had no idy
They felt—that way—about—aw,
shucks, Lord—
After the way I've kidded 'em,
'N' all—
But I've never hurt 'em till now
An' I'm just wonderin', Lord,
If there ain't some way
You can ease it up for 'em,
Just tell 'em that—shucks—it ain't bad like that a-tall—
An' that this round-up's just fine an'
Prettier than the song.
Y'see, Lord, that down there gets right next to me, an'
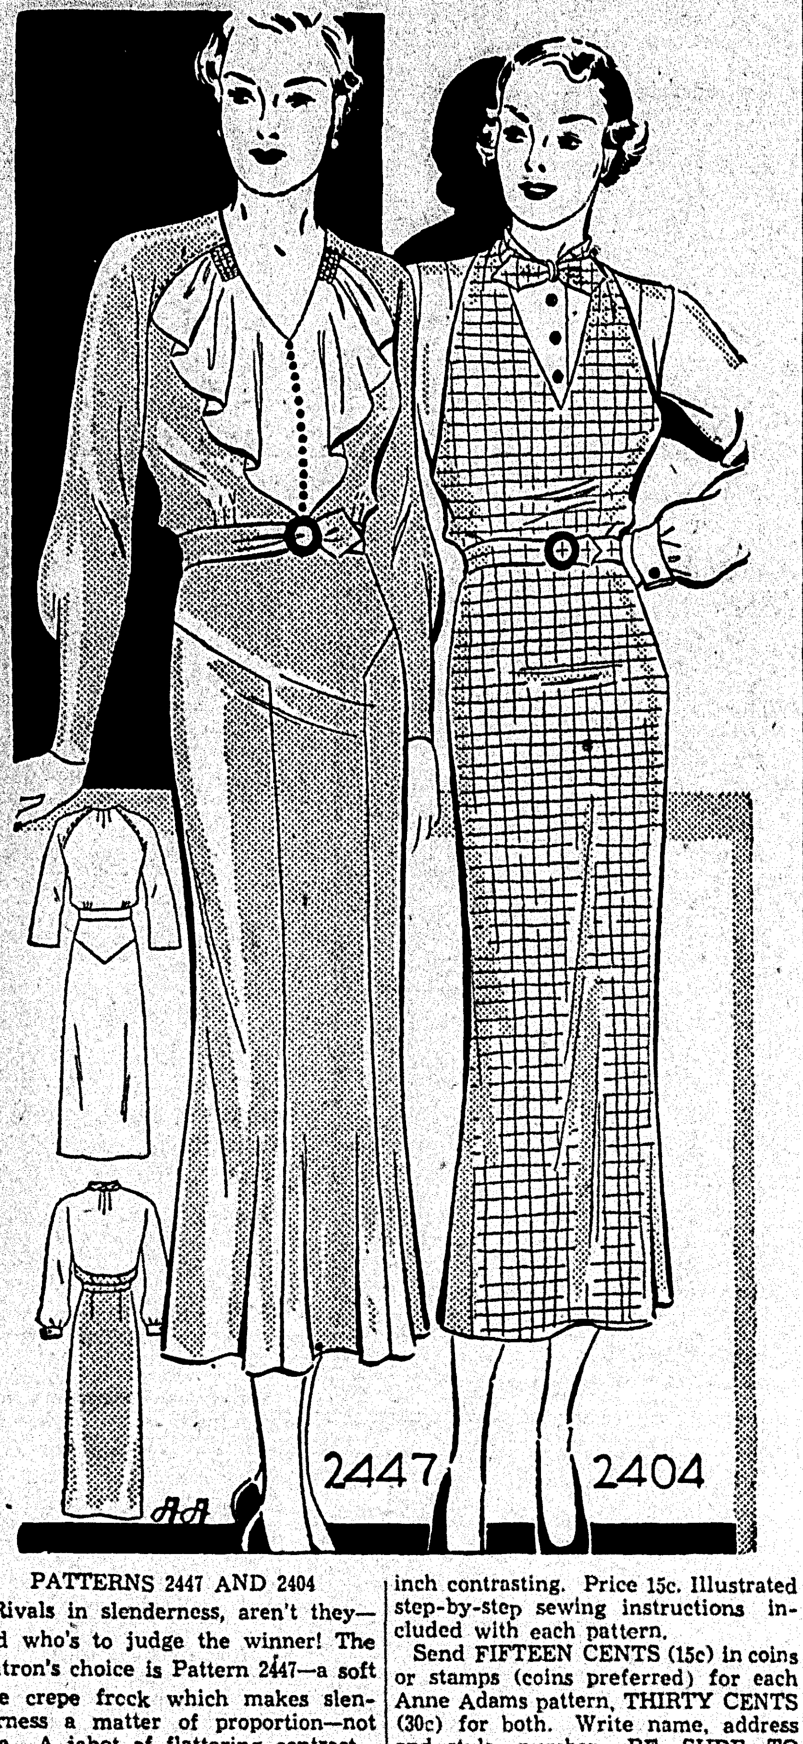
Shucks, there ain't nothin'
I c'n do about it;
So do what you can, won't you,
Lord?

Club members present were Mmes. Frank Black, K. S. Elliott, W. C. Faulk, E. C. Gibson, George Lofton, George Marsh, D. M. Moore, John Leist, Albion Lassiter, E. C. Gibson, Paul Neal, J. F. Prendergast, Louis Oyster, Charles Swain, J. W. Treadwell, J. R. White, F. F. Smith, Dudley Stone and Hauser.

Slender Rivalry



PATTERNS 2447 AND 2404

Rivals in slenderness, aren't they—and who's to judge the winner! The matron's choice is Pattern 2447—a soft line crepe frock which makes slenderness a matter of proportion—not size. A jabot of flattering contrast—sleeve and skirt diagonals—all tend to minimize the size of bust and hips. Lovely in crepe or satin. The young miss finds Pattern 2404 a grand daytime and all-purpose frock, its halterneck jumper of wool, jersey or velveteen, cut low in back to show off a tailored blouse of challis, crepe or satin. Isn't the bow-tie perky?

Pattern 2447 is available in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 takes 3 3-4 yards 39 inch fabric and 1-2 yard contrasting. Price 15c.

Pattern 2404 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 takes 2 1-8 yards 54 inch fabric for jumper; blouse 1 3-4 yards 39 inch contrasting. Price 15c. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with each pattern.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Anne Adams pattern, THIRTY CENTS (30c) for both. Write name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Bride-Elect Honored

Prominent among the many beautiful pre-nuptial affairs honoring Miss Louise Cummings of Columbia was the brilliant afternoon tea at the home of Dr. and Mrs. L. R. Adams.

The spacious reception suite was florally adorned with beautiful bronze colored chrysanthemums, and in the dining room a Yuletide theme was reflected in the decorations of crimson and white.

The tea table, overlaid with handsome Venice lace banquet cloth, had for central ornamentation a plaque of crimson radiance roses. The crystal punch bowl, at one end of the table, was imbedded in crimson roses and tall crimson tapers in silver candelabra burned at intervals along the board. Silver salvers held a delectable array of open-faced sandwiches and sweet confections. Red and white mints and bon-bons were placed for the convenience of the guests.

Mrs. D. C. Sherman, smartly attired in black crepe, and Mrs. V. D. Morris, in a green model, presided at the punch bowl. Three beautiful sub-debs served. They were Josephine Meredith, Pauline Thompson and Nellie Ruth Vinson.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Adams, Mrs. E. O. Cummings, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. Wayne Blanks, Miss Mary King, Mrs. William G. Banks, of Minden, Mrs. Thomas Burke, Mrs. Smith Butler, Mrs. J. E. McClanahan, Mrs. W. E. Godfrey and Mrs. E. Kidd.

Mrs. Adams wore an elegant afternoon model of wine red crepe, floor length, with full sleeves. She wore a corsage of yellow chrysanthemums.

Miss Cummings was radiantly lovely in a rust crepe with gold bodice. She wore a corsage of bronze chrysanthemums and yellow corcopsis.

Mrs. Cummings wore a smart black and flesh crepe model with a corsage of yellow chrysanthemums.

Mrs. William G. Banks of Minden was lovely in a fuscia crepe, with which she wore a corsage of yellow chrysanthemums.

To the accompaniment of Wagner's "Bridal March," played on the piano by Miss Margaret Kitchingham, the bride-elect followed little Nan Elizabeth Banks and Margaret French into the reception room, where she was presented with a huge basket of linens, Wedgewood and rose point china and numerous other beautiful articles.

Nan Elizabeth Banks, beautiful little daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William G. Banks of Minden wore a picturesque colonial costume of blue taffeta. Margaret French, also of Minden, wore a lovely model of pink taffeta.

Four-year-old Maurine Kitchingham sang in her inimitable and gracious manner, "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," "Honey" and "Honeymoon Hotel."

A large assemblage of guests were present to enjoy the many courtesies extended.

Bride Is Feted

Mrs. William Whitley, who, before her marriage on Thanksgiving day, was Miss Joel Nichols, was plunged into a furore of nuptial activities immediately after she and Mr. Whitley arrived in Baton Rouge from their honeymoon.

Monroe girls attending the state university planned a series of charming affairs complimentary to Mrs. Whitley, of prominence being a tea, with Miss Happy Tidwell hostess. The affair took place in beautiful Highland hall, where the curtains were drawn against the winter sky and the beautiful room flooded with soft candlelight.

Miss Tidwell added to the beauty of the picture in a green velvet model with gold Juliet cap and gold accessories. She was assisted by Miss Louise Gray, who wore a Burgundy colored velvet model with corsage of golden hued blossoms and presided with charming grace over the handsome silver tea service.

Mrs. Whitley, the central figure in the bevy of exquisitely frocked young women, wore a stunning blue velvet model with gold accessories.

The tea table around which the guests flocked was developed in silver and blue, with an immense blue bowl overflowing with silver flowers for central adornment. Luscious tidbits were served on silver salvers.

Miss Tidwell's bridal gift to Mrs. Whitley was gold banded Tiffany.

Among the guests were noted many Monroe co-eds, including Misses Lillie Thompson, Clara Terzia, Dot Calvert, Marshal Russell, Nantelle Mitchener, Rachel Haynes, Carolyn Meyers, Mollie Allen Jagoe, Jessie Gray Worthington, Mable Sharp Davenport, Sara Talbot and Gladys Warner and Mrs. Palmer Hardie.

Still another charming affair was Miss Jeanna Perkins' crystal shower and buffet supper. A luncheon with Miss Ruth Williams of Mer Rouge and Miss Ann Jane Shaw of Bastrop, hostesses, included ten intimate friends of Mrs. Whitley's. A lovely feature of the luncheon was the cutting of a handsomely embossed wedding cake by the honor guest, who wore a stunning black crepe model with long full sleeves and off-the-face hat. The hostesses presented Mrs. Whitley with silver in the pattern selected for her wedding silver.

Several other affairs of prominence have been given for Mr. and Mrs. Whitley.

Handkerchief Shower

A charming compliment to a beautiful bride-elect, Miss Louise Cummings of Columbia, was the handkerchief shower at seven o'clock on Friday evening, with Mrs. L. L. West and Mrs. G. E. Erskine the gracious hostesses, in the home of Mrs. G. E. Ray.

The reception room was banked in beautiful yellow chrysanthemums for the occasion.

Interesting innovations for diversion, in the form of fortune-telling games and contests, were enjoyed by the guests.

Lovely handkerchiefs, fashioned into a picturesque nosegay, were presented to the bride-elect.

Sharing the delightful hospitality were Miss Cummings, Miss Lillian Ferrand, Miss Nellie Ruth Vinson, Miss Ida Lee King, Miss Mary King, Miss Katie McSween, Miss Chrissie Davis, Mrs. J. H. Traylor, Mrs. W. H. Malin, Mrs. V. D. Morris and Mrs. J. Brown, Jr.

Reduction Diet

Would you like to lose six pounds this week? Well, you can do so very easily by following Jean Harlow's four-day diet.

This diet is causing considerable excitement in Monroe at the present moment, as several women have tried it with successful results. It positively takes off six pounds in four days, which, in itself, is sufficient to make it exciting. A feature of this diet is that it continues for only four days and for the rest of the month you can eat anything you want, with moderation. If extra reduction is desired, resume the diet again in four weeks.

Here is the diet:

BREAKFAST (all four days)
Black coffee
Orange juice (after the coffee).
LUNCH (First three days)
2 broiled lamb chops
2 whole tomatoes (with salt and pepper).
Black coffee.
1-2 grapefruit (after eating).
FIRST DINNER
1 broiled sirloin steak
2 tomatoes (salt and pepper).
Black coffee.
Orange ....uice (after eating).
SECOND DINNER
1 broiled lamb chop
1 dish spinach
1 hardboiled egg
2 tomatoes (salt and pepper).
Black coffee.
Orange juice (after eating).
THIRD DINNER
Scrambled eggs
2 tomatoes (salt and pepper).
Fruit jello.
Black coffee.
Orange juice (after eating).
FOURTH LUNCH
1-2 fried chicken
2 tomatoes (salt and pepepr).
Black coffee.

Study Club Entertained

Shaggy yellow chrysanthemums adorned the reception suite of Mrs. Carl McHenry's home when she entertained members of the Study club.

A splendid paper on "German Art, Artists and Architecture," presented by Mrs. J. E. Walsworth, comprised the afternoon's program. It is interesting to note that a gift of books, bestowed annually to the Monroe Public library, has just been made. Outstanding among them are "Skyward," by Admiral Byrd, and "Geography," by Van Loon.

The social hour permitted the hostess to serve a luscious salad course, spiced cakes, ices and salted nuts to: Mmes. Nelson Abell, James Drew, David Garrett, H. H. Land, Neil McHenry, Elmer Richards, James Walsworth, Henry Montgomery, Alymer Montgomery, Fillmore Meadows, Alfred Reid and Lewis Slator and Miss Carrie D. Drew.

Concert Scheduled

The Christmas holidays will be flooded with beautiful music, judging from the splendid programs to be presented by Monroe's music lovers.

Outstanding on the season's calendar of events is the concert on the eighteenth of December at Grace church under the auspices of the Student Musicians' club.

The public is cordially invited to be present. The hour is eight o'clock and the program follows:

Program Annotations, Chester DeCuir.

Organ and piano duet, prelude, Lowry Jefferson and Billy Reagan.

Hark the Herald Angels Sing, chorus.

O Come All Ye Faithful, chorus.

Soprano solo, selected, Elizabeth Greene.

The First Noel, chorus.

Trio, We Three Kings, Louis Monroe, Garland Shell and Jack May.

Violin duet, Ave Marie, Helen H. Vawter, Wayne Wamsley.

Baritone solo, O Holy Night, Frank Mullen.

It Came Upon the Midnight Clear, chorus.

Trio, O Little Town of Bethlehem, Lydia Nichols, Josephine Combs, Beatrice Rhymes.

There's a Song in the Air, Jesu Bambina, John Winkler.

Silent Night, chorus.

Program Presented

The Student Musicians met at the home of Josephine Combs, where a splendid program was presented. It was as follows:

Quartette: Love's Old Sweet Song—Moloy. Lydia Nichols, Louise Monroe, Josephine Combs, Wayne Benson. Accompanist, Evelyn Roll.

Piano Solo: To a Wild Rose, To a Water Lily—McDowell. Thelma Oseland.

Quartette: Sweet and Low—Barnby.

Card Club Entertained

Beautiful golden hued chrysanthemums lifted shaggy heads in the reception suite of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Frizzell's home, Thursday night, when they entertained, with customary graciousness, members of the Married People's Card club.

The guests, upon arrival, were served a delicious, two-course supper at the beautifully-appointed tables where the interesting games of cards were later enjoyed.

Handsome Wedgwood china comprised the ladies' high score gifts, presented to Mrs. Harvey Trousdale and Mrs. F. P. Stubbs. Gentlemen's high score prizes, silk hosiery in attractive boxes, were claimed by Mr. J. R. Gilhula and Mr. George Weaks.

Mrs. Frizzell was assisted in the courtesies by Mrs. Janet Powell, Mrs. Clarence Oakley and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Davis.

Members present were Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Gilhula, Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Stubbs, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. George Weaks, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Trousdale, Mrs. Minnie Ruffin, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Ferguson, Mrs. Percy Sandel, Mrs. Victor Barringer, Mrs. F. P. Stubbs and Mrs. B. Granary.

Bastrop

The Abraham Morehouse chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution celebrated their third birthday by entertaining members and guests at a beautifully appointed luncheon served at the Louisiana hotel.

Baskets and vases overflowing with yellow chrysanthemums were used most artistically. Guests found their places marked by clever hand painted cards which afforded pleasure as each depicted the name of a book or well known author. Blue mirrored plaques upon which three silver ships sailed, surrounded by yellow chrysanthemums, blue heather and trailing fern, carried out the national colors of the D. A. R. and paid homage to the three ships whose voyage resulted in "our America." Silver tapers surrounded the center and their reflected light upon the silver sheen of the ships called to mind the silver lining that has existed for every cloud on America's horizon. Smaller plaques at either end of the luncheon table marked the places of Mrs. J. A. Davenport, regent, and Miss Lucille Huffman, former regent.

Mrs. Davenport in a few words of welcome gave the spirit and objectives of D. A. R. chapters. She then presented Miss Huffman, the former regent, with a D. A. R. pin of recognition for her loyal and efficient work in behalf of the Morehouse chapter. Miss Huffman most graciously accepted the token of esteem from her coworkers. Mrs. C. E. Faulk, regent of Fort Miro, was introduced and brought greetings from the Monroe chapter.

Miss Mildred Cohen and Miss Edna Nolan graciously presented their pupils, Lola Bell Johnson and Dorothy Alice Pomeroy, in a clever dance and song number. Miss Nolan then sang and Miss Cohen added a tap number, which concluded the entertainment program.

Those who attended the meeting were Mesdames J. A. Davenport of Mer Rouge, C. E. Faulk and David I. Garrett of Monroe, J. T. Howell, R. L. Carr and Miss Elizabeth Carr of Collinston, Mesdames J. A. Davenport, Jr., and T. H. B. Rankin of Mer Rouge, Mesdames Frank W. Files, William Nolan, E. B. Folse, Misses May Traylor, Ada Mott, Lucille Huffman, Queenie McDuffie, Mildred Files, Virginia Nolan and Edna Nolan of Oak Ridge, Mesdames J. P. Madison, F. L. Billington, James Madison, W. T. Smith, H. M. Patton, Leland Howard, Arthur Ross and George T. Madison of Bastrop.

The Camp Fire Girls held their regular meeting in the courthouse. In the absence of the president, Monica Liles, the meeting was called to order by Elizabeth Orr. The minutes of the past meeting were read by the secretary, Betty Volk, and were approved.

The members present were Betty Volk, Elizabeth Orr, Mary Tom Nunnally, Douglass Pettiss, Anita Graham, Florence Oliver, the leader, Miss Arlie Mixon, and assistant director, Miss Mattie Bell Harper.

Mer Rouge

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Clark and son, Junior, spent the Thanksgiving holidays in Jackson as guests of relatives.

Miss Nell Williams, a student at L. S. U., in Baton Rouge, was a guest of her mother during the Thanksgiving holidays.

Miss Ruth Williams and Mr. George Vordenbowdemer of Baton Rouge were guests of Miss Williams' mother, Mrs. A. N. Williams, Thanksgiving.

The Missionary society of the Baptist church met at the church recently for its regular monthly business meeting. The president, Mrs. E. T. Davidson, opened the meeting with a devotional on stewardship. Mrs. W. H. McKelvey, secretary and treasurer, read the minutes and called the roll. Then new and old business was discussed, after which Mrs. W. C. Jordan finished teaching the book, "The Conquerable Christ." Those present for the meeting were Mesdames E. T. Davidson, U. H. McKelvey, E. M. Clark, Lee Roy Simms, McVae Higginbotham, F. U. Rives, Frank Howell, J. H. Edwards and John Lee.

New 'Boom' Hits Toyville's Market---- Santa's Pack To Be Heavier, Costlier

By Charles Norman

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—There is a "boom" in Toyville, and Santa Claus' pack will be heavier—and costlier—this Christmas.

Santa, of course, is not interested in figures—but they show that the $200,000,000 toy industry is experiencing its best year since 1929, with advance sales 10 per cent ahead of last year, and a scarcity already apparent in "quality toys"—those of higher price.

And toy factories, as a result, are working night and day, in 30 states, to keep up with the demands, says the Toy Manufacturers of the U. S. A., Inc.

A glance at Santa Claus' 1935 pack shows every type of industry represented in "put-the-children-to-work" playthings. From housekeeping to building, toys are efficient, gleaming and streamlined. Stoves that can cook a turkey, electric trains from $4 to $2,000, and grocery stores with scales that really weight, safes with combinations, dial telephones and cash registers are "in the bag" for Santa.

Farm toys are very popular, too, says the toy group, ascribing it to the wide publicity given the farm belt by the drouth. Farm animals, barns with modern lines, and tractors with snow plows are some of the headliners.

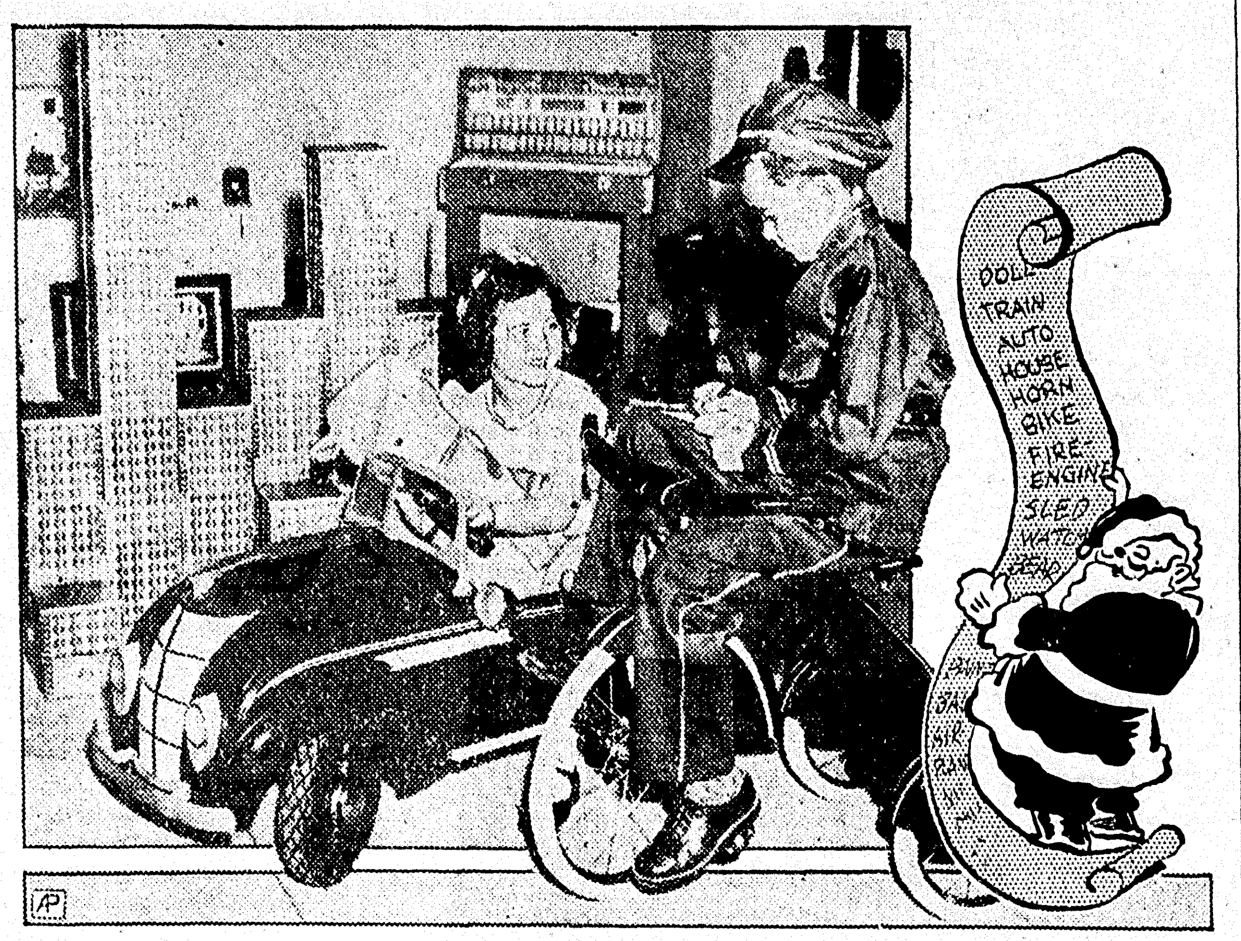
In keeping with the "toys that work" motif, there are lead-casting sets with which youngsters can make their own toys, if they wish; cement-mixers that mix cement; optometrist sets with which Johnny can grind glasses for microscopes, and chemicals used in industry.

There is an add-a-room house that can be built on the "installment" plan and enlarged after the initial building is started.

For the large number of children—and adults—fascinated by trains and tracks there is an automatic gateman who jumps out of his booth and waves at the train. Some of the trains this year have a whistle that sounds just like the real thing—enough so to make commuting fathers run for the station when they hear it.

Dolls are numberless—and realistic, for children, says the toy group, are realists. The Dionne quintuplets have helped boost the "birth rate" of dolls.

Streamlining, while not new for toys, has been brought to the 10-cent division for the first time. Fifty thousand new designs in playthings, representing the combined efforts of more than 400 manufacturers, will pour from the larger pack of Santa this year to delight America's children.



Old Santa's pack this year, heavier than ever, will be brimming with new toys—streamlined toys—speed toys—building toys—toys that really work. Here, according to Santa, is just a sample of some of the things Johnny and Mary might expect on Christmas morning.

'Sky's Limit' At Girls' School

PAINESVILLE, O., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Add flying to the curriculum of a girls' college and you have the latest thrill in the education of Miss 1935.

It's the newest course at Lake Erie college here and already has attracted more than 30 students and several members of the faculty.

Whether Lake Erie is the first woman's college to offer such a course is not known, but it is a fact that none is more popular.

Before beginning the course every student is required to present written permission from her parents. After that "the sky is the limit."

First on the program is a thorough study of ground-work—fundamentals of flying and instruction on weather conditions. This is followed by lectures by pilots and demonstrations of parachute jumping.

The actual flying is the climax. Every student has two hours in the air sharing the controls with the instructor, Philip A. Meinke, operator of a flying service in nearby Willoughby.

At present, Miss Suzanne Grant of Columbus, O., now ready for her third hour in the air, is one of the advanced students. From the faculty are Miss Rheta B. Edmundson of Newport, R. I., and Miss Dorothy R. Corcoran of Painesville.

The pretty coed fliers hail from all sections of the country with the city of Cleveland leading with nine enrolled in the class. They are Mary Belle and Vivian Armstrong, Joyce Schelley, Gretel Gerstenberger, Eugenia Flanders, Alice Nagy, Ruth Warren, Pauline Swaim and Janet Walther.

Among the others are Ruth McCracken, Shanghai, China; Mary Louise Miller, Columbus, O.; Nellie Marshall, Betty Ellett and Aileen Reed, all of Akron, O.; Betty Bachman, Sharon, Pa.; Elizabeth Dawson, Warren, Pa.; Allie Lou Hall, East Springfield, Pa.; Mary Louise McFarren, Northeast, Pa.

Betty Thomas and Emily Miller, both of Pittsburgh; Jean Swauger, Connellsville, Pa.; Georgia Wales and Betty Wiltsie, both of Binghamton, N. Y.; Barbara Clark, Syracuse, N. Y.; Margaret Haskell, Northville, Mich.; Nancy Hull, Fredonia, N. Y.; Jane Lorimer, Buffalo, N. Y.; Madeline Black, Port Clinton, O.; Edith Gerstenberger, North Olmstead, O.; Becky Martin, Wadsworth, O.; Rose Marie Rendinell, Youngstown, O., and Mary Jane Richeimer, Massillon, O.

Those attending the session included Virginia Cole, Estelle Hardin, Christine Hardin, Helen Sansing, Myrtis Sharman, Mary Edith Thurmon, Ethel Turner, Dora Dell Walters, Nan Morgan, Bessie Pervis, Mrs. Callie Bost and Mrs. P. K. Smith.

The local American Legion auxiliary held its regular session recently. Among chief topics under discussion were plans for a joint Christmas party to be given by the legion and the auxiliary, at which time gift packages will be collected for the needy children of Lincoln parish. The auxiliary also voted to send its usual $25 Christmas donation to the Veterans' hospital at Alexandria. Among those present for the meeting were Mrs. George Shinpoch, president; Miss Louella Warren, Mrs. H. B. Maxwell, Mrs. L. J. Fox, Mrs. Paul Davis, Mrs. Jeff Young, Mrs. V. C. Rives and Mrs. Clarence Monchrief.

Mrs. Harvey A. Smith, national president of Theta Upsilon sorority, was a recent visitor in Ruston. While here, she was a guest of Mrs. W. F. Pearce.

While in Ruston Mrs. Smith was entertained by members of the local chapter on the campus of Louisiana Tech, and attended the regular business session of the chapter.

'So Red The Rose,' Drama Of Old South, At Paramount

War Between States Theme Of Dixie Epic

Margaret Sullavan And Randolph Scott Head Cast Of Popular Stars

"SO Red the Rose," Paramount's stirring adaptation of Stark Young's novel of the same name, opened last night at the Paramount theater. Margaret Sullavan is the star, and the supporting cast includes such well known names as Walter Connolly, Randolph Scott, Janet Beecher, Elizabeth Patterson, Harry Ellerbe and the child actor, Dickie Moore.

"So Red the Rose" is a story of our south, a romantic and poignant account of those turbulent days of the War Between the States. More than that, it reveals the ideals and hopes and bravery of a gentle southern family when the clarion call of strife made men and women array themselves on the side of duty, sure of the righteousness of their cause.

It is the story of a young girl's love for a man, a man who hesitates to answer the fighting call of his people, and who, in his efforts to do what he believes is right, is even willing to sacrifice love on the altar of his beliefs.

Margaret Sullavan is the girl, Vallette, a pretty, vivacious belle of the south. It is a role delicately in tune with Miss Sullavan's subtle gifts as an actress and she brings to her portrayal the artistry that his distinguished her work on stage and screen.

The boy, Duncan, is portrayed by Randolph Scott, a handsome and talented actor who in "So Red the Rose" forsakes his "western" characterizations which have won him fame and proves his versatility as an actor.

Walter Connolly, one of the foremost character actors of our day, is splendid as Vallette's father, and Janet Beecher, Harry Ellerbe and Elizabeth Patterson (in one of her biting roles) do well in parts that give background and authenticity to the story.

The direction of King Vidor ranks high among his many works remembered by picture audiences. For "So Red the Rose" gives forth the full flavor of Stark Young's nostalgic and romantic novel, capturing completely the spirit, movement and feeling that made "So Red the Rose" one of last year's most important contributions to American fiction.

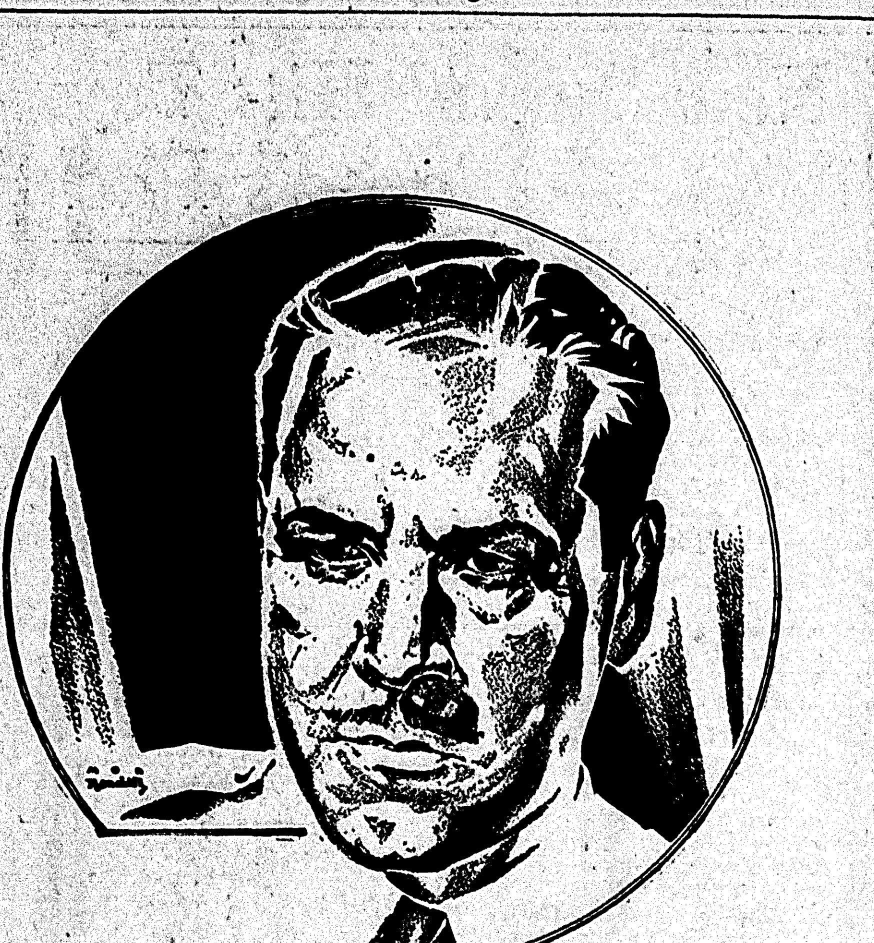
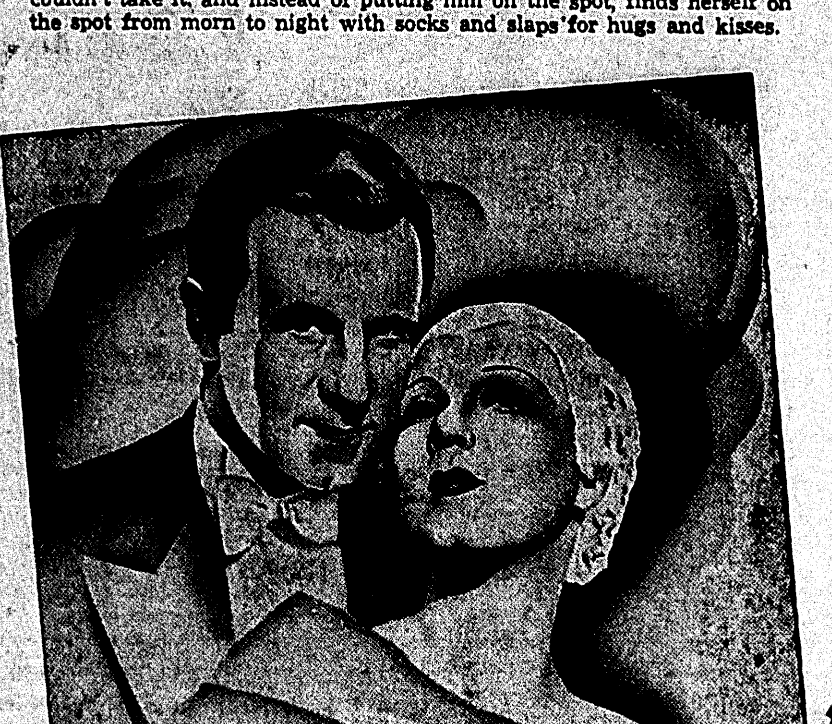
Rough and ready . . . yes, ready to put him on the spot in the fastest film fun featured at the Paramount theater in months. It starts Tuesday and runs through Wednesday. George Raft and Joan Bennett become hilariously and thrillingly involved in "She Couldn't Take It," when hard-as-nails Raft gives soft-as-silk Bennett a lesson in love. The smartest deb in town discovers that although she could hand it out, she couldn't take it, and instead of putting him on the spot, finds herself on the spot from morn to night with socks and slaps for hugs and kisses.



Jack Holt is a daring American aviator of fortune who throws his lot with the air forces of a South American country in the throes of war in his latest picture for Universal, "Storm Over the Andes," playing at the Capitol theater today and Monday. He has an excellent supporting cast including Antonio Moreno, screen favorite for 20 years; beautiful Mona Barrie, comic Gene Lockhart, Grant Withers, George Lewis and others.

Moroni Olsen as Porthos, Paul Lukas as Athos, Onslow Stevens as Aramis, in "The Three Musketeers," the attraction at the Paramount theater Thursday and Friday. Here is the grandest romance ever born from the pen of the immortal Alexandre Dumas. Others in the big cast include Walter Able, Heather Angel, Rosamond Pinchot and Margot Grahame. The reckless sons of the flashing blade ride, and raid, and love again, in the story that is dearest to the heart of everyone who has dreamed of bold heroics and high adventure.



Maureen O'Sullivan, Joel McCrea and Lewis Stone are the principals of M-G-M's exciting new action romance, "Woman Wanted," which will be the attraction at the Capitol theater Friday. Miss O'Sullivan is given one of her greatest dramatic opportunities as a girl fleeing from an unjust prison sentence who catapults herself and her lover in a series of hair raising situations which rise to a high powered climax. Louis Calhern, Edgar Kennedy and Adrienne Ames have prominent supporting roles.

Walter Connolly, Randolph Scott, Janet Beecher, Margaret Sullavan, Elizabeth Patterson and Dickie Moore, who are featured in Stark Young's romantic novel of the glamorous south, "So Red the Rose," the attraction playing at the Paramount theater today and Monday. You'll find it the finest picture of the old south to come out of Hollywood since "The Birth of a Nation."

"Paris in Spring," coming to the Capitol theater Tuesday, is a musical toast to the city of lovers . . . sung straight from the hearts of the lovely star, Mary Ellis, and the handsome hero, Tullio Carminati. "Paris in the Spring" is a spirited revelry in the city of happiness. Romance, comedy and song make it delightful entertainment. Ida Lupino and Lynne Overman are also featured in the cast.

Jack Holt Starred In Air Film

Spectacular 'Storm Over The Andes,' Plays At Capitol Today

CALLED one of the finest productions in which Jack Holt ever has been starred, Universal's thrilling screenplay dealing with aviation and love in South America, "Storm Over the Andes," comes today to the Capitol theater. The screenplay deals with the adventures of Holt as an American soldier of fortune who joins the air corps of one of the fighting countries as a combat pilot.

In the cast of the production are Antonio Moreno, making a comeback on the American screen after five years in Spanish motion pictures; beautiful Mona Barrie, who plays the part of a gay senora; Gene Lockhart celebrated as a stage and screen comedian, Juanita Garfas, a Spanish pepperpot, Grant Withers, Barry Norton and George Lewis, famous for his work in "The Collegians."

Colorful highlights of the story include a gay fiesta in a South American city; the strafing of airports at the front; several air battles; the blasting of munitions dumps, and some spectacular flying by veteran aviators. Two plane crashes take place in the course of the picture.

Holt saves his commanding officer, brings down a giant bomber, captures the ace of the enemy air forces and does several other hair-raising and thrilling stunts. The production was directed for Universal by W. Christy Cabanne, from a story by Eliot Gibbons and Laclede Christy with screenplay by Al Demond, Lt. Com. Frank Wead and Eve Green.

For the production an entire airport was constructed, complete with hangars, administration buildings and officers quarters. Fourteen airplanes and as many professional pilots were engaged to do their stunts, and hundreds of soldiers were enrolled for the extensive action scenes over the miles of South American wastes.

Other colorful backgrounds include an entire city gay in the habiliments of the fiesta days, the beautiful South American home of a noted army officer and diplomat, huge cafes where merry-making continued into the small hours of the morning, and actual battlefronts.

In the course of the production two ammunition dumps were exploded especially for the picture. In addition, three airplanes were crashed and there were other thrilling scenes to add color and glamor to it.

SNOWBALLS AT EQUATOR

East Africa's first snowball battle has just been recorded in Rombo near Nairobi. The village is on the eastern slopes of Kilimanjaro and only 7,000 feet above sea level. The first heavy fall of snow ever recorded at such a low altitude in Africa enabled hundreds of native children to stage a snow fight. At the same time a few miles away an old volcano started to smoke for the first time known.

MOTHERS PRAY FOR PEACE

Nearly 1,000 mothers gathered recently in the thirteenth-century parish church in Alnwick, Scotland, and prayed for peace. They were led by the Archdeacon of Lindisfarne. The occasion was the annual Mothers Union Festival, to which mothers came from many miles around.

Screen Life In Hollywood

By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Pola Negri lives up to the "mystery" tradition of film exotics in her latest announcement of an engagement to marry.

Her progress across the cinema horizon front-paged now for nearly 15 years, Pola has been fairly consistently an exponent of "mystery" in her personal life, although she will take the world into her confidence —to a certain extent.

For instance, in London recently she described her new fiance—a certain "middle-aged British statesman, a former member of Parliament, enormously wealthy—you'll be amazed when you find out who it is, in about two weeks."

Changed Her Mind

Hollywood, scene of Pola's former triumphs and failures, prepared itself to be amazed, and none the less checked back on Pola's last engagement announcement. On February 6, 1932, in Chicago, Pola told the world of her new grand romance. She would marry, she said, a Chicago man ("but his name is a secret") who was then "wintering at his estate at Montecito, Calif." He was "someone everyone looks up to and admires." Three months later, in Cleveland, Pola set the date "in July or August" but still did not reveal the name. What happened then? Well, Pola must have changed her mind.

Changing her mind has been Pola's prerogative—and custom—ever since she blazed into film fame in the German film, "Passion," and was brought to Hollywood, in 1922, as reward. Matrimonially, she already had changed her mind once. She had divorced her first husband, Count Eugene Dombski, a garrison commander on the Russian border. In Hollywood, where her films scarcely lived up to the promise of her European successes, her romances with various film figures were noted eagerly.

At one time it was Charles Chaplin to whom she was reported engaged, at another it was Rudolph Valentino, and when the Latin idol died in New York after a brief sudden illness, the Polish star's spectacle of grief was one long to be remembered here.

But it was Prince Serge Mdivani—of the "marryin' Mdivanis"—whom she married in Paris in 1927, at a great and princely wedding. Two years later, in Paris, Pola's flair for the dramatic asserted itself in the very hall of justice where she had gone to secure a divorce. She and Serge, meeting in the courtroom, embraced, kissed and made up—and the reconciliation lasted a year, when Pola finally called a halt and got a decree.

Sued And Was Sued

That, however, did not end her connection with Serge Mdivani. She was to sue him for $80,000 she assertedly lent him, and meet a counter-suit asking $131,000 from her. The legal scrap was ended recently in a dismissal of both actions, terms unrevealed. Serge later married Mary McCormic, but they too are divorced now.

Pola's last Hollywood film, "A Woman Commands," made in 1931, was a personal triumph but a boxoffice failure. Her starring lately has been done abroad, but Hollywood nevertheless watches the doings of this moon-faced, raven-tressed actress who once was its foremost symbol of fire and temperament.

This Week's Movie Program

Saturday, Sunday and Monday—"Broadway Melody of 1936," with Jack Benny, Eleanor Powell, Robert Taylor, Una Merkel, Sid Silvers, June Knight, Buddy and Vilma Ebsen, Nick Long, Jr., Harry Stockwell and Frances Langford.

AT THE CAPITOL

Today and Monday—Jack Holt in "Storm Over the Andes" with Mona Barrie, Antonio Moreno, Gene Lockhart, Grant Withers, Barry Norton and George Lewis.

Tuesday—"Paris in Spring," with Mary Ellis, Tullio Carminati, Ida Lupino and Lynne Overman.

Wednesday and Thursday—Carl Brisson in "Ship Cafe," with Arline Judge, William Frawley, Mady Christians and Eddie Davis.

Friday—"Woman Wanted," with Maureen O'Sullivan, Joel McCrea, Lewis Stone, Louis Calhern, Edgar Kennedy and Adrienne Ames.

Saturday—Nick Foran in "Moonlight on the Prairie," with Sheila Mannors, George E. Stone, Joseph Sawyer, Robert Barrat, Gordon Elliott and Joseph King.

Eddie Davis, noted Broadway night club entertainer, making his film debut in Paramount's romantic comedy, "Ship Cafe," coming to the Capitol theater Wednesday and Thursday, pounds out a few of his favorite songs for the benefit of other leading members of the cast, including Carl Brisson, Arline Judge, William Frawley and Inez Courtney. The film centers around the hilarious career of a singing ship stoker, who is a sailor bold with a voice of gold and two fists swinging free.

Notes On Life In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD—The directly expressed opinions of the public have little weight in Hollywood.

Indirectly, however, by its approval or disapproval as reflected in box office receipts, it rules the roost.

In the millions of letters that come to Hollywood every year, there are many thousands of suggestions about stories, castings and, particularly, the teaming of certain stars. Very few of these direct suggestions are adopted.

The exceptions to this rule are not numerous. Several hundred people, for example, wanted to see Shirley Temple in "The Little Colonel." The picture was made. As a result of so many letters asking to hear John Boles' voice, his employers have him sing whenever it is practical. Richard Dix switched to dress-up and modern roles; his public didn't like them and registered protests by mail. Dix is again making western pictures on the order of "Cimarron."

'Hamlet' A Possibility

Perhaps Mae West had an Alaskan gold rush character in mind, but anyway fans wrote numerous letters asking to see her in such a role. They may consider she is obliging them with "Klondike Lou." Lovers of Shakespeare want to see "Hamlet" on the screen and many of them even go so far as to cast the picture. From all indications, "Hamlet" is a remote possibility.

For the several years since Warner Baxter created the character of the Cisco Kid in "In Old Arizona" and "The Cisco Kid," fans have made their favorite topic in letters a discussion of their approval of the character coupled with the request that he play it again. He has twice—in "Under the Pampas Moon" and in "Robin Hood of El Dorado." The Charlie Chan series is being continued, and it will be indefinitely no doubt, both as a result of letters and box office approval.

Carole's Genealogy

Speaking of letters, a genealogist went to the trouble—and expense, apparently, since he subtly billed her for "services rendered"—of looking up Carole Lombard's family tree.

She was very impressed with the report on her supposed ancestors, the Lombards. But it didn't mean a thing to her.

Her real name is Peters.

Wendy Barrie is one of the most cosmopolitan actresses in town. Her father is English, her mother is Irish. Wendy was born in Hongkong, educated in England and "polished" in a finishing school in Switzerland.

Frances Farmer, who has just come into the movies, studied for a journalistic career at the University of Washington.

One part of mustard gas in 14,000,000 parts of air is sufficient to make any person a gas casualty from eye inflammation within a few hours.

CHAPTER XX

Frank Watson and Al Peters were waiting outside the entrance to the West Park hotel when Larry drove up. They stepped forward as he got out of his car.

"Tony and Tommy are inside," said Watson. "Tony's up at the entrance to the suite, and Tommy is with the manager. The people'd checked out just about 30 minutes before we got here. The manager says they seemed to be in a hurry."

"I'll bet they were," said Larry. "You did a good job to locate it as soon as you did. We'll go up and look the place over and see what there is to see."

They entered the lobby and crossed to the desk, where Tommy Waters was talking with the manager, a worried-looking individual in a morning coat He looked up as they drew near, and spoke to Larry with petulant concern.

"I hope you'll be able to conduct your investigation quietly," he said. "It would be a bad thing for us to have any publicity about this."

"Yes, I imagine it would," said Larry. "One good way to avoid things like that is to be a little careful about who you rent rooms to."

He took the key which the manager handed him, glanced at the number, said curtly, "You needn't come with us," and led the other agents to the elevator.

They went up and found Tony LaRocco lounging at the apartment entrance. Larry unlocked, the door and they all went inside, closing the door after them.

The suite consisted of a large ornately-furnished living room, two bedrooms, an elaborately-tiled bathroom, and a small kitchenet and dinalcove. Larry looked about him appreciatively.

"They did themselves well, these birds," he said. Tommy Waters nodded.

"Took the place just over three weeks ago, and paid $150 a week for it," he said. "That's according to that fish-eyed manager, anyhow."

They crossed the living room and entered the larger of the bedrooms. It was in disorder. The twin beds were unmade, the drawers of bureaus and dressing tables stood open, a tray containing highball glasses with the dregs still in them stood on a little table between the beds, and a crumpled newspaper lay on the floor nearby. There was a discarded necktie on a dresser, and a crumpled sheet of wrapping paper beside it.

"Nothing much to see here," observed Larry. "Let's look farther."

The bathroom was similarly disordered. The other bedroom seemed not to have been occupied, and was in applie pie order; but the dining alcove table still bore plates and cups with the remains of a meal, and empty bottles stood on the shelves of the little kitchenet.

Larry inspected the alcove table.

"Set for three," he said. "Looks like supper rather than breakfast. Well, we'll soon find out."

* * *

LaRocco was inspecting the used glasses and empty bottles in the kitchenet. He looked up to remark, Some swell prints here."

"Good," said Larry. "Get 'em."

LaRocco got out the apparatus from the little bag Larry had brought with him and went to work. Larry continued his inspection of the dining alcove, while the other men explored the living room.

"This stuff came from the kitchen downstairs," he said at last. "They didn't prepare it themselves. Let's get the manager up here."

One of the agents reached for the phone and summoned that individual. He arrived in a few minutes, still wearing his look of apprehensive and injured innocence.

"I want to know when these people last had an order from the kitchen," said Larry. "Find out for me and send up the waiter who served it."

The manager bowed and left, to return a little later with a waiter.

The waiter explained that he had served supper for three in the apartment the night before, at about 9:30 Two men and one woman were in the party; the woman and one of the men were the people who occupied the suite regularly; the other man was a visitor who frequently came to the apartment but never spent the night there.

Larry took out a rogue's gallery picture of Wingy Lewis and handed it to him with a question. The waiter looked at it and nodded slowly.

"I think so," he said. "I can't be quite sure. It looks like him, though."

"Did you notice his hands?" asked Larry.

The waiter looked at him, uncomprehending; then a light dawned in his eyes and he nodded. "Yes, yes," he said excitedly. "His left hand—he had but four fingers."

"That's him," said Larry, slipping the picture back in his pocket. "Now then, do you remember where they were seated when you served the meal?"

Theh waiter thought for a moment, then touched a chair with his hand.

"The man with the mutilated hand, he sat here," he said. "The lady here, and the guest opposite, here."

Larry bent over the table.

"Come here, Tony," he said. "See if you can get any prints off the silver."

He loked up at the waiter speculatively.

"Do you remember," he asked, "when you laid the places, did you happen to wipe off the silver with a napkin?"

The waiter looked at him blankly, then shook his head.

"Then your prints would probably be on it?"

"Yes. And also, perhaps, the prints of the bus boy who carries the silver from the place where it is washed and dried to the rack from which we collect it."

Larry turned to the manager.

"Find that bus boy and get him up here," he said. "Meanwhile—" turning back to the waiter as the manager left, "let us have your fingerprints, will you?"

Grinning broadly, the waiter complied. The bus boy, looking very scared, was brought up a moment later, and his prints likewise were recorded. Then, dismissing the servants and the manager, Larry turned to LaRocco.

"Finding anything?"

"Plenty," said LaRocco grimly. One of the other agents was wrapping up the odds and ends of discarded belongings that had been found in the place. There were not many; a nearly empty tube of shaving cream, a necktie, a torn slip of pink silk, half a dozen detective-story magazines, and so on. The other two were going over furniture and walls like ferrets, looking for anything and everything and finding nothing.

An hour later Larry made a final survey of the place, and nodded to the others.

"We're through here," he said. "Let's go."

As they reached the lobby he sought out the doorman.

"Where do the guests here usually park their cars?" he asked. The doorman named a commercial garage a block away.

LaRocco and Tommy Waters called a cab and went downtown, while the other three hurried to the garage. There Larry sought out the manager and produced once more his rogue's gallery portrait of Wingy Lewis.

The manager studied it thoughtfully, then nodded.

"Looks like him," he said.

Once more Larry asked the inevitable question, "Did you notice his hands?" The garage manager replied as the waiter had done; after puzzling over the question for a moment his face brightened, and he recalled that the man had lacked the index finger on his left hand. Larry grunted with satisfaction.

"What kind of a car did he drive?" he asked.

"Well, he came here with a LaPlace sedan," said the manager. "Then about a week or ten days ago he came in with a new one—a big 12-cylinder Frontenac, dark blue with gold beading and blue wire wheels."

He stuck his head out of the little wicket in his office, where they were talking, and called a colored attendant. "Hey, Hank! Come here, will you?"

Hank came over; a tall, intelligent-looking colored man in tan breeches and puttes, a blue shirt open at the throat. Larry immediately asked him about Mr. Lewis's big blue Frontenac: had he ever noticed anything unusual about it?

"Nothin' 'cept that it was awful heavy," said Hank.

"Ah," said Larry softly. "How'd you happen to notice that?"

"Well," said Henry, "he brought it in one night an' told me to change the oil, so I took it up on the third floor and run it on the rack. 'Stead of havin' pits here we got wooden racks, like—" He gestured with his hands to illustrate their arrangement of inclined parallel rails. "I run it up on there, and the first upright on the right-hand rail broke. Didn't break off short—just cracked an' split. I back it off an' had a look at the upright. Good strong piece of wood; I never thought anything less'n a five-ton truck would crack it. So I took the car over to the fillin' station on the corner, where they got pits, an' had it done."

"Mmm. Notice anything else about it?"

"Wings of the hood was awful heavy, too. Like liftin' pieces of steel to open up an' get at the oil intake."

Beyond that, Hank had noticed nothing. He was dismissed, and Larry turned to the manager and asked him when Lewis had left that morning.

"Just about an hour ago," the manager replied. "Bought 10 gallons of gas and shoved off, with a girl in the front seat beside him and suitcases in the back."

"Just a girl? There wasn't another man along?"

"No. Just the girl."

After jotting down the license number of the car, and ascertaining that Lewis had neither asked for any road maps nor made any casual remarks that would give any clew as to the direction he had planned to take, Larry and his men returned to the federal building. In his office Larry reassembled his staff about him.

"Now," he said, "we've got to drift around town and ask ten million questions. Somewhere around Dover there must be someone who has some sort of notion what part of the country these people were apt to head for. It's up to us to find out—fast."

2 AUTOMOBILE MISHAPS OCCUR HERE SATURDAY

Poor visibility on the streets as the result of heavy rains accounted for two automobile accidents in the city yesterday, although no one was reported injured.

Myrtle Black, of Fox court, collided with a switch engine at DeSiard and Sixth streets, while traveling west on DeSiard street. She tried to stop her car, she reported, but was on the tracks before she could do so.

C. J. Shirah, Hotel Grand, collided with a city dump truck driven by J. D. Thatcher, on Washington street, between Fifth and Sixth streets. In his report of the accident, Shirah claimed that he failed to see the truck until it struck him. His car suffered a broken windshield and other damage. The city dump truck was only slightly damaged.

GASOLINE TAX REPORT FOR PARISH RETURNED

Gasoline taxes paid in Ouachita parish for the month of October amounted to $6,673.81, making a total of $58,884.22 for the the 10 months' period ending October 31, according to a report just returned.

The gasoline was shipped into the parish in 716 tank cars and 177 truck loads. This money, less the cost of collecting, was turned over to the government agency's local board by Mrs. E. H. Hill, secretary of the Ouachita parish police jury. The money is used to care for unemployables of the parish.

The cost of collecting and transportation charges totaled $1,500.

SPECIAL SESSION COMES TO CLOSE

Last Meeting Of Legislature Under Conner Administration Ends

JACKSON, Miss., Dec. 7.—(AP)—The 1935 extraordinary session of the Mississippi legislature and the last of the Conner administration, was history tonight.

Convened October 1 for the stated purpose of providing relief for 31,000 unemployable Mississippians dropped from federal relief rolls, the retiring state solons tonight could look back not only on passage of the relief bill, but also on the following legislative acts:

(1) Enactment of a corrupt practices act drastically changing the complexion of Mississippi primary campaigns and elections;

(2) Appropriation of $3,049,215.28, of which schools received $1,125,000; retirement of bonds not yet due $1,040,000;and $700,000 for relief;

(3) Scores of enabling acts which will allow various counties, communities and cities to participate in public works administration building programs;

(4) A series of tax bills estimated to save Mississippi taxpayers approximately $1,285,000, of which counties and cities will suffer a loss of approximately $700,000 in revenue;

(5) A veterans' homestead bill, setting up a veterans' board with power to buy farms and homes for resale to veterans upon easy payment terms (limited to $2,000);

(6) Exemption of TVA rural electrification and transmission power lines from taxation for a period of five years.

In addition, the solons approved a large number of bills of lesser importance.

Altogether, one hundred bills were aproved by both houses, of which 47 were "local and private" measures.

All of these bills had been approved by Governor Sennett Conner tonight save house bill 41 which would move up the date of second primary elections from three weeks to two weeks after the first primary.

CHARGED WITH THEFT

Leroy Minor and Amos Nellon, negro youths, were arrested yesterday by Officers L. G. Parker and D. J. Bedsole, on a charge of stealing. The negroes are said to have taken 25 raincoats from the Hunt & Whitaker store some time last week. Reports that the youths were selling the coats led police officers to investigate, with the result that they not only nabbed the alleged thieves, but also recovered the coats.

WILD WARRIORS PLEDGE LOYALTY TO SELASSIE

Outcome Satisfactory, Says Clarkson; Some 'T. B.' Data Given

The special committee named by A. B. Clarkson, chairman of the Christmas seal sale, reported Friday night to the effect that $600 had been raised through solicitation of businessmen of the city, and that a total of $1,000 can be expected when final reports are submitted some day this week. The goal set for total seal sales in the parish is $5,000, the larger part of which will be raised by solicitation through the mails.

Mr. Clarkson expressed complete satisfaction at the record made thus far and indicated that the total seal sale for Ouachita parish will run $1,000 more than was the case in 1934.

Letters will be mailed out tomorrow to persons throughout the parish who will be asked to purchase seals in this manner as personal solicitation in the campaign is limited only to business houses.

The net returns will be devoted to the fund of the Ouachita Tuberculosis and Public Health association.

The local tuberculosis group is in possession of many statistics regarding this dread disease. Figures show that this is the leading cause of death in the United States between the ages of 20 and 40 years. In Louisiana in 1934, there were 1,523 deaths from this cause and more than 15,000 persons are suffering from the disease.

Dr. W. H. Seeman, president of the Tuberculosis and Public Health association of Louisiana, states that it has been found from a study of tuberculosis cases in sanatoria that only 16 per cent were in the early or incipient stage at the time of entrance. The remainder he says were so sick that they will have to remain long and their chance of recovery is lessened.

Continuing he said:

"It was revealed also that 71 per cent of the women were under 30 years of age; 53 per cent of the men under 30. Half of the women had been admitted before they were 25.

"The educational campaign of the National Tuberculosis association and its affiliated groups, of which the Tuberculosis and Public Health association of Louisiana is one, is financed by funds derived from the sale of Christmas seals in the month between Thanksgiving and Christmas. These seals bear each year a different design but always the symbol of the double-barred cross. They sell for one cent each and are issued by the national association but the money raised through the sale of them in Louisiana is used by the state and local organizations—only 5 per cent going to national headquarters," Dr. Seemann concluded.

43 BOY SCOUTS RECEIVE AWARDS

Promotions Given At Special Convocation Of Ouachita Valley Council

Forty-three Boy Scouts, members of troops in the central district of Ouachita Valley council, were awarded advancements of rank at a special convocation of the district court of honor, held Friday night in the parish high school auditorium.

An impressive ceremony of the convocation was the investiture of two scouts with the eagle rank, highest honor that can be worn by a Boy Scout. Pat McHenry of troop 31, Monroe, and Frank Smith, of troop 67, Sterlington, were the new eagles. During the ceremony the mothers of the two boys, Mrs. R. L. McHenry and Mrs. M. Frank Smith, pinned the coveted eagle badge on the uniforms of their sons. The new eagles, in turn, decorated their mothers with a tiny replica of the eagle badge. Each of the mothers was escorted to the rostrum by her son, while the entire body of boy scouts as well as the audience stood at attention.

Judge W. M. Harper, president of the Ouachita Valley council, delivered the introductory address, stressing the importance of scouting in the moulding of character and the elements of citizenship among boys of school age. He urged that fathers of the community take more interest in the scout work, because of its significance in physical, moral and intellectual training.

"Scouting furnishes an opportunity for fathers to demonstrate their citizenship," he said, "by lending their interest to a movement that insures a finer quality of citizenship for the future."

Scout Commissioner J. W. Rohr, Scout Executive Olan H. Black, President Harper and P. J. Mulhearn made the awards in the various ranks. Fred Williamson conducted the eagle scout investiture. He paid tribute to the mothers whose influence, he said, "is responsible in the largest degree for the developments of the highest quality of manhood amongst the boys who are to be citizens of tomorrow."

A feature of the ceremonies was the appearance of the Brown Safety Harmonica band, which gave a program similar to one recently broadcast over the nation by radio from Fort Worth. Philip Bernhardt directed the program. Troop 31, of Monroe, was assigned the honor of conducting the flag ceremony at the opening and the "Taps" ceremony at the close.

Following is the list of awards:

Second class—Troop 13, West Monroe: Leon Dopson; James Sherrard, Jack Holder, Henry Clayton Salley; Troop 31, Monroe: Harold Mouk; Troop 67, Sterlington; Frank Wright.

First Class—Troop 31, Monroe. Billy Clement, S. K. Henninger, Jr.; Troop 34, Monroe: J. B. Swanson.

SUIT AND TOP HAT OF DELHI CITIZEN PLACED IN MUSEUM

DELHI, La., Dec. 7.—(Special)—The suit and top hat worn in 1890 by the late Edward A. Wisner, former Delhi publisher and banker, is now on display at the Cabildo, Louisiana state museum in New Orleans. In a department on the third floor of the massive old structure in which the title of the Louisiana territory was transferred from Spain to France, and eventually from France to the United States, the old suit, in a perfect state of preservation, stands on a model in a glass frame.

Mr. Wisner is remembered by older residents of Delhi as the man who built the Hotel Richland, organized a bank, laid the town of Delhi off in lots, and purchased huge tracts of land in this section.

Although the marker on the suit does not so state, local people believe it was probably the suit worn at the opening and reception of the Richland hotel, which was said to be the best hotel in Louisiana at the time. Mr. Wisner was publisher of the Delhi Daily Pressette.
